Giant Flagstaff

Vancouver Has the Tallest Flagstaff in the British Empire

Towering 218 feet in the air and weighing eleven tons, the largest one-piece flagstaff in the British Empire is to be seen in front of the magnificent courthouse at Vancouver. The big stick is a product of the British Columbian forests, and is a flawless example of British Columbian timber. At its base the flagstaff is three feet square, and at the top it is a foot in diameter. The big gilt ball at the top measures twelve feet in circumference, while the big arrow which shows plaintiffs and defendants alike which way the wind is blowing at the courthouse measures fifteen feet from end to end.

The giant flagstaff is held in place by guy cables set in concrete beds at each corner of the courthouse [illegible] and will stand for many [illegible]

How People Feel

When They Have

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4230, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

A BRONCHIAL COUGH, PERHAPS WEAK THROAT USE "CATARRHOZONE"--DEAD SURE CURE

Wonderful Success Reported in Thousands of Bad Cases.

How many thousands are there who would gladly pay any sum to be cured of bronchitis or catarrh. Many could be cured if they would just use common sense in selecting their remedy.

Bronchitis of course is an inflammation of the bronchial tubes which were made for the passage of air alone, and neither the moisture of an atomiser nor the liquid of a cough syrup can get where the trouble really is! The diseased parts can only be reached by a remedy that can force its way through all the breathing organs. Doctors who have used 'Catarrhozone' say it is the only rational cure for bronchitis. It cures by inhalation.

Simple to use, delightful and pleasant—nothing compares with Catarrhozone which is the cure of the day for all bronchial and throat troubles.

Mr. H. B. McLaughlan, the well-known representative of Parks and Blackwell, Torknto, thhhaMMMMMM used Catarrhozone for years and can Blackwell, Toronto, says: "I have used Catarrhozone for years and can honestly say it is the only remedy that relieves me from a painful attack of Bronchial Catarrh. The inhaler for Catarrhozone is always in my pocket and I simply couldn't get along without it. I firmly believe Catarrhozone is a wonderful remedy."

shop formed a depot of supply for local option territory and "blind pigs." Three Liberal Prime Ministers have juggled with the temperance issue, and broken faith with the people; and what guarantee have we that Mr. Rowell, who voted with his leader, Sir G. W. Ross against Mr. Marter's prohibition resolution, will keep faith with the electorate should he be returned as Premier.

In conclusion, Major Sharpe predicted that to-day Mr. N. W. Rowell will find himself politically dead, with the consolation, however, of having a number of ministers with him to administer the last sad rites. The made a splendid and manly address, and declared himself to stand just where he stood at the Incipiency of the campaign, for abolishing bar, club and shop licenses. He found but little to answer in the policy of Mr. Rowell, which has been framed by him with a view to support from both sides of politics in an abortive effort to unseat Sir J. P. Whitney and his splendid administration. To this end also had Mr. Rowell eliminated shop licenses from his platform.

But, continued Mr. Soden, can Mr. Rowell abolish any licenses himself? He would need that every one of his followers should be a hand-picked temperance man to wipe out shop and bar licenses. Can that be said of his following? We hear nothing on this issue from Wellington and Waterloo counties, nor from Berlin. Then in Eastern Ontario they like whiskey too well to be caught by the Liberal's "abolish the Bar" cry. In Eastern Ontario, Mr. Rowell and his party make "bi-lingualism" the issue.

Turning to Mr. Rowell's contention that the contest was a fight of churches and organized Christianity, against organized liquor interests, Mr. Soden pointed out that he actively engaged in the last local option campaign, with local optionists, at a time when as many conservatives as grits were found fighting shoulder to shoulder with the churches in the cause of temperance. "Wasn't I there? But where was Mr. Gillespie? If his owner driver is to be believed, Mr. Gillespie sat in his own shop, and declared he was not interested whether local option carried or not."

Mr. Soden here promised that should he be elected he would move a resolution in the Legislature which would force Mr. Rowell to show whether he is a temperance man or not. (Prolonged applause.)

The speaker at this juncture read off the wine list of the Ontario Liberal Club, Toronto, which he characterized as the wine list of the "Banish the Bar" party, and contended that at least, out of respect to Mr. Rowell and the party's professed principles, the party should have banished their own bar before stumping the country with such a plank in their platform. "And," enquired Mr. Soden, "if Mr. Rowell gets into power how in the name of common sense is he going to banish bar and club licenses with such a following behind him as resort to the Ontario Liberal club with its well patronized wine list of eighty odd different kinds of intoxicating drinks? Do you believe it?" "No! No!" from the audience in hundreds of voices.

In conclusion Mr. Soden characterized the "Is that you, daddy," as a disgrace to the men who put it out and an insult to the electorate. A party who resorted to the style of campaign literature issued by the Liberal party of to-day he did not think capable of running a corner grocery to say nothing of conducting the affairs of a province like Ontario.

The meeting closed with the customary party and royal cheers, and the singing of the National Anthem.

VOL. XLI, NO. 146 TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 30, 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

THE WHITNEY GOVERNMENT SUSTAINED AND WITH MAJORITY DECREASED

LIBERALS CAPTURE W. PETERBORO' GILLESPIE WINS BY 130 MAJORITY

East Peterboro Again Goes Conservative--Whitney's Majority in the New House Very Large--Abolish the Bar Bogey Fails

The election yesterday passed off quietly in the city and throughout the Province, although there was considerable excitement in many localities. In West Peterborough Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie, the Liberal candidate, has been elected after a close and exciting contest, in which several clergymen took part. There was no charge of corruption that could be sustained, the Government being regarded by a large majority of the people as the best that has ever existed in Ontario. The temperance and bi-lingual questions were the only issues that were dealt with. The attitude of a number of clergymen in actively supporting the Rowell candidates is partly responsible for the result in several ridings—notably in West Peterborough—while the French vote went solidly in the same direction so that we had the remarkable anamoly of seeing Protestant ministers favoring a policy that meant the domination of our school system by French Roman Catholics. But they did not succeed, for the manly straightforward policy of Sir James Whitney on the billingual question is to prevail.

The following is the result so far as it could be obtained up to midnight:

TRENT CANAL ACCOUNTS

Inquiry Regarding Payment of Accounts Answered.

The following, taken from the Mail and Empire's legal page, speaks for itself:

G. M. W., Port Severn.—Qu.— (1) The company constructing the Trent Canal frequently settle with and pay their men by giving them what they call "time cheques." Can the men refuse to accept the "time cheques" and demand payment in cash or bank bills? (2) The workmen do not agree to wait 25 days for their pay after they quit work. These time cheques are made payable 25 days after a man has completed his month's work. Is it legal to require the men to accept such time cheques in payment of wages?

Ans—(1) The men can refuse to accept "time cheques." They have a right to demand payment in legal tender if they choose. But they should at least demand payment in bank bills. (2) They are entitled to be paid when they quit work. They are not we [illegible] for their pay.

PEERS WILL ALLOW SECOND READING

Are Already Busy Drafting Amendments to the Measure

London, June 29.—Lord Lansdowne Unionist leader in Lords, intends supporting the amending bill at the second reading, on Wednesday, but owing to Lord Willoughby DeBroke's amendment to reject it, it is certain a vote will be taken. The Unionist Peers, however, are pretty certain to allow the second reading. Committees of Peers are already drafting amendments. The Opposition, officially, will seek to remove the time limit and extend the exclusion proposal to the whole of Ulster.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—I have read with very great interest Mr. N. W. Rowell's manifesto to the electors of this Province. He evidently must think that the voters have very poor memories and lack in intelligence. He has not quite got away from the past record of his old friends, as promisers they were all right, but very bad actors. It appears to me that he has wandered away from his early teaching, as a truthful honorable man (as he is supposed to be). On what authority or right has he to say that Sir James Whitney is going to retire at the close of the present campaign, in the face of Sir James straightforward denial? The only plank he has taken a stand on is "Abolish the Bar." When he has been asked to denounce himself on questions of very far-reaching and vital interest to our country he could not be pulled out from under the barn.

Take his past record on the temperance question. Not in one instance during the time his party was in power did he come forward in a manly way and condemn their actions. If he had done so the independant voters of our fair province might have some confidence in him.

I note the government returns that during the fifteen years previous to 1905, the amount expended to enforce the liquor law was $4,188. As his old friends were so clever at manipulating figures, I wonder if some mistake had not been made and this amount was not used to stock the Minnie M. The Company that went on that excursion were no doubt good temperance men and most anxious to put down the booze there by lessening the supply.

I note that one of their campaign songs is "Where are the Boys of the Old Brigade?" many of them are up Salt Creek, and after the 29th— if he is interested in the company that is left he no doubt will find them in the same place. Abolish the bar and keep the shops open is quite in keeping with the old, crowd's ideas. No sane voter can think he is sincere when he advocates such a pernicious principle. You cannot enforce a law if the people are not behind it. Why should we turn down the good law we now have? If the people don't want the bar all they have to do is say so, and at the same time they wipe out the favorite resorts for his old topers—the shops. I voted with the Liberal party at the last Provincial Election in the hope that with the present leader the old Liberal ideas would be revived. I much regret to say I have been sadly disappointed and might say on the temperance question I will not take second place to any one. I have seen its evils and suffered from its effects. We now have a sane and reasonable law, which is being honestly administered. During the time the Whitney administration has been in power they have expended in enforcing the license law sum of $191,690.33, and they have set aside for the year 1914 no less a sum than $45,000 for the enforcement of local option and the Scott Act.

TO THE CONSERVATIVE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

I wish to thank the men who so loyally supported me throughout the campaign just passed. No man ever had behind him a more loyal lot of workers. The people have given their verdict and I accept it without a murmur. I have no unkind word to say against my opponent, Mr. Gillespie. So far as I know, he fought a clean and manly fight.

The only unfair tactics used against me in the whole campaign came from a section and a section only of the ministers of the city, and from the Examiner newspaper. So far as the cause of temperance is concerned, I regret now, as I did from the first that it was made again a football in party politics. That the country as a whole regarded the issue in this light is evidenced, viz.:

the result of the election throughout the Province

That the cause itself has been injured will become more manifest as the months roll on. So far as Mr. Rowell's holy measure is concerned the Province has declared most emphatically against it.

That I could have assisted the cause materially as a supporter of the Government had I been returned, I am certain.

That Mr. Gillespie as a supporter of the Opposition cannot, is also certain—and on all other measures that affect the welfare of the city, he being in opposition he worse than useless.

Thanking again all my Conservative friends who so loyally stood by me, and trusting that the present result of the election in this riding will at least have a beneficial effect on the Conservative party as I believe it will have,

I remain,

Yours very sincerely,

R. J. SODEN.

CALGARY FIELD RICH IN OIL

Toronto Man Who Visited Oil Area Says Companies Will Make Good

Toronto, June 29.—Transformed into a true Western oil enthusiast, Mr. A.S. Wigmore, president of the Holmes Electrical Company of this city has just returned from a trip to Calgary, during which he investigated conditions responsible for the oil excitement in Southern Alberta.

Mr. Wigmore has been interested in the oil fields there for the past two years and is in a position to speak authoritively concerning conditions. He is fortunate enough to be a stockholder in the Dingman well, the first well to strike oil in paying quantities and which controls properties to the extent of 10,000 acres in rich anticline area of the province where the oil is being found.

BIG MONEY AHEAD.

Unless my geology has all gone wrong my firm belief is that any company that is situated right and has the capital to invest in drilling operations will undoubtedly get good results. The fields where oil is to be found are fairly well defined and their locations are known to all responsible geologists.

"Calgary at the present time is filled with geologists from all over the world. Many of them are men of undoubted integrity, who have every confidence that the field of Alberta will prove one of the greatest oil fields in the world. The excitement prevailing in Calgary is wonderful. Hundreds daily visit the Dingman Rell, which is 35 miles to the southwest of the city.

IRELAND IS NOW IN HANDS OF ARMED FORCES ON HOME RULE

Opposing Armies Straining Every Nerve to Be in Readiness for Possible Clash--Lords Will Reject Bill

London, June 29.—While there has been a halt during June in the progress of the Home Rule bill toward the statute book, it will make its third appearance before the House of Lords Wednesday. It is everywhere accepted as a safe prediction that the Lords will reject it with its usual overwhelming majority, and thereby bring the famous Parliamentary Act into play for its truly revolutionary part in British history.

Under terms of this Act Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, who is father of the present Home Rule scheme, will present the bill to the King for his signature, and with this it will become law. Unionist leaders have denounced this action as "coercing the King," but no one doubts that the Royal assent will be given. So far as coercion is concerned is concerned, no one knows what are King George's personal views, but the Liberals profess to believe that at heart he is one of themselves.

After the bill itself the Lords will be called upon to consider the Amending Act, which will be introduced as a Government measure. The present prospect is that the amending act will contain only Mr. Asquith's first olive branch of six years' exclusion from the Doublin Government for those counties which choose it by a referendum.

TWO ARMED FORCES.

With Home Rule pending Ireland remains remarkably free from the fierce enmities and riotous bloodshed which have been the order of the day during former Home Rule crises.

HOW FRED BEDFORD MET HIS DEATH

A distressing fatality occurred at Copper Cliff on Thursday when Frederick J. Bedford, the only son of the Rev. J. Bedford, a Methodist minister who has been stationed at Fénelon Falls, and just moved to Pickering, was almost instantly killed. Mr. Bedford was examining some machinery at the mine and an order to lower a skid was given by a man who was unaware of his presence. Deceased was a mining engineer and graduated from the University of Toronto In 1908. The widow of the late Mr. Bedford is staying in Prince Edward Island. The body was brought to Toronto by some friends, and interment will take place privately today at Prospect Cemetery, the cortege proceeding from the house of deceased's uncle, the Rev. J. Bedford, Dovercourt Road.

REAL WONDER-WORKER FOR WRINKLED FACES

Those who have tried all sorts of so-called "wrinkle-removers" in a vain effort to lose those unwelcome traces of age, illness or worry, can scarcely find words to express their delight with the wonderful saxolite formula, once they have given it a trial. The success of this method is due not alone to its marvelous effectiveness — upon the deepest lines and crowsfeet as well as upon the very fine ones — but also to its surprisingly quick action and its entire harmlessness. Its simplicity and its inexpensiveness are other commendable features, for one needs only dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel, and bathe the face in this solution. At once a remarkable transformation is beheld.

It is not only the effect on wrinkles and creases that is so noticeable, but facial contour is remarkably improved and the face looks much younger. One should be sure to ask the druggist for the powdered saxolite. The lotion, being so refreshing, is particularly grateful to tired faces these warm, depressing days.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

COPPER IN TURKEY

This Metal is Extensively Used For Housekeeping Utensils

Copper is a very important factor in the housekeeping of Turkey. Not only are almost all the kitchen utensils made of copper, but also big caldrons to heat water for washing, large pans in which to knead dough, pitchers and washbowls for toilet purposes, jars in which to carry and keep water, chafing dishes for use with charcoal fires, lunch boxes (several dishes fastened together), pails, teapots, coffeepots, plates and platters for food and even drinking cups are copper.

Copper trays of all sizes and shapes, some circular in form, from three to four feet in diameter, are used for sending sweetmeats to the bakery, and also—when put on a stool—serve as tables, around which the whole family, sitting on the floor, partake of the food served in a copper dish in the middle.

Copper utensils constitute a form of savings banks among the poorer classes. What money they can spare is invested in copper utensils as an addition to their stock, and when they are in need of money they sell what can be spared of their copper, according to their needs.

There are numerous copper mines in the vicinity of Trebizond, ten of which have official imperial 'firmans' (concessions), and copper ore is exported, but as there are no foundries, all the copper used in the district must be imported. Some 300 or 400 tons are imported at Trebizond yearly.

The working of copper forms a special trade in Turkey and coppersmiths have their own quarters in every Turkish market. There are little shops in each of which a master brazier and three or four apprentices pound copper into the required shapes. The only tools they use are an anvil and a hammer, the size of which depends on the kind of work to be done; there is no forge, no fire and no machinery, yet it is wonderful to see what they accomplish with such simple tools. The master brazier earns about 80 cents to $1 a day, while the apprentices earn very little; but as soon as they leave the trade they open independent shops.

All copper utensils have to be tinplated before they can be used, otherwise [illegible] with acids, would be likely to cause verdigris poisoning. The tinplating is done in special shops, and also by men going round with portable forges. The process is very simple, consisting merely in heating the copper over a fire in a forge and dropping on it a piece of block tin and some sulphate of ammonia, which are then rubbed all over the surface with a piece of cotton. Copper utensils of everyday use have to be tinplated at least once every three months.

Soap Keeps Away Moths

When storing blankets it is an excellent plan to put a few pieces of dry yellow soap amongst the folds. The soap keeps away moths. Then if you shake the blankets from time to time in the sun they will keep in perfect condition when they are required for use.

A department report shows the Indians in Canada to be increasing at the rate of 2,000 a year. In 1912 there were 104,956; to-day there are 106,490. Nearly all of them live in good dwellings; they have 326 schools enrolling 11,144 pupils; while in spite of their supposed susceptibility to disease, the death rate has been cut to 21 per thousand in the most populous communities. They earn wages amounting to $6,000,000 yearly, and cultivate 80,000 acres.

COPPER

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel. Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. Our Point of View

In declining to arbitrate the trouble with the Colorado miners young Mr. Rockefeller said he stood for principle. Oh, yes. Principal and interest.

—o—

A U.S. government transport sailing from Galveston to Vera Cruz carried 800 coffins. Not a pleasant thing to think of, but we must remember that coffins are a necessary part of the war supplies.

—o—

A Toronto preacher says: "inherent worth is shown by greatness, not by battleships." It strikes us, however, that battleships are necessary to make the other fellow appreciate the worth and see the greatness.

—o—

A New York county judge suspended sentence on a horse thief last week. How different from the good old days when they suspended the horse thief and let the sentence stand.

—o—

John Wood and Tom Stone met on George street the other day and stopped to chat a few minutes about the Ulster situation. Presently a young lady wearing a slit skirt came along. Then Wood turned to Stone and Stone turned to Wood and they both turned to rubber.

—o—

There is now some discussion among scientists as to what animal can go longest without food. We are honest enough to say that we don't know, but it is a fact that Liberals have gone without pie for several years.

Tuesday

A Western paper says that Mackenzie and Mann "are interested in the drilling operations east of Coutts." We don't know about that; but it is known that they were interested in certain recent drilling operations at Ottawa, and that they struck oil.

The Scout Movement

Sir Sir R. Baden-Powell has asked the British public for $1,000,000 endowment for the Boy Scouts movement, and already he has received $325,000. The movement has in it, we think, great possibilities depending only upon an adequate supply of the right kind of leaders. Sir Robert says: "Very good work lies possible to the movement, especially in the slums of our great industrial centres, where thousands of the poorer class boys are never given a chance to start fair in the race for life, but are left to drift into unemployableness and misery without a hand to help them. Yet they are human, and could be made into good citizens and valuable assets to the nation in their thousands were a little trouble taken to help them." We believe this applies to our own country and to many sections which could not by any means be called "slums," but where the "boy problem" is real and acute.

Do Long Breaths ?

DANGEROUS PLEURISY ALWAYS BEGINS THIS WAY. ...

Speediest Cure is Nerviline.

Ouch, that stab-like pain in the side is like a hot knife blade in the ribs!

Probably got overheated — cooled too fast—now there is congestion, tightness, soreness you can't draw a full breath.

Quickest relief will come from a vigorous rubbing with Nerviline. This trusty old pain reliever will fix you up in no time—will take away the congestion—make you well just as it did Mr. Samuel St. Johns, of Stamford, who says:—"In running to catch a train last week I became much overheated. I put up the train window and rode that way to get cooled off. In an hour my side was so full of pain and my breathing hurt so much that I thought I had pneumonia.—I always carry Nerviline in my grip and at destination I rubbed my side thoroughly three times. The warm penetrating effect was soon noticeable and I quickly got relief. Nerviline I consider saved me from a serious illness."

Any sort of a cold can be quickly broken up with Nerviline which is a marvel for reducing inflammation for relieving congestion in the throat and chest, for curing stitch in the side, lumbago, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Nothing more soothing or powerful. The 50c. large family size is the most economical. Small trial size 25c. at dealers everywhere.

International Distrust

In an address at the annual meeting of the Foreign Press association, recently held in London, Sir Edward Grey, British foreign minister, deplored the work of all agencies that create or stimulate distrust among nations. He said that it seemed to be much easier to make distrust than to create confidence; that mistrust may spring up in a day and grow like a weed at a terrible pace, but that confidence is a plant of slow growth between nations.

Sir Edward declares that England did not believe that her commercial prosperity was furthered or helped by the misfortunes of any country in the world, but that, on the contrary, England believed that the prosperity of the world was bound up together and that if they were to have commercial prosperity, they could only have it, not by the misfortunes of any other country, but by seeing the prosperity of other countries maintained.

Whether England has always lived up to the policy thus advocated or not, the policy itself is based upon broad ground and common sense. The enlightened views of Sir Edward Grey are not new; they have been expressed by many thinkers many times, but the repetition of them is needed. They are among the strongest arguments for international peace. The importance of this fact will no doubt be recognized more and more as from year to year the intercourse among nations becomes more and more intimate. The diplomacy of the future, it is to be hoped, will be directed chiefly to eliminating misunderstandings, prejudices and distrust.

We Submit the Following Companies for Your Consideration

MONITOR OIL & NATURAL GAS COMPANY LTD. CALGARY

Capital $500,000 Non-Personal Liability.

The strong feature in this Company is the location of their properties. Their holdings are adjacent to the MOWBRAY-BERKLEY WELL (located by Cunningham Craig), the McDOUGAL-SEGUR WELL, the MONARCH WELL and the FABER WELLS. The Company has four separate fields, and a strike of oil in practically any part of the oil fields will have an immediate effect on their stock. The first three named are liable to strike oil at any minute. The Faber Company are just starting to drill, after a very careful consideration of reports from their geologists.

The Company offer a small allotment at $1.00 per share (par $1.00) each share carrying with it an option to purchase one more at par when oil is next struck.

The Directorate whose names you are now familiar with are sufficient guarantee for the integrity of the Company.

PRESIDENT :—Capt. Feilden, Pres. Western Canada Oil Co., Ltd., ; Pres. Peerless Oil Works, Ltd. Calgary.
MANAGING DIRECTOR :—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.
DIRECTORS :—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary ; J. H. Eastwood, Barrister (England) Calgary ; J. C. McLeod, Mercantile Agent, Calgary.
SEC'Y-TREASURER—H. G. Spencer - Lewis.

CREST OIL & DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, LIMITED, CALGARY

Capital $150,000 Non-Personal Liability

This Company is offering 75,000 shares at their par value price $1.00 each.

The Company is noted for its low capitalization and its excellent holdings of 1211 acres in one block. The leases were carefully chosen by Mr. Ellson Fawkes and the Company has engaged a well-known Eastern geologist to locate its first well. Drilling will commence directly there are sufficient funds in the treasury to place a contract.

On account of its low capitalization this stock is bound to find immediate favour at the next strike of oil. The price will be advanced directly oil is struck, to at least $1.25 a share.

The officers of the Company are "clean," successful business men—

PRESIDENT—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary. (Late Peterboro' Ontario).
MANAGING DIRECTOR—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.
DIRECTORS—Beach A. Laselle, Director Pacific Lime Co., Ltd., Vancouver, B.C. ; R. A. Barron, Department of Education, Edmonton ; B. Ginsberg, Barrister, Calgary.

This is NOT a gambling proposition — it is an investment ! English and American Capital is pouring into the Calgary Oil Fields. Millions of dollars have been invested by large interests during the past four weeks.

We can honestly advise you to invest in either of these companies. Both of them have on their Directorates men known for their stability and honesty. There is no "wild-catting" or watered stock in either of them and at the next strike of oil the stock is bound to increase in price.

We advise you to invest in both. $100 will secure you say 50 Crest and 100 Monitor shares (option stock) and then when the next strike comes, which may be now as you are reading this, you will be able to smile at the man paying $5,00 a share for Monitor and buy them yourself for $1.00 each.

It will need prompt action on your part to get this stock at the present market price, because, remember, it takes several days for your application to reach here. Do not delay : Fill out the coupon. We will honor all applications bearing post mark prior to rise in price.

ANIMAL HYPNOTISM

Deer Are Frequently Fascinated b Train Rails

As the engineer in charge of a rail road track running through the Megantic, Quebec, district was running over his division in a track car propelled by a gasoline engine, he saw a fine deer on the track before him. His bridge inspector, who accompanied him, being a keen sportsman, at once sent the car along at full speed after the animal [illegible]. These cars are supposed to be able to run along at the rate of [illegible] an hour, so that although the [illegible] had a good start, it was caught up with after about a mile's racing.

For fear of a smash-up resulting from a rear-end collision, the foreman slacked up as the car came up to the frightened creature, and both men shouted vigorously to it to clear the track. The only result was another spurt of speed, which was kept up until the nimble feet slipped through a high trestle, and the helpless deer, a three-year-old male, was made into venison.

The curious feature of this not unexciting hunting was the persistency with which the stag kept to the track between the rails, instead of turning aside to the safety which a bound or two would have afforded in the bush.

The engineer, in reporting the occurrence, said that three or four times during a single summer he has been obliged to stop his motor car to get the deer to leave the track.

It is a fact, known to experimentalists, that if a chicken's bill is held to the floor to a chalk line drawn straight below it, the bird becomes fascinated and apparently unable to withdraw itself from it. So it appears that when fear is driving from behind, the two shining rails [illegible] right and [illegible] a fascinating or hypnotizing effect upon deer, and as long as they are kept moving swiftly they are unable to turn to either side.

The deadly fascination of the steel rails was well exemplified on the Kazubazua plains, when a pair of Scotch stag hounds were seen pursuing from the open country from the north driving a deer before them. Without heeding the shouts of the men at the station, the hunted thing which had evidently come from a long distance, bounded along with seeming difficulty, following all the curves of the track down to the Stag Creek Bridge, through which it tripped and was killed by the hounds.

Old locomotive drivers are well aware of the hypnotizing effect of the headlight of an engine upon the deer family, and when possible stop and drive the creatures aside.

Gossip and Women's Clubs

Only one thing is fatal to the happy social life of any country community, and that is gossip. If the ladies can not find in the wide field of housekeeping, chicken-raising, preserving, care of children, public schools, music, art, reading, public improvements, good government, health, sewing, entertaining and all other delightful household tasks, enough material to lift the meetings above petty personalities, then the little club, or whatever it is called, is doomed. Whenever gossip is allowed into any organization people will begin to break up into little cliques or circles or groups, and the whole thing fails.—Farm and Fireside.

SELF-SUPPORTING INDIANS

Red Men in Ontario and Many in the West Earn Their Living

While speaking of a crop of [illegible] bushels of prime wheat grown by the Blackfoot Indians near Calgary, the Deputy Minister of Indian Affairs, said:

"In Ontario and Quebec the Indians are completely self-supporting, most of them, like those in Caughnawaga Reserve, being a very good type of citizen and furnishing many skilled workers. The department contributes not a cent towards their maintenance except, perhaps that it helps out a few of the old people in the reserves. In the West the same thing is being accomplished. Here is a sample, for instance, of No. 1 hard wheat, grown on the farm of an Indian named Broad Scalp Lock, in the Blackfoot Reserve. In 1910 these people sold a part of their reserve and with the money thus obtained, went into farming. They adopted modern methods, using traction engines and plows.

"THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH"
Indians with painted faces and feather head-dresses are still occasionally seen on the Western plains, but in another decade or two they will be but a memory.

SPINNING ASBESTOS

A Very Fine Thread Can be Made of This Material

The spinning of asbestos is a delicate and interesting operation. When it leaves the cobbing sheds the product is sent to the spinning mills in bags containing about 100 pounds. The asbestos is then carded by a machine resembling the saw-tooth gin used in cotton mills.

This machine separates the tangled fibres, upon the completion of which operation there occurs a final carding on a regular carding machine. Leaving this carding machine, the asbestos is combed smoothly and the fibres are laid parallel in a uniform mass.

The next step is to treat this mass in a rotary spinning machine. First the mass is spun into a coarse yarn. Then it is drawn and spun until it becomes fine and quite strong. In case a hard, strong thread is required for certain fabrics, the asbestos yarn is placed in a doubling and twisting machine, where two or more of the yarn threads are combined. If the asbestos is to be impregnated with rubber, a smooth, hard finished thread is not desirable.

For a long time the problem of spinning asbestos presented many difficulties by reason of the manner in which the threads persisted in slipping past one another. Eventually it was found that, under the microscope, a thread of asbestos displayed a notched surface, and that by means of special twisting the spinning could be successfully accomplished.

The result is that, after many years of experiment, manufacturers nowadays are able to turn out a single asbestos thread 100 yards in length and not exceeding an ounce in weight.

Cement Mushrooms

Among the most uncommon uses to which concrete has been put in Belgium is the making of mushrooms for decorating gardens, and dwarfish figures of gnomes for supporting the garden seats. If the imagination were sufficiently elastic, it might be presumed that the gnomes had pillaged the mushroom garden at night and, to escape detection, had crawled under the seat, where they became concrete images.

LIFE OF PIONEERS IN THE FORESTS

First Settlers in Ontario Were Happy in Spite of Many Hardships

When the early settlers of this country first took up land and built their shanties, the country being all bush, they cleared the land with the use of an axe by chopping the timber down and cutting it into lengths and burning it, says a writer on pioneer life in Ontario. The ashes were gathered and put into leeches, water was put on them to run off the lye which was boiled down into what they called black salts and taken to market. That was the only way they had of obtaining money till they got their land cleared.

In reference to their houses, the roofs of the shanties were made of troughs, hewn out with an axe. The walls of the shanties were of course made of logs, the cracks being stuffed with moss. The chimney was built of sticks and mortar in a triangular shape; mortar was made of mud and straw tramped by the oxen. There were large flat stones at the bottom of the fireplace.

Bread was baked in a large iron pot with three legs and a lid. Hot coals were put under it and on the lid and it was turned around often. Meat was generally boiled. There were lots of potatoes and vegetables, such as [illegible] cabbage, lamb's quarter, wild plums and currants. The only sugar they had was maple sugar, boiled in iron kettles and cooled in small, axe-hewn troughs.

Furniture in those days was made with nothing but an axe and an auger. The chairs were benches with four pegs for legs. The bedstead consisted of a pole at each side and two poles at each end driven into holes in the four upright posts. The bottom of the bed was made of slabs split with the axe, the same as the floor of the shanty.

The women would card wool, spin it and someone in the neighborhood would weave it into cloth, which made beautiful dresses and men's suits. They made their pens for writing out of wild bird's feathers, not having any geese or turkeys.

Through all the hardships the people were very happy. They had church service in their homes turn about. The preacher would come to have service once in three weeks. The women went to church with their aprons and sunbonnets on, and everybody brought their babies. Later on they built churches out of logs and slabs.

People were very hospitable and any person travelling through the country, such as for flour, etc., would call in and stay where night overtook them. Some times at night the floor would be almost covered with men lying with their feet to the fire.

MAN'S RANGE OF SOUND

Tiny Galton Whistle is Used to Determine Upper Limit of Sound

In the sense of hearing, numerous problems interest psychologists. Among these may be mentioned the range of sounds that can be heard by an individual—that is, the limit above and below which no sound can be heard.

The solution of these two problems, the determination of the upper and lower limits of sound, has occasioned a great deal of careful work and the construction of many forms of apparatus. For determining the upper limit of sound for any individual—the Galton whistle is generally used. It consists of a tiny pipe, which is lengthened or shortened by a piston adjusted by a micrometer screw. This little instrument can be regulated to make a tone which is too high for any human ear to hear, and which will finally produce only a painful sensation.

The Galton whistle was devised by Francis Galton for his study of individual differences. He had one of the whistles fastened on the end of his cane, and as he walked through the Zoological Gardens he would blow it near the ears of the various animals. He adjusted the whistle too high for his own ear to hear, and if the various animals responded to the sound he knew that their upper limit was greater than that of the human ear.

The ordinary human ear can detect a tone, whose vibration rate is at least twenty-five thousand vibrations per second, while the whistle will produce fifty thousand per second. This upper limit varies with the age of the individual to such an extent that, if the upper limit at sixteen years was fifty thousand vibrations, at sixty years of age it would be about twenty-five thousand per second.

LIVESTOCK NOTES

The well trained work horse always has another pull coming and doesn't mind it at all if the pulling doesn't hurt his shoulders.

A stiff scrubbing brush is a very good thing to clean dirt from the horses' legs.

If you are buying a horse, get him on a slow trot. Then, if ever, he will show any lameness he may have.

Did you ever think that grabbing sheep by the wool makes a sore place on their bodies? It surely does; don't do it.

If our cattle could do to us as we do to them, what a lot of sore shins and broken ribs there would be on the farms of this country!

Full blood or grade swine will pay a handsome dividend. They cost more at the start, but are very satisfactory in the long run.

There is in some parts of New Ontario a reversion to the use of oxen. Well-mated and properly broken they make a reliable farm team, and can be turned off at a good profit when the outdoor work is over.

A Dependent Tree

The matapalo tree is one of the curiosities of the tropics. This variety of tree never grows without the aid of another tree. It at first resembles a vine, and usually selects a young palm tree as its aid in its upward growth. In a few years' time it has grown until it has completely surrounded the palm and has choked out the life that aided it.

Where Liquorice Comes From

Most of the familiar liquorice-root comes from Syria. It is gathered and piled into great stacks, where it remains until it is thoroughly dry. It is then taken to the factory to undergo certain processes. The finished product is used for flavoring confectionery and beer, as well as entering into the make-up of many brands of tobacco. Some idea of the extent of the industry may be gathered when it is stated that, on an average, 8,000 tons of dry liquorice-root is shipped from Aleppo annually while Bagdad yields another 6,000 tons, Antioch 4,000 and Damascus 500 tons.

A Painting by an Actor

Sir J. Forbes Robertson, the well known actor, is proud of the fact that his first bank balance was the result of his painting the church scene in Irving's production of "Much Ado About Nothing," which was hung in the London Royal Academy and since the sale of the Irving relics, rests in the Players' Club in New York. This painting was commissioned by the late Sir Henry Irving, who proposed that Claudio should paint the scene in which he appeared. Forbes-Robertson at once agree, and Irving was so delighted with the result that he insisted on doubling the amount originally promised, and sent a check for $1,500. Forbes-Robertson returned it twice, but in vain. Irving was firm in his purpose and had his way.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY AIDS

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

MARGUERITE. You should make up and use this harmless eye-tonic and you will have no further trouble with your eyes: In ½ pint clear water dissolve 1 ounce crystos. Put 2 or 3 drops in each eye twice a day for a while and the smart and ache will entirely disappear. The crystos tonic will give almost instant relief to tired, aching eye-muscles and its timely use frequently overcomes the need for glasses.

CITY GIRL. Yes, some soaps have a tendency to rob the scalp of all its oil, and frequently causing a mild form of eczema. Get from your druggist a small original package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, then pour this mixture on the head slowly and rub well. The thick, cleansing lather will dissolve all dust, dandruff and excess oil and greatly invigorate the scalp and hair roots. Rinsing leaves the scalp immaculately clean, while the hair dries quickly and is greatly enriched in color and brilliancy. Canthrox shampoos, if used regularly will correct all scalp troubles and induce the hair to grow in thick and beautiful.

PRISCILLIA. The old - fashioned kardene tonic is Nature's best helper; and a course of treatment of this famous blood-cleanser and tissue-builder restores strength and vitality to the weak, wan, worn body. It is easily and cheaply made at home— just dissolve ¼ cupful sugar and 1 ounce kardene in ½ pint alcohol (not whiskey) then add hot water to make a full quart. The dose is a teaspoonful before each meal. This tonic restores lost appetite builds up and strengthens the body, gives to the skin a clear healthy glow and guards against bodily ills.

MRS. A.I.M. To retain the velvety smoothness and healthy tint of the complexion, apply daily a spurmax lotion, made by dissolving 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel or hot water to which is added 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This protects the perfect complexion and will make a "muddy" oily or blotchy skin clear and pleasingly beautiful.

MARIE L. Electric scalp massages will not do as much for your scalp as will a plain quinzoin hair-tonic, made by adding 1 ounce quinzoin (which you can get at your drugstore) to ½ pint alcohol, in which is then poured ½ pint water. Manipulate the scalp thoroughly when you use this tonic and you will be surprised how quickly the dry, scaly condition will disappear. Then, too, this treatment will restore the proper lustre and soft fluffiness to your hair. I unhesitatingly recommend this quinzoin tonic for dandruff, faded streaky or grey hair, because of the great good it has done for others.

MRS. de L. If you are getting too fat mix together 4 ounces parnotis and 1½ pints hot water. When cool, strain and take one tablespoonful before meals until weight is where you want it. This is a safe, harmless method of fat reduction and does not depend on dieting or unusual exercising. The parnotis treatment is gentle in action and restores the symmetrical lines to the figure.

EVE. Wrinkles and premature age marks are quickly erased from the skin by the following treatment: Into ½ pint cold water dissolve 1 ounce almozoin and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Let stand one day, then at night apply generously to skin covering the wrinkles. This protects the surface and stimulates the blood vessels just beneath the skin and so energizes the starved tissues underneath the creases that they gradually assume their proper size—then the wrinkles or lines will have vanished. As a skin-cleanser and rejuvenator of the complexion the almozoin cream-jelly is not equaled. All blemishes, blackheads, skin roughness and sallowness vanish as if by magic.

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

Uses of Government House

It should be remembered that the Government House is more than the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor. It is a building in which the people of Ontario offer accommodation at the Capital for the Governor General, his family and staff from time to time. Here also are entertained, sometimes at the request of the Imperial Government, the representatives of foreign nations, as well as distinguished men from different parts of the British Empire. The Government House is also used on behalf of the people of Ontario to show respect to great public bodies promoting philanthropic, religious and industrial enterprises who may visit the capital of the Province. Considering that the structure now approaching completion is intended to meet the requirements of the province for perhaps a long period, it is evident that those who think the Government House is too good for Ontario fail to appreciate the future of this province [illegible] a part of the

New Words Needed

One of the most curious features of the awakening of China is the addition of new words to the language. This does not mean merely names for such Western importations as motor cars, aeroplanes, cinematographs, etc., but words which have had to be invented to express ideas hitherto unknown to the Chinese mind, said "The London Chronicle." For instance, China had no indigenous word for ideal. Again "reform" had to be built up as an entirely new word, as also "to take the initiative," "protection of life," and "educate" as different from "instruct"—instances which throw a vivid light on certain aspects of the Chinese temperament.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ¼ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4530, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

WEATHER PROPHETS

Cat's fur is full of electricity, and before a thunderstorm a cat is always extremely lively and playful, probably on account of its electrical condition. Before rain is expected you will see a cat assiduously washing its face.

Donkeys will bray loudly and continuously at the approach of a storm. If cows lie down in the early morning instead of feeding, or huddle together with their tails to windward, then there is rain about. Like cats, the approach of a thunderstorm makes cows extremely frisky. They run up and down the field and butt imaginary obstacles at such times.

Sheep turn their heads to the wind when the day is going to be fine. But if they graze with their tails to windward it is a sure sign of rain, so experienced shepherds say. Like cows, too, they show an unusual liveliness at the approach of a storm. Even the sedate pig is watched by country weather prophets, for it is always uneasy when rain is coming.

Most birds are restless when a change is expected. Rain is indicated by guinea-fowls and peacocks squalling, by parrots whistling, and by pigeons returning home unusually early.

CLEARS THE HEAD OPENS, THE NOSTRILS STOPS SNEEZING, CURES CATARRH

Catarrh is bound to come with this weather. Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head. Soon the ears begin to buzz and ring. The head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing Dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMATIC CATARRH, which saps strength, depletes the vital energies till consumption is the unhappy result.

There isn't the slightest use in trying to cure this condition with tablets, snuff or spray. Such treatments are wholly inadequate. You must employ Catarrhozone the only remedy that possesses power to kill the germs of Catarrh. The healing vapor of Catarrhozone is carried by the air you breathe to the most minute cells of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Its antiseptic medication goes everywhere that air can go. No case is too chronic, no person too old everybody that has catarrh of any kind can be cured by this grand treatment which is endorsed by thousands of physicians throughout America, who say: "The only way to permanently get rid of Catarrh is to use Catarrhozone."

RESTING PLACE OF DEAD LETTERS

Parcels Also Reach the Dead Letter Office and Their Contents Are Varied

On the dusty shelves of the Head Dead Letter Office at Ottawa there is a strange collection of articles that have gone astray in the mails. They are: One flask, five dried flowers, a tin of sardines and a sausage. An ice pick and a bottle of ink remained there for some time but were afterwards delivered. Five garters (it is not stated whether five pairs or five singles) came to this hospitable refuge; of these, four were delivered and one remained without a home. Seventy-three stockings came to hand, of which all but two were successfully forwarded. There were two marriage licenses, a pair of hand cuffs, three bottles of liniment, one nut, nine pairs of overalls, one wig and four wills. There were nine sets of false teeth, two yeast cakes and a box of Zam-Buk.

Twenty-two authors now have return slips from the Postoffice to add to their collections from various editors; their manuscripts fell into the hands of the Dead Letter Office, but were ultimately returned to the owners. There were two warrants, four pairs of corsets, one altar cloth, one Masonic apron, three pairs of pyjamas, twenty-six corset covers, one apple, six baggage checks, a crucifix and a can of corned beef.

More parcels and post-cards come to this office than letters. In the Toronto office alone as many as twelve hundred imperfectly directed cards will come in a single day. Some of these bear no address, others have American stamps while still others are directed by absent-minded people to the correct street and number and the name of the town where they live instead of that in which their correspondent resides. Many of these find their way to the right people in the end, or are returned to the senders so you see a letter has two lives before it is really dead and cremated at the Dead Letter Office.

It is well that some of these letters never reach their destination so full are they of envy and hatred, but others are from mothers to their sons full of wise counsel, or heart-breaking entreaty.

The words on some of the cards indicate the tragedy or comedy that may arise from their failure of delivery. Says one: "I guess you will think that I have forgotten you." Perhaps he did. Another promises "more next time." One wonders if the address will be enough to ensure delivery. "I guess this card will surprise you," reads another. It never did. A card to "mother" explained at length why Ethel could not run down to the little country home that week. Who can know how "mother" may have worried. There was absolutely no address. "I don't know if you will ever get this," says another; they never did. Yet another remarks most truthfully, "I am very careless." The writer certainly was. There was no address upon the card.

Among these imperfect addresses there are many curious specimens. One card is found addressed to "Carlo Bunco, Bulgarian, Toronto." Yet another bears the name of the addressee and then a telephone number, Toronto. Another is addressed to Blank street Ontario.

POISONOUS TREES

Many Woods Cause Severe Skin Eruptions

Nettles, poison ivy and poison sumac are by no means the only plants which have a poisonous effect on the human skin. Poisonous substances exist in many trees, and even after they have been cut and sawed a sufficient quantity of the poison remains in the lumber, so that workmen who handle it are liable to infection.

Amberwood is impregnated with a powerful poison, according to Dr Heinz Graf, who investigated the subject for the German Botanical Society. Two different kinds of wood are included under the term amberwood—the genuine East Indian or Asiatic satinwood, or "silkwood," and the satin hardwood or amberwood. The two are quite different in external appearance. Nestler succeeded in extracting the active substance of from the latter. This is a strawcolored substance soluble only in cigar [illegible] small quantity of it placed in contact with the skin of the underarm, in the course of about five hours produced a tensely swollen yellowish blister surrounded by a red area of inflammation. After the bursting of the blister an ulcer remained which required four weeks to heal.

What is known as "cocobolo" wood contains a poisonous substance easily soluble in alcohol and benzol, less so in water. It is apparently an ethereal oil. The placing of fine sawdust of this wood on the moist skin causes first a violent smarting. Following this, red spots or pimples appear accompanied by redness and inflammation of that part of the skin, followed by scaling.

Similar phenomena are caused by the plant Cortusa Matthioli, but they are even stronger, since blisters are produced. Touching the plants is enough to cause irritation and the infection may be transmitted to other persons by hands so infected. The bearers of the irritating substance in this case are gland-hairs, as in the case of the primrose. This substance is a crystallizable sap which can be extracted from gland-hairs.

NUMBERING THE WAVES

The Construction of the Undagraph Which Performs This Mission

The undagraph is a machine for counting waves. It is set up along the seacoast with its lower end in the water, and makes a written record of the number of waves beating against the shore, per minute, hour, day and year. An experimental undagraph was built some [illegible] for the International Seismological Association and set up on the pier at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England. It worked satisfactorily, and a permanent installation was made at Chebucto, near Halifax in Nova Scotia. A description of the latter will give the reader a [illegible] idea of the principle [illegible] The following details are taken from [illegible] account by Otto Klotz of the Dominion Astronomical Observatory at Ottawa, who had charge of the installation at Chebucto: "An inch pipe [illegible] feet long is led from the instrument the diaphragm part, to and into the ocean to a depth beneath the [illegible] of the assumed highest waves at [illegible] tide, say fifteen feet. The [illegible] of the pipe is open. The wave passing over it causes the water to rise in the pipe and compress the air beyond, whereby the leather diaphragm is raised and electric contact is made. By means of the armature of an electro-magnet a toothed wheel is pushed forward, one tooth for every wave and with one revolution, or 120 waves the recording pen returns to its zero. The record presents a series of finely serrated oblique lines, each representing 120 waves. Clockwork with a pen traces at the edge of the paper a time scale, making a break every hour, the linear measure of which is six centimetres. A fresh roll of paper is put on once a week. A small leak is provided in the diaphragm chamber to cut out the effect of the slowly [illegible] ebbing tide."

Where no Money is Used

The Island of Ascension, in the Atlantic Ocean, is of volcanic formation, and has a population of only 450. It was uninhabited until the confinement of Napoleon at St. Helena when it was occupied by a small British force.

Ascension is governed by a captain appointed by the British Admiralty. There is no private property in land, no rents, no taxes, and no use for money. The flocks and herds are public property and the meat is issued in rations. So are the vegetables grown on the farms. When an island fisherman makes a catch he brings it to the guard-room, where it is issued by the sergeant-major. Practically the entire population are sailors and the work at most of the common trades. The muleteer is a Jack Tar; so is the gardener; so are the shepherds, the stockmen, the grooms, masons, carpenters and plumbers. The climate is almost perfect and anything can be grown.

PRINCE OF WALES AT OXFORD AN ORDINARY UNDERGRADUATE

Experiment Was Daring One But He Escaped the Dangers ---Enjoyed All That Oxford Could Give

Toronto, June 30.—Writing in The London Times of the Prince of Wales as an Oxford man, a fellow undergraduate says:

"The Prince of Wales has now been an undergraduate at Oxford for just two years. When he first came up rumor had it that his university life was to last the all too short space of one year only, and it was particularly welcome news to all Oxford the other day that it had been decided to prolong his stay for a further period. For Oxford is slow moving in many ways. You cannot appreciate her in a day; and on her part, even in the case of Princes, it is only after close and tested acquaintance that individual members are accorded her approval and praise. Therefore it was good news that the Prince of Wales was to stay longer among us, both that the spell of Oxford might sink yet deeper into his memory, and also that Oxford's respect for him might be still stronger and more lasting.

"The Prince's life at Oxford has been an experiment of a rather daring kind. It cannot be very easy, in planning the details of education, to reconcile the position of the Prince and the position of the man. On the one hand it may be decided that it is impossible for the Royal personage to like the life of his contemporaries as they live it, or to go through the education of an ordinary individual. Thus King Edward was sent as an undergraduate to Oxford, but his position was never normal. He never occupied an undergraduate's rooms in Christ Church: he was marked out by the special gown he wore, and when he attended a debate at the Union, everybody present respectfully rose when he entered. Thus, however pleasant and valuable his Oxford days may have been, King Edward can never have participated in the free, good-fellowship which we all enjoy; he can never have tasted to the full the fun and interest which comes alone from the irresponsible and equal association of friends.

DODGE BLAME FOR 7 DEATHS IN THE MILFORD FIRE

State and Town Officials Seek to Place Responsibility on Each Other—Investigation by District Police

Milford, June 30.—While seven men lay dead and three others very near death as a result of today's early morning fire in the Armenian boarding house in this town, state and local officials accused each other of blame for the condition of things that made the tragedy possible.

In addition to those whose death occurred in the flames or very soon after they jumped or had been taken from the blazing building, 16 men are tonight at the local hospital, suffering from burns. Of these, three are not expected to recover. Seventeen others were slightly burned and 23 occupants of the boarding house had narrow escapes from injury or death.

Four firemen were injured but not seriously. All the killed or injured, except the firemen, were Armenians employed in the foundry of the Draper company at Hopedale.

INVESTIGATION STARTED.

The ruins of the old 4½ story brick shoe shop that had been turned into a boarding house were still smoking when state officials arrived on the scene to begin their investigation. These representatives of the commonwealth were Edward McCarthy of the district police and Inspectors Ambrose W. Ixell and John F. Casey, of the building inspection department. With engineers of the local fire department and the Milford selectmen these officials at once begin their examination of the premises. It has practically been decided that the fire started from an overturned or exploding kerosene lamp.

ARCHDUKE CARRIED HEAVY INSURANCE

Vienna, June 30.—The news of the death of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg was broken to their children at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening. The orphans broke down when it was communicated to them, and their aunt, Countess Chotek, who was present, fainted.

The Tageblatt to-day says the late Archduke's life was insured with Dutch companies for $12,000,000 while that of his wife was insured for half that amount, $6,000,000.

ROB POLICEMAN OF HIS NEW UNIFORM AND $28

Milford Officer Has To Appear In Helmet and Civilian Togs

Milford, June 30.—Minus the brand new uniform that he has had but a few weeks, also minus $28 that had been stolen from trousers pocket of same uniform. Patrolman Pietro Lucchini of the local police force, tonight, astonished patrons of a circus here by appearing in civilian clothes, official helmet and badge and fully loaded revolver.

Lucchini was on the watch for pickpockets, said to be operating at the circus grounds. Lucchini was ready to arrest any and all malefactors who might make their appearance but by preference he was on the lookout for the men—supposedly—who early today robbed him of his official finery as well as his valuables.

SHOOTS FIVE AND IS KILLED BY POSSE

Whitesburg, Ky., June 30.—Five of night at Neon, near here, by William Day, a mountaineer, are not expected to live, according to the reports received in Whitesburg to-day. Victor Stampher, one of Day's victims, died shortly after being shot, and Day himself was killed by a posse that pursued him to the mountains.

Day resisted arrest on a minor charge, broke from the officers, and, running to his home, obtained a shot gun and a supply of shells. He then returned to the main street and opened fire on a crowd of men and boys.

A LOAD OF OBLIGATION TO THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO, IS PREMIER'S VIEW OF POSITION

TORONTO, JUNE 30.—Sir James Whitney was so busy opening telegrams of congratulation this morning that he had little time to give to the press. Messages began to pour in on him at so early hour last night and continued all through this morning. He is in excellent health, and of course, in the best possible humor.

"Again the people of Ontario have placed my colleagues and myself under a tremendous load of obligation to them. The acts and policy and the work done by the Government have been justified, and indeed, as is well known, they were hardly criticised by our opponents. The outstanding fact is that the people of this Province refused positively to be threatened and coerced by a few demagogic clergymen who, anxious above all things for the success of Mr. Rowell, were not ashamed to make use of a question like the so-called Temperance Question as a scourge to drive us out of office and their friends in power; also that the great majority of the clergymen of Ontario bore themselves during the contest in a manner distinctly creditable to them, especially having regard to the reckless attempts made to embroil them in the conflict. What those few men have done to injure the temperance idea, and what they have done to injure the cause of the churches will be seen more clearly as time goes on."

57 MAJORITY IN ONTARIO HOUSE

Latest Returns Give Whitney Enormous Lead Over Opponents

Below we publish a corrected list of the results of the election, which shows that Sir James Whitney and his Government will have 84 members in the new Ontario Legislature. Mr. Rowell will have a following of 25, and there will be two independents, including Mr. Gustave Evanturel, the Liberal, who was compelled to resign his seat in the last House because of his negotiations with the officials of the liquor men's organization, and who gained the day in a three-cornered fight in Prescott by an appeal to the racial feeling of the French electors.

The second Independent is Mr. Allan Studholme, the Labor member, who was re-elected in East Hamilton by a substantial majority.

The Government thus goes back to the Legislature with one seat more than it had after the general election of 1911. It has a majority of 59 over the Liberals, and 57 over Liberals and Independents combined. Mr. Rowell on the other hand, only boasts three more followers than at the close of the polls on December 11, 1911. With definite returns lacking in a number of cases last night, it was impossible last night to arrive at the Government's popular majority. But despite the fact that Mr. Rowell has a net gain of six seats, the increased majorities given to Government candidates makes it evident that the Liberal leader has behind him a smaller body of public opinion than at his venture into the political field.

MISSISSIPPI "DRYS" WIN IN HIGH COURT

Jackson, Miss., June 30.—The Supreme Court rendered a decision declaring constitutional that clause of the new May-Lott-Lewis liquor law limiting liquor shipments to individuals to one gallon at a time.

The statute was resisted by liquor dealers in other States and express companies engaged in interstate business. The decision read by Chief Justice Sydney Smith, is quite lengthy, and upholds the spirit of the Webb-Kenyon act.

The court did not touch that provision of the new law prohibiting locker clubs. That clause will be dealt with in another case now pending.

New Orleans liquor dealers are hit by the court's decision.

LOVE NOT TEMPERANCE LESS, BUT THEY LOVE WHITNEY MORE

Says Montreal Daily Mail in Commenting on the Results ---But Reward for Work Well Done

Montreal, June 30.—The Daily Mail, commenting on the result of the Provincial elections in Ontario yesterday, says:

"The return of Sir James Whitney to power in Ontario, with a reduced majority, but still with strong support in the legislature, is what was generally expected. Responsible public men can count upon public gratitude for work well done. The reward of a public trust well kept is reasonably certain.

"Viewing the election result from a disinterested standpoint, one cannot but feel gratified that Sir James Whitney, at this late date in his public career, has received another endorsation. He has been a good public servant. He has grown old in office, and has weakened in health under the strain of arduous labors. Had he been turned down he would have been a pathetic figure. He did not deserve that fate, and Ontario did not give it to him. Undoubtedly many temperance voters gave him their support not because they loved temperance less but Whitney more."

The Montreal Gazette says: "The Whitney Government has won the approval of the majority of the people of the Province. In some striking ways it has deserved respect. Its leader began his career by cutting away from the hypocrisy that had been prominent for too long in Ontario's [illegible]. If he did not believe a position was right, he said so in unmistakable words, so that every one concerned could know what he would do. His course appealed to the manliness of the people, and won him support. Then he and his colleagues sought to enforce the law and make it respected and they made themselves respected. Their mistakes did not count against the general satisfaction with their record. They have held power for ten years; there is visible no reason why they should not hold it for ten years more."

The Free Press Winnipeg discussing the election editorially this morning, starts off with this comment: "Provincial party lines in Ontario have been greatly broken by the campaign."

FEDERAL ELECTIONS STILL IN DISTANCE

Rumor That Whitney Victory Will Hasten Appeal is Unfounded

Ottawa, June 30.—The Ontario election returns were received in Ottawa with the keenest interest on account of the effect that they were likely to have on Federal politics. It was realized that a Liberal victory would greatly impair the chances of a return of the Borden Government next general election. Naturally the Conservatives were delighted over the result. As a matter of fact, the tremendous Whitney sweep was somewhat of a surprise. It was generally expected at the Capital that Rowell would carry at least 35 seats.

Rumor is already busy that, as a result of the Ontario victory, and the return of the Roblin Government in Manitoba, which is expected on July 10th, that there will be a dissolution of Parliament and an appeal to the people. There is nothing whatever to base such a rumor upon. The matter has not been discussed by the Cabinet. There will be a general meeting of the Cabinet Ministers about the middle of July, when Premier Borden returns from Nova Scotia, and the question will undoubtedly be discussed then. However, the likelihood is that there will be another session, with elections a year from this fall.

PRIESTS' POVERTY VOW IS UPHELD BY U.S. COURT

All Property May Be Turned Over to Catholic Church

Washington, June 30.—The Supreme court reversed the decision of the eighth United States circuit court of appeals which held that the vows of poverty in Catholic orders were void because against public policy.

The point arose in the case of Augustin Wirth, a member of the order of St. Benedict for about sixty years who died while serving as a priest in charge of the parish of the German Catholic Church at Springfield, Minn. He had taken a vow of poverty to turn all his property over to the order, and all that he might thereafter possess in return for his support and education.

Upon his death he was in possession of more than $5000, received from several copyrighted books written by him. Wirth's nephews and nieces, as his heirs, claimed the property. The circuit court of appeals held that the agreement of poverty with the society was void as against public policy, and held that the nephews and nieces were entitled to the property.

Justice Hughes announcing the decision held that the lower court erred in interpreting the rules of the order as preventing members from leaving. He explained the court failed to distinguish between an ethical withdrawal and a civil withdrawal from the order. The rules, he added, merely bound him for life in a religious sense to the order.

A GREENLAND BELLE

The arctic explorers and whalers always touch Greenland before they make their dashes farther north; with the result that the native Greenlanders of these days have a pretty good taste of civilisation.

These natives are Eskimos, or half breeds. In return for furs and fish they sell to their visitors and for services they render, they get much cheap finery, and often utility articles, such as cooking utensils, clothing, stoves, furniture and whiskey.

The general result is that the Greenland people dress different to the more remote Eskimos.

The girl in the photograph undoubtedly wears a costume made in Denmark or Norway, where they best understand the manufacture of clothes for extremely cold climates. Some of the women are quite attractive. Most of them have flatter faces, however, than the one here shown. She lives at Therasak, north west Greenland and is of part Danish blood

WILD HORSES OF WEST

Descendants of Animals Abandoned During Cariboo Gold Rush

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel. Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. Our Point of View

"One war doth tread upon another' The Daughters of the Northwest rebellion war veterans are about to hold their annual convention.

The Hon. Ted Roosevelt discovered a new tribe of savages in Brazil, but we are willing to bet that they were not half as savage as he was when he learned of the hot fighting in Mexico and didn't have a hand in it.

Workers in Washington breweries are asking that their hours be reduced from nine to eight, that they be given five quarts of free beer a day and five periods of ten minutes each in which to drink it. What a happy set of workers they would be if they could get someone to do the brewing during the remaining brief interval in which they are on duty.

ELECTION GOSSIP

To the clergy belongs the chief credit of defeating the local Conservative nominee. Although elsewhere it produced no effect, in Peterboro, the younger vote was much moved by impassioned appeals. Statements to the effect that party dissensions injured the Conservatives are not warranted, as Mr. Peck had handed in his resignation to the Executive Committee before Mr. Soden came into the field. There may be differences of opinion as to who are Conservatives, but there is no just ground for dissatisfaction. The campaign was clean. Both sides complain that numbers offered themselves for sale. The Catholic vote was more or less divided. The Protestant clergy like the prophets of old, led their obedient hosts to victory. In a few days all wounds will be healed. Mr. Soden is already hailed by the Conservatives as their next candidate. It is understood that he will again go to the convention because of the overwhelming demand of his supporters that he should do so. Three cheers for everybody! Hurrah!

SHOULD BE TREATED AS MANIACS

For years Gertrude Atherton, the novelist, has been a strong advocate of woman suffrage. She has written much in the support of the movement. She even believed in militancy as it began. But she unsparingly condemns the recent performances of the "wild women" of England. She says of them: "Those women ought to be permanently shut up simply as maniacs. They have lost their minds. They are suffering from what might be called malignant insanity. They have put back suffrage in England fifty or a hundred years. Suffrage is coming in America, coming soon; but in England it is blocked. These militants should be shut out, not under that silly cat-and-mouse bill, but permanently, and they should not be allowed to get into the papers.' 'They should be treated like any other maniacs. With adequate government action England could save its own masters and its wonderful ruins, and the real suffrage movement could go on."

Would it not be helpful to the suffrage cause in this country if all its leaders should be as candid as Mrs. Atherton in denouncing all such crazy conduct as that of the militants in St. Paul's cathedral and elsewhere in London last Sunday? Nearly every day is bringing its disgrace and its shame, and an outspoken policy on the part of the American advocates of equal suffrage would do much to clear the air on this side of the water and have a wholesome effect even in England.

ELECTION AFTERMATH

Well, the Provincial Election has come and gone. The local member is Mr. G.A. Gillespie one of Peterborough's most prominent business men, and a man of sterling honesty. This is not the place to attempt to discuss the "raison d'etre" of Mr. Soden's defeat further than to note that Mr. Gillespie polled the greater number of votes. However, the electors of this city and Riding will now be able to consider whether the choice of the majority was wise. They have sent a good man to sit in the cold shades of opposition with his hands tied as far as ability to materially help his riding is concerned. They have elected a gentleman pledged to support the temperance policy of Mr. Rowell turned down a man who stood on the policy of absolute prohibition. Selah!

We Submit the Following Companies for Your Consideration

MONITOR OIL & NATURAL GAS COMPANY LTD. CALGARY

Capital $500,000 Non-Personal Liability.

The strong feature in this Company is the location of their properties. Their holdings are adjacent to the MOWBRAY-BERKLEY WELL (located by Cunningham Craig), the McDOUGAL-SEGUR WELL, the MONARCH WELL and the FABER WELLS. The Company has four separate fields, and a strike of oil in practically any part of the oil fields will have an immediate effect on their stock. The first three named are liable to strike oil at any minute. The Faber Company are just starting to drill, after a very careful consideration of reports from their geologists.

The Company offer a small allotment at $1.00 per share (par $1.00) each share carrying with it an option to purchase one more at par when oil is next struck.

The Directorate whose names you are now familiar with are sufficient guarantee for the integrity of the Company.

PRESIDENT :—Capt. Feilden, Pres. Western Canada Oil Co., Ltd., ; Pres. Peerless Oil Works, Ltd. Calgary.
MANAGING DIRECTOR :—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.
DIRECTORS :—A. W. Ellson Fawkes, M.I.C.E., City Waterworks Engineer, Calgary ; J. H. Eastwood, Barrister (England) Calgary ; J. C. McLeod, Mercantile Agent, Calgary.
SEC'Y-TREASURER—H. G. Spencer - Lewis.

CREST OIL & DEVELOPMENT COMPANY, LIMITED, CALGARY

Capital $150,000 Non-Personal Liability

This Company is offering 75,000 shares at their par value price $1.00 each.

The Company is noted for its low capitalization and its excellent holdings of 1211 acres in one block. The leases were carefully chosen by Mr. Ellson Fawkes and the Company has engaged a well-known Eastern geologist to locate its first well. Drilling will commence directly there are sufficient funds in the treasury to place a contract.

On account of its low capitalization this stock is bound to find immediate favour at the next strike of oil. The price will be advanced directly oil is struck, to at least $1.25 a share.

The officers of the Company are "clean," successful business men—

MANAGING DIRECTOR—D. Algar-Bailey, Engineer, Calgary.
DIRECTORS—Beach A. Laselle, Director Pacific Lime Co., Ltd., Vancouver, B.C. ; R. A. Barron, Department of Education, Edmonton ; B. Ginsberg, Barrister, Calgary.

This is NOT a gambling proposition — it is an investment! English and American Capital is pouring into the Calgary Oil Fields. Millions of dollars have been invested by large interests during the past four weeks.

We can honestly advise you to invest in either of these companies. Both of them have on their Directorates men known for their stability and honesty. There is no "wild-catting" or watered stock in either of them and at the next strike of oil the stock is bound to increase in price.

We advise you to invest in both. $100 will secure you say 50 Crest and 100 Monitor shares (option stock) and then when the next strike comes, which may be now as you are reading this, you will be able to smile at the man paying $5,00 a share for Monitor and buy them yourself for $1.00 each.

It will need prompt action on your part to get this stock at the present market price, because, remember, it takes several days for your application to reach here. Do not delay: Fill out the coupon. We will honor all applications bearing post mark prior to rise in price.

How Sea-birds Drink

The question is often asked: "Where do sea-birds obtain fresh water to slake their thirst?" An old skipper says that he has seen these birds at sea far from any land that could furnish them water hovering around and under a storm-cloud, clattering like ducks on a hot day at a pond and drinking in the drops of rain as they fell. They will smell a rain-cloud a hundred miles or even farther off and scud off for it with almost inconceivable swiftness.

How long sea-birds can exist without water is only a matter of conjecture, but probably their powers of enduring thirst are increased by habit, and possibly they go without water for many days, if not for several weeks.

Winter Stores in Labrador

The Indians of the barren lands of Labrador rely almost entirely upon the migrating caribou for winter sustenance. When the great herds of reindeer go south in the fall, the Indians lie in waiting for them, killing sufficient meat to keep them from starvation during the months of darkness and desolation. The meat, as killed, is packed into caches—either high in the trees, well out of reach of wolves, or in some natural cave, which is barricaded with rocks and timber. When the last deer have south, the barren lands are almost destitute of life, and should anything happen to their store the Indians are confronted with starvation.

and Milk

Milk spoils quickly when kept in a strong light and investigators have found that the rays of light near the violet end of the spectrum seem to have the most detrimental effect. Strong light acts in the same manner upon sterilised milk and upon pasteurized milk as upon pure, fresh milk; after being exposed in plain glass bottles to full sunlight for a day, all three kinds of milk were found to be completely spoiled and unfit for use. On the other hand, says The Scientific American, red rays are beneficial, and milk that is put in bottles of red glass or in bottles wrapped with red paper, will keep in good condition much longer than milk bottled in glass that permits the passage of all the light waves.

Commission on Treasure

When operations are carried on for the recovery of treasure at great depths divers are usually paid weekly wages, plus a commission on the value of the stuff actually recovered. One has received as much as $50 in wages alone, and a diver has brought up in his hand a "find" worth no less than $35,000. This was a hunting-knife studded with diamonds, and it was recovered from the "Cadiz," which was wrecked near Ushant, on the French coast.

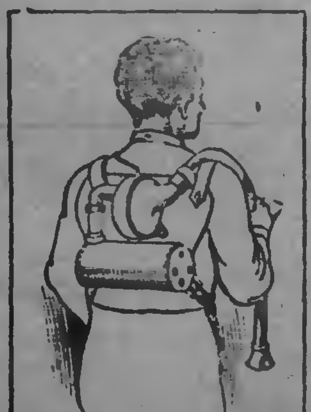
SUCTION COTTON PICKER

Vacuum Apparatus Straps Across Back of the Workman

Several hand devices in the form of gloves have been invented to facilitate cotton picking, but it remained for a southern man to apply the vacuum principle to this work. A glance at the illustration tells the story. A reservoir containing a suction fan is mounted on a leather plate, which straps around the waist and across the shoulders of the operator. In this casing is also a screening device, and from it a tube leads up and over the user's shoulder. This tube has a flaring nozzle. To pick the cotton the workman sets his suction fan in operation and moves the nozzle of the tube from plant to plant, the fluffy particles flying into it and into the reservoir, where the screen prevents them from clogging the movement of the fan. From time to time, of course, this reservoir must be emptied.



DOES WORK OF MANY HANDS.

CURED BY SURGERY

Dr. Goodhue is Doing a Great Work in a Leper Colony

The chief medical director of the leper colony on the island of Molokai, Hawaii, is Dr. William Goodhue. Since his appointment in 1902, the doctor has cured leprosy by surgical operations, and there are several well authenticated cases of lepers having been thus cured, and restored to the outside world. The lepers of Molokai have substantial homes, hospitals, churches, stores and administration buildings, and they are treated in an institution that is the finest ever erected for the purpose. Moreover, they live in hope of ultimate recovery, for they have seen others cured before their own eyes. The old despair is disappearing, and probably despair is a factor in leprosy as in most other diseases.

Dr. Goodhue has prepared several reports on his work, and is credited with much original research. In 1905 he discovered the bacillus of leprosy in the mosquito and the bedbug, and thus explained the spread of leprosy in Hawaii.

Dr. Goodhue was born in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's old home, Arthabaskaville, Quebec, though his parents were American citizens.

ENERGY IN COAL

Work Done by Men or Horses is Little in Comparison

Does any one realize the power of coal as a worker? A man was set to work to pump as hard as he could all day, and at the end of 10 hours it was found that he had done just as much work as a little less than two ounces of coal would do.

Taking all the energy put forth by a hard-working man during one whole year, the same amount of force would be furnished by 36 pounds of good coal, or say 40 pounds of average coal.

Of course, even in our best engines the greater part of the working energy of coal is wasted. But even if only one-tenth is turned to account, one and a half hundredweight of coal is equal to a man working for 300 days of the year.

A horse can do as much work as 10 men, but one and a quarter pounds of coal has as much force as a horse expends in one day. So that a ton of coal, if we could use all its force, would do as much work as six horses working for a whole year.

Austria Had First Postcard

The honor of having been the first country to use the postcard belongs to Austria, where it was introduced in 1869 as the result of the suggestions of Dr. Hermann. Its price was rather less than a cent, and at first its users were allowed to write only 20 words upon it. The card appeared in England exactly one year later to the very day. The first picture postcard was apparently one sent from the model of the Eddystone Lighthouse at the Royal Naval Exhibition in 1891.

INSPIRATION AT HOME

Canadians Are Surrounded With a Wealth of Artistic Material

Speaking of a Canadian architect, a writer in the "Year Book" says, "He holds that the climatic extremes and differences of our three thousand miles width of territory, and the range between, say, Toronto and Edmonton, call for types of building, each the natural development of its own environment. He believes that the building material of each district must dominate in a general way its architectural individuality." Here is a future for Canadian art! If the architect may be locally inspired, why not the musician? Why not the painter? Shall the dweller in Quebec paint Devonshire lanes? Shall he of the Rockies paint Quebec? Shall an artist fostered at a Hudson Bay post imbibe the tonality of Whistler? Are the lumberjacks of North Ontario to be depicted in the manner of Burne Jones? You may trust the painters for the answers to these queries. They know that our Atlantic coast is finer than Brittany; that Quebec Province contains a wealth of old-world picturesqueness as quaint as Nuremberg; that South Ontario is as smiling and placid as Hampshire; that Northern Ontario is as grim as Norway; that the prairies give scope to the lover of vast solitudes, that the Rockies are as sublime as the Alps; and that our lakes and rivers have not their equal on earth. The artists have not yet expressed these things adequately. Neither in prose nor in paint has the work yet been done. We have had the topography but only brief glimpses of the spirit. We have had the conscientious geographer, not the inspired poet. But now the time is ripe. The poets, the novelists, the painters are enthralled by the beauty of their own country. Will the Canadian public support them in their faith?—Church Life.

SURGICAL MARVELS

Some Results of Study and Experiments by Enthusiasts

Modern surgeons perform operations which seem little less than miraculous. Portions of the intestines have been removed. A piece of bone has been taken from the leg of a patient and used to mend a diseased spine. Split arm bones that would not knit have been pinned together by silver nails and screws. The entire lung of a dog has been removed and replaced as a hint of what may be the future treatment of tuberculosis. The calloused skin on the eyes of a child thus blinded from birth has been pierced. By brain operations upon prisoners the surgical cure for criminals has been demonstrated. Patients under a new anæsthetic method have actually watched an operation performed upon themselves.

A generation ago many of these operations which have come into actual and assured practice would have been deemed chimerical and impossible of achievement.

BOXING GLOVE LORE

Stiff Mitts May Mean Broken Thumbs or Injured Eyes

The pleasure of boxing is often spoilt by using gloves that are too stiffly padded. If a glove is so stiff that the fist cannot be clenched inside it, then the boxer is a danger to himself and to his opponent.

The hand being open, the thumb projects, instead of being doubled across the fingers, and may easily be broken or dislocated in delivering a blow. The projecting thumb is a danger to the opponent, for it may give him a painful and possibly serious jab in the eye.

Apart from this, you cannot box fairly unless the fist is doubled inside the glove, for the rules state distinctly that every blow must be delivered with the fist clenched, and with the knuckle part of the hand. It is a mistake to use "pillow-case" —that is, very large and heavy— gloves, for they have a stunning effect, which may be serious, while, again, it is difficult properly to close the hand inside them. For ordinary sparring, six-ounce gloves are quite heavy enough.

Food For a Life Time

An English scientist with a passion for statistics computed the amount of food that the average man eats in a lifetime. He asserts that in the process of attaining his three score years and ten he eats about fifty-four tons of solid food and fifty-three tons of liquid. He will have eaten 12,000 eggs, 400 pounds of cheese, about four tons of fish, and, could it have been all baked at once, a loaf of bread equal in size to an ordinary family hotel. But think of the vegetables devoured! The scientist says a train three miles long would be required to bring a life's supply to the average man.

FISH IN HOT SPRINGS

Thrive in High Temperature But Die in Cool Water

In certain parts of Jamaica and Cuba there are hot springs so torrid that the hottest noondays of a midsummer sun in Toronto is lower in temperature than these same ponds. An eminent Harvard scientist found that dozens of varieties of strange fish inhabit these hot baths and when these same fish are placed in ordinary river water they very soon die. None of these fish can survive in tepid water, let alone the moderately cool waters of the ocean, rivers, and brooks. The fish are closely related to trout, sun-fish, perch, bass, and the common prey of the American angler.

When the investigator took the well known piscine inhabitants of the nearby waters and put them in these west Indian hot springs they were all killed and looked as if they were "partially cooked." Yet the fish native to these thermal waters were disporting themselves most happily.

USES OF SAWDUST

It is an Ingredient of Dynamite, Linoleum and Xyolite

Flour for trade purposes from sawdust is now in common use. The wood flour is ground in a mill, very similar to those which grind corn and rye. Pine and spruce sawdust is used, and after being passed through the stones and the bolting chest, it is sacked or baled for shipment. It is then worth $12 to $18 a ton. The flour has a number of uses. It is the absorbent for nitroglycerine, which is the explosive ingredient. Wood-flour dynamite is inferior to that made with infusorial earth as the absorbent; but it serves many purposes and is cheaper. Linoleum makers mix it with linseed oil and give body to their floor coverings. It is not considered quite equal to ground cork for this purpose, as it is less elastic, but it is cheaper and meets requirements for medium grades. The flour fills an important place in the manufacture of xyolite, a kind of artificial flooring, resembling wood in weight, and stone in other respects. It is used for kitchen floors, and in halls, corridors, cafes, restaurants and public rooms. It is impervious to water, and is practically fireproof.

WORKING WITH LITTTE SLEEP

Great Men Who Spent Small Amount of Time in Slumber

Thomas Edison has an abnormal capacity for dispensing with sleep. Twenty hours' work and four hours' slumber was his daily programme for many years. On one occasion he worked on the incandescent light problem for five days and five nights "without a wink." After that he slept for twenty hours without moving a limb.

Napoleon during all his most strenuous years rarely slept more than four hours a night. Five o'clock in the morning invariably found him immersed in the details of his campaign, or in the conduct of the great empire his single will ruled, and he was equally invariably the last to go to bed.

Like many other great workers, however, he had the capacity of being able to sleep at will—to close his eyes for a few moments, and to sleep so profoundly during that short interval that, when he awoke, he was as fresh as many men after an hour's slumber. Wellington had the same enviable capacity as his great rival. During his Peninsular campaign—and, indeed, to the end of his long life—he seldom slept for more than four or five hours at a time; but he could at will snatch a few moments' slumber, even on horseback, which made, as he said, "a new man of him."

Cobden was rarely in bed after four o'clock in summer and five in winter. M. Thiers, President of the third French Republic, used to boast that for years he was out of bed and at work at four o'clock every morning.

It is not often that a complete electric light station sails away after having done good service to a town. Such an unusual thing happened in the Township of Ocos, in Guatemala, which after enjoying the benefits of electric lighting, unwillingly reverted to oil lamps, its powerhouse having gone to sea. A few years ago a ship was imprisoned in the lagoon without suffering any damage. An enterprising engineer thereupon used the ship's dynamos for supplying the whole township with current for lighting. The scheme was a great success until a salvage company appeared. The connecting cables were severed, the vessel went back to sea, and Ocos was temporarily left in darkness.

INSTRUMENTS IN WOUNDS

Surgeons Sometimes Leave Articles in Patients' Wounds

Hardly a week goes by that some patient who has undergone an operation does not find that he has been enriched by a pair of scissors, a lancet, a piece of gauze, a finger ring or some similar foreign body, which, through the negligence of the surgeon or his assistants, has been sewn up in the wound.

In up-to-the-minute hospitals no operation, however simple, is performed by a surgeon single-handed. Usually the operating surgeon is assisted by at least two or three other doctors, three nurses and an anaesthetist, besides an orderly who carries the various articles needed back and forth. After the incision has been made the busy assistants and nurses adeptly and in a flash stitch up each bleeding spot. So quickly is this accomplished nowadays that even in a tedious operation on the kidneys or appendix lasting several hours it is rarely that the patient loses more than a thimbleful of blood.

Between the skilful moves of the chief surgeon the others staunch the drops of blood with pincers, forceps, needles and sterile gauze. Everything that reaches the wound is thoroughly sterilized and perfectly free of germs.

But with 20 busy hands, 20 busy fingers and thumbs, all at work at the same time over a gaping wound and handling many hundreds of small instruments, such as lancets, scalpels, forceps, scissors, needle holders, bits of gauze and silk, it is hardly any wonder that every now and then one of the instruments or a piece of gauze is stitched up in the wound.

According to the doctors, none of these "foreign bodies," if free of germ life can do any harm. Human tissues, they point out, cannot be injured by steel, iron, gold, nickle-plated or linen materials. Instruments, gauze, or even rubber, may be allowed to remain in a clean-cut wound for years without harm of any kind resulting.

But despite the utmost care of the nurses responsible for the sterilising of the instruments and other articles to be used in the operation it is quite possible that germs may still remain or find lodgment after the sterilising process has been completed.

Despite the assurances of the doctors, therefore, the patients interested are loth to admit that foreign bodies thus left in their wounds can in no way harm them. It is true that the only reason a splinter, a rusty nail, a pin or a needle that gets into one's throat, foot or finger causes damage, sometimes death, is because of dirt and microbes that cling to them. Although everything animate and inanimate that gets near the white-marbled operating rooms of a modern hospital is supposed to be made free of ultra-microscopic life, it is conceivable that germs may find their way into even these well-guarded precincts.

BONFIRE OF STEEL

Heat From a Rubbish Blaze Ignites Steel Chips

A bonfire of steel chips [illegible] from the heat of a rubbish fire near by, gave an odd trouble to a manufacturer. Three times the fire was subdued with water, but was finally put out only by raking it apart, and then it was found that a considerable proportion of the chips had burned up, so that the pile was a third less high than before the blaze. Several carloads of chips were piled up in the factory yard and all were free from oil, as they had been run through a machine that removed it. Soon after the rubbish fire had been started smoke was seen coming from the steel pile, and it was discovered that some of the steel was white hot. Water seemed to put out the blaze, but after a drenching the steel began burning again and it was two days before the fire was all out. The manufacturer's theory was that, after the steel had been started by heat from the neighboring fire, the fine chips presented so much surface to oxygen and the surface of the pile gave comparatively so little area for radiation that the steel just had to burn.

Canada's Egg Production

The value of Canada's annual egg production is officially placed at $23,509,000. The hen coop, therefore, is a great deal more to the nation than a hobby of the farmer's wife. It is one of the big agricultural industries of Canada, as the following comparative figures indicate:

Value of eggs...............	$23,509,00
Value of barley............	14,606,00
Value of corn	14,510,00
Value of fruit..............	12,733,00

Nevertheless Canadians do not produce nearly enough eggs for themselves.

Ten-year-Old Pickpocket

An extraordinary case of juvenile pocketpicking was dealt with at Clydebank Police Court, a girl of ten years of age being charged with four different thefts of purses with money from women who were making purchases at various shops. The fiscal said the girl was nothing short of being an expert pickpocket. The first purse she stole she placed on the tramway rails in order, when a car passed over it, that all trace of it would be destroyed. It was proposed to send the girl to a reformatory.

The gold medal of the Royal Society of England was conferred upon Dr. Alexander Graham Bell in recognition of his inventions, notably that of the telephone.

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

STRENGTH OF INSECTS

Dragon-fly Can Fly at Sixty Miles an Hour

When compared with the strength of man, the strength of an insect is most remarkable indeed. For instance, the busy little ant can carry a load forty times as heavy as himself, and the ordinary beetle can propel a burden a hundred times its own weight. The insignificant housefly gives a hundred strokes of his wings in about two seconds, thus enabling him to go a distance of thirty-five feet in that time.

Perhaps the most wonderful of all insects is the dragon-fly. It goes through the air at the rate of sixty miles an hour, and can stop instantly, [illegible] backward or sideways without lessening its speed or changing the position of its body.

One little honey-bee will hang suspended from a limb, while from his body a hundred others will depend—one holding to another, chain-fashion; and one cannot see that the first bee wavers or finds its load heavy.

There are minerals of every known color. Ninety distinct minerals occur at the famous zinc mines at Franklin, N.J. Moerchaum will float on water, while gold weighs over nineteen times its own bulk of water. Iridium is twenty-two times its volume of water.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a set of mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4836, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

COST OF AUTO FUEL

A Useful Table Showing Cost of Season's Gasoline

Motorists who are interested in the number of miles obtained per gallon of gasoline with their car will do well to study the following table, which has been compiled by a prominent automobile salesman. The table shows what it costs to run an automobile 10,000 miles with gasoline at 22c per gallon. This is about three cents less than the average price in Canada, but the table nevertheless is very useful.

Yesterday evening Mr. Frank Montgomery shipped his horses Jimmy Direct, 2.15¼; Undertaker, 2.22¼ and Nora Medium to Port Hope to take part in the races there today ; and Thursday. Its a safe bet that this trio of horses will bring back a good chunk of the change.

Rain Did Much Good

Peterborough citizens and farmers living in the vicinity of this city will be greatly pleased with the amount of rain which fell during Sunday and Monday. Up to this time the amount of rainfall has been very small and there has been little prospects of a good haying season. Gardens here have been very poor owing to the lack of rain.

A Lindsay Blaze

Lindsay Warder: Fire broke out in the engine room of Carew's mill, Saturday evening about 6 o'clock, but owing to the presence of a number of men who work there a serious blaze was prevented. The company's own hose was used and also a bucket brigade was formed. The fire teams responded to the call but by this time it was under control.

Up For Assaulting Wife

A fairly well dressed, elderly resident of George Street South stood in the dock at Police Court Saturday morning, on the charge of assaulting his wife. He was remanded till next Thursday owing to the condition of the wife. The prisoner is alleged to have tried to choke his wife and abused her in such a manner as to require medical attendance.

Latest True Fish Story

A few nights ago two gentlemen kept busy at office work until 3 a.m. were passing East over the Hunter Street bridge. One of them was smoking a fragrant Havana. As he reached the centre of the bridge he threw the still glowing stub of his cigar into the river. In the light of the moon the two saw a big bass; evidently taking the stub for a fire fly, grab for the cigar. As it swallowed the stub it made quite a commotion on the surface of the river showing it had burned it mouth.

CITY IN PARAGRAPH

SUNLIGHT AND SHADOW ON THE DIAL OF A CITY LIFE.

A very large vote was polled at Lindsay on Monday.

Lindsay's I.O.O.F. Decoration Day was a great success.

Our readers will kindly remember that as to-day is a holiday there will be no issue of The Times to-morrow.

Good boy George! Do what you can for this City! You are now in the limelight, and Peterborough expects "that each man will do his duty."

The new Turnbull Building will open on Saturday with a fine line of goods displayed over the "latest call in counters" and shelving.

Rev. F. S. Spence of the Dominion Alliance, Toronto is quite satisfied with results of the Provincial elections. So are one or two Conservatives in this city.

This is Dominion Day when the various separate Provinces of Canada become an integral whole, the Dominion of Canada, the brightest jewel in the Empire's crown.

The County may have given Mr. Gillespie a majority, and they chose a good man in their votes, but the City voted for the Conservative candidate, Mr. Soden. Is it not true that Peterborough gets representation like better cities, such as St. Catharines, etc and advocate their own interests?

Our E. E. C., of George Street, in last night's issue, has a sobsister editorial on temperance. Will our contemporary tell us why, under a former Reform member for W. Peterborough, whilst the Scott Act was in force (?) in this County, an hotel keeper could be charged a dozen or more times with selling booze, but a third conviction was never registered against "The Faithful?"

Joints Quit Aching
Soreness beat it away

NO MORE STIFFNESS, PAIN OR MISERY IN YOUR BACK OR SIDE OR LIMBS!

Wonderful "Nerviline" is the Remedy

A marvelous pain reliever.

Not an ordinary liniment — just about five times more powerful, more penetrating, more pain-subduing than any thick, oily or ammonia liniment. Nerviline fairly eats up the pain and stiffness in chronic rheumatic joints, gives quick relief to those throbbing pains, and never burns or even stains the skin.

"Rheumatism kept my joints swollen and sore for ten years. My right knee joint was often too painful to allow me to walk. In this crippled tortured condition I found Nerviline a blessing. Its warm, soothing action brought relief I had given up hoping for. I rubbed on quantities of Nerviline and improved steadily. I also took Ferrozone at mealtime in order to purify and enrich my blood. I am today well and can recommend my treatment most conscientiously.

(Signed) C. PARKS.
Prince Albert

Not an ache or pain in the muscles or joints that Nerviline won't cure. It's wonderful for lumbago and sciatica; for neuralgia, stiff neck, earache and toothache. Nerviline is simply a wonder. Best family liniment known and largely used for the past forty years. Sold by dealers everywhere, large family size bottle 50c.; small trial size 25c. Refuse a substitute, take only "Nerviline."

Mr. Tom Eastwood, the genial boniface, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Eastwood reports bass fishing as better at Buckhorn than ever before.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Webster celebrated the anniversary of their golden wedding at their home in Lakefield, on Tuesday, June 30th.

Mr. Louis Yeotes, the George street cigar dealer, was in Toronto yesterday and concluded the purchase by him and his brother, George, for a building at the corner of Queen and Parliament streets.

New Fog Penetrator

Great fog penetrating power is claimed for a new French incandescent light with a greenish-yellow glass screen in front and backed by a silvered reflector which reflects enough heat to prevent moisture collecting on the screen.

ANTISEPTICS IN AUSTRALIAN BLUE GUM PROVE A CURE FOR BRONCHIAL CATARRH

Bad Cold In the Head, Throat Weakness and Catarrh Cured Quickly.

Medicated Air A Marvel

Catarrhozone is far superior to any internal medicine.

Catarrhozone goes right to the tiniest cells in the lungs, carrying healing, soothing balsams to the places that are tainted with Catarrhal inflammation. A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes— a sore throat is healed and restored in an hour or two —chronic bronchitis is soothed away and quickly disappears— catarrh of long standing is invariably cured because Catarrhozone pills the germs that cause the trouble.

As a cure for Asthma and a preventative of Grippe every doctor is delighted with Catarrhozone. One eminent throat specialist says if Catarrhozone is used two or three times each day you will never suffer from any disease of the head throat, nose or lungs. This is good news to many of our readers who must require a safe, sure and permanent cure for their colds and winter ills. Every good druggist sells Catarrhozone, large outfit $1.00; small size 50c; trial size 25c.

LATEST FROM APSLEY

Robert Howden is again on his annual round up buying cattle and he has already bought about 40 head, besides a number of lambs.

The West has not got a monopoly of Land Seekers. Several parties have been through here looking for farms, suitable for ranching purposes and Mr. Gallon has sold a few lately and still has several desirable farms for sale.

Mr. Anderson, the Liberal candidate had a splendid reception at Apsley last Wednesday night. The hall was crowded by an enthusiastic audience who got the facts of the issue put before them in an honest and straightforward manner by Mr. D. Campbell, reeve of Chandos, the candidate, Wm. Anderson, and F.D. Kerr.

Messrs. Hardill and Jewell, representing Rishors; Ltd., and The Hopwood Co., of Peterboro, made their regular call on the Apsley merchants Wednesday last, and although this is the dullest season of the year, secured fair orders.

The Drive of the P.L. Co., is still moving south and it is hoped the Co. will succeed in getting their logs to the mill.

DREAMS THAT CAME TRUE

Should These Cases Always be Called Mere Coincidents?

Very frequently dreams do come true—call it chance or what you will. A Scotswoman, wife of a railwayman dreamed that her husband was dead. When he did not return from his work in the morning she sent some one to inquire for him, and learned that he had been killed during the night.

When John O'Connell was lying ill in an Australian hospital, he dreamed that he had found gold at Cañiambo. Directly he was well enough to leave the hospital he went to the place he had seen in his dream, and there sure enough, he discovered gold.

One day an employe in a W[illegible] colliery company, on arriving at the office in the morning, informed the other clerks that during the previous night he had dreamed of the death of the chief cashier. He had hardly finished speaking when the telephone bell rang, and a message came through from the chief cashier's wife saying that her husband was seriously ill. One of the clerks hurried to the house, but the cashier was dead when he arrived.

Numberless cases of a similar kind might be quoted. Is it all just chance, or is there "something in it," after all?

Canadians Need Not Fear Danger From Earthquakes

Over the greater part of Canada, says a report of the Dominion Observatory, we need [illegible] disastrous earthquakes [illegible] near the primeval rock; we have [illegible] few formations beneath us [illegible] the compression and adjustment [illegible] place. The weak line of the [illegible] of the earth in Eastern Canada, an old wound that would be the first to open afresh, if strains were [illegible] come excessive, is the [illegible] Champlain fault running down the bed of the St. Lawrence from Levis to the Gulf.

Mild quakes which are sometimes experienced in the Dominion are described as very minute manifestations of the pent up energy of the earth, although to us, small crawlers on the surface, they arouse fear and trembling in some quarters. The earth is always under strain and from various causes.

ULSTER VOLUNTEERS NOW IN EARNEST, OPENLY CARRY ARMS

Streets of Belfast Have Every Appearance of a Garrison Town--One Vast Armed Town

London, July 2.—Leaders of all parties in the house of Commons have fully awakened to the gravity of the situation in Ireland, and are straining every nerve to arrive at some working plan which will prevent a terrible outbreak. During the last two days these efforts have been pushed with very great earnestness, and it is quite possible a modus vivendi will be reached within 48 hours.'

May Carry Arms.

A despatch from Belfast says that the Unionist Council issued the following order to-day: "It has been decided that, at the description of the commanding officers the time has come when arms may be carried openly by members of the Ulster Volunteer force, and attempts to seize arms carried in accordance with these instructions."

Vast Armed Camp.

When the bill to amend the Irish Home Rule Bill came up to-day for second reading in the House of Lords, the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, announced that as Ireland was one vast armed camp, it was necessary to find a way out of the calamity which was threatening. The Unionists, therefore, he said, would give the Amending bill a second reading and introduced amendments during the committee stage in regard to the area to be excluded from the operations of the Home Rule bill, the duration of the exclusion and the government of the excluded area. The Unionists, he concluded would not agree to the second reading of the Home Rule Bill itself.

DROPS RACING CARD ON HER WAY TO PEW

London, July 2.—A fashionable young West End doctor will have cause to remember this year's Derby. On his return from Epsom he found a rich maiden aunt—a pillar of the church and a great antigambling crusader—had dropped in to dinner. During the meal, greatly enamored of a certain dish, she requested the recipe, which her nephew who is somewhat of an epicure, wrote down on the back of a card, which he took from his pocketbook.

The sequel took place in the lady's parish church last Sunday. On her way to her pew, on taking a handkerchief from her bag, the card fluttered to the ground, and the verger on restoring it, was astounded to see a race card with pencilled notes of Derby Day betting transactions. Need less to say the parish, and also the sporting young medico, have received a rude shock.

BERLIN DOCTORS FIND A NEW DISEASE

Tango Foot Dance Brings Into Action Ankle Movements That Nature Resents

Berlin, July 2. The development of a new disease is recorded in a Berlin weekly dealing with clinical therapeutics. Modern methods of dancing not only bring into action muscles and sinews that have hitherto not been affected, but they also, it appears, necessitate movements of the ankle which nature resents.

A patient becomes more and more incommoded by pain around the ankle, which it generally regarded as rheumatism or a slight sprain. The pain gradually increases in intensity, and in time the sufferer finds difficulty in bending or stretching the foot, and walking downstairs causes agony. A doctor is finally called in and discovers inflammation of the sinews.

Doctors are agreed that the cause of the disease is to be found in the extraordinary movements of the foot and ankle required in dancing and similar measures.

Toronto, July 2.—Thomas Kennedy, address unknown, who was found unconscious on Henry street Sunday morning, died in the General Hospital yesterday. He had been arrested as a drunk and taken to the police station, but when he did not recover consciousness the police removed him to the hospital, where it was found that he had drank carbolic acid. He recovered sufficiently to be able to give his name but then relapsed into a state of coma, from which he did not recover. An inquest has been ordered. The police are trying to learn something more about him.

ROYAL PRINCE LAWYER, EXPLORER AND FIGHTER

Prince Sixtus de Bourbon de Parme is Interesting Man.

Paris, July 2.—A direct descendant of Louis XIV, His Royal Highness, Prince Sixtus de Bourbon de Parme, has been received as a Paris doctor of law at the Sorbonne, and obtained the mention "very good" for his thesis on "The Treaty of Utrecht, and the Fundamental Laws of the Kingdom." Prince Sixtus claims for all French princes of the direct royal line the right of citizenship in France. The new doctor of law is, quite apart from his royal birth, a very interesting man, for he combines the hard work of the study with the soul of an explorer.

Two years ago he went to Mesopotamia, traveled down the Tigris and the Euphrates, went into the desert, and had several little fights with tribes of desert robbers. He brought back with him a minute and useful map of the Euphrates, and some interesting papers on the ruins of Syria, which will shortly be published in book form.

Presque Isle, Me., July 2.—Two lads, each 11 years old, Victor Porter and Hartley Webb, were attacked by other boys while fishing today were strippal of their clothes and left bound with shoestrings tied tightly about their necks, according to the police. Young Webb was dead when found tonight and Porter's face and neck were swollen and the string was strangling him when he was found. He will recover. Young Porter was rolling on the ground in agony. Nearby him was the Webb boy who in his struggles, had fallen into the shallow waters of the stream where they had been fishing and had drowned.

Aged Man Believed To Have Fallen From Train--Neck Was Broken

Aylmer, Ont., July 2.—The body of a man believed to be Mr. Joseph Palmer, aged 65, was found alongside the Grand Trunk track about a mile east of this place this morning. His neck was broken and his head badly cut. It is thought that Palmer must have fallen from the train. He attended the horse races here last week and at London on Tuesday.

Another Fatal Local Accident.

James Cowie, who resided with his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Hagerman, of Dickson street, was killed instantly, and Elmer Liddell, 164 Aylmer street, sustained a fractured knee, when the buggy in which they were driving collided with the 11.45 a.m. Port Hope train Wednesday at the crossing on the boundary south of the Catholic cemetery. Immediately after the accident the remains were removed to Comstock's undertaking establishment. The horse escaped uninjured. Coroner Greer opened an inquest at Comstocks and after the jury were sworn in and the remains reviewed, the inquest was adjourned until this evening.

WHISKEY SEIZED IN AN HOTEL RUN BY TEMPERANCE FORCES

Startling Development in License Officers' Raid in Colling-Wood--Hostelry is Kept as a Good Example

Toronto, July 2. A bomb has been dropped in the temperance camp by a seizure of whiskey in the Globe Hotel at Collingwood, a hostelry that is being conducted under the auspices of the temperance forces to prove that it is possible to run a first class hotel in a local option territory without the necessity of a bar. The news of the seizure has shocked the town. The manager of the hotel has been summoned to appear before the police magistrate to make an explanation, which is awaited with interest.

The License Department made a dead set upon Collingwood the day before yesterday. Seventeen officials under the guidance of Provincial Inspector Aygarst motored to the lake port and practically raided it. For some time it had been evident that there was plenty of liquor available in the supposedly dry spot. The result of the visit was the finding of 1,400 bottles of beer, in addition to a minor quantity of whiskey. The suspected restaurants were searched with the result that a lot of beer was found concealed on various premises.

SOUNDS LIKE A FAIRY TALE

The Wonderful Oil Development in Calgary District

Oil; Oil; The magic word that proved the Open Sesame to the Cave of Wealth for John D. Rockefeller and others, is proving its wonderful power in the foothills of the Canadian Rockies and today the people of Alberta, Canada, are rejoicing and jubilant over the fact that their province is rich in this substance and they have every reason to be as no other investments has yielded the returns that oil has. Great wealth is in the hands of the people of Alberta, as the field has proven to be the greatest in the world and moreover it is solely due to the enterprising and resourceful, business men of the City of Calgary that have developed this field and shown the world with outside capital or assistance, the amazing possibilities existing. No trusts, no combines, but capable, consistent business men of honesty and integrity and abounding faith in the natural resources, are responsible.

Just think of it. The oil from the first well drilled, which is known as the Dingman well yielded a product almost pure gasoline and so pure that it could be used in an automobile without any refining whatever. Sounds like a fairy tale, doesn't it? and the history of the Alberta Oil fields, the discovery and development reads like one.

A few years ago an old Frenchman of the district walked into one of the Banks in Calgary to make a deposit and as he had been known to the manager for several years he was automobile whizzed by leaving behind courteously escorted to the door by him, and while chatting their an the odor of gasoline, so familiar to all of us now. The old man sniffed and laughed and said, "By Gar! Dat feller he been down stealin' water from my well." The manager being diplomatic questioned him laughingly and was advised that the water from his well gave a similar odor when left standing for a time. The old Frenchman being a well known character, the incident was told as a joke by the Bank Manager at the club that night and all laughed heartily. Another told of a cowpuncher bringing a piece of rock into him and setting a match to it, making it burn and a black liquid oozing therefrom, and so on, each telling some incident along the same lines, However, there were afew men there that were doing some good hard thin [illegible] wended their way home that night and later the conversation took on a more serious turn and they admitted that there might be something in it. They were enterprising and the result was that a geologist was engaged and after going over the ground carefully he made a good report, but these men weren't entirely satisfied and they engaged two others and when they reported favorably the active interest was taken and the real development began. Thus the greatest oil discovery in the history of the world came to pass, as the result of the Frenchman's jocular remark and the bankers amusing story at the club—just like a fairy tale.

This is the story of the discovery as gathered by our representative on the ground, from the Commercial Oil & Gas Co. Ltd., of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, composed of the best business men of that city and one of the most active in the development of this wonderful field.

SUED FOR DIVORCE WOMAN TAKES POISON

Wife of Fred A. Bedell Commits Suicide in Home of Father.

Boston, July 2.—Mrs. Grace A. Bedell, wife of Fred A. Bedell, committed suicide at the home of her father, Edward W. Cullen, near Saugus Mills North Saugus, Sunday night, by drinking carbolic acid, after papers for divorce had been served upon her. Mrs. Bedell had gone to spend a few weeks at Lake Cottage, which her father now occupies, and she did not receive the divorce papers until Saturday. She is said to have felt so broken up over her husband's desire to divorce her that she was inconsolable and before other members of the family could prevent, had taken the poison.

Medical Examiner Joseph G. Pinkham of Lynn viewed the body and pronounced death due to suicide.

To Ward Off Summer Complexion Ills.

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Oily, freckled or discolored skin so common at this season, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The latter, being applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Creams, powders, and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once, and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably youthful and healthy.

Sun, winds and flying dust often cause squinting and other contortions which make wrinkles. You can quickly get rid of every wrinkle, however produced, by using a harmless face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.

HORSES "WALK PLANK"

They Cross a Deep Ravine on a Single Log

The surefootedness of the mule is proverbial, but the feats of this animal are rivalled by those of the pack-horses used in the wild timbered regions of northern Canada and the Rocky Mountains. Laden though they are with 'grub,' as the surveyor terms provisions, these horses can swim wide rivers, ford shallow ones, or follow the men of the party over a single log, often no more than a foot in diameter, which bridges a deep narrow mountain gorge where a fall would mean instant death or worse. They can even follow the foresters through the [illegible] muskeg and wind-thrown brulé characteristic of this northern forest, which is saying a good deal for a mere horse, for as one of the forest surveyors writes from the primeval forest near Lesser Slave Lake, "A forester needs to be here, besides all other good qualities, a real bushman, an axeman and a jumper."

There were eight forest survey parties engaged in demarking forest and agricultural lands in the far west last summer, and their reports contain accounts of actual adventures which rival the most fictitious. The total area examined was about 11,000,000 acres, some on the rough slopes of the Rockies, some in the rocky areas of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and some in the low-lying and muskeg region of northern Alberta. Very little land was found fit for agriculture in these regions, and most of it is recommended as forest reserves. The present area of the Dominion Forest Reserves is 23,017,594 acres, or nearly 35,000 square miles. In comparison, the National Forests of the United States cover an area of 257,855 square miles, yet Canada is larger than the United States and contain larger land areas fit only for tree growth.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel. Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. BLANCHE BATES spoke her mind about the sex drama in New York the other day. And when Blanche Bates speaks her mind, the town sits up and listens attentively. Which is a good thing—for the town.

Blanche Bates is not only a genius and a beauty, but she's a woman—a real woman, who can think with her heart as well as her head, and do both kinds of thinking at the same time.

"I must express my utmost disdain for the play of today," said Blanche Bates. "The lecture room and not the theatre is the place for the topics they discuss. You may ask why the managers produce such plays.

"The answer is that as long as the public seeks them they will be produced. It is unfortunate, but it is your fault as part of the public, and I take great pleasure in telling you so."

Hands across the continent, Blanche Bates! I wish I had seen your face when you told the smug listeners that it was all their fault and that you were tickled to death to tell them so.

Every woman of any experience in the world feels just as you do about the sex play. I'm getting so that I'm afraid to go to the theatre at all—unless I take a pair of ear muffs and some automobile goggles along. And goodness knows I am no frail, shrinking blossom that must be protected from the harsh winds of the plain truth.

The trouble with the sex drama and with the sex book and with the sex lecture is that none of them tell the plain, everyday truth at all.

To listen to them you would think there wasn't a thing in the world but sex. No hot weather to bear, no struggle for the price to pay for steak for dinner, no ambitions, no good books, no handclasp of true friends—nothing anywhere in all the wide and spacious universe, but the rustle of scant petticoats and the tramp of a trousered leg. Are we all going crazy—or what is the matter?

What the "Sweet Thing" Thought.

I met a sweet thing in faded blue the other day. She wore a bit of [illegible] silk for a skirt—it wouldn't have made enough for a sensible doll's [illegible] if you took it to pieces—and her waist was a wisp of lace. There was more weight to her ear-rings and her beads than there was to all her clothes.

Her eyes were blue as violets and her cheeks were pink with the dawn of life, and she wasn't a day over 18. She was "enthralled with life." I know she was—because she told me. "It is so deep," she said, "and so terrible, and so beautiful." She had found out all about it from Hat Pin Liz at the foot of the hill in the Dreadful Street. She didn't call the woman Hat Pin Liz. She spoke of her as one of the Unhappy Sisters. But I knew who it was she meant when she told me about the look of woe in the eyes of the Unhappy Sister.

Hat Pin Liz always did have wonderful eyes. They are really rather overpowering—when she has been without her morphine just so long, poor soul. I used to be about the police station a good bit at one time—the police matron is a friend of mine. That's how I knew Hat Pin Liz and many others of her kind.

The Sweet Thing told me all about her—and how "wonderful" she was, and how sad, and how she was going to try to help her lead the "Higher Life." She asked me what was my stand on the double standard of morality [illegible] went into details about it. And I gasped and looked all around—for we were standing in the street, and some of those details were really rather—er—a—but she didn't seem to mind in the least. I must say nobody else did—any more than they minded her wisp of a waist or her very low neck and interesting ankle.

All the girls were so interested in "the Higher Life idea," the Sweet Thing said. They were getting up classes about it and next week she was going to have a tea and have some one talk on the various aspects of the sex problem. She said she was going to ask the young men of her acquaintance to come. She felt that they needed instruction.

I asked her if I might wear my veil at the tea, and she stared and said: "Why, yes, of course; it isn't fancy dress."

When she had gone I went down and got my friend the police matron and we sent for Hat Pin Liz and had a talk about it. I was a little inclined to laugh, but the police matron was very serious and Hat Pin Liz was positively tragic.

What "Liz" Thought.

"Lord!" said Hat Pin Liz, "ain't none of 'em got no mothers?" Why, I [illegible] taking that kid over my knee and giving her a good motherly spanking. I felt she'd be the better for it. Hold—why, she, and them others that was with her, was brazener than any of the ones we know down in my part of town.

"Whatever is the matter with 'em—little young chits like them setting out to tell me how much happier I'd be if I'd be good, and wanting to ask me how it comes I ain't. What's the world coming to?"

The police matron said she didn't know—she said she had wondered and wondered.

"They come down here in droves," said the police matron, "asking and prying and uplifting. Why, there isn't a girl in the district that can't give an imitation of one of their talks from start to finish. I never saw anything like it. Where are their mothers; do they know about it; why don't they lock them up in the garret—or something?"

I could have told the police matron—good, honest, kindly, downright soul that she is—just exactly where the mothers were. They were at the theatre, [illegible] sex plays, or at "afternoons" discussing sex problems, or curled up on sofas somewhere reading erotic novels.

What on earth are the women all coming to? Actually the men seem to be the only decent-minded creatures alive today. You can get a man to talk with you for five minutes without his saying something that makes you look around for your ear muffs. It is the women who buy the erotic novels and the women who jam the theatres to see the sex plays.

We may be able to pull through somehow with this generation, but—oh, me!—what kind of creatures are the boys and girls of the next generation going to be with their weird mothers?

Once, in a dreadful London slum, I saw a beautiful little girl baby—scarcely two years old—drunk and reeling.

Somehow, wherever I think of my little friend, the Sweet Thing, who [illegible] drink so deep of the bitter draughts of life, I think of that [illegible] pretty baby—drunk and helpless—and then I cannot laugh any more about it.

SUNLIGHT BEST COMPLEXION TONIC

Tesca Kosta

This Prima Donna Finds Loveliness in City Parks

By ELEANOR AMES

PATRONIZE the same beauty shop Venus did—the one over which Mother Nature presides.

To clear the complexion, walk two miles in the early morning, between 6 and 7 o'clock. Walk in the open country. Bathe your face in the dew that lingers on the grass in some shady nook. Bathe your lungs with fresh air taken in allopathic doses of 50 deep breaths at the end of each quarter-mile.

To make your figure slender, walk at a quick pace and roll on the grass after the last mile is finished. Roll with the joy and abandon of a young colt, over and over and over. Dance in the sunbeams, with your toetips just touching the ground and your finger tips trying to touch the clouds.

Back home, take a warm tub, followed by a cool shower, a brisk rub down with toilet cologne or diluted alcohol, and eat a light breakfast of fruit, toast, an egg or two and no coffee. Then begin the work of the day.

That is how to be beautiful, as Tessa Kosta explained it to me the other morning while we swung along the winding paths of the park in the early morning sunlight with the birds singing in the leafy branches overhead and the squirrels scampering across our paths. And, if Miss Kosta owes her own superhealth and radiant good looks to following the rules they are to be commended to all womankind.

Miss Kosta believes that being a prima donna involves more than the possession of a voice and knowing how to use it. She believes a singer should be as attractive to look at as she is charming to listen to. She holds the theory that good looks are no gift from the gods, to be carelessly received and paid no more attention to. She thinks they must be nourished and trained and petted quite the same as the voice.

How to take exercise in the open country in the crowded city might prove a puzzle to some persons. Not to Tessa Kosta.

"What are the parks for," she argues, "if not to give the country to city folks? We don't half appreciate our parks. I always ask where the parks are the first time I visit a city. Then I pick out the biggest and most secluded one and make it my exercise ground while I am in the town.

"I'd rather paint my cheeks with good, fresh, pure blood flowing through my veins than with all the rouge that can be made. I'd rather put the sparkle of health in my eyes than drop in some brightening drops with a glass dropper.

"I am for Nature as a beauty doctor, first, last and all the time. She was the only one the goddesses knew. She will massage one's cheeks and brighten one's face and lighten the heart and clear the head at the same time, and all the fee she asks is ambition enough to get out where she can treat you.

"The early morning is the best time to visit Dame Nature for your beauty treatment. Then she is fresh and smiling and enthusiastic, and has fewest disturbing elements about her.

"As for exercises, don't try to follow any that have been diagramed for humanity in a book. If you are in sympathy with your surroundings when you are out in the open sunlight with velvety grass under your feet, the cloud-flecked sky above you and the birds twittering in the trees, you will find the best exercises for your needs suggesting themselves as you skip about over the ground.

"My theory of exercise is this: If you don't feel happy in the exercise that you take you are just as well off without them.

"Don't pay for artificial sunlight as a complexion tonic when the real article is so accessible.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 105.

Beauty and Burglary.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"PETER," came the message over the telephone, "come home at once!"

"Great Scott!" I exclaimed, "what's the trouble?"

"I—I'm in hysterics," said Mary, proving it by a wail, "and—and I—I can't tell you. We've been robbed!"

"Robbed!"

But Mary had hung up, and I seized my hat and departed for home. Mary has a habit of greatly exaggerating her mental states, but she rarely telephones me to come home unless she is in the last stages of agitation.

Our apartment, fortunately, is not very far from the office. Mary was standing at the window and waved wildly as I bolted up the stairs.

She had been crying, and she was a great deal more nervous than I had expected.

"What in the world has been stolen?" I asked.

"Oh, Peter!" exclaimed Mary, and let it go at that.

Now there are times when a man must possess his soul in patience or forfeit all his rights to the title of self-respecting husband. One is when his wife merely reiterates his name in tragic accents and refuses to divulge the details of her agitation.

"We've been robbed," reiterated Mary hysterically.

"Yes, you've said that before."

"By a man——"

"Presumably," I agreed, merely to encourage her. It annoyed her, however, and she stamped her foot.

"Don't try to be funny, Peter," she said, "when I'm so excited and nervous I could scream. Of course it was a man, and it's no time to try to be funny."

"What's he taken?" I tried again.

"Everything!" said Mary.

I asked impatiently, and Mary began to cry.

"Tell me," I said, "in your own way, how it happened."

"He said," began Mary, "that he was a gas man come to inspect the fixtures."

"Oh, Mary, Mary," I groaned, "how often have the newspapers warned every housekeeper to ask for a man's credentials, no matter what he says—telephone, gas, or whatever he claims?"

"He—he was so different, Peter! He was terribly good-looking and so pleasant. Honestly you'd never dream that he wanted to get in just to steal. And he went about so softly and gentlemanly from room to room, talking about the dangers of asphyxiation and praising my housekeeping and everything—such a nice, clean, wholesome fellow."

"Yes?" I encouraged.

"That after a while I didn't bother to follow him about from room to room, for he seemed to know his business."

"Of course," said I grimly.

"And I was busy. And I did forget to ask him for his badge, he talked so much."

"That, of course, was his game. What's gone?"

"All my jewelry," said Mary, with a heartbroken sob, "everything you've given me, and all the things mother gave me when I was married. To think how bravely he marched out through the kitchen and said good-by in the pleasantest way with all my things in his pockets."

I whistled, for Mary had some very lovely trinkets, things that were very valuable both from a worldly and a sentimental viewpoint.

I went into her room and looked around. Everything was in faultless order, but the jewel case was empty—quite empty.

"All because he was good-looking!" I commented bitterly. "Oh, Mary, Mary, when will women learn not to let their sentimental viewpoints run away with their common sense?"

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

WHEN in doubt serve ice cream is a safe dessert rule for warm weather. Ice cream is always welcome, and requires so little culinary skill to make that the freezer should be part of every household's kitchen equipment.

For freezing ice creams and sherbets use three portions of ice to one of salt.

In making frappes use twice as much ice as salt, and for moulding or for freezing mousses or parfaits make the mixture half and half ice and salt.

After pouring the cream mixture into the can let it stand for five minutes, slowly turn for [illegible] minutes and turn [illegible] [illegible] take [illegible] cream [illegible] and pack [illegible] each in ice and salt until ready to serve.

If you wish to mould it, fill the mould as full as possible and pack the cream hard. When freezing cream extreme care should be used to see that no ice gets in the freezing can or mould.

Tie the cover securely on the mould, and if you are doubtful about its snugness smear it over with paraffine. Then bury in the ice and salt and leave from one to four hours.

Water ices include the sherbets and frappes, and are all stirred while freezing. Mousses will require packing in the freezer at least five hours.

There are two foundation ice creams, the French and the Philadelphia.

The former contains eggs and is cooked. The latter is made without eggs and is never cooked.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What Growing Pains Are; Why They Demand Care

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins

DR. HIRSHBERG

"DOCTOR," says Mrs. Grundy, "Johnny has been having growing pains for some months. I cannot make him go to school."

"What ails you, my boy?" inquires the kindly doctor.

"My knees hurt orful," replies the harassed boy.

Thereupon the brute of a doctor becomes non persona grata with Mrs. Grundy, for he firmly says:

"There are no such things as growing pains, Mrs. Grundy. You have done your child a serious injustice. He should have been brought to this hospital clinic six months ago."

Growing pains are among that swarm of destructive phrases handed down from the days when men glibly gave a name to everything—whether they understood it or not. Then, by sheer repetition, just as unfounded opinions are spread as gospel truth, these dogmatic terms come to be accepted without further investigation.

Growing pains are as impossible and unthinkable among human beings as they are in growing flowers or weeds.

The child that has a pain of much duration has a lurking, perhaps hidden, dangerous cause. Only too often it proves to be tuberculosis of the hip bone, the spinal column or the other bony parts.

Next to the insidious assault of this grand marshal of the Demons of Death come a whole host of bone, muscle, nerve and joint ailments, which have been encouraged to extend in the little one's anatomy, because his relatives were pleased to say he had "growing pains." Infantile paralysis, muscular wasting or "atrophy," sugar disease, gait, acute arthritic fever, yes, even pneumonia, scarlet fever and appendicitis have been thus allowed to do their cruel work.

The lack of logic in elementary education may be at the bottom of this. The very women and men who are so quick to say "growing pains" see the hair grow, the nails grow, the face become round, and the whole body increase in bulk, in length and in breadth. They never feel pain themselves in these extensions of the flesh. Indeed, they never hear any one speak of soreness or tenderness even of the bones and the hinges of the human frame. Yet they believe, when a child complains, that it has "growing pains."

It is a sad commentary upon modern education that most people are so prone to argue from one blackbird that spring is here, that one clear Fourth of July means all clear ones. It is this oft-quoted point of view that makes quacks and domestic Galens think that camomile tea given to a hundred recoveries victims of typhoid fever really cured the typhoid fever.

Of course, because a thousand fever sufferers improve under a given treatment is no evidence at all that this particular treatment exorcised the poisons. Not a bit of it! It is often necessary to collect the true state of affairs from a hundred thousand instances of a given malady under a thousand different conditions. Even then you only discover that what various "authorities" employed did no good and no harm.

It was in this way that diphtheria antitoxin was found to cure and to prevent that old human enemy. It was in this way that lockjaw and typhoid antitoxin, camomile tea, cancer salves, consumption cures, ice baths, liver pads, belts and other "believed in" remedies were discovered to be absolutely useless.

If your child complains of mysterious pains don't be like Mrs. Grundy and say: "Growing pains." Take your child to a doctor. You may save your loved one years of suffering.

The Disobedient Princess — By Vernon Merry

ONCE upon a time there were six beautiful princesses who were very disobedient to their father, the King. He told them never to dance except at the royal ball, and yet, every morning they had to have new slippers because the old ones were all worn out. Every night they were locked in their rooms, but somehow they managed to get out. It became so great a mystery that the King offered the hand of one of the princesses to any one who could solve it.

Many men tried, but all failed and lost their heads. And then there came an old soldier into the kingdom and a kind old fairy met him and told him about the disobedient princesses. To help him the good fairy presented him with a cloak that made him invisible.

Soldier Frank saw the King. Readily the King granted him permission to try to solve the mystery. Soldier Frank met the princesses and found them all beautiful, and before they said good night the eldest princess offered him a drink of wine. Now, the good fairy had told Soldier Frank to be very careful, and so he asked permission to drink the wine in his own room.

But Soldier Frank did not drink the drugged wine; he poured it out of the window and lay down on the bed. Soon he heard a slight noise, but he did not move. From under his lashes he saw the princesses standing all around him. The littlest one was frightened to dance that night, but the eldest calmed her. She said: "See, he is asleep and cannot follow." So they left the room and Soldier Frank got out of bed, put on the cloak that made him invisible, and followed them.

Unseen by them he beheld one of the princesses touch a hidden spring in the wall, and there opened at her feet a stairway that led down into the earth. One by one they stepped down, the youngest last, and Soldier Frank followed. Down the steps they went and along a passageway until they came out upon a wonderful forest, where the leaves of the trees were of silver.

Soldier Frank broke off a leaf as evidence to prove his story, and the crack made the youngest princess very fearful, but the eldest calmed her fears. Into a wonderful orchard, where the fruit was all of gold, and beyond, through a lovely garden, where the roses were rubies, they went. Soldier Frank followed and broke off tiny branches that his story might be believed. Now the youngest always became afraid at the noise [illegible] eldest always reassured her.

At last they came to a wonderful castle, and there the princesses danced all night with the handsome princes. Then when their slippers were all worn out they went back the way they had come. Soldier Frank slipped ahead of them, and when they came in they saw him apparently asleep on the bed. They thought he had been there all the time.

Next morning Soldier Frank went to the King, and, laying out his silver leaf, the golden apple and the ruby rose, he told his story and solved the great mystery. Then the King gave him great lands and riches for reward, and asked which one of the princesses he would marry.

"I am old," said Soldier Frank, "so I choose the eldest princess." So they were married and lived happily ever after, and the other princesses were severely punished for their disobedience.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have been going with a young man for nearly six years. He is good to me, and does all he can to please me, and he never bothers with any other girls. But sometimes when he comes to see me he seems awfully distant and quiet. I wonder if he wants to visit me. But when I say that to him he gets hurt. KATY.

HE'S all right, but you don't understand him, is that it? Well, put yourself in his place a little while and see if you can't solve the mystery.

Perhaps he's so much in love with you that he's afraid of himself, and that makes him seem strange and ill at ease. Such things have been known to happen.

Perhaps he is just tired when he acts peculiar, and maybe he is simply a quiet fellow who doesn't talk and doesn't know how to talk. In that case you'll have to make up your mind to do the talking for the family.

Why do you say anything to him about it? If he didn't like you he wouldn't come to see you. If he is a nice chap who seems to want to please you, and you want to be pleased by him, don't make a mystery out of what is [illegible] less a very simple matter. Take him as he is—for what he is—and don't [illegible]. That's my advice.

Annie Laurie

LONGEVITY OF ANIMALS

Is Laziness of Tortoise Responsible For the Age it Attains?

Quite erroneous is the popular belief that a toad can live for hundreds of years, even when buried in rock or earth. [illegible] to scientists the toad cannot live without food and air for [illegible] years, its span of life [illegible] to about forty years.

The average person is apt to confuse the toad with the tortoises and turtles which live for hundreds of years. There are tortoises at the Zoo so aged that no one knows their exact age, which may be anything between two and three hundred years. A few years ago one of the tortoises which died must have been well over 200 years old.

In the animal world the elephant holds the record for longevity. An elephant is not full grown till it is about thirty, and it will live for 120 to 150 years, but the average age is eighty. Camels live for thirty to forty years, but lions in captivity will live sixty or seventy years, although in their wild state they die at the age of fifteen to twenty-five.

It has been humorously suggested that the extraordinary age which tortoises attain is really due to their amazing laziness. It is pointed out by an authority at the Zoo that in order to arouse a tortoise from its extreme lethargy it is necessary at times to beat it heartily on the back with a hammer.

Talking of laziness, how[illegible]er, the Zoo champion [illegible] seems to be held by the boatbill, which has been described as the laziest bird in the world. Timed for half an hour, its only movement consisted of the lifting of an eyelid. It was even too lazy to move out of the rain, and perched motionless in its cage during a storm, and head sunk on its chest, letting the raindrops run down its beak.

The whale-headed heron, too, might almost share the honors with the boatbill. This bird will stand motionless for hours, although it should, in fairness to the birds, be mentioned that their stillness is really the outcome of natural habits, for in their usual haunts they stand in streams on the lookout for fish, and the least movement would frighten these away. Mention might also be made of the ant-eater porcupine, from New South Wales, which is almost too lazy to breathe. It hates the bore of breathing, and holds its breath as long as it can and then breathes in a great gasp and returns to somnolence.

OCCUPATION AND TEETH

Dangers Encountered by Workers in Mines and Factories

It is a curious but scientific fact that bad teeth often may be laid to occupation. Quicksilver miners have the worst teeth in the world. The fumes of the mercury produce constant salivation, and the system becomes poisoned with the metal. Soon after this the teeth of the unfortunate men fall out. But it is not the teeth alone that are affected by the quicksilver. The men employed in quicksilver mines soon lose their appetite and become emaciated. If they keep on working in the mines they do not live more than three years.

Chloride of lime, employed by bleachers, destroys the enamel and dentine of the teeth. As chloride of lime is used in many factories, those who come in contact with it are in great danger of serious teeth trouble.

Phosphorus, used largely in the making of matches, is another substance injurious to teeth.

Soda is dangerous for the teeth too. People who work in soda factories are affected in a peculiar way. If not treated in time, and if they continue at the factory where soda is used, the teeth break off close to the gums. Other drugs employed in dye works and tanning factories have been found to be dangerous to the teeth.

BEAUTY HINTS

To Brighten the Eyes

A great deal can be done towards brightening the eyes by systematic breathing for ten minutes each morning and evening. Breathe slowly and deeply to the fullest capacity of the lungs. You should stand erect by an open window. Tight corsets should not be worn during this exercise.

A Simple Lotion

Instead of face powder, use a simple lotion made from one ounce of cleminite and four tablespoonfuls of water. This lotion will tone and clear the skin, and acts as a protection against sun and wind. A little applied with the fingertips instantly gives the skin a delightful "bloomy" appearance. No powder is necessary, and the result lasts all day long under the most trying conditions.

Removing Superfluous Hair

It is a simple matter to remove a downy growth of hair temporarily, but to remove it permanently is quite another matter. It is a pity that it is not more generally known that powdered phemlnol may be used for this purpose. Apply it directly to the hair. The recommended treatment is designed not merely to instantly remove the hair, but also to eventually kill the roots entirely. Any druggist should be able to supply you with an ounce of phemlnol, which quantity should be sufficient.

[illegible] Hair Tonics

An old-fashioned recipe may come as a welcome change as a hair tonic. One thing about it is that it will grow hair, and also prevent it falling out. From your druggist get a package of boranium, to this add ¼ pint of bay rum, allow it to stand 30 minutes, then add sufficient water to make half a pint. Rub briskly into the scalp with the finger-tips and you will immediately experience that clean tingling sensation which is a sure sign of healthy action.

Edible Snails

So much greater is the demand for edible snails in France that the supply that artificial snails have been invented, the only genuine portions of which are the shells.

Measuring Spoons

For the housewife there has been invented a set of three measuring spoons of different sizes, fastened together at the handles with a rivet.

The Shortest Book Review

The time-honored precept, "The King can do no wrong," inspired one of the most caustic book reviews ever published. When Louis XVIII. issued his Voyage à Coblentz, the Constitutionnel gave it a notice of exactly two lines: "If this little volume was written by the king it is above criticism; if not, the work of his majesty, it is below criticism." Contrary to the usual practice of French newspapers, this review was unsigned, and the secret of its authorship has never been made public.—London Chronicle.

Lighter Cartridges

By the use of steel instead of brass in rifle cartridges the German army has increased the number of rounds of ammunition that a soldier can carry from 120 to 160.

Automatic Stopper

An automatic stopper to be attached to decanters opens when the latter are turned to pour out their contents, closing to exclude dust when the decanters are righted.

Coconuts in Ceylon

The natives of Ceylon eat one and a half million coconuts a day. There are sixty million coconut trees on this island, and the surplus production of nuts is chiefly used to make copra, the dried "meat" of the nut, which is a valuable source of vegetable oils. It is estimated that there are produced yearly 600,000 to 700,000 tons of copra, valued at sixty-five million dollars. One-quarter of the world's production comes from the Philippine Islands.

A BOTTOMLESS LAKE

Peculiar Body of Water Discovered in Rockies by Foresters

In the heart of the snow-clad Rockies hundreds of miles west of Edmonton lies a lake whose waters are always troubled, into which a large river flows but out of which there is no visible exit. The leader of a forest survey party sent out by the Dominion Forestry Branch to examine the forests in this wild region states that the Indians shun this lake as the abode of evil spirits, and, to give credence to this superstition, from time to time deep rumblings may be heard where far below the surface the water swirls through the hidden outlet. The river that enters the lake rushes from a subterranean [illegible] miles down [illegible]

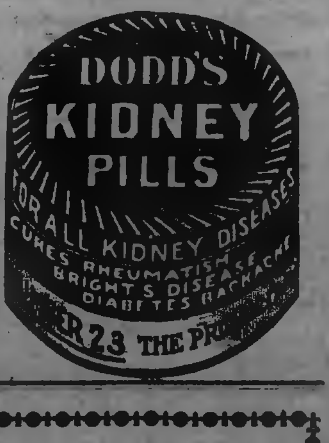
Without a Brain

Two eminent German physicians have reported the case of a child that lived until its fourth year without a brain.



How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress. Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Douglas Fir Lumber

The production of Douglas fir lumber has increased thirty-eight per cent. in the last two years, according to a recent publication on the forest products of Canada. This percentage is double that of any other leading Canadian wood for the same period. This tree made up 67 per cent. of the total lumber production of British Columbia, which province is estimated to contain as much timber as all the rest of Canada. The importance of the Douglas fir is exemplified by a statement made by Dr. C. S. Sargent, the leading authority on American trees, who says: "No other American tree of the first magnitude is so widely distributed, or can now afford so much timber, and the rapidity of its growth and its power of reproduction under favorable conditions make it the most valuable inhabitant of the great coniferous forest of the northwest."

Norwood Troops Home.

The Norwood company of militia arrived home from the sandy plains of Petawawa military camp with sunburnt countenances, but in good spirits over their outing. The boys were all night on the way, leaving Petawawa on Thursday evening and arriving here via Hastings next morning.

Local Horses Won.

Jimmy Direct, Mr. Frank Montgomery's horse, won two out of the three heats at Port Hope races. Mr. Montgomery's Nora Medium also captured third money at Port Hope in her class. The same gentleman's horse Undertaker, took part in the races at the Lakeside town yesterday.

Local School Matters.

The local Entrance Board has finished its work and the results have been forwarded to the Education Department for the approval of the Minister. As soon as the Secretary is authorized by the Education Department, the list of successful candidates will be published.

When Prisoners Escaped.

On Wednesday night in front of the Grand Opera House a vigilant local cop saw two young men in care of a horse and rig. The youngmen had made too many calls. The cop put them under arrest and led the horse up George street to tie it safely. In the meantime the two human prisoners discovered that they had business elsewhere and proceeded to look after it. However, they were "nailed" yesterday.

Another Fatal Accident.

As the result of injuries sustained at his home on Wednesday night, Mr. Albert A. Strong, 42 Sophia street, of the firm of Manning and Strong, died yesterday morning in the Nicholls Hospital. At 2.40 a.m. Mr. Strong left his bedroom to go to the bathroom, and while returning to his room fell down the stairs. The deceased walked up to his room again, where it was found that he was internally injured. Drs. Moir and McClelland were sent for and ordered his removal to Nicholls Hospital. An operation was deemed necessary, but proved of no avail, Mr. Strong dying some hours later. Death was thought to be caused by internal bleeding.

Local People Saw the Fall.

Capt. Baldwin, the aviator, whilst giving a demonstration of flying at Port Hope on Dominion Day fell three or four hundred feet. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bell, of this city, who had motored to Port Hope tell of the accident. They say that when Capt. Baldwin was some four hundred feet in the air, the gearing of his aeroplane went wrong with a crack resembling that of an exploded auto tire. The machine came down like a stone, near their car. Fortunately the flying machine hit a fence and thus broke the fall. The aviator is now in Port Hope Hospital.

A Lunge Cause Trouble.

Mr. Melville Thurston, of this city, spent Dominion Day at his former home, Bobcaygeon. Whilst out trolling on Pigeon Lake, Mr. Thurston felt a tug at his line. He hauled in and caught a maskinonge that afterwards turned the scales at 18 lbs. Mr. Thurston, not anticipating such a catch had omitted to bring a club to kill such a fish. In his basket, as Mr. Thurston is a total abstainer, were two bottles of ginger ale. In his extremity he picked up one of the bottles and hit the fish with it. The fish was killed, but the shock of the blow released the cork and Mr. Thurston got, outwardly, the contents of the bottle as well as the lunge.

The Milkmens' Picnic was a marked success. A good bill of sports was run off and all present had a big time.

The opening dance of the season at Chemong Park under the auspices of the Chemong Regatta Club, was held in the Pavilion and was a fine success.

Last June $2,500 worth of damage was done by fire in this city. Some young men think this estimate should be placed at a higher figure.

A gentleman on George Street yesterday asked a Times reporter, in view of the recent elections, "Is it not "time for the shoemaker to stick to his last? Is It not time for the blacksmith to stick to his anvil? Is it not time for pastors to stick to the pulpit and not try to dominate politics"? Quien Sabe !

Romaine street residents are kicking about trouble on that thoroughfare. There seems to be no satisfying some people. Romaine street has the only sewer in Canada that runs uphill. This ought to be distinction enough for one street. Still sympathy is extended to Romaine street residents.

Mr. Jam Sordan, of this city, went afishing at Chemong on Dominion Day. He felt a tug at the line and hauled in. He sweated over that fish until his collar wilted. He almost upset the boat in his efforts and got saturated with Mud Lake water. When the big fish reached the boat it proved to be a submerged sawlog.

Our dear old friend the Examiner, has coined a new phrase for doctors. This is a man's or woman's "abdominal portion!"

John Black, an aged farmer, living retired in Guelph died of excitement in Mayor Carter's committee room on hearing of the candidates election.

VOL. XLI, NO. 148 — SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 4, 1914 — PRICE TWO CENTS

END CAME UNEXPECTEDLY TO GREAT BRITISH IMPERIALIST

Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain Died Suddenly After a Long Illness

London, July 3.—Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain died suddenly at his London residence at 10.30 o'clock last night following an attack of heart failure. Although he had been gradually sinking since Tuesday, the members of the family had preferred that his desperate condition should not become publicly known.

The great statesman was 78 years of age. His death came as an entire surprise, as the condition of his health was not generally considered to be any worse that at any time in the past two or three years. It removes one of the most striking figures of the past generation from British politics and the whole English-speaking world will mourn the loss of this great British statesman.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who never left her husband's side since he was stricken with paralysis seven years ago, and his son, Austen Chamberlain, were with Mr. Chamberlain when death occurred at 10.30 o'clock last night. The event cast a gloom today over the London season, which was at its height.

Mr. Chamberlain's last public appearance was at a garden party on the grounds of his Birmingham home, on May 6 last, when, with his wife and son, he received several hundred constituents. Mr. Chamberlain was wheeled out on the lawn and appeared very emaciated and feeble when he lifted his hat to friends and neighbors in acknowledgement of their salutes.

WOULD ENDEAVOUR TO ESTABLISH AN AUTOCRACY

William Barnes Declares Col. Roosevelt Has Served Notice of Such Intention

New York, July 3.—William Barnes, chairman of the Republican State committee in a statement today takes issue with Theodore Roosevelt on declarations made by the former President in his speech at Pittsburgh last night and replies to criticisms of himself contained in that address.

Chairman Barnes and Colonel Roosevelt's assertions in connection with legislation was unwarranted, giving as an instance the work of the workman's compensation act in this State. He points out that the first law of this kind in New York was passed by a Republican Legislature in 1905 and that the Court of Appeals declared it unconstitutional, whereupon the next Legislature, politically divided, passed an amendment to the constitution to meet the objections raised by the Court of Appeals, the Democratic Legislature of 1913 repassing the proposed amendment.

"The proposed amendment," added Mr. Barnes, "was voted upon by the people of the State in the fall of 1913 was carried by a vote of about 500,000 to about 200,000 and in less than sixty days the law was on the statute books and goes into force today.

"Mr. Roosevelt has contended that nothing but 'bad' men and 'bad' influences control in the State of New York and this crucial constitutional amendment and legislation has been passed in the swiftest time on record."

Mr. Barnes declared Mr. Roosevelt in his Pittsburgh speech had served notice "that if Mr. Roosevelt succeeds in his ambition it will be his endeavor to establish in this country an absolute autocracy and to supersede the law by his fiat."

WILL FINISH LINE BY THE AUTUMN

Ottawa, July 3.—The National Transcontinental Railway will be completed in October. This is the very latest estimate of the engineers in charge of the great work. The Grand Trunk Pacific will, it is understood, almost immediately take it over.

TURNBULLS NEW STORE NOW OPEN

Public Invited to Inspect the Premises and Stock—Brief Description of the Building

The ever popular drygoods and departmental store of Turnbull & Co., today open in their magnificent new premises at the corner of George and Simcoe Streets. This building has arisen, Phoenix like, above the ashes and dust of a former accidental disaster. The new building, the most imposing on George Street, is of white cut stone, to the second floor. The other three stories are of handsome and well blended terra-cotta. The display windows on the ground floor are the largest in the city, being 15x13 feet in size. The windows on the second and third stories are 15x10 feet. The firm's window dresser is to be congratulated on the tasty and attractive display in the ground floor Hundreds of ladies have already had their attention attracted by the windows.

The basement has a concrete floor, and the ceiling held up by four massive pillars. Its ceiling is of the latest metallic design. In the basement are the last word in switch boards controlling the elaborate electric light plant. One large switch board contains an emergency switch that controls the whole system. There is a separate switchboard, contained in fireproof mater al, as is the largest one, for each floor. In the basement will be sold household supplies such as glass, china, crockery, etc. The electric light system was installed by Messrs. F.R.J. MacPherson & Co.

Taking the big elevator upwards one reaches the ground floor. Here are the most ornate fixtures in the city of solid mahogany. The mahogany panels in the displaying window are mahogany veneer. This is more expensive than solid mahogany. The veneer is used because this wood lacks in tensile power and might split when used in panels. To the West of the big ground floor is an overhead gallery used for cashiers "rest room," Mr. Might's private office, etc. On this floor are many "silent salesmen" of glass. To the North side are 363 drawers of mahogany for holding hosiery and small goods.

On the second floor is sold millinery and white wear, etc. The fittings for display on this floor are of the most modern type. The two top floors are devoted to ready-to-wear clothes, carpets, linoleums, and the thousand and one other articles sought in a big department store On the top floor are stock rooms, store supplies, women employes cloak room, ladies lavatory.

Mr. Fred Might is to be congratulated on having a department store that cannot be excelled in any city in the world the size of Peterborough. Messrs. Langford & Son are the contractors, and have done good work.

HOW TO MAKE A REAL WRINKLE REMOVER

In these days of cleverly advertised "beautifiers" of 57 varieties and more, it is hard for a woman to believe she can make a simple home remedy for those hateful marks of age, worry and illness which will do her more good and cost her much less than the average made preparation. There's nothing in the world so effective for removing or preventing wrinkles, crow'sfeet and creases as a solution made by dissolving an ounce of pure powered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. Every druggist has the ingredients.

Use this harmless mixture daily as a refreshing lotion, bathing the face in it two or three minutes at a time. The quick and satisfactory results will surprise you. Even the first application produces wonderful improvement. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a firm, "solid," comfortable feeling.

VERDICT OF MURDER RETURNED BY JURY

Sequel to Burning of Chateau Tait—Body Found in Ruins

Montreal, July 3. A verdict of murder was returned this morning by the coroner's jury against a man named Rickard, who was caretaker at the Chateau Tait, mysteriously razed to the ground by fire early in January.

The recent finding of the body of an unknown man in the ruins of the destroyed chateau renewed interest in the sudden disappearance of Rickard and a companion, who is said to have been with him in the Tait residence at the time of the destruction.

A warrant will be issued for the arrest of Rickard, who, so far, has eluded the police and detectives.

YOUNG LAD KILLED BY FIREWORKS

Chicago, July 3.—John Sullivan, aged 13, became Chicago's first 4th July victim when he died from exploding fireworks. Young Sullivan and three companions, who were also severely injured, unearthed the explosives from a rubbish pile at the abandoned plant of a fireworks company, which went out of business with the success of the Sane Fourth movement. The boys loaded their booty on a wagon and then climbed on themselves. What caused the explosion has not been ascertained.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Honored.

The following article appeared in the Ottawa Citizen: The Authors' Club, near the Houses of Parliament, London, Eng., has chosen Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., as a member. Mr. Burnham's books, which secured him the honor are "Canadians in the Imperial Service Abroad," "Marcelle," an historical novel of the French regime in Canada highly commended by the French Historical Society, "Jack Ralston," a tale of North-east Canada of which the Nelson Co. of Edinburgh, owners of the copyright, have issued several editions and a number of essays and minor publications.

THE WEATHER.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP

With the Boys at Sandy Point—Camp in Full Swing

The Y.M.C.A. Boys' camp at Sandy Point, is in full swing, and the boys are having the time of their lives. Every boy in camp is in the best of health, and how could he help it, with the good big meals three times a day and plenty of recreation and fun. The first night in camp was a hummer. The boys went to sleep at 3 o'clock and were up at 4 o'clock ready for a big time.

The boys are making all kinds of friends; every time the boys pass a cottage the people have a smile and a good word for them. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, are exceptionally kind to the boys and those in charge. When they arrived, Mrs. Fitzgerald kindly lent us everything that was necessary to get started with.

The boys had a great time Wednesday night. Mr. Ivon Brock took the boys for a motor boat trip around the lake. It was a great sight to see the big war canoe towing behind the fast motor boat. When we arrived at Juniper Island the boys noticed that Mr. Brock and Dr. Middleton were making their way up to the store, that was a sign that there was something doing and sure there was. When Mr. Brock and Middleton came back they had two big watermelons under each arm, for the boys. The four watermelons did not last long when the boys got going at them. The boys gave three cheers and a tiger for Mr. Brock and Dr. Middleton, and you ought to have heard them cheer. Mr. Brock has promised to take the boys on another trip.

We are off to Burleigh this afternoon for a hike to see the falls.

Friday is our field day, when a good program of sports will be run off.

The boys Bible Study every morning is proving a great success; not one boy has missed a morning at the study so far.

LIQUOR DRIVES MAN TO MURDEROUS ACT

Shoots Two Who Attempt to Subdue Him—Posse Scouring Woods

Quebec, July 3.—Crazed by liquor, Jos. Moreau, of Villeroy, a parish on the Intercolonial Railroad about 40 miles from here, ran amuck Wednesday and started to shoot up the town. He fatally wounded Alfred Charland, a section man, and also shot Mr. Z. F. Roy, the station agent, who attempted to subdue him.

The desperado escaped capture and yesterday started again his riot, waking the village at an early hour.

The two wounded men have been taken here, and are in the Hotel Dieu Hospital. A Posse of detectives from the Provincial Police is hunting the woods in the vicinity of Villeroy.

WOMAN DROWNED IN SHALLOW TANK

Believed to Have Suicided While Suffering From Despondency

Woodstock, Ont., July 3.—The dead body of Mrs. Wm. Nutt, wife of a well known farmer living near lakeside, was found in a tank containing only about three feet of water, about 10 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Nutt had been missed, and a searching party was out looking for her. The body was found by her brother.

She had been in poor health for some time. Coroner Mackay visited the scene this morning and decided it was a case of suicide. No inquest will be held. Only the husband survives.

PLEADED GUILTY TO VOTING TOO OFTEN

Cobalt, July 3.—Latest advices from the Cochrane district are to the effect that decision is in doubt. Three Frenchmen at Cochrane named Labine, have pleaded guilty to voting twice and as the last poll gave Douglas majority of ten, this would leave candidates even in votes. There will certainly be recount and almost certainly appeal for re-election which-evervw ay final count shows riding voted.

ROUND OF DRINKS PRECEDED RUNNING DOWN OF THE VICTIM

John B. Whaley Driver of Car, Will Answer Charge of Manslaughter

Toronto, July 3.—John B. Whaley, a grocer at 2295 Yonge street, was yesterday afternoon committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter by County Coroner Malcolm M. Crawford, as a result of the verdict of the jury sitting on the inquest into the death of Miss Mary Marsh, who was killed by an automobile driven by Whaley on Yonge street opposite Mount Pleasant cemetery on the night of Saturday, June 20th, at 8.37 o'clock.

The evidence adduced in yesterday's investigation at Victoria Hall, at Thornhill, went to show that after striking girl with his car, Whaley had increased his speed and disappeared into the night. He did not stop to find out how seriously were the injuries of his victim. Later the same evening he served on the jury inquiring into the death of Miss Marsh, without making known his connection with the affair.

The jury lost no time in bringing in their verdict after the last witness had been heard. Their decision was to the effect that: "Mabel Marsh came to her death as a result of injuries received on being struck by an automobile driven by John B. Whaley." A rider was added to the verdict: "We believe that the said John B. Whaley did not exercise due care in driving his car either at the time of the accident or afterwards."

ELEVEN WERE IMPLICATED IN THE LATE CONSPIRACY

Murder of Archduke Said to be Plot of Servian Nationalists--Many Arrests Expected

Sarajevo, July 3.—The lawyer who is defending Prinzip, the assassin who fired the pistol shots which caused the death of the Archduke Ferdinand, declares that the prisoner has confessed that he had obtained bombs from a rich merchant of Belgrade. He said he had been making preparations for the assassination for weeks. He had been handed a package of poison to take after he had made the attempt to assassinate the Archduke, but he lost it somewhere.

Conspiracy to Murder.

Herr Pfeiffer, the examining judge, said to-day: "The inquiry shows that there was undoubtedly a conspiracy to murder the Archduke and the Duchess. I cannot divulge the names of the eleven persons who were in the conspiracy, as some of them has not yet been arrested. It was neither a socialistic nor a terroristic attempt, but a plot in the interest of the Servian National party."

Cabrinovitch states that he got the bomb which he threw from Major Milan Pribisovic, of the Servian military service, who is secretary of the "Narodna Obrana" an anti-Austrian society.

DIBBLE WAS DEFEATED IN SEMI-FINAL FOR DIAMONDS

Giuseppi Sinigaglia, of Como, Italy, Was Victor in Gruelling Race by Five Lengths, in 8 min. and 33 sec.

Henley, July 3.—Giuseppe Sinigaglia, of Como, Italy, beat Robert Dibble of Toronto, Canada, in the second semi-final of the Diamond Sculls.

The Italian won by five lengths, in 8 minutes and 33 seconds. Dibble collapsed at the winning post and fell out of the boat, but was promptly rescued by the Umpire's launch.

ITALIAN WAS TOO FAST.

Dibble, who went away at 34 strokes to Sinigaglia's 35, led by half a length up to the stand. The Italian shortly afterwards drew level and at the half mile led by half a length. Half way was reached in 4 min. 7sec. Dibble spurted but the Italian was too fast, and led by a length at the three-quarter mile, giving Dibble his wash at the mile. The Italian led by one and one-half lengths, and the race was over, the Italian winning by 5 lengths.

BETWEEN AMERICAN CREWS.

Two American eight-oared crews—the Union Boat Club of Boston, and the Harvard University second crew—were left to fight to-morrow for possession of the coveted Grand Challenge Cup, by their victories over Winnipeg and Mayence respectively, in to-day's semi-final heats. Both were most exciting races, rowed in almost record time and won only after a hard struggle near the finishing line in each instance.

The races were rowed in miserable wet weather with a strong wind.

The race between Harvard and Winnipeg which came first, was a hard one and was rowed in the best time recorded at this year's regatta—7 minutes flat.

This has been beaten on three occasions in the grand challenge cup since official time records have been kept. In 1891, Leander rowed the final in 6 min. 51 sec. and this was equalled by New College Oxford, in the final in 1897. Leander in 1896 did the course in 6 min. 58 sec.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 25 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say: "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such a company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.

We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business—and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

Timber as Strong as Cast Iron

Probably the strongest timber in the world is a species of eucalyptus known as yate, which grows to a considerable size in Australia. Its average tensile strength is 17,000 pounds per square inch; in other words a bar of this wood one inch square will (in theory, at least) hold up a weight of twelve tons. This is equal to good cast iron.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, and testimonials.

Prof. Peabody of Harvard Talks on the Value of a Man

"How much is a man better than a sheep? Is he any better? If so what is the difference? asked Prof. F. G. Peabody of Harvard University. After referring to the similarities existing between man and bovines, such as their gregarious instincts, their proneness to panic and alarm and their contentment after satisfying inner desires, the speaker dealt with the distinctions which lift man above the brute creation. First was the distinction of one's self, character, which is the essential of life. One of the problems of the day was to lift a man from the rut into which he was so often plunged by the machinery of commerce. Then there was the distinction of others. No sheep gave his life to any other sheep; but the world was full of examples of man's sacrifice for others. And again the universal life with its perpetual summons to communion, the call of the ideal of reason. The sheep looked down but the man looked up with adoration; he saw the hills. There were three questions which every man should answer: "Am I one of the herd or I have found myself? Am I here to give or to get? Am I living among the aims to which a man habitually looks up or to those needs to which a man habitually looks down? Do I see the mud or the sky?

A Sick Room Hint

If you have to keep up a fire in an invalid's room provide yourself with an old glove and a stick that can be used as a poker. With the glove on a piece of coal can be picked up and put on the fire with the minimum noise, and the wooden poker is far less noisy than any other. Little things, perhaps; but little things make an enormous difference in the comfort or otherwise of an invalid.

Cut some small rounds out of cheese pastry and bake. Mix a tablespoonful of cream and grated cheese, and spread rather thickly over each. Decorate with two strips of chilli cut like a match, and put a caper between each.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel, Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. Our Point of View

When Huerta's orderly reported that the supply of brandy had given out the effect was the same as the blow that almost killed father.

A Toronto doctor recommends sitting on the floor as a cure for obesity, but the trouble is that when a very fat man tries the cure he has to stay on the floor until somebody comes along with a derrick.

The political parsons, many of whom delivered numbers of speeches in favor of Rowell, apparently did not turn many votes. Of course not, but the campaign enabled them to get a good deal of wind out of their systems.

—o—

We are told that the Nationalists in Canada are in favor of raising a regiment for service against Ulster. Perhaps they have heard of the rich loot in the way of subscriptions for the defense of Protestant Ulster that Sir Edward Carson has been gathering around him.

—o—

A Peterborough bartender has invented what he calls "the home rule cocktail." It is made of Irish whiskey with a sprig of mint on one side and a slice of orange on the other to typify the blending of the races in Ireland. We have an idea that a first-class fight would follow if an Ulsterman and Home Ruler were to drink one of these cocktails together.

The Liberal Leadership

The News says that it is not likely that Mr. Rowell will continue to lead the Opposition in the Legislature. His policy was always distasteful to a formidable element of the Liberal party. His programme was barely tolerated in the hope that it would bring success. With failure so complete and overwhelming, his authority is destroyed. But who is to succeed? Among the Liberals elected there is no one who stands out particularly above his colleagues. Nor is there any Liberal in the Province outside the Legislature whose name occurs as the natural successor to the leadership. If the Government continues to show strength and unity, if personal differences are made subordinate to the public interest, if the ideals of Sir James Whitney continue to prevail, still many years may elapse before the Liberal party can gain office in the Province.

The Clergy Rebuked

There is no doubt that thousands of Conservatives resented the activity of the clergy in behalf of the Liberal politicians in the late election. The News thinks they had as much right upon the platform as other people. But they were unwise to electioneer from their pulpits. The old notion prevails that the pulpit is a Coward's Castle. The people will accept religious teaching from the pulpit. They do not believe that ministers have any special political wisdom. It was deliberate slander to allege that there was any alliance between the Conservative party and the liquor interest. It may be that the Liberal politicians and their organs drove the liquor people toward the Government. But that the Government sought any such alliance or had legislated in the interest of the liquor traffic was utterly untrue.

Our Street Paving

In its issue of June 29th, our esteemed evening contemporary, The Examiner, editorially attacks The Times because we, as is our habitual custom, defended the rights of Peterborough ratepayers on the pavement question. What our George street contemporary took exception to was an unbiased, unpaid for and neutral criticism of the present paving done in this City. We showed, without advocating the contemplated paving work of any Company that may tender, how there are "pockets" in the present work. We showed how these pockets must, in fact will, in time, result in disintegration of the asphalt and result in never ending expense to the City. If a newspaper cannot see defects in what the ratepayers put up their taxes for, why a newspaper? The Times was not paid, or promised payment, either directly or indirectly, for our statements. We did not, nor do we wish to "knock" any company. We are not, however, blind, nor are hundreds of our local citizens.

Our contemporary says:

> "The Examiner has no interests in materials and mode of construction of pavement . . . ."

Why not? Has The Examiner lost all "interest" in the citizens of Peterborough? Again that paper says:

> "There seems to be abundant evidence that in laying down street paving on George, Hunter, and Charlotte streets, that the City authorities have selected a material and form of pavement that has been proved of real merit."

Let us analyse this paragraph. This pavement has been laid about one year! There is, according to The Examiner, proof of "real merit." There were counted at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning on Hunter Street, between George and Aylmer Streets, thirty-one (31) wet spots in this stretch alone! The paving company will, of course, with their guarantee, have to repair these defects. What about the years to come later? We did not enter into this argument to "knock" the present pavers, but simply to protect the ratepayers of Peterborough. The controversy was thrust on us by The Examiner.

Again we quote:

> "The criticism of our local contemporary on our street paving material, and the veiled suggestion of its ineffective character, have, it seems, something of their origin in the canvassing skill of a representative of a rival firm supplying another form of surfacing paving material, than the pure Trinidad asphalt, of which our new pavement is constructed."

It might be said that The Times did not throw out any "veiled suggestions." We simply stated bald facts as far as we know. As far as getting suggestions from a representative of a rival firm, a Times representative, who is alive to the interests of this City, had had his attention drawn to these defects by scores of responsible ratepayers.

ABSOLUTE FACTS

Seeing that our George street apologist for the present system of paving wants "fullest available information," here are a few facts that should and will interest our local aldermen. The City of Buffalo, N. Y., (quoted by The Examiner in its editorial) has a system of paving similar to that laid here. Since the expiration of the contractors' guarantee, in 15 years Buffalo has spent in repairs to patch the top service of their Trinidad asphalt pavement $1,668,275.23. How will the payers of our local 26 mill rate, like to pay, in proportion, for repairing our Peterborough streets? Buffalo's pavement repairs cost, in 15 years, as follows:

Year	Expenditure
1907 to 1908	$201,416.94
1906 to 1907	198,242.28
1905 to 1906	213,604.85
1904 to 1905	106,518.66
1903 to 1904	83,192.24
1902 to 1903	68,562.98
1901 to 1902	76,203.54
1900 to 1901	80,559.56
1899 to 1900	98,865.09
1898 to 1899	102,249.84
1897 to 1898	99,358.36
1896 to 1897	106,152.87
1895 to 1896	103,912.60
1894 to 1895	75,104.40
1893 to 1894	69,301.31
	$1,668,275.23

Should The Examiner, which, hinting that The Times may have been influenced by a "rival firm," (which neither paid for nor promised payment for our patriotic editorial) want a few more figures and facts, let its editor write to the City of London Ontario, and ascertain what expense for repairs has been involved for similar pavement on Dundas and Richmond streets, to that laid here, in 11 years, including re-surfacing. We have the figures. Still, as this controversy has been thrust on us, and, as above intimated, we do not want to take any side, except in the City's interests, we might say in charity we do not, unless impelled, divulge them. If The Examiner has forgotten the name of the gentlemen who gave them particulars about "pure Trinidad asphalt," we may possibly be able to remind them. If that paper wants a sworn statement as to the laboratory test of this "pure Trinidad asphalt," We may happy! These street paving contracts should be open to the world and neither fear or favor shown in letting the tenders. The City's interests are superior to those of any paving company.

The Coldest Place

With a yearly average temperature below zero Verkoyansek in north eastern Siberia is believed to be the coldest inhabited place in the world.

Farm Water Tank

A Kansas farmer has built a water tank for supplying his entire farm on top of a silo, the whole structure being made of reinforced concrete.

KITCHEN WRINKLES

Ink stains on the fingers may be removed by slightly damping the brimstone end of a match, and with it rubbing the stains.

When boiling fowls or fish, add to the water in which they are boiled the juice of half a lemon. This will make them beautifully white.

If moths are in a carpet, spread a damp towel over the part and iron it dry with a hot iron. The heat and steam will kill the worms and eggs.

Every woman who cuts out from a paper pattern knows of the bother in pinning it flat to the cloth. Take a hot iron and smooth the tissue paper pattern over the cloth, and it will remain flat without pins.

To clean a mackintosh or dark cloths from mud stains, brush off all the mud and rub all stains with the cut surface of a raw potato, then sponge with clear water, using a piece of dark material for sponging.

Before blacking the stove, rub soapsuds on the hands, allowing the soap to dry in. When washing the hands after the work is done the blacking and soap come off together easily, leaving no stain on the hands.

On sweeping the carpets, take an old round tin, pierce holes in the bottom, and fill with common salt. Sprinkle this over the carpet. It prevents the dust from rising, brightens the colors, and prevents moths.

When cooking cabbage, or any other similar vegetable, put a piece of dry bread—crust will do—in the pan with the boiling water. The bread kills the disagreeable odor which rises from the cabbage, and it will entirely prevent the smell from going through the house.

Glass bottles which have contained oil are very difficult to clean; but if they are required for any purpose try the following. Fill the bottle with ashes and place it in cold water, which heat gradually till it boils. Let it boil half an hour, then let the bottle remain in the water till cold. Wash in soapsuds and rinse in clear water.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Mud Stains on Serge

Dip a piece of rough flannel in carbonate of soda and rub briskly. Smooth by ironing the material on the wrong side.

Patent Leather

Patent leather shoes will not crack so readily if wiped with a soft rag smeared with vaseline each time they have been worn.

Cleaning Ermine

Powder some whiting as finely as possible. Pour a little benzine into a saucer, dip in a moderately stiff brush, and brush the ermine well. Rub in the whiting with the fingers. Leave for an hour. Shake well.

Removing Glass Stopper

Dip a feather in sweet oil and paint the stopper all round at the junction of the neck. Leave for an hour or so. Grasp the stopper firmly and turn it slowly round. If it still sticks pour a little hot water over the neck and turn it slowly.

Puffed Potatoes

Soak the potatoes for an hour in cold water, boil in salted water; drain well, sprinkle with pepper, and shake over the fire until they are dry and floury. Mash them. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter and a little pepper. Add the stiffly beaten whites of an egg, place in a well butterd pie dish and bake until brown.

Apple Custard

Peel, core, and slice a pound of apples. Place them in a basin, and stand the basin in a saucepan of boiling water, and cook until the apples are soft enough to pass through a sieve. Add half an ounce of butter, the yolks of four eggs, half a pint of milk, and sugar to taste. Fill some cups with the mixture and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Beat the whites of the eggs, pile on the top of the custards, and sprinkle with sugar, and return to the oven to brown.

Lemon Cake

Beat together the yolks of three eggs and a quarter of a pound of sifted sugar. Sift four ounces of flour onto a sheet of paper. Beat the whites of the eggs as stiffly as possible. Stir into the beaten yolks. Add the flour very slowly, and the grated rind of a lemon. Line a tin with buttered paper and bake in a moderate oven. When the cake is quite cold ice it as follows: Sift four ounces of icing sugar into a small saucepan. Add a large dessertspoonful of water and a teaspoonful of strained lemon juice. Stir over a gentle heat until it is just warm, and then pour over the cake.

RABBITS RAVAGE FORESTS

At a conference of Forestry Branch officials at Ottawa, the inspectors of Dominion Forest Reserves unanimously agreed that thousands of acres of young trees on these reserves have been destroyed by rabbits in the last couple of years. The bark of poplar, jack pine and spruce seems to be equally acceptable to these rodents, and in many places so completely have the trees been stripped of bark at the base of the trunks that they have the appearance of a whitewashed forest. Especially do the rabbits like the young tender tree-seedlings in the forest reserve nurseries, and in one instance some thousands of green ash transplants were entirely consumed in one night.

It is hard to realize the great numbers of these rabbits in the West in some seasons, yet the rapidity with which they increase seems, strangely, to be one of the reasons for their periodic decline in numbers, for the western Indians state that the disease which almost exterminates them every seven years or so is due primarily to starvation through lack of sufficient food.

The Australians were put to the necessity of building a wire fence almost across their continent to protect their crops from the rabbit plague there. The Forestry Branch has a similar problem in protecting the forest crops in the West from devastation. It was once proposed to put a little wire fence around each tree planted, but a forest is not an orchard, and some more practicable preventive will have to be found for the annual destruction caused by rabbits on the thirty-six thousand square miles contained in Dominion Forest Reserves.

The art of creosoting lumber has been greatly improved by the discovery that its effect is made more lasting by the addition of paraffin, stearic acid or something of that character.

More than 2,000,000 men have been killed in battle in the last fifty years.

Worth Knowing

Beef suet is not used nearly as much as it might be. Doughnuts fried in it are not greasy like those fried in lard, and are much nicer. Beefsteak fried in suet is also better than that fried in butter, the suet making a richer gravy.

Magical Effect on Neuralgia
Throbbing Pain Goes Quickly

A YEAR'S SUFFERER CURED BY "NERVILINE."

No person reading this need ever again suffer long from Neuralgia.

Nerviline will quickly cure the worst Neuralgia, and Mrs. O. Evans, in her strong letter written from Russel post office, says:—"One long year, the longest of my life, was almost entirely given up to treating dreadful attacks of Neuralgia. The agony I experienced during some of the bad attacks was simply unmentionable. To use remedies by the score without permanent relief was mighty discouraging. At last I put my faith in Nerviline; I read of the wonderful pain-subduing power it possessed and made up my mind to prove it valuable or useless. Nerviline at once eased the pain and cured the headache. Continuous treatment with this magic-working remedy cured me entirely, and I have ever since stayed well."

Mrs. Evan's case is but one in hundreds that might be quoted. Nerviline is a specific for all nerve, muscular or joint pain. It quickly cures neuralgia sciatica, lumbago, lame back, neuritis and rheumatism. Forty years in use and today the most widely used liniment in the Dominion. Don't take anything but "Nerviline," which any dealer anywhere can supply in large 50c. family size bottle, or in a small 25c. trial size.

WHAT QUEEN MARY DISLIKES

The ultra-smart set has no friend in Queen Mary. With the freak fashions and the eccentric pleasures of a certain section of society Her Majesty has no sympathy. It has been known for some time that Her Majesty considered that the latest dances are quite unsuitable for the ballroom and neither at Buckingham Palace nor at houses which Her Majesty visits will they figure on the programmes. Not that the queen objects to dancing. Indeed, she is very fond of the waltz, schottische, polka, and other graceful dances. It is quite an open secret, too, that their Majesties have expressed their disapproval of the manner in which society nowadays makes Sunday a day of pleasure. The day, by many, is given over to motoring, golf, tennis, and drinking. They have also been heard to express the opinion that the habit of going away for the week-end is rapidly destroying the domesticity of the English home. It might also be mentioned that Her Majesty is very particular regarding the manner in which her maids of honor dress, and has said that certain local fashions in hairdressing do not, in her opinion, add to the attractiveness or dignity of her court ladies.

Telephones in China

The Chinese government, which owns the country's telegraph system, has extended it until more than 33,000 miles of land lines and about 1,000 miles of cables are now in use.

FRESH AIR IN BABYLAND

We cannot all have large and lofty nursery accommodation, much as we would like to. Happily, pure fresh air does not depend entirely on space, but on thorough and proper ventilation.

To ensure this there must be an open chimney, and a window with a movable sash top and bottom. Even in winter a window may be kept always open with no risk of draught by the following simple arrangement.

Have a piece of wood nailed to the lower side in front of the sash. It should be about 7 inches high. Then the window may be kept raised quite 4 inches. When the door is closed and there is no wind, the top of the window also should be kept lowered a little space. When baby is out keep the window and door both open.

S. P. DODGE, WRESTLER

The "beautiful young lady" in the picture is not a young lady at all, but the champion lightweight wrestler of Yale University. He is S. P. Dodge, as he appears in the role of Agnes in the one-act play, "Fritzchen," which the Yale dramatic association presented on its annual holiday tour. It is a traditional custom of this organiation for the feminine parts to be taken by men.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Old Putty

To remove old putty from window sashes, paint the putty with nitric muriatic acid, or a solution of caustic soda, carefully handling these things. In an hour the putty can be easily removed.

Moth

To rid carpets, chairs, etc., of moths soak the affected parts with benzaline, being careful that there is no light or fire anywhere near.

Fly Speck

To clean fly specks from varnished wood, wipe with a cloth wrung from skim-milk and water in equal parts. To prevent flies from settling on picture frames, soak a bunch of leeks in water and wash over the frames with the liquid from them.

Cleaning Wall Paper

Wall paper may be cleaned of dust by rubbing gently with a flannel bag containing wheat bran. Others use stale bread.

Windows That Stick

To open windows that stick pour a teaspoonful of melted lard between the frame and casing and rub a little on the sash cord.

Choose a Windy Day

Comfort and quilts should be dried in a good stiff breeze so that they may be as light and fluffy as when new.

Borax

Use borax in cleaning house. It does not ruin paint, it whitens the curtains and does not stain the carpets which are washed in it.

Floor Polish

The short ends of candles melted and mixed with equal parts of turpentine makes a fine polish for floors.

Keep It Covered

Paint your garbage can the same color as the house. You not only prolong its usefulness but if it must stand outside the door it is less conspicuous. It is a good plan to give the inside of the pail two coats of paint. The same applies to the pail used for chamber work.

To Re-enamel a Bath Tub

Buy proper bath tub enamel. Wash the tub thoroughly with hot, soapy water first, and rub all over with sandpaper, to make the surface smooth before using the enamel. Heat the enamel slightly by standing the tin in a bowl of hot water. This thins it and it is easier to apply evenly. It will need two or three coats, and each must be allowed to thoroughly dry before the next is applied.

DURING SCHOOL LIFE

The Most Important Period, Says Dr. Mott

Dr. J. R. Mott said that after twenty-five years spent travelling over the entire world, he could state with assurance that five-sixths of the world's criminals were such because of misdirection during their school lives. On the other hand, 867 in every 1,000 people joining the Church did so during school age or at least before the age of twenty.

"That is the decisive period in the man's life," declared the speaker. "Its high school students are the greatest single asset of any nation, because they have the largest power 'to let.' That is the period of vision-forming, when ideals laid take permanent hold.

"To cultivate the preparatory school students is the highest [illegible]," the speaker continued. "I believe that nine-tenths of the world's ministers received their vision of service during school life. The time to get men for leaders is when they are schoolboys. When we consider that the majority of schoolboys never go to college, we begin to realize what we must do for them now."

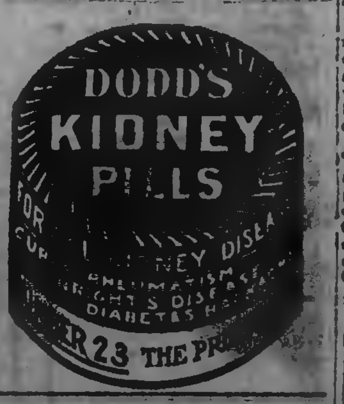
B. C. Water Power Survey

A party of engineers of the Conservation Commission examined the water power situation in the district tributary to the watersheds of the following rivers in interior British Columbia: Skeena, Kispiox, Bulkley, Morice, Telkwa Zymoetz and Kitsumgallum rivers. The season was an unusually wet one, and the country traversed very rough with consequent poor trails, that in many instances required clearing, so that progress was necessarily slow. In spite of this, twenty-six streams in all were examined and twenty-eight power sites reported upon.



How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels, where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Local Pastor Saw the Sights

A few days ago a local pastor on a Yonge Street car, Toronto, saw a girl in her teens whose bare skin was visible nearly to the waist line. He was naturally shocked. Yesterday whilst walking in the suburbs of Peterborough, behind a lady, clad in the latest style of slit skirt, he saw clearly a garter. Now the question is "When that pastor is near a girl should he face her or follow behind"?

PROGRESS OF CRIME

The Type of Boy That Develops Into a Criminal

In every large centre there are individuals who seem to travel willingly the road of idleness that leads to criminality. As boys they loaf when other youngsters are at school or learning trades and other businesses that will serve them through life. As youths they join the small bands that pass the time at street corners and that are constantly being moved on by the police. They are of the type that is to be seen lounging in the parks in the summer and frequenting certain pool rooms in the winter. They sponge on industrious relatives who dole out cash to them through fear or in order to have them out of their sight. When money is not thus forthcoming the loafers find other means of obtaining it. They start with robbing drunken men and develop into petty thieves. The more daring among them take to burglary, with the result that they make acquaintance with jails and penitentiaries. As they do not like imprisonment any more than work they take to carrying arms for the purpose of frightening those who would oppose them in their depredations. Eventually the time to use the weapons comes and the criminal idlers are mixed up in an affair that ends in wounding or possibly murder. Then there is a hue and cry and the ranks of the men who periodically face the juries in the criminal side of the Court of King's Bench are swelled. There the hitherto defiant persons quail and plead for the mercy of the court. The fear of drastic punishment overwhelms them and sympathising friends are not at hand to lend them courage by their presence. They know the game is up, for a time at least. It is a familiar story. Ignorance and a hatred of toil have brought them to a terrible pass and not insanity.—Montreal Gazette.

SIGNALS FOR COLOR BLIND

Contrivance For Those Who Cannot Distinguish All Colors

A type of colored danger signal consists of a blue circle within a wide yellow rim. Of the 4 per cent. of all men who are defective in color perception the majority cannot distinguish red, because red is evanescent, possesses relatively little luminosity, and fades rapidly. Since yellow and blue are the only colors which excite a normal color sensation as soon as they become visible as colored, they can be seen at a greater distance in daylight and are more easily distinguishable in a poor light than any other color or combination of colors. Further all other colors appear either yellow or blue until they pass within the yellow blue area of the eyes, when they are recognised. Yellow and blue are also the most luminous colors of the spectrum, and are more permanent than red. Finally, in the rare instances in which workmen are unable to distinguish yellow and blue, these colors will appear red or green to them, affording a protection a red signal could not give.

VOL. XLI, NO. 148 MONDAY MORNING, JULY 6, 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

LADY LONDONDERRY THREATENS ULSTER ACTION ON FRIDAY

Declares With all the Ardor of Militant Suffragette, She will Unfurl Banner of Orangeism

London, July 4. That once famous beauty, the Marchioness of Londonderry, is now the live wire of the Orange campaign. While Lord Lansdowne is working desperately in the house of Lords for a settlement of the Ulster question, Lady Londonderry is laboring ceaselessly to stimulate the Unionist peers to oppose any settlement short of the withdrawal of Irish Home Rule, and has pledged herself to her friends that if any settlement on any other basis is in sight or agreed to by next Friday she will go to Ulster and raise the Fiery Cross among the Orange Volunteers herself.

She has lost faith in Sir Edward Carson, knowing that he is eager for a settlement if he can get terms to save his face.

Lady Londonderry's development into a revolutionary heroine is a metamorphosis that vastly interests society. Heretofore she has simply been a pleasure-seeker and a great hostess, always exceptionally attractive to men, several of whom lost their hearts to her. The late Prince Herbert Bismarck was her devoused admirer for years. Emperor William has always shown her unusual attention, as did many other men of distinction.

But she never became serious until the Ulster question arose. Now she is as infuriated upon it as the most advanced militant is on votes for women. Undoubtedly she is ready to make as great sacrifices as they are. Her influence with the Orange Volunteers is tremendous. Carson and his associates fear that if she raises the standard nothing they can do will prevent trouble.

BOMB MADE FOR ROCKEFELLER BURSTS AND KILLS FOUR

New York, July 4.—Dynamite exploding to-day while being made into a bomb, thought by night police officials to have been intended for the Rockefeller estate at Tarrytown, killed the bomb-maker, Arthur Caron, prominent in recent unemployed free speech demonstrations, killed three other persons and injured many, blowing out the south half of the upper three floors of a double-deck tenement at No. 1, 626 Lexington avenue.

The explosion shook that section of the city between 101st and 104th streets, Madison and 3rd avenue, driving thousands in panic to the streets. Falling walls buried many men, women and children under debris, from which the policemen and firemen dug the injured.

Following the identification of Caron's body as that of the agitator who had participated in stormy demonstrations in Union Square, Tarrytown, and elsewhere in the last six months of I.W.W., anarchist and unemployed outbreaks, J. Robert Rubin, second deputy police commissioner, and chief inspector Schmittberger were informed that the victim of his own bomb had attended a conference of anarchists last night, when John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller jr., were discussed.

Caron's body was found on the fire escape platform of the wrecked tenement house. Inspector Faurot, the finger print expert and uninformed chief of the detective bureau made certain of the man's identity by comparing the finger prints taken to-day with those recorded when Caron was arrested during the riotous demonstrations in Union Square this spring.

WEDDING BELLS

Parsons—Leary.

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at St. Luke's church when Miss Katie Irene Leary, only daughter of Mrs. Robert H. Leary, of Peterborough, became the wife of Charles C. Parsons, of Dundas, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Parsons, of Port Hope.

The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens, from which hung a floral marriage bell. The Rev R. B. Grobb, of All Saints' Church officiated in the absence of Rev F. J. Sawers.

The bride was attended by Miss Bessie Reed, of Peterborough, and the groom was supported by Mr. Ray Leary, of San Antonio, Texas. The bride was attired in a gown of ivory charmeuse and veil, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a gown of crepe de Chine, with picture hat, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride was given away by her mother, who wore a handsome dress of black satin.

The beauty of the ceremony was greatly enhanced by the kindness of Mr. Gliddon and his orchestra, in playing the wedding march.

AMERICANS NOT SO FREE THINK PARIS PAPERS

Customs Officials Make Slaves of Rich—Result of Legislation in Paris

Paris, July 4.—While the litigation is technically between Henry W. Munroe, a banker of Paris, and Miss Dolan, a dressmaker of Brookline, Mass., tradesmen here are greatly interested to-day in the suit regarding the American import duties which are involved in the case. They declare that the suit is really one which will establish a precedent and which will fix the exact standing of the French merchants' trade with customers who are travelling or returning to the United States. Naturally the Paris press sides with French exporters, and very indignant comments are made on the high-handed methods of the American treasury departments commercial spies in Europe.

The Eclair says bluntly: "We refuse to be treated as niggers." The Gaulois says "Our customs department has its faults, but its methods are less Chinese than those of the United States, and it is more straightforward and less vexacious than the American customs."

LOCAL PRISONER SAWS HIS WAY TO FREEDOM

On Saturday night, or early yesterday morning John Clark, a prisoner escaped from Castle Nesbitt. Clark, it will be remembered was arrested a short time ago for stealing goods from the National Hotel and sentenced to six months in the Central. He was in the county jail awaiting the arrival of an officer to take him to Toronto. Clark, who was employed in the jail kitchen, filed the bars of the back window and escaped over the stone wall. Up to going to press he had not been recaptured.

NO ELECTIONS ON COAST

Vancouver, B.C., July 4.—It is stated here that there is no foundation for the report from Ottawa that British Columbia provincial elections may be called this summer.

HONOR SIR WM. OSLER

Montreal, July 4.—A London cable to the Daily Mail says: "Everybody is hoping that Sir William Osler will yield to the influential representations made to him to go to the house of commons as member far Oxford University, the seas made vacant by the death of Sir William Anson. If he decides to do so it is altogether likely that it will be an election by acclamation.

CONSERVATIVE PARTY NOW UNITED

Executive Meet and Straighten Matters Out in Connection With the Late Election Campaign

The Executive Commistee of the West Peterborough Conservative Association met on Saturday evening in Messrs. Ruddy & Burnham's office, nearly all the members being present.

Reports and complaints having reached this Executive Committee to the effect that there were dissentions in the party, due to allegations of irregularities of procedure in selecting g candibate for the late provincial election, your Executive Committee wishes to report that it has gone into the whole question from the beginning and its findings are:

1. That a meeting held on May 18th, at Mr. Peck's office, for the purpose of filling vacancies on the Executive and for selecting a date and place for holding the convention: After the business of the meeting was over. Mr. Peck then informed the Executive Committee that he would not be a candidate at the coming election. Much surprise and regret was expressed by all present, and Mr. Peck was then urged by those present to reconsiden his decision, which he agreed to do, and was to inform the secretary on the following day.

2. As agreed Mr. Peck informed the secretary, on the following day, that after further consideration he had decided he would not be the candidate.

3. On the following Friday, May 22nd, Mr. Peck informed the Secretary that he had decided to become a candidate, and would offer himself at the convention, and further made the announcement in the Review on the following Saturday, May 23rd.

4. That the Committee find that the submission of names, the selection of delegates, the voting and all other matters concerning the convention were conducted regularly. The candidate chosen by the delegates was duly announced and became the candidate of the party for election, and was approved of by the Executive at Toronto.

5. That no objection was made at the time of the convention by any candidate or anybody on their behalf, not has any charge of irregularity been made by any candidate since.

6. That your Committee therefore issues this statement for the information of the Conservatives of West Peterborough and for the purpose of setting at rest any reports that may be circulated of a contrary character, through mistake or otherwise. If the majority is entitled to rule, is did so in this case, and no complaint of discourtesy or lack of due consideration or impropriety is well founded.

7. We further recommend that Mr. Peck and Mr. Soden be requested to sign this statement if satisfactory, also the President and Secretary of the Association, and that copies of this report be sent to the press for publication.

JAMES KENDRY,
President W.P.L.C.A.
FRANK ADAMS,
Secretary W.P.L.C.A.
R. J. SODEN, Candidate.

I approve of above statement of facts.

E. A. PECK.

ROBLIN UP AGAINST FIGHT OF HIS LIFE

Manitoba Premier is the Big Issue in Provincial Election—School Question Threatens His Government

Winnipeg, July 4.—Sir R. P. Roblin, after fourteen years of undisputed power, is up against the fight of his life. It is Roblin against the field. No one talks of the "government" or of Mr. T. C. Norris, who happens to be the leader of the opposition. It is Roblin we hear about, Roblin who is the issue, Roblin who is good or bad. The provincial election to be held next Saturday, will be a vote of confidence or want of confidence in the provincial prime minister. Both sides are confident and appear to have plenty of money. Where the Liberals are getting theirs is a matter of speculation. There are the usual protests about fraudulent naturalization, bogus registration, and other iniquities, said to have been perpetrated by the party in power, but so far as can be observed the Roblin government has refrained from any high-handed measures, being anxious to cultivate public opinion. Both sides are spending a great deal of money in newspaper publications and in newspaper advertising. The Winnipeg Free Press, the leading Liberal newspaper in the west carries a page ad. eulogizing Sir Robert Roblin to the skies and another full page ad. containing the photograph of that gallant knight with the legend beneath:

"Sir Robert Roblin, K.C.M.G., leader of the Conservative party of Manitoba: for thirty seven years resident in the province; for thirty-three years in the people's service; for fourteen years premier of the province. Knighted by His Majesty for public services, 1912."

GENERAL ELECTION END OF OCTOBER IS OTTAWA OPINION

Sweeps in Manitoba and British Columbia Expected by Conservatives at Capital--Ministers Won't Talk

Ottawa, July 4.—There is a good deal of gossip in the capital at present regarding the possibility of a general election next October. The statement was made this morning that there would be a provincial election in British Columbia during August. Manitoba is expected to provide another Conservative sweep and British Columbia. If an election does take place, as forecasted, could hardly fail to sustain Sir Richard McBride. The rumors, therefore, at Ottawa are to the effect that with Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia going strongly Conservative, and with the general organization throughout the country in perfect order the federal government would go to the country towards the end of October. It is possible that what gives rise to the rumors is the statement made in the house towards the end of last session by the prime minister that the Liberals might have to face a general election earlier than they expected. He was replying to criticism by the opposition in connection with the Farmers Bank legislation. Cabinet Ministers, when approached on the question were noncommittal, but there is no doubt that a general opinion prevails at the capital that next fall would not be an opportune time for a general elec- party are concerned.

WARM SPELL AFTER RAIN IS FINE FOR THE WEST

In Some Districts Wheat is Beginning to Head Out--No Harm From Any Cause Reported in Saskatchewan

Winnipeg, July 4.—Crop conditions throughout the prairie west are ideal. The rain in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan would assist materially in bringing the crop forward. The latest reports from the statistics branch of the department of agriculture says: "Present warm spell following showery weather has rapidly advanced growth of crops in Saskatchewan. On light sandy soils of southwestern portion of province, the crops are suffering from lack of rain. In this district wheat will not excel 17 bushels to the acre. Elsewhere showers of the past week have left the soil in good condition.

"Wheat is from 15 to 20 inches high and is beginning to head out. In North Battleford district fields of Marquis are 34 inches in height and headed out.

"Crops on summer fallow and new breaking are making best showing, especially on well-prepared summer fallow.

"No damage has been sustained from any cause except drifting by winds and slight frost on the 25th ult.

"Fifty-five per cent. of summer fallow acreage is now already plowed."

As Advanced as Last Year.

Charles A. Dunning, general manager of the Saskatchewan Co-Operative Elevator Co., states that grain crops in Saskatchewan are fully as far advanced as they were at this time last year, although the dry weather which recently retarded the growth of some late sown grains. This handicap has been overcome since abundant rains followed by the hot weather of recent date.

HEIR TO BEAUMONT FORTUNE WILL WED

Montreal, July 4.—A London cable to the Daily Mail says: Baroness Beaumont who is not yet out of her teens, has become engaged to Hon. Bernard-Fitzalan Howard, heir to Lord Howard of Glossop.

This announcement heralds a union between two of the oldest families in the country. Lady Beaumont has been a peeress in her own right since the age of 2, when the title which fell into abeyance on the death of her father, was continued by Queen Victoria.

The Beaumonts are one of the oldest Roman Catholic families in England.

LIBERALS MAKE ANOTHER GAIN

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Company re-capitalized in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality—P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon, formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 35 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes.

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent., in cash and 50 per cent. in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say: "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such a company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

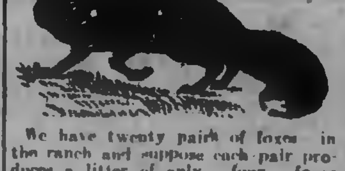
Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.



We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

Timber as Strong as Cast Iron

Probably the strongest timber in the world is a species of eucalyptus, known as yate, which grows to a considerable size in Australia. Its average tensile strength is 24,000 pounds per square inch; in other words a bar of this wood one inch square will (in theory, at least) hold up a weight of twelve tons. This is equal to good cast iron.

A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will, and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted. We need not care whether they could prove the forty-seventh proposition; they do a better thing than that—they practically demonstrate the great theorem of the Liveableness of Life.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

THE FARM WOOD LOT

Many Reasons Given Why It Should be Preserved

People of to-day are more intent on clearing land, getting more acres into cultivation than they are in conserving the farm wood lot. Prof. Moody, of Cornell advocates the maintenance of a wood lot for three reasons. In the first place he claims that fuel is going to be a question of no little significance in the near future and the farm that can produce at least part of the fuel each year will have the question partially solved. Coal is going to rise in price, therefore we will naturally turn toward the use of wood.

In the second place the average wood lot can produce a share of the lumber that is necessary for the repairs and modifications on the farm year after year. With a portable saw mill it is an easy matter to handle the well grown trees so as to get a certain amount of lumber at least. Fence material is bound to become a subject of some concern. Naturally the cement fence post is durable and popular, but it is doubtful if it will ever entirely supplant the wooden post. It is doubtful if even the most enthusiastic advocate would advance such a theory. Certainly the farm wood lot makes the landscape more beautiful, it has a certain æsthetic value which cannot be overlooked entirely, it makes the farmstead more comfortable for it furnishes a windbreak that turns the severe blasts of winter and if extensively enough cultivated it will have its influence on the rainfall of this country.—Maritime Farmer.

Cut some small rounds out of cheese pastry and bake. Mix a tablespoonful of cream and grated cheese, and spread rather thickly over each. Decorate with two strips of chilli cut like a match, and put a caper between each.

A Sick Room Hint

If you have to keep up a fire in an invalid's room provide yourself with an old glove and a stick that can be used as a poker. With the glove on a piece of coal can be picked up and put on the fire with the minimum noise, and the wooden poker is far less noisy than any other. Little things, perhaps; but little things make an enormous difference in the comfort or otherwise of an invalid.

HINTS ABOUT EGGS

Keep the nests clean. Change the straw, or shavings, once a month.

Gather the eggs twice a day.

Keep the eggs in a cool, dry place.

Never keep eggs near onions, fish, kerosene or anything with a strong odor, as the shell is porous and they absorb odors.

Keep the extra small and extra large [illegible]e, as they will spoil the appearance [illegible], uniform [illegible]

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, and testimonials.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel, Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. Our Point of View

A Mr. Six has been made postmaster at a Western town. Now he can sign his name 6 P.M. when he sends his reports to Ottawa.

A Washington letter to the Times says roof dinners are becoming popular there. We don't know how a roof tastes, but presume that it is cheaper in Washington than a sirloin steak hence the popularity of the dinners.

A news item says that a number of Boston women intend to establish a town of all women and no men. But the movement is doomed to failure. Men are absolutely necessary to put out the clock and wind the cat besides doing other odd jobs about the house.

The junior reporter of the g. f. j. remarked the other day in ear-shot of the managing editor, that when a duck lays an egg she waddles away as though nothing had happened; when a hen lays one there s an awful racket. This is true, and we desire to call the attention of local merchants to the fact that a hen advertises, hence the great demand for hen eggs. Moral: Don't be a duck.

Our Potential Riches

The Unitid States Departmene of Agriculture tells us that there are, in the United States no less than 832,000,000 acres of arable land which, is not under the plow, i.e. which is not cultivated. Just what this would mean of increase to the national wealth can readily be seen if we estimate the value of an acre's crop at the low sum of ten dollars. Even at this figure this land would give a yield worth $8,320,000,000. And if Canada's unused soil treasures were brought to light by human labor the world would not need to go hungry for a while. Our potential riches are simply incalculable.

Dangerous Throat Troubles Prevented by Nerviline

IT ENDS MISERY OF COLDS QUICKLY.

Don't wait till night.

Get after your cold now,—this very minute, before it grows dangerous you should apply old-time "Nerviline."

Rub your chest and throat, rub them thoroughly with Nerviline. Relief will be immediate.

Nerviline will save you from lying awake to-night, coughing, choking and suffering from congestion in the chest and acute pain in the throat.

Nerviline will break up that dull neuralgic headache—will kill the cold and chill at its very beginning— will save you from perhaps a serious illness.

To take away hoarseness, to break up a grippy cold, to cure a sore throat or bad cold in the chest, you can use nothing so speedy and effective as Nerviline. For forty years it has been the most largely used family remedy in the Dominion. Time has provd its merit, so can you by keeping handy on the shelf the large 50c. family size bottle; small trial size 25c. Sold by any dealer anywhere.

Nathan and the Home Church

The unanimity with which the Roman Catholic press of the United States and Canada has attacked Ernesto Nathan, and the virulence of these attacks has been matter of surprise to many, and their frantic appeals first to the United States Government to refuse to receive Mr. Nathan, and then to Roman Catholics to boycott the Panama Exposition because the Government had refused to listen to their prayers have not left a very good impression upon the public. And now that the man, who for years was mayor of Rome, is actually in the United States and attending to his business, the attacks upon him though fruitless, still continue. The sole reason assigned for the attacks upon this man is that he "insulted" the Pope. But it is hard for the average layman, whether Protestant or Roman Catholic to understand why a Protestant Government should be asked to interfere with the appointment made by a Roman Catholic Government, especially by a Government which is in closest contact with the Vatican, on the plea that the appointee has "insulted" the Pope. Surely the appeal in all decency should have been made to Rome rather than to Washington. If a Roman Catholic Government does not feel like resenting these so-called insults why should a Protestant Government be expected to take action in regard to them? And back of it all there is the suspicion that Nathan is not the only sinner. Has not the Methodist Church also "insulted" the Pope by entering Rome? We have been told that it has, and by the very papers which are urging the recall of Nathan. Are not these "insults" just what have been going on for years, and what will go on just as long as the Pope persists in making his untenable and preposterous claims to supremacy over all governments and all religion?

Some Paving Questions

Seeing that The Examiner has come out flat-footed in advocacy of the present local paving system and "roasted" The Times for daring to uphold the rights of our fellow ratepayers, we would like to ask the Examiner one or two questions.

Before launching these enquiries we must express surprise that the Examiner took an aeroplane flight through the questionable realms of "hot air" handed them presumably by an adherent of the present paving construction.

QUESTIONS.

Did not a representative of the present paving system inspire the Examiner's editorial on "Pure (?) Trinidad Asphalt?

Has not The Times facts that are incontrovertible on the paving question?

Why does the company that installed the present local paving system insist that they do all the work including the subsurface work?

Does not this beat the Peterborough contractor and laborer out of well-deserved employment?

Will the Aldermen whom are placed in their city seats by the working man's vote advocate such a close corporation deal?

Will the working man stand for outside labor being brought here to beat them out of a job?

Does not a competing firm of pavers say that should they get the coming contracts, they are willing, under proper bonds being given, to allow local people to do the subsoil work?

Is not the firm that did the paving here affiliated with the Barber Co. who paved Buffalo?

Has not the Barger Co. got "closed specifications,"—after interviewing the press and aldermen of that city, to "freeze out" all competition?

Does Peterborough, with its rapidly increasing system of paving want to be tied up by a monopoly?

Is it not true that similar pavements on Richmond and Dundas streets, London, cost originally $45,300?

Did not the repairs on these streets between 1901 to 1911 cost about $42,000?

Should The Examiner deny any or all of these interrogations we can give facts and figures affirming them. As before intimated, we did not start out to take a partisan stand, we simply tried to defend the city's interests.

Food For a Life Time

An English scientist with a passion for statistics computed the amount of food that the average man eats in a lifetime. He asserts that in the process of attaining his three score years and ten he eats about fifty-four tons of solid food and fifty-three tons of liquid. He will have eaten 12,000 eggs, 400 pounds of cheese, about four tons of fish, and, could it have been all baked at once, a loaf of bread equal in size to an ordinary family hotel. But think of the vegetables devoured! The scientist says a train three miles long would be required to bring a life's supply to the average man.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

TO BOOM OUR CITY

Editor Morning Times:

Sir.—Peterborough has spent hundreds of dollars, possibly justified, in booming our City, with an ultimate object of interesting manufacturers' capital. Now the City's money has gone for a few thousand leaflets or pamphlets that, in the course of ordinary business life, are glanced over, and, in too many cases, simply thrown away. I was, some years ago, connected with the moving picture business. I realize that no medium for public advertising is presented to a greater public than the films. I may be obsessed from former connection with the movies, with this idea. Still, I have a fixed conviction that for publicity no better method is to be mentioned than moving pictures. Yesterday at the Royal Theatre here was displayed a drama advertising Sherwin-Williams' paint.

In this City we have the largest lift lock, and one of only three, in the world. Why not have the City Council or Board of Trade communicate with Pathe Freres, the Biograph, the Vitograph, or any firms making films to pursuade some firm to photograph the lift lock and, incidentally, advertise Peterborough.

I might say that, without expectation or hope of getting one red cent personally, I sent a scenario of a play admitting it was crude, and only a suggestion, to Pathe Freres, of New York. This was done in a sincere desire to justify or mollify the 26 mill rate the present City Council has inherited. Pathe Freres replied courteously, stating that the expense of staging such a play, bring in the Peterborough Lift Lock, would be too expensive to justify such action. Surely if a big motion picture company coulh be urged or paid for exhibiting before ninety million people a picture descriptive of the Lift Lock and Stoney Lake, it would be a good investment for this City. I have mentioned this matter to two of our Aldermen, who seemed favourably impressed but have taken no action.

VANISHING RACE OF THE NORTH

Eskimos Illustrate Nature's Great Adaptability But They Are Disappearing Rapidly

The Eskimos seem fated to disappear before the diseases of civilization. They are an ancient race and have left evidence of value to geologists in estimating the slow elevation of northern areas in the gradual wrinkling of the earth's crust. Hides or blinds of stone built by the ancient hunters on the shores to watch for seal and other marine animals are in some places high and far inland.

These doomed people reveal nature's wonderful adaptability. They are formed to resist the Arctic frosts. They are short and rotund of form. Their fingers and toes are short and fat. Their necks, too, are small and round, and their entire bodies are protected by abundance of adipose tissue. Wonderful powers of vision essential to the procuring of sustenance, where a seal must be discerned at a great distance, have become a racial characteristic.

These people learned to fashion nature's gifts to their own uses, to make tools, tan skins, build huts, tents, and boats, catch fish, capture the bear, the walrus, and the seal, domesticate and harness the dog, and make fire their servant. They evolved artistic taste in designing their clothing, and developed a religion and a system of morality. They have not even the beginnings of government, for they have no chief, and public opinion is the supreme law. Perhaps this is due to the continuous fight with nature, which has left no time or energy for organizing to fight one another. There is only a remnant of the Arctic type on Canada's northern shores and islands, the total being estimated at 3,447.

MARRIED AT SWITCH BOARD

Telephone Operator Did Not Leave Her Post on Wedding Day

With business too pressing as a telephone operator for a church wedding, Miss Alta F. Gum, in charge of a telephone exchange in Colorado, was married to H. B. Mick, while wearing the head receiver and with the transmitter in one hand. Twice during the ceremony she stopped the officiating clergyman to answer telephone calls.

"Henry B. Mick, do you take this woman to be your lawful and wedded wife, to"—began the minister.

"Hello, Hello; yes, just a minute, please," broke in Miss Gum.

Turning to the minister, she said: "Sorry to interrupt you, but that subscriber was very anxious for a number. Proceed."

"To—to—cherish, love and protect," stammered the embarrassed minister.

"And you, Alta F. Gum, do you take this man—"

"Number, please," interrupted the operator bride. "Yes, yes I know, but the line is busy. Ring again. Oh, very well, there is your party. Thank you."

After several interruptions the minister succeeded in getting the knot tied.

Miss Gum was the manager of the telephone exchange for several years, and on the day set for their wedding she informed Mick she could not desert her post at the switching board.

"The only way out of it will be for me to wear the head receiver during the ceremony," she said.

MOVING PICTURES TAKEN AT QUEBEC

Nothing Was Spared in Making the Representation of Battle as Realistic as Possible

A motion picture production was staged in Quebec upon the locations of the original battles. Twenty-five performers who were to represent the principal characters in the picture were sent to Quebec. Then came the hiring of an army of more than six hundred men to represent the French and English troops.

Three months were spent in photographing the various scenes, and training the "soldiers" for the work required of them. It is estimated that between the time of planning the production and the photographing of the final scene fully $75,000 was spent.

Not a detail which would add to the realism of the picture was overlooked. A notable instance of this occurred when a historic vessel was hired from the Canadian Government and utilized as the flagship which carried General Wolfe. To bring the fleet up to the proper numerical strength, other vessels were hired or purchased.

The Canadian Government allowed the use of the old historic fortifications for the pictures. The dismantled cannon used by the French in 1759 were remounted and once again frowned through the actions.

The men comprising the French and English armies spent several weeks in acquiring the rudiments of a military education. The danger of allowing inexperienced men to handle the cannon can readily be seen. Therefore, the "gunners" spent many hours a day at drill before the directors were satisfied they were capable of handling the weapons.

The producers were fortunate in finding a portion of the town in old Quebec, which contained several deserted houses. Permission was secured from the authorities to use these buildings for the purposes of showing the effects of the English bombardment. The picture showed the bombs hurling through the air and piercing the walls of these buildings.

A camp city was erected on the Island of Orleans, near Quebec, and here the troops were quartered while the pictures were being made. An added touch of realism was acquired by securing the Caughnawaga tribe, a branch of the Iroquois, for the battle scene. These red men are the direct descendants of the Caughnawagas who aided the French during the 1759 campaign.

Peter's Adventures in Matrimony

By Leona Dalrymple

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judges.

The truth about "the girl in the case" distinguishes this new series by Miss Dalrymple. Her character studies will not appear unfamiliar to the majority of readers, who will follow the fortunes of "Peter" with interest.

No. 104.

The Unexpected Guest.

LEONA DALRYMPLE

"MARY," I said, slipping out to the kitchen, "I've brought a man home to dinner with me."

"Peter!" said my wife in tones of tragedy only justified by a fire, a flood or an earthquake for whose delivery I had personally contracted.

"What in the world is the trouble?" I demanded.

"Cold meat," said Mary.

"Well, what of it?" I inquired. "Certainly when I bring a man home this way I'm fully prepared and so's he to take whatever's going. He's a nice chap and a business friend, and I'd like to have him feel perfectly at home. Why can't we accept him just—well—just as Smith and his wife accepted me the other night?"

"Just because Madge Smith has absolutely no pride at all," said Mary with dignity, "is no particular reason why I shouldn't. Peter, you'll have to entertain him while I do a lot of things. And then you'll have to entertain him while I slip into another dress. Oh, dear, dear! Why couldn't you have 'phoned? The house is a sight."

"The house," I said, "is spotless. You know it, Mary. And you look as neat and pretty as a rose. What is there for dinner, anyway?"

"Cold meat," said Mary again in utterly lifeless tones.

"There's certainly something besides cold meat," I insisted. "What's this?"

"Salad," said Mary.

"And what's in this saucepan?"

"Spinach. And there're potatoes baking in the oven."

"Well, what under the sun more do you want? Caviare and venison? Surely you have a very nice little dinner ready."

"It is not at all the sort of dinner I care to serve a guest who is an absolute stranger," said Mary very primly. "You know it, Peter." And with that she began to bustle around the kitchen with two wild scarlet spots in her cheeks. She began to open a great many cans of things, and I could see she was just about on the verge of tears. Suddenly she set down a can with a vicious bang.

"Peter," she said, "will he stay all night?"

"I'd hoped so," I ventured.

"Then," said Mary, "I've got to dust the guest room this very minute. Yes, before dinner even. I know very well it's a sight. It fronts the street and gets all the dust. Peter, how could you?"

"I'll dust the guest room if it must be done," said I. "For heaven's sake, Mary, don't get hysterical. And let's have for dinner just whatever you had ready—nothing else."

"You mix the salad dressing," said Mary, "and I'll dust the guest room."

And she did, though I went in and looked around and saw perfectly well that it didn't need it. I was for having our guest, a wholly likable, congenial young fellow, out in the kitchen while I was mixing the salad dressing, but Mary held up hands of horror. Therefore I worked guiltily in the kitchen, Mary dusted the guest room, and our guest read his newspaper in the front room.

I hope he wasn't conscious of the furious whispering that went on betimes in the kitchen, or of the general atmosphere of constraint, but I'm sure he must have been. I know I was not at my ease, and Mary's toilet, when at last we sat down to dinner, evidenced a hurried tribute to our guest. Moreover, we had a most elaborate meal (of canned things) and one that no guest would believe had been prepared for a simple family dinner.

My guest hoped sincerely he had not put Mrs. Hunt out.

"Oh, no, no, indeed," said Mary graciously, but her air was not convincing. And I'm sure he guessed.

I shall not forget the fevered energy of hospitality that Mary lavished upon my guest. That is the last time I shall try any experiments in extemporaneous hospitality.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

A young man has been calling on me for two years. He does not seem to have the courage to "pop the question," and I don't know what to do to help him. Can you please give me some hints on how to do it?

I also think 10 o'clock is plenty late enough for him to stay when he comes six or seven nights out of the week, don't you? Is it proper to ask a man in after you return from an entertainment? CECILE.

DON'T be at home the next time your young friend, who is so diffident, calls. Be busy the next time you meet him, and hurry away.

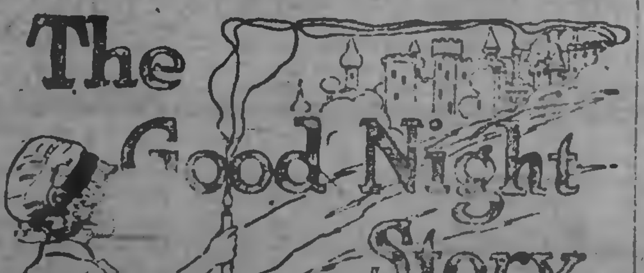
Talk about another man; tell of some good-looking chap you've met. And stop giving any man in the world seven evenings of your week—unless you're engaged to be married to him.

Damaged goods—that's what they'll call you one of these days if you allow such a thing to go on. Don't throw away your life on a man who is so sure of you that he thinks he doesn't even have to ask you whether you want to marry him or not.

Don't let him think he's the only man in the world. Allow him to see that there are others, and that the others know that you are alive.

Annie Laurie

Miss Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. They should be addressed to her, care this office.



The Ear of Corn

By Vernon Merry

ONCE in the long ago two soldiers, who were brothers, came back from the wars and looked about them for work to earn their bread and water. Edward the elder said he was going to be rich no matter how he got the money, but Thomas the younger wished only for a living if that was all he could earn by honest work. So they parted and each went his way.

Years passed and Thomas, who had become a farmer, met his brother one day when he was driving to market. He had to turn his horse and farm wagon into a ditch so that a fine carriage might have the road. Seated in the carriage, dressed in the finest silks and satins Thomas recognized his brother, Edward.

With Edward there were two wealthy and well known men; so Edward, who was very proud, did not care to stop and let them know that the rough farmer was his own brother. He did not even let Thomas know that he saw him, but drove right along as if Thomas had not been there.

After the carriage had disappeared Thomas turned his farm wagon back into the road and slowly drove along to market, thinking how hard his life was in comparison with Edward's easy existence. But when Thomas got home that night and looked at his dear wife and many children he forgot to envy his rich brother. And when they told him that they had found a wonderful ear of corn growing in the cornfield he went out with them to look at it, feeling as if all the happiness of the world was his.

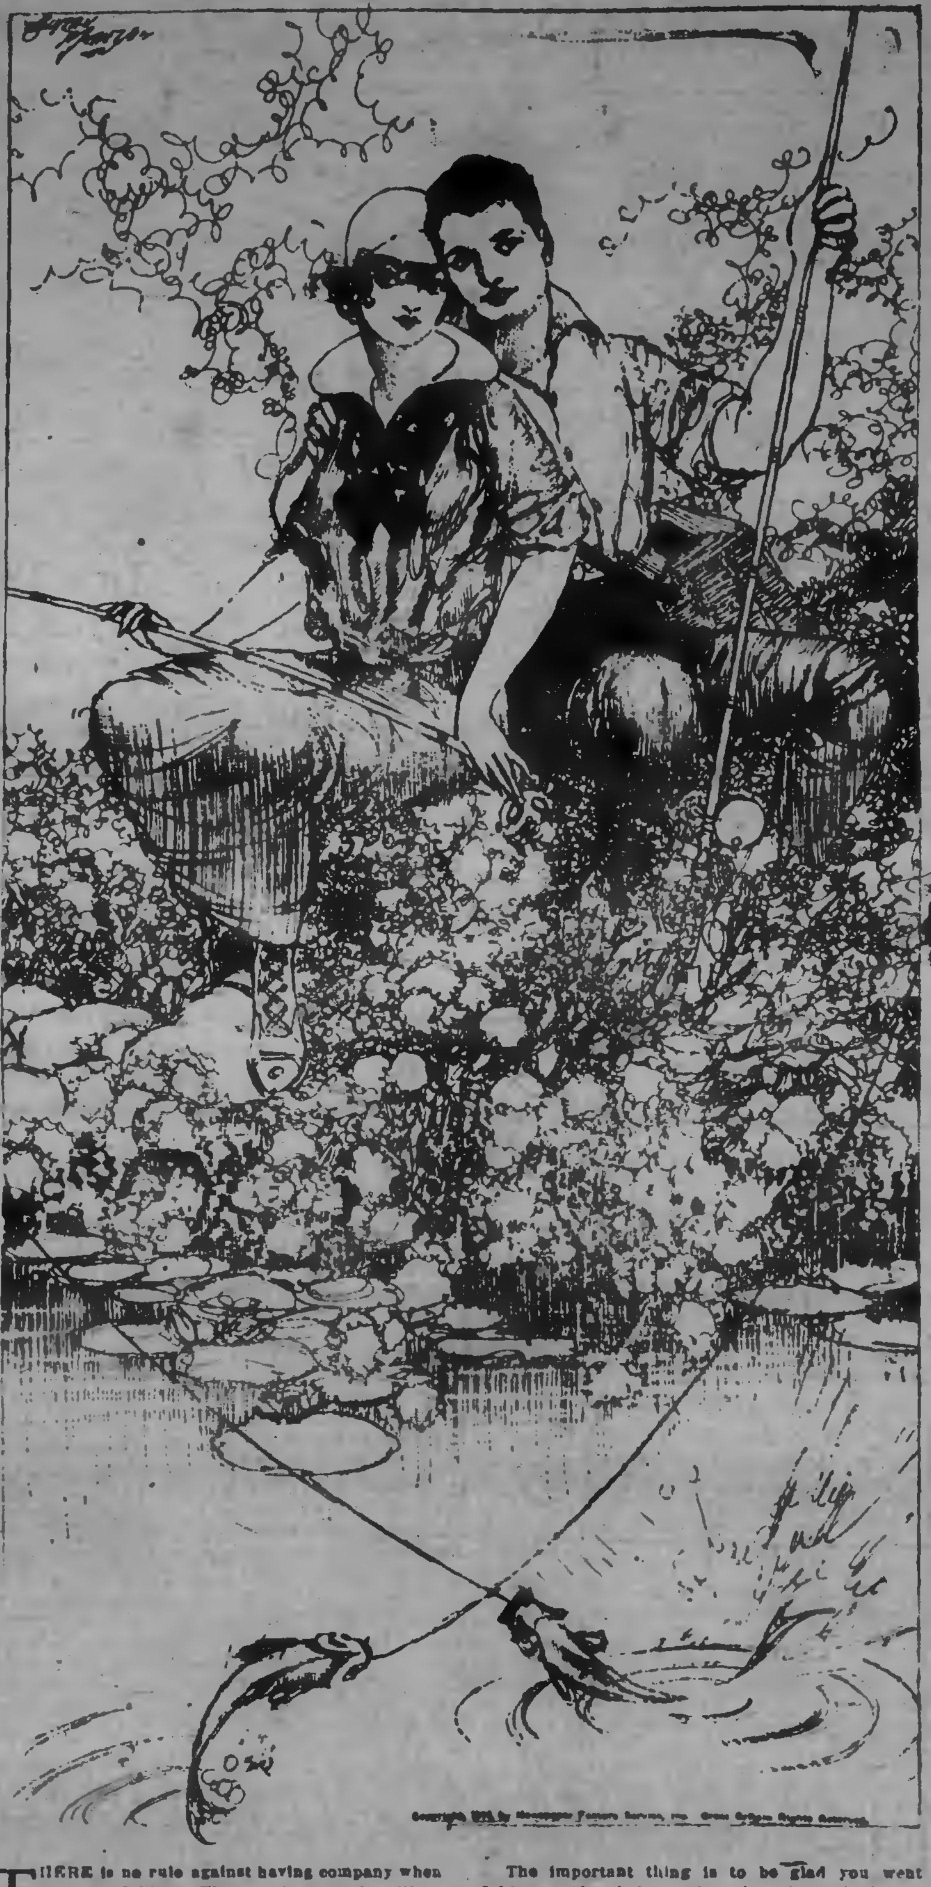
Imagine Thomas's surprise when he saw that the ear of corn was 10 times the size of any other ear in the cornfield, and that the stalk was 15 feet high. Thomas was sure it must have grown all at once in the night to that great size. He wondered how big it would be when it stopped growing. So he called his hired man and they put a fence around it to keep the cows away, and did everything they could think of to help it grow.

In the months that followed Thomas's giant ear of corn became the wonder of the whole country and men came miles to see it. By the time it stopped growing the stalk was so big that Thomas had to hire 20 men to cut it down. When the ear of corn lay on the ground it was 14 feet long and so big around that a man could hardly touch the top even when he stood on tiptoe. Thomas wondered what he should do with it, until his good wife suggested that he take it to the King as a present.

So they put it on a wagon and hitched six white horses to it, and Thomas drove away to give his giant ear of corn to the King. The King was so pleased with the wonderful gift that he asked Thomas what he wanted most in the world. Thomas told the King that he wished to be as rich as his brother, Edward, and so the King gave him gold and lands enough to gratify that wish.

Now when Edward heard of his brother Thomas's good fortune he was very jealous. He wondered how he could win favor with the King, so he decided to give the King some valuable horses. When the King received them he looked at Edward and smiled, and gave him Thomas's giant ear of corn. "For," said the King, "raising such fine horses as you do, you should have the finest ear of corn in the whole world to feed them."

FISHING :: :: By Michelson



Copyright 1914 by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain Rights Reserved.

THERE is no rule against having company when you go a-fishing. There isn't any rule, either, against THINKING hard, or even against talking a little in very low tones. Of course, fish are very sensitive. You must not disturb them, except with the necessary bait. Naturally, you can carry this theory of not disturbing them too far.

The important thing is to be glad you went a-fishing—to be glad you chose just the RIGHT company—to be GLAD. For this is summer, and all the wonder of summer is yours. All the joy of earth and sky and fragrant air is yours. That OWNERSHIP feeling creeps in. The FISH themselves aren't the whole game.

Walk and Swim for a Good Figure

By LUCREZIA BORI

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York

Special arrangements have been made with Senorita Lucrezia Bori, the famous prima donna soprano, who has created a wonderful impression in Europe and New York on account of her remarkable beauty and artistic attainment, to write for this paper a series of articles on beauty. There is probably no authority her equal in giving the newest and most approved methods of attaining and preserving "the divine right of woman."

LUCREZIA BORI

PUT your corsets on in bed; it's the latest and most approved way. It has the indorsement alike of the medical men and the expert corsetieres. It makes the wearer delightfully comfortable and more beautiful, because it allows her to follow the beautiful lines of her figure.

Fastening the garters and lacing the corsets must be done on one's feet, as it were.

To adjust your corsets in bed, first open the lacings to their widest capacity, and even them, so they are the same width from top to bottom. Lie flat on your back, and slip the corsets under your body, then take a deep breath and draw them around and into the place where they feel as if they belonged. Finally hook them beginning at the top. When they are hooked, stretch the arms over the head and wriggle into the stays. When you are sure they are perfectly adjusted so they do not pull or pinch or bind anywhere, rise and fasten the garters and lace the corsets. This is a particularly good way to adjust the front laced corsets or the elastic slip-ons.

By the way, one of the most successful beauty culturists, who makes over figures instead of faces, tells me that the cult of the corset-less figure is passing. There is a rumor afloat that, with the tighter fitting bodices there will come the fashion of the trimmer waist, and the girls who have reveled in their uncorseted freedom are now gradually rescuing their stays from the limbo to which they had consigned them.

This same woman gave me some hints on exercises, which she promises will have a tendency to reduce the waist, to rid it of any adipose, and give the figure that delightful quality best known as svelteness.

She advocates swimming for the best all-round reducing or developing exercise there is and says: "Swimming will do for each individual woman's figure exactly what is most needed. If she is too stout it will reduce. If she is too thin it will round her out. Also it will make the waist graceful and supple and trim and strong."

Another exercise for the waist muscles consists of holding the body firm at the hips and using the waist as a pivot, slowly sway the torso from side to side. This is also known as the "liver twister." As it stirs the liver to activity it will have a beneficial effect on the complexion.

Here is how it is done: Sitting erect, take a deep breath, place the tips of the fingers upon the shoulders, and slowly twist the body from the waist up as far as possible to right and left without moving the hips. Then take the same movement with the fingers clasped back of the neck and the elbows on a line with the shoulders.

Walk in the early morning and walk with your heart singing and your face smiling, for unless we approach whatever we have to do happily it were better that we did not do it at all.

Pure air to breathe, simple food to eat, good music at intervals during the day, long walks in the heart of a beautiful country, warm baths, cool needle sprays, and from 11 to 12 hours of sleep. This is the "cure" administered in a famous sanitarium, where overworked brains, ragged nerves and overtense minds are straightened out and put back in commission.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Cold Rubs or Hot Tubs; Why You Must Choose

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

PERHAPS the hot bath has its origin far beyond the Japanese practice, for the sun itself sets man a good bathing example, by virtually bathing the earth every day with its own hot rays.

Bread may be the staff of life, but the whole stay of existence is water, within and without. Smooth runs the water where the brook is deep, and more water glides by the mill than the miller wots of, but all of it is good for bathing purposes.

It hardly seems possible today that, until a score of years ago, houses were built without bathrooms or porcelain tubs. Yet the hygienic flush, enamel tub with showers and other sanitary appurtenances were practically unknown a generation ago.

Nowadays it is as heinous a crime to be without a tub and the morning bath as it is to wear detachable cuffs and liver pads. No self-respecting man or woman can do without the former or abide the latter.

Whether you bathe in silver lakes or rippling rivers, amidst plunging seaside breakers or in the slippery tub matters little so long as the bath is obtained every day. The Japanese are so keen about the daily bath that they make certain having one even if they must use a rain barrel in the back yard.

The Cold Rub.

There are some who rail mightily against the morning bath, but when the silent early hour reigns o'er the fields is the time to bathe. True enough, the cold bath is a better tonic to flagging tissues than the luke warm bath, but like all tonics and stimulants, the cold bath can be overdone. It may become a hazardous habit.

To forget that the cold rub is merely for cleanliness or a mild tonic is to jeopardize health. The skin is to the living skeleton what the armor-plated sides of a battleship are to that creature's vital parts. In other words these protecting coverings must be kept all aglow and highly polished.

The same blood that flows through the internal parts also rushes full tilt in sanguinary streams through the heart, liver, kidneys and other organs. Therefore, any cold or heat applied to the skin is quickly transferred via the blood express to the furthermost recesses of your texture. The brain, the eyes, the ears, as well as the muscles, the stomach and the important structural machinery are quickly affected. The upshot of this is to make you, if you are unaccustomed to cold water, full of goose flesh without and shivers and shakes within.

For those who ail, who are debilitated, who are below par in any sense of the word, it is folly to take the cold, daily morning bath. A cold water rub, a brisk massage with a "roughouse" Turkish towel, should suffice as a sane substitute for the cold bath or shower.

"Bathless" Health Fiction.

The apparent health of many persons who never bathe or who "wait impatiently for Saturday night" is a fictitious phantasm. It's much the same as the eternally coated tongues, the chronic stomach disorders and the invalidism, which is present throughout the lives of those who never know what they miss. Babies who are wrongly nourished and live later to be three score and ten, more or less inefficient, never hark back to Granny's dietetic errors. Similarly, people who seldom bathe are blissfully ignorant of their physical, mental and bodily deficiencies.

Summer Fabrics Dainty: Blousy Waists Are Passing

By MADGE MARVEL

MIDSUMMER fashions represent a queer intermingling of simplicity and fussiness, but there is good reason to hope that simplicity will continue to remain the stronger element.

When fashion opens the doors to draperies there is always danger of overdoing them, and overdone draping can only result in inartistic messiness, for the entire beauty of drapery lies in the grace and perfection of its lines.

Each day sees the blousiness of the bodice disappearing. The newest gowns have it drawn down so snugly that it is hardly apparent, and the ultra frocks show the tight fitting basque which is becoming to the well proportioned figure.

The summer fabrics are so dainty and fresh in both coloring and patterns that if one can only avoid the temptation to let the freedom to drape run away with artistic judgment she will look more than ever alluring in her warm weather attire.

The quaint posied voiles and organdies and muslins lend themselves to picturesque styles, and are better without much trimming. Series of puffs sometimes take the place of series of flounces and give a pleasing variation of drapery. Such a frock is illustrated.

Naturally it would be possible only for the slender, willowy figure, but it is one of the Paris fancies, and has met with great favor there. It is so delightfully simple that it is particularly desirable for the young girl. The model shown is developed in Dolly Varden muslin, the groundwork the palest shade of pink, and the flowers showing pink, blue and violet with the shadow of green leaves.

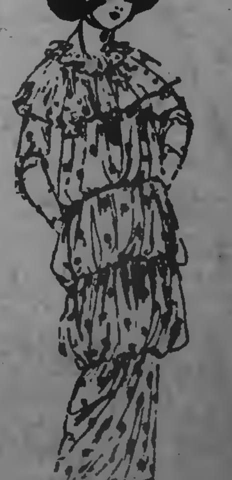
The construction of the skirt makes it necessary to have quite a bit of fulness at the hips. The skirt is caught in wide puffs by shirring on a cord in exactly the old-fashioned manner. If the home dressmaker attempts this frock there is only one warning to give her. She must gauge her shirrings to a nicety, and have them neither too tightly drawn nor left in too much of the balloon effect.

I have seen some frocks of this kind where the shirring cord was of a solid color instead of the material of the dress, but the general impression was not so good, for it took away from the simplicity which is the best excuse for the style.

Some puffed models have the skirt divided by a puff at the knees, the upper portion falling over the restraining cording, and the lower edge being cut so that it accomplishes the narrowing which is favored for the foot outline.

Where elbow sleeves are worn with these puffed frocks they are frequently much fuller than the average sleeve, and finished with a wide ruffle of soft lace.

The hat which accompanies this model is rather more extreme than the average woman will favor, and the picturesque Leghorn hat with trimming of tulle and field flowers will be more becoming.



Charming Model in Dolly Varden Muslin.

With such a gown the trim, smart, but severe sailor should be laid aside. Whatever hat is chosen it must have picture qualities or else it will seem an alien in the costume scheme.

The [illegible] lacings is the right shoe to wear with this costume. If we are to be droopy and picturesque let's try to be so with complete consistency.

SPIRITUAL DESTITUTION MAKES LUXURY

"Luxury is a form of intemperance. It is a form of excess which becomes a morbidity, which becomes a morbid concentration on one's own private pleasure," said Rev. Dr. W. H. Hincks, Toronto, in a sermon on "Luxury; Its Tendencies and Dangers." Luxury, the preacher said, breaks down the moral fibre, and the man indulging in it goes to pieces from his own excesses. He claimed that that luxury of which they had forms in every city in the old and new worlds was the most insidious disease from which our modern civilization was suffering. He mentioned types of the luxury-loving classes of all ages, so that they might see what a selfish thing luxury became, what a heartless thing it might become, and the price these people were willing to pay solely for sensual pleasures. That was the particular curse of luxury. The whole western world was clamoring for more comfort to-day. The rule was that the average successful man degenerated through luxury. The first thing he did was to provide himself with a luxurious establishment, which took the place of a home, with luxuries of the table, which took the place of a simple diet, and with luxuries of clothing, locomotion and every form of comfort. It was more difficult now to get soldiers for national defence, or sailors to man our myriad ships, than ever before. Luxury was sapping the nerve of heroic enterprise; it was shutting out the Sabbath day as a day of rest and worship, "and when you weaken the Sabbath day, you can say in truth that you are laying the axe to the root of the commonwealth," said Dr. Hincks.

"And wherein lies the cure?" he asked. "It is only to be found in regeneration, in a revival of living. It will not be found in legislation. The parliament cannot do it. The Church alone can effect a cure; the Church alone can save us from the downward drift that follows living for the senses alone. Ministers have a great responsibility resting on them. They must [illegible] plain statements of how luxury [illegible] out men's better lives," he [illegible] -loving classes, infinitely [illegible] dangerous to the world's progress, were as ce[illegible] older classes of landlords [illegible] country. "Please your[illegible] your own desires," wa[illegible] There was the danger. [illegible] peasant, the backbone of England, was acquiring the land, was going back to the soil, with his love of simplicity and love of God, that would save the commonwealth. But the moneyed business man was stepping in, and his sole purpose in purchasing land was to increase his pleasures and give a wider scope to his luxuries. "Promise yourself," he continued, "that you will accept no luxury that will make you a more uninteresting man or woman. Accept only such as will increase your individuality to do and to be good. Unless an increase of luxury increases your noble dreams do not indulge in it. Spiritual destitution is the mark of the luxury-loving classes, and that is the greatest destitution I know of."

SHOULD PROTECT THE FUR ANIMALS

Pirates in Northern Ontario Fastnesses Said to be Waging a War of Extermination

While beaver and other fur-bearing animals are increasing at such a rate in Algonquin Park that it has been found necessary to thin them out, trappers and hunters are waging a war of extermination on these valuable animals beyond the limits of the park. This northland is such a network of waterways and forest fastnesses that it forms an ideal breeding ground for all the well known furbearers. Beaver, otter, fisher, marten, mink, muskrat and lynx thrive here to perfection and produce fur not to be equalled, much less excelled, anywhere else on the continent. Before the days of steel traps and white trappers, with their chemically-prepared baits, the Indians were assured of a good catch even with their primitive dead-falls and snares. But those days have passed never to return, unless the whole country is protected in like manner to Algonquin Park, and that, of course, is impossible. The rapid rise in the price of all kinds of fur has greatly increased the number of trappers. These men usually select their hunting grounds early in the fall, build one or more camps, according to the number of traps they intend to employ, and bring in their supplies by canoe. Far beyond the [illegible]st outpost of civilization they pitch [illegible] when every lake and [illegible] icy fetters of [illegible] out let or [illegible] marten and some oth[illegible] be taken during certain [illegible] the taking of beaver and otter is strict[illegible]. But the big prices to be [illegible] these is a standing [illegible] to many to violate the law[illegible]rly is this the case near the Quebec boundary, as in that Province beaver and otter may be sold provided the trapper is prepared to swear they were taken in Quebec. Such a trifling matter as perjury is of no consequence to these pelt pirates, who take the oath and sell their furs in this way whenever their catch warrants a trip across the boundary. To follow these men to their forest fastnesses is almost impossible in winter, although the officers of the Game and Fisheries Department may know very well th[illegible] districts they are working in. B[illegible] although they may be reached occasionally it is quite another matter [illegible] secure evidence sufficient to convict them, and the best that can be done is to put a stop to their depredations for the time being. Even the confiscation of a whole season's catch does not seem to discourage them, for they return to the work next season with more experience and added care. There seems to be a strange fascination about this life in the wilds which, once experienced, has an irresistible attraction for some men. They follow it year in and year out until rheumatism or death puts a stop to their wanderings.—The Globe.

STREETS THE SCHOOL CHAIR THE RESULT

Mr. Winthrop D. Lane made a careful investigation of the careers of four famous gunmen of New York who were electrocuted for murder. He wished to find out if they came of degenerate stock, or if there was anything abnormal in their childhood that foreshadowed their terrible crime and its penalty. As far as the parents of the four are concerned, there is no record of law-breaking. Nor in their early youth was there any indication of abnormality. While none of them was a typical Sunday school lad, none of them appeared to be worse than the average boy. What was common to them all was an education upon the streets of New York [illegible] in th[illegible] poolrooms when they became old enough. There was a distaste for steady toil, a desire for luxuries, for fine clothing, and for spending money, and consequently a necessity to get this money somehow. Common to all was the absolute failure of their parents, their teachers and everyone else who had any authority over them to really civilize these men. It is said that the average boy is a savage at heart. These boy savages were never civilised, though living in the very heart of what is called civilization.

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

DAUGHTERS OF THE EMPIRE

Mrs. Gooderham, Toronto, prominent among the Daughters of the Empire, says that the organization consists of a body of women pledged, among many other objects, to stimulate and give expression to the sentiment of patriotism, which binds the women and children of the empire around the throne and person of their gracious and beloved sovereign, and to supply and foster a bond of union among the daughters and children of the empire, to successfully promote and foster these ideals. "We realize," she says, "that, as these girls and boys of to-day are the women and men of to-morrow, it is here our greatest hope lies. Bearing this in mind, the Daughters of the Empire have been carrying on this work in our schools; both with school linking and comrades' correspondence between the children of the empire, through our allied society, the Victoria League, London, England. How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Lindsay Post: This morning a serious runaway accident took place in the East Ward when a son of Mr. William Stone, aged about nineteen years, was badly injured. The young man was engaged with a team, and while driving along William street the horses took fright and ran away. Young Stone fell off and was kicked in the side by one of the horses, and had his head and side badly bruised.

Prominent Moose Gets Letter.

Col. Griffith of Toronto, who is a guest at the Oriental Hotel, who is representing the Loyal Order of Moose on Saturday received the following letter from Mr. W. Price, M.P.P., Toronto: Dear Colonel,--Please let me acknowledge your kind letter of congratulations. Although the fight was hard, it was something better appreciated when won. With kind regards, believe me, William H. Price.

Not Occurred Here Yet

Here is a story that has not, as yet, become fact. A few days ago, since Mr. Rowell abolished the bar, a local hotel run by a chique of the ultra-advocates of Mr. Rowell's policy was raided and 26,814 bottles of ale and 1000 gallons of spirits, were siezed. This prophecy is suggested by a Collingwood hotel the "Globe" run by some of Mr. Rowell's policy in Collingwood where 1400 bottles of ale were siezed. If real advocates of temperance had voted elsewhere for a half heated temperance policy, this Collingwood episode would be only too prevalent.

Peterborough Tug Described

Bobcaygeon Independent: A new tug, the Handy Boy, went through recently, and she is something entirely new for these waters. She is owned by Mr. Rogers, of Peterborough, and is commanded by Captain Miller. In build and size she somewhat resembles the Ajax, her distinctive feature is that she uses crude oil as a fuel. The oil is burnt in a spray, and is regulated to a nicety, just as required, and with so little trouble, no fireman is required. The man at the wheel is also Engineer, having the wheel and levers all under his hand. She is 75 horse power, and carries 150 gallons of oil. So far it is understood that the experiment has proved entirely satisfactory, and Mr. Rogers has scored a success for his enterprise.

Want Better Protection.

Although Coroner Greer's Jury found that the death of James Cowie was accidental it also found that the crossing on which he was killed and Elmore Liddell injured on Dominion Day is dangerous, as the verdict contained an urgent appeal to the G.T.R. to set up some sort of a protective device in the form of a warning signal. The jurors' verdict follows: "We, the jury empanelled to inquire into the death of James Cowie find from the evidence submitted that he was killed on July 1, by the G.T.R. noon train on the Monaghan crossing and that his death was accidental and that no blame can be attached to anyone. But, we would suggest that the G.T.R. be requested to have an electric bell or some other device installed and we believe that a number of accidents may be averted by such, on account of the crossing's danger, the view of the train being obstructed."

CITY IN PARAGRAPH

SUNLIGHT AND SHADOW ON THE DIAL OF A CITY LIFE.

Already this year the local population has been increased by some 261 births compared with 245 for the first six months of last year.

"Is that you daddy?" was asked on a local bill board. Dad replies, "No I'm not your dad. I'm just returning from a Rowell booze joint!"

Mr. W. Gillott, the well known undertaker and historian of Millbrook has purchased a Ford car. We may now see Billy her cofremer.

The coroner's jury was fully justified in finding the G.T.R. crossing near St. Peter's cemetery dangerous. It is one of the most dangerous crossings in all Canada.

A Toronto dispatch penned, by a Rowell supporter, complains that many men were arrested on Election Day when the bar was supposed to be temporarily abolished. Nuff sed!

One of the busiest places in Canada on Saturday morning was the new Turnbull department store, opened that day for the first time. Thousands of local women, girls and men surrounded the counters looking for and finding bargains.

VOL. XLI. NO. 150 TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 7, 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

HUSBAND TRACES MISSING FAMILY THROUGH CLUE SOLD HIM BY LODGING HOUSE KEEPER

Wife and Children Came to Toronto Two Weeks Ago Were Met by Strangers on Train and Made Prisoners

Toronto, July 6.—A story of white slavery that would do credit to the worst dives of New York, is told by Mrs. Esther Zaretan, a young Russian married woman, who claims that together with her three children, she was forcibly held prisoner for two weeks in two houses in Toronto until released by her husband, who, in company with several compatriots, forced his way into a house in a lane on Emerson avenue, near Bloor street west, yesterday where he found his wife and children.

The wife came to Toronto from Montreal two weeks ago, and seemingly vanished from the face of the earth. The husband, who had been working in Oshawa, came to the city on Saturday in search of her. He put up at a house on Agnes street, and through the proprietor obtained trace of the whereabouts of his wife.

Yesterday he succeeded in tracing her from the house to which she was first taken to that in which she was found.

It was at the instigation of the husband that Mrs. Zaretan came to Toronto. Mr. Zaretan is a tinsmith by trade. As he could not secure work in Montreal, he had gone to Oshawa, where he fared better. As it was too far for him to go to Montreal at the week-ends to visit his wife and children, he asked them to come to Toronto, where he could see them each week.

His wife complied with his request, and with her three children, whose ages are five, three and two years respectively, she came to Toronto.

Met a Strange Man and Woman.

On the way up she met a man and a woman who struck up an acquaintance with her.

She was lonely and strange, so she welcomed their attentions.

They asked her many questions and she told them all about herself, stating that she had no idea where she could secure a room, as she never had been in Toronto before.

Thereupon, the couple, who claimed to be man and wife, offered to assist her. She was very grateful and offered to go with them. The man told her that his name was Charlie Kohan.

Upon their arrival in Toronto, the woman and her children were taken to a house on St. Johns Place, West Toronto. To the woman's surprise the children were taken away from her, and then she learned of the horrible intentions of the couple she had met. Her terrible experiences during the ensuing week were too disgusting to relate.

She had no opportunity of communicating with anybody on the outside. The proprietor of the house kept her under lock and key and threatened her with all kinds of punishment if she should attempt to make outcries. She was very much afraid of the man and obeyed him.

She was allowed occasionally to see her children and it was through them that she managed once to get out of the house—but not to freedom.

HOW TO BEAUTIFY A SUMMER-SOILED FACE

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, winds or dirt. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin but so gently, gradually there's no discomfort. The wornout skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The younger, healthier under-skin forming the new complexion, is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimpled, freckled or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off mornings.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry etc. An excellent wrinkle-remover, because it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered Saxolite 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. This gives immediate results.

MISS SONYA LEVIN

Miss Sonya Levin emigrated from Russia at the age of five. She has managed by the hardest kind of work to climb the ladder. She is a lawyer connected with a big New York firm which on several occasions has entrusted her with important missions to Europe, because, as they say, she "always comes back with the goods." Miss Levin in public speeches always denounces the anti-suffrage statement that the "working women do not want to vote."

SEPARATE SCHOOL TANGLE INCREASES PRESENT TROUBLE

English-Speaking Ratepayers Have Applied for Injunction to Curb Board

Ottawa, July 6.—Complications are coming thick and fast in the dispute between the French-speaking section of the Separate School Board here, and the English-speaking section. Last week, Chairman Genest, leader of the French-speaking section, in virtue of powers conferred upon him by the majority, gave notice of dismissal to all the lay-teachers in the schools. At the same time it was announced that Christian brothers were to be appointed in case the Government would not depart from its determination to enforce Regulation 17. The lay-teachers dismissed by Chairman Genest, are accorded to him, incompetent under Regulation 17.

The English-speaking members of the Board held a meeting yesterday at which it is understood they decided to apply for an injunction to prevent Chairman Genest from dismissing these teachers. They claim that inasmuch as there is a case in the court against the French-speaking majority at the present time, Mr. Genest had no right whatever to take this action in regard to the lay teachers, and they think they will have no difficulty in getting an injunction.

Two Sets of Teachers.

If they are successful it may mean that at the opening of the term, the Separate school Board here may find itself with a double supply of teachers, for an injunction would prevent the necessary two months' notice being given to the present lay-teachers.

PRESENTATION MADE TO A RETIRING ENGINEER

Last night a pleasing function was in evidence at Coleman's restaurant. This was a complimentary banquet and address, coupled with a handsome ebony fitted suit case to Mr. A. G. Fawcett, who for the past three years has ably filled the responsible position of Superintending Engineer of the local water works.

Mr. E. Massey Cook, the Assistant Engineer, very ably filled the chair. After the elaborate spread had passed into the Department of the Interior Mr. Cook read the following illuminated address:

The Address

Mr. A. G. Fawcett, A.M., I.C.E.:

We, the undersigned, ask you to accept the accompanying suit case as a mark of the appreciation and esteem in which we have held you for the past three years that you have been Superintendent of our Department. Much as we regret your departure we have nevertheless the satisfaction of knowing that you do so to accept a more responsible and highly remunerative position than that which you have held here. PETES TAKE FIRT GAME FROM ERIE IN ERRORLESS FASHION

The Petes opened the week with a clean-cut victory over the Erie aggregation. The game was an excellent exhibition of ball and chuck full of pepper, and as far as the Petes were concerned they took good care that no errors crept into the game.

Old reliable Bob Sterling was on the mound and put in the plug in the first innings and forgot to take it out. Another feature of the game was the capable manner in which Catcher Kelley used his bean. But on one occasion, in the second innings he brought his bean into play and when Morse pitched the ball for the plate, he had his eye on that same bean and——Bing! Kelley received it without a murmur. After a good head rub he started off for the first sack as if nothing happened.

The boys, everyone, played to his limit and at no time were they in trouble.

The visitors played good ball but had a hard job locating Sterling's shoots and that was not very often.

The score—5 to 1 in favor of the Petes.

The game to-day promises to be another fast exhibition, and a large crowd of fans are expected to be on hand.

Oklahoma had its hottest June day in 25 years, when the Mercury raced up to 105 in the shade.

CITY COUNCIL DECIDES NOT TO RESCIND THE MARKET BY-LAW

Aldermen Met In Regular Session Last Night--Disagreement Over Appointment of Plumbing Inspector Women's Council Ask That Market By-Law Be Given a Fair Trial

The city fathers met in regular monthly session last night, Mayor Buller presiding. There were also present Aldermen McIntyre, Anderson, Langford, Johnston, Green, Duffus, Stratton, Duncan and Saunders.

A deputation from the Retail Merchants' Association waited on Council and urged that all restrictions on the market—excepting tolls—should be removed and the market made as free as possible. They asked that the market be opened to buyers at all hours and laid special stress upon what they called the injustice of the by-law enforcing the sale of fowl by weight.

A deputation from the Women's Council was also present on this question, and literally discriminated the other deputation's arguments. Mrs. J. C. Davidson contended that the present market by-law should be given a year's trial to thoroughly test its value. She objected to dealers having early access to the market after 9 a.m., such a policy would mean that only the culls would be left for the city's housekeepers. As to market tolls she could not see why farmers should not pay toll for their market privileges; they pay no taxes to the city, whereas their patrons do. Mrs. Davidson was inclined to the opinion that were the present market by-law enforced, which is not the case at present, and strict attention paid to market cleanliness, conditions would be found satisfactory to all concerned.

Mrs. R. Kingan endorsed Mrs. Davidson's views, and alluded to the fact that one lady who has been using the press in opposition to the present market by-law, never visits the market at all.

His worship promised that due attention would be given the arguments of both deputations and a decision reached. He still adhered to the policy of selling fowl by weight, and did not think anyone selling commodities on the market should be ashamed to put his or her name on the basket, if they had "the goods" to sell. He promised improvement in the way of cleanliness in the market and in the market building.

Market By-law Stands.

Ald. Langford submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Property Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That in order to consider the suggestion from the Retail Merchants Association that a strip be paved within the present market sidewalk for rigs, and that both sidewalk and strip be covered for protection for rain, etc., the chairman be requested to secure an estimate of the cost.

2. That to meet the wishes of the Merchants' Association, the by-law compelling sellers of fowl to weigh their fowl and to have tickets attached to them showing the weight and compelling sellers to have their names and addresses attached to their baskets be rescinded.

3. Thas the market by-law be amended to accede to the request that dealers be allowed to buy on the market after 9 o'clock a.m

4. That Peter Thompson, Assistant Plumbing Inspector be appointed Plumbing Inspector.

Ald. Duncan objected to clause 4, and offered that the City Engineer should be substituted as Plumbing Inspector in place of Mr. Thompson.

Ald. McIntyre and Stratton objected to this on the ground that the City Engineer has already too many irons in the fire already. If Mr. Thompson will not do his duty, then get some one who will.

Ald. Duncan could not understand why some aldermen could support Mr. Thompson, a man who will not do his duty even as assistant Plumbing Inspector, and suggested that clause 4 go back to committee.

On motion of Ald. Johnston and Landford, clause one of the report was carried.

Ta motion of Ald. Johnston and Langford, no action was taken on clauses two and three, the by-law standing as it is.

On motion of Ald. Johnston and Langford, clause four, referring to Mr. Thompson, went back to committee, Mr. Thompson to be present at its convention to state his intentions in regard to filling the office of Plumbing Inspector.

Power Report.

Ald. Johnston submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Power Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. We instructed the Clerk to write to the Peterborough Light & Power Co. and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Telegraph and other companies having poles on the streets and request them to remove spikes from poles that are in the sidewalks up to the height of six feet.

2. George S. Kingdon desiring to increase the motor capacity at his cooper shop applied to the Peterborough Light & Power Co. for the increased current required, but the company declines to instal the transformers and make the connections unless the city agrees to pay the cost estimated at $150 if the city takes over the property of the company. We recommend that if the city takes over the property of the Peterborough Light & Power Co., that company be paid the cost of the transformers and of making the connections, not to exceed $150.

3. In order to settle a claim made by I. N. Watson, who fell from a Hydro-Electric pole on George street, we recommend that a cheque for $100 be issued to the City Solicitor.

This report was adapted as read.

Court of Revision Report.

Mr. W. F. Johnston submitted the following:

Gentlemen,—Your Court of Revision beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That the Federal Life Association Company be refunded $7.50 of the business taxes paid by that company on 406 George street.

2. That a cheque be issued to F. E. Ellis for $7.50 overpaid on income taxes.

3. That a cheque be issued to Braund & Co. for $4.05 on account of garbage collection charges on houses on Aylmer street that were torn down.

4. That a cheque be issued to M. O'Brien for $9.36 as a refund on overpayment of income taxes.

This report was adopted.

POLITICAL STRUGGLE ENTERS LAST STAGE

Both Parties in West Empress Greatest Confidence of Victory

Winnipeg, July 6.—The last week of the political campaign is entered upon with confidence by both parties.

The Conservatives are leaving nothing to chance, and Cabinet Ministers are assisted by Messrs. Rogers and Roche, of the Federal Cabinet, many meetings being planned for closing days in the city and province.

Overwhelming Majority.

The Telegram, Conservative, asserts that the Government will win by an overwhelming majority. It accuses Dr. D. G. Shortreed, the Liberal candidate in Gilbert Plains with having taken away eight ballots from the printing office in Gilbert Plains, and says that constables have been sent after him to demand their return.

Mr. T. C. Norris, Opposition leader after touring the Province last week, declared on return here that "there is going to be a change on July 10" and issued a manifesto to the electors emphasizing the certainty of victory if the polls are protected on election day.

"The machine," he says, "is desperate. I feel it will stop at nothing."

Many meetings are arranged for this week.

HOW TO KEEP A DIARY.

"On that night could not the king sleep, and he commanded to bring the book of records of the chronicles; and they were read before the king. And it was found written, that Mordecai had told of Bigthan and Teresh, two of the king's chamberlains, the keepers of the door, who sought to lay hand on the king Ahasuerus. And the king said, What honor and dignity hath been done to Mordecai for this? Then said the king's servants, There is nothing done for him."—Esther 6: 1, 2, 3.

This king, Ahasuerus, kept a diary. There is great fun in keeping a diary, for you buy it with great expectations, you begin it with great enthusiasm, and you neglect it with great promptness. It is the exceptional man who really keeps a diary, but, mind you, he keeps it in an exceptional way. He doesn't say: "Got up at 7; washed, breakfasted and went to work; dined at 6; concert at 8; bed at 11.30." There is no use telling your diary all that. But what King Ahasuerus told his diary is worth while, for he recorded the good deeds of others towards him. Isn't that grand? Wasn't that worth while? I can almost see the entry: "This day I owe a Jewish attendant, Mordecai, my life. He uncovered the plot of two chamberlains, Bigthan and Teresh, to assassinate me. Conspirators hanged." Such a diary as that is worth keeping. To record kindnesses received is to develop a right royal culture. Read good Queen Victoria's journal, and you will remark that in nearly every day's entry she speaks kindly of someone.

Memory is a great diary in which we automatically record things. The memory can be trained, too, to write down one class of deeds or another. You can make it an obedient stenographer. O Memory, take up a pen and record that John Smith hurt my feelings to-day. Use ink that won't fade. Write what he said in big letters. Underscore that harsh word. Now mark the page at the corner and write in red ink, "To be remembered and never forgotten." Do that a few times, and Memory will write without being told. Hiss out the words, "I never forget," and you won't forget, and your diary will soon be a record of harsh words, of tempers, of quarrels, of hates, of spites. You can recall, at will, the ghosts of yesterday's ill deeds, and they will come out of the shadows to tell you how to strike back blow for blow. O Memory, take up a pen and write. Say that John Smith brought over some sweetmeats for the children; that Mrs. Jones sent up a sample of her newly-made mince pies; that the nicely-dressed lady in the street car arose to offer the tired-looking woman with the baby a seat. Record the good thought we noticed going by a moment ago. Use good ink or indelible pencil. Do that a few times and Memory will record the pleasing, and you will have a diary that you can carry into the unfrequented streets of old age, where you will have plenty of time to read, and the nice things that Memory has written away back through the years will make you wear a quiet smile, so that passers-by will say, "What a fine young face that old man has."

In such a diary you will write less and less about yourself. Not a word about the rheumatics. And you'll almost forget to die, so interested will you be in other people. Did Horatio Nelson think of his mortal wound when he was dying? "Anchor, Hardy, anchor! Do you anchor, Hardy?" I knew such a hero as that in the person of an old soldier who had been dying so long that his poor old body was all but a skeleton by the time the undertaker came to wrap it in his country's flag. But that old fighting man never thought of himself. The morning of the day he died, he wanted to see the preacher, for he said he knew he was going to die, and he wanted to encourage the minister a bit before he went away. All morning his heart had been threatening to stop, and now it raced along at double speed as if intent on making up for the beats it had skipped. "Come in! come in," he shouted; "How are you, and how's the church and are there any converts?" Then he talked army, told how he saw Sheridan riding over the field at Cedar Creek, and described the progress of the battle until he wanted to be lifted up so that he could use the bed for landscape and the wrinkles in the quilts for hills and valleys. He waxed eloquent, saw visions of the blue and the gray, and sank back upon the pillows, exhausted, to make an allusion to the conquering Christ sweeping the valley of earth, just like Phil Sheridan swept the Shenandoah. Then he spoke of his wife's unreflecting loyalty and the church's kindness. Never said a word about his pain until I asked him, and then, like Charles the Second he almost apologized for being "such an unconscionable time a-dying." Within a few minutes he had a triumphant death, for there seemed to float around that bed the sweet memories of kind friends and good deeds. For years the old man had been storing by these things, and now they came out of the shadows to console his departing spirit during the struggles of dissolution.

But this king forgot. He was so busy with the affairs of state that he never did look back over his diary. He never thought of the faithful old Jew at the gate. Aye, some people forget the good deeds of others. They are too busy with the demands of business and society to remember the favors they accepted in days of trial. They take all that is offered to them, but they don't get around to think of the man that [illegible] to the very [illegible] they [illegible]. They never say: "There's J[illegible] good fellow; sat up with me when I had the fever; and do you remember wife, how Mrs. Jim went with you to the hospital on the day our Lucy was operated upon? Let's go over to Jim's to-night; they're in hard luck just now, for he's been laid off. Let's take over some o' that honey for Mrs. Jim's cold, and we'll have a good visit." Yes, some folks do forget. Sometimes a husband forgets to read in his diary of his wife's faithfulness. He forgets how she struggled and saved, nursed the children, cooked, kept the house, washed, ironed and swept—all because she loved him and home and children. And he yawns away from the supper table, "Oh, deary me, I wish some one would come and spend the evening with me." You do, eh? You blue old fossil of ingratitude! Suppose you play courting this evening. Suppose you tell your wife how much you appreciate her. Suppose you take her for a walk down Yonge Street, and while you're out, suppose you put your arm through hers and snuggle up with those sweet ways which you used to have.

Some people think that to show appreciation is a sign of weakness. They imagine it is diplomatic to repress gratitude. To be stoical and taciturn they think is the badge of bravery. My Scotch collie knows better than that. He licks the hand that binds up his bruised paw. I was leaving a home where a poor young mother was caring for two sick babies, with scarcely enough food and with scant clothing and bedding and fuel. And the husband, out of work, walked down the street a block with me. "Ah, I pity my poor little wife, and I often want to tell her so," said he, "but I must keep up a stern front, or else she'll give way altogether. She cries a good deal as it is." "Then go back to her at once, and put your arms about her, and tell her she's a brave woman, and for her sake you're going to try hard to succeed. Do it quickly and she'll take heart afresh."

Then others expect that some day they will be in changed conditions where showing gentleness and reciprocal kindnesses will be easier than now. "If my folks really had those tender instincts that novels tell about," explained a dreamy young fellow, "I'd enjoy my home life and stay indoors more with the family." As he imagines his folks are so much different from the story-book people, he goes down to the resorts where the frequenters are certainly not of the gentle book-of-fiction sort. He expects some glorious day to come when he will be, by force of surroundings, a gracious, kind-tongued, appreciative gentleman. No; here and now is the place and the time to show love, appreciate favors and express gratitude.

This king recollected. He was pretty long in reading his diary, but one night when he could not sleep, and music and dancing didn't interest him, he had them read his diary to him, and they read about Mordecai and the conspirators.

"Stop! Has anything been done for this man? No? Then send for Haman and I'll ask him what would be the decent thing to do." And the result is that Mordecai in the king's robes and on the king's horse, is proclaimed through the streets as the man "whom the king delighteth to honor."

Pretty long overdue, to be sure, and yet better late than never. "Give me my flowers before I die," is a sentiment that makes us all nod our head and say, "That's so," but if you should happen to forget to send them while your friend is in health, send them to his sick-room; if too late for that, send them to the funeral; if too late for that service, send them out to be placed on the grave; but, at all hazards, send the flowers. Yea, if you have been so criminally neglectful of the reciprocity of kind deeds as to overlook your duty in the matter until a decade or two or three have passed since your friend was laid away in Mount Pleasant, carry out the wreath now, and place it on his tomb. If it will not do him any good, it will redeem your reputation in your own eyes, and you will walk away with a new manhood.

The germ of decency is sometimes pretty long in getting a start in peoples' hearts. But if it has the slightest chance it will multiply. I was called upon to officiate at the funeral of the wife of a dissolute fellow who, the neighbors claimed, had actually allowed the poor little Scotch-Canadian woman to die for the lack of food and medicine. He could not even pay for a grave, and the interment had to be made in the awful Potter's Field. And to cap the climax of shame, when the time for the service came, he was dead drunk! Two years later, I preached in the Buffalo penitentiary one Sunday morning and I saw that man among the convicts. I had time, after the service, for a word with him, and he said: "Pastor, I've reformed. I came in here three weeks ago, and on a thirty-day sentence. Last Sunday I heard a sermon on Christ giving every man another chance, and I made up my mind I'd take my second chance now."

He was as good as his word. The microbe of manhood had begun to work. He went from jail to seek employment, and he had no trouble in getting it, for he was a skilled mechanic. He saved $60 in an incredibly short time, and he took it to the undertaker and said, "Get her out of the Potter's Field and bury her in a lot in Forest Lawn Cemetery." At this second and final interment he was sober, and he followed the water-soaked coffin to the grave, a sincere mourner, and he went away with a resolute face, to get his little girl out of the orphanage in which the authorities had placed her, and make her a home.

Oh, the wind blows over the grave of many an unappreciated one, but God writes it all down in His great Book. He will read it. He will remember. He will never forget. And some day He will say to Gabriel: "Gabriel, go thou down to yon cemetery, and blow thy trumpet and wake her, for she has been sleeping long enough. Wipe away the last trace of tears, and bring her up to Me. Tell her that at last she'll get the home she has been expecting so long. Bring her up and let the angels put her on the finest charger of heaven, crown her with a crown of glory and cast over her shoulders a mantle of white."

BOXING GLOVE LORE

Stiff Mitts May Mean Broken Thumb or Injured Eyes

The pleasure of boxing is often spoilt by using gloves that are too stiffly padded. If a glove is so stiff that the fist cannot be clenched inside it, then the boxer is a danger to himself and to his opponent.

The hand being open, the thumb projects, instead of being doubled across the fingers, and may easily be broken or dislocated in delivering a blow. The projecting thumb is a danger to the opponent, for it may give him a painful and possibly serious jab in the eye.

Apart from this, you cannot box fairly unless the fist is doubled inside the glove, for the rules state distinctly that every blow must be delivered with the fist clenched, and with the knuckle part of the hand. It is a mistake to use "pillow-case"—that is, very large and heavy—gloves, for they have a stunning effect, which may be serious, while, again, it is difficult properly to close the hand inside them. For ordinary sparring six-ounce gloves are quite heavy enough.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, and testimonials.

Dress Demply

If you are under 30 don't make the mistake of dressing elaborately. This frock is quite simple and yet quite stylish. It is of very dark red wool crepe with the new "repli," which means the "catching" up of the skirt so that the upper part bulges out over the lower.

The "repli" is just now being used more than the lampshade tunic and it is more graceful.

ELECTRICITY AND PLANTS

Growth of Vegetation Accelerated by High Frequency Currents

At Mordaine Farm, in the fertile valley of the Miami River, about four miles south of Dayton, O., experiments were conducted to discover the effect of electricity and artificial illumination on the growth of vegetation. Plots were marked off for exposure to different kinds of electrification. In one place, a network of wire was stretched about 15 inches above the ground. One of the plots in the farm was illuminated by a large tungsten lamp with a ruby bulb, while still another was illuminated by a mercury vapor lamp A fourth plot received no artificial stimulation, while still other plots had the electricity applied in various ways. The plots tested were planted with radish and lettuce seed. Electric stimulation was begun thirteen days after the seeds were planted, and three weeks later the plants [illegible] selected and weighed. The plot subjected to the high-frequency current showed a greater increase in yield than any of the others. Ruby light ranged second for radish, while violet light was second for lettuce.

It was found that the edible portion of lettuce grown was 75 per cent. greater in the case of electric stimulation than that grown under natural conditions. The electrification by means of high-frequency currents on a larger scale showed that almost all the vegetables grown under the wires were better than those grown under natural conditions. The plants stimulated included radishes, lettuce, beets, cabbage, cucumbers turnips, musk melons, water melons and parsnips, and the gardener picked the vegetables at least two weeks earlier under the wires than those in the unelectrified portions. Sufficient energy was radiated from the lines to give the birds attempting to alight on the wires a shock that felled them to the ground partially stunned.—Electrical World.

BEQUEATHED BY RED MEN

The Original Inhabitants Have Given us Many Place Names

Long after the Indian himself has disappeared the Indian language will continue to be spoken in our geographical terms. No one can turn to the lake, or river, or stream, to which the original lords of the land have bequeathed a name, without confessing that the Indian has p[illegible] himself [illegible] [illegible]uated by a monument more eloquent and more imperishable than could be erected by mere human hands.

In a list of the lakes of the United States, published in 1885, two hundred and eighty-five bear Indian names. In a list of the principal rivers, flowing into the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico, but excluding those of the St. Lawrence basin, seven hundred and twenty-four have Indian names. If we added to these the Indian names of the St. Lawrence valley, those attached to the waters of the Great Lakes, the Saskatchewan, and the numerous other great northern and north-western watersheds, and the lakes and streams of the Pacific coast, the list might easily be doubled.

One must bear in mind that these have all not the true pronunciation, but have been disfigured by the early voyageurs and trappers, who by mispronunciation destroyed and rendered them incomprehensible, in spite of the reclamation work of Indianologists who were anxious to preserve the true pronunciation.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel. Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. Our Point of View

This is the kind of weather that caused Sidney Smith to say that we would feel comfortable if he could take off his flesh and sit in his bones.

—o—

The New York Court of Appeals tells us that "motherhood is an incident natural to marriage." Which prompts us to remark that the discoveries which the Courts are making these days are simply marvellous.

—o—

A Buffalo paper says that Lindsay is a charming summer resort in which a weary man of business can secure quiet and rest. This is true, as rest has always been the principal industry of Lindsay.

—o—

A Lindsay paper says that Mr. Putputt is taking a trip over the Kawartha Lakes. He deserves to have a pleasant holiday because his name sounds like a motorcycle.

—o—

"It is proposed to dam the Burnt River" (one of the feeders of the Trent Canal) says a Lindsay paper. Well, go ahead and do it if you must, but do not forget that there is a stringent law against cussing.

—o—

We are told that a grasshopper can jump 300 times his own length. That is a rather clever performance on the part of the grasshopper, but when it comes to jumping sideways and in different directions there is nothing in the world that can beat a Liberal politician.

—o—

A Winnipeg paper published the following advertisement: "Personal—If this should meet the eye of Louis J. Smith, and he will send present address to his old home he will hear something to his advantage. His wife is dead." A well worded advertisement, we should say.

—o—

A Chicago man laments that the man whom he considered to be his best friend eloped with his intended bride the day before the wedding. But he shouldn't let that worry him. The chances are that the near future will show that the eloper was indeed his best friend.

Joint and Muscle Pains Banished by Nerviline

IT CURES RHEUMATISM.

Thousands of people, chuck full of the joy of living happy, glad, bright people, that Nerviline has cured of their pains, all tell the same wonderful story of its power to drive out the aches and tortures of rheumatism and kindred ills.

"My goodness, but Nerviline is a miracle-worker," writes Mrs. Charlotte Chipman, mother of a well-known family residing at Mount Pleasant. "Last month I was so crippled up with sciatica and muscular rheumatism as to be almost unable to do a bit of housework. My joints were so stiff and muscles so frightfully sore that I even cried at times with the pain. For years we have used Nerviline in our family and I just got busy with this wonderful good old linament. Lots of rubbing with Nerviline soon relieved my misery and I was in a real short time about my work as usual."

No matter where the ache is, no matter how distressing the pain you can rub it away with Nerviline. For forty years it has been curing lumbago, sciatica, back-ache, colds, chest trouble and all sorts of winter ills. Keep a large 50c family size bottle, handy, and you'll be saved lots of trouble and have smaller doctor bills. Small trial size 25c at dealers everywhere.

Exploiting the Churches

The Toronto World says that moral issues as cloaks for political ambitions avail nothing among plain-speaking, clean-living and straight-thinking Canadians. We have no fault to find with the churches taking their place as tonics and strengtheners in the public opinion of the country but the attempt to drag them wholesale into one political party, or another for the benefit of political issues on which the mind of the whole community is widely divided, is good neither for the churches nor for society, and the voters have deprecated the attempt.

Spreading Information About Your Business

A common remark in daily life is about like this: "If I had known that I could get it for so much at ——'s store, I would have gone there. Why did you not tell me?"

If a merchant has to carry goods over another season, the real reason is probably that he neglected to tell the public about them with sufficient clearness and emphasis. The general public are not mind readers. A first-class article may be selling for a low price, but if no one takes the pains to make the fact generally known few people will find it out.

Publicity is the basis for all modern entertainment and places no notices in entertainment and places no notices in the papers, and gets out no posters, he gets no crowd. Similarly, if a store buys a stock of goods, and is then too slow to tell the public what it has, in an interesting and descriptive way, it will get no substantial trade on these goods.

WHITNEY'S BIG MAJORITY

(Editor Morning Times)

Sir.—The returns for the Province, as given by The Toronto Star (Liberal) are to the effect that Whitney has fifty-five thousand majority, being no less than eleven thousand more than last time. If bi-lingualism had not been to the fore in Ottawa where we lost two seats, and in other places Rowell would be still worse off than last time. By the way I heard someone say the other day that Mr. J. W. McWilliams is now a Conservative. This is not true. I heard him tell a bunch of men that he was still a Liberal, and would always remain a Liberal. I know he never pretended he was a Conservative, but has always contradicted it. But when spite is going round anything will do for talk.

A HUGE BRIDGE

Some Facts About the Gigantic Viaduct at Lethbridge

One of the most gigantic engineering works in Canada is the large viaduct carrying steel across the Belly River just west of the city of Lethbridge on the Crow's Nest branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Alberta. The bridge is over a mile in length and has a maximum height of 314 feet above the bed of the river It is the longest and highest bridge in the world. There are longer bridges and higher bridges, but combining both dimensions, no bridge in the world measures up to it. Before it was built the railway line crossed the St Mary's River, using twenty small wooden bridges. When a new survey was made a crossing was found below the confluence of the St. Mary's and Belly Rivers, and this large viaduct constructed at a cost of two million dollars. It required 645 cars of steel in the construction, and altogether over 1,000 cars of material was used. A watchman is on constant guard to prevent accident. After each train passes over the bridge this officer takes his mile walk to the other end, and waits for the next train, when he returns on his beat. There has not been an accident on the viaduct since it was turned over to the operating department of the railway company. The Soo-Spokane Flyer, a fast train running between St. Paul and Spokane, uses this bridge.

WORK DONE BY A WATCH

The work a watch will do in ten years is surprising. In that time which includes two leap years, and consequently a total of 3,652 days, the hour hand has made 7,304 and the minute hand 87,648 revolutions. The end of an average minute hand travels over 10,520 yards—or nearly six miles. The second hand has made 5,256,850 revolutions, and its extremity has traversed on the dial a distance of upwards of 123 miles. The escape wheel has made 52,588,800 revolutions, and, as it has fifteen teeth, it has come 788,832,000 times in contact with each pallet. The balance has made 1,577,644,000 vibra[illegible] any point ca the outside of the rim has covered a distance of about 50,000 miles, and that is equal to twice the circumference of the earth.

FISH IN HOT SPRINGS

Thrive in High Temperature But Die in Cool Water

In certain parts of Jamaica and Cuba there are hot springs so torrid that the hottest noondays of a mid summer sun in Toronto is lower in temperature than these same ponds An eminent Harvard scientist found that dozens of varieties of strange fish inhabit these hot baths and when these same fish are placed in ordinary river water they very soon die. None of these fish can survive in tepid water, let alone the moderately cool waters of the ocean, rivers, and brooks. The fish are closely related to trout, sun-fish, perch, bass, and the common prey of the American angler.

When the investigator took the well known piscine inhabitants of the near-by waters and put them in these west Indian hot springs they were all killed and looked as if they were "partially cooked." Yet the fish native to these thermal waters were disporting themselves most happily.

ONTARIO'S METAL MINES

Mining is an Important Industry of the Province

Metal mining has become a great industry in Ontario. Gold, silver, nickel and copper are produced in large quantities.

For some years the nickel-copper mines of the Sudbury district have been widely known as the world's chief source of nickel and important producers of copper. Since the original discovery in 1903 the silver mines at Cobalt have placed Ontario in a prominent position as a producer of silver. The deposits are remarkably rich and the profit has been unusually large, amounting to about one-half of the value of the silver. The production is at the rate of over 30,000,000 ounces per year. The discovery of gold in the Porcupine district resulted in the development of several profitable mines.

There are many miles of territory in Northern Ontario concerning which scarcely anything is known. There are large areas which have been described by explorers as promising; but as yet unprospected. There is every indication that many important ore deposits will be found in the Province and that the mining industry will continue to grow.

Man as a Chemical Compound

A German professor says that the average man contains fat worth $2.50, enough iron to make a nail, phosphorus enough for the heads of 2,200 matches, enough magnesium for some respectable fireworks, albumen equal to eggs, sugar and salt. Altogether the average man or woman is worth about $7.50 at current prices.

Crystallized Tangerines

Required: Twelve tangerine oranges, ½ pound castor sugar, 6 drops almond essence, white of 1 egg.

Method: Peel oranges and leave to dry for two hours; whisk egg, essence, and sugar together until thick and creamy. Pass a thread through each orange, dip in icing until covered, then hang up over the oven or in a warm place, to harden.

HINTS ABOUT EGGS

Keep the nests clean. Change the straw, or shavings, once a month.

Gather the eggs twice a day.

Keep the eggs in a cool, dry place.

Never keep eggs near onions, fish, kerosene or anything with a strong odor, as the shell is porous and they absorb odors.

Keep the extra small and extra large eggs at home, as they will spoil the appearance of a nice, uniform shipment.

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work."

NURSERY RECIPES

Beef Tea

Cut into small cubes 4 ounces of lean beef; soak for half an hour in 5 ounces of cold water with a pinch of salt; put on the fire and allow it to get hot, stirring all the time. It is ready when the thermometer registers 130 degrees. Then strain and serve. Be careful that the beef tea does not boil, or the albumen will coagulate and thus spoil it.

Mutton in Veal Broth

Shred ½ pound of lean meat; let it soak for three hours in half a pint of water with a little salt. Then heat it up as in the preceding recipe.

Home Made Emulsion

Children who are susceptible to colds need cod liver oil. The following is a good way to give it to them: Thoroughly beat two newlaid eggs, add half a teacupful of cod liver oil, stir well, then well mix in the same quantity of honey. Add slowly—stirring all the time—the juice of half a lemon. Give the little ones a teaspoonful or two night and morning during these treacherous winds. It will strengthen the constitution, soothe the chest, and keep the cold out, and—this is a grand recommendation—it is a nutritive food, not a medicine.

Hospital Automobiles

The French army has several automobiles equipped as field hospitals wherein surgical operations and X-ray work is possible.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, head aches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4530, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Egyptians Grew Alfalfa

There is nothing new about alfalfa. Alfalfa is as old as the pyramids. It was grown in the time of Rameses, the first Egyptian ruler that history tells us very much about. Caesar and his predecessors were strong believers in alfalfa, and their cavalry horses were fed upon it. Books on agriculture, written in the early days of the Roman empire, tell how to grow alfalfa. Doubtless the world-wide supremacy of Caesar's armies and the Roman empire was due in no small way to the abundant yields of alfalfa grown by the Roman farmers.

POLITICAL PASTORS

What will some of our local pastors who left their pulpits to participate in political warfare think of the seizure, at Collingwood, of 1400 bottles of ale and whiskey galore in The Globe hotel, run by Temperance (?) people? We refer to those political parsons who worked against Mr. Soden, an advocate of total prohibition, for a follower of Mr. Rowell, who would abolish the bar, but allow unstinted booze to be sold in shop and club.

LOBSTERS IN NOVA SCOTIA

Coves at Canso Yield This Delicacy Even to Amateur Fishermen

It is estimated that the annual catch of lobsters in the world is 125,000,000, and of this Nova Scotia supplies 40,000,000, valued at $2,000,000. The lobster pack that comes from anywhere else than this part of Canada is almost negligible. The lobster fishing has been well maintained of late, thanks to the help of the lobster hatcheries, which are placing in the sea millions of small lobsters yearly. It is still possible at Canso Nova Scotia, as it is at but few places in the world, for an amateur to watch the lobsters crawling on bottoms of sheltered coves, and fishing them up carry them home for supper, confident that they will have fresh boiled lobsters. Nova Scotia has a genuine monopoly of the English trade in the supplying of canned lobsters.

SOUTH IRELAND PROTESTANTS IN AN UNENVIABLE POSITION

Boycotting of Irish Protestant on the Increase—Civil War is Inevitable Unless Asquith Appeals to the People

Belfast, June 7.—The attitude of Redmond in promoting the organisation of military forces to support Home Rule, is creating considerable feeling. He shows how inconsistent he can become when he opposes the Ulster volunteer movement. The fact is, Protestants regard Redmond and his party as thoroughly disloyal. It was the Nationalist crowd which showed its delight over every British reverse during the South African war, and which are said to look upon the King as a usurper.

A GENERAL ELECTION

It is generally considered in political circles that the recent events in Ulster will do much to hasten a general election. Liberals with open minds are quite prepared to agree that the situation, as it is, would never have been in existence if the Prime Minister had a real mandate to pass the Home Rule Bill. Such a mandate would have allowed him to take steps long since to prevent the formation of an Ulster army and its arming but knowing that he was without such authority from the electorate, the Prime Minister has felt himself unable to make use of the powers which he commands. This is the reason why a general election is now looked for, since the Prime Minister, unless he intends to bring about civil war, must try to secure the support of the predominant partner to back up his work.

The position of the scattered Protestants in the South and West of Ireland is a far from enviable one. The following points have just been submitted by one of them:

CAN'T DEPEND ON POLICE

"The Royal Irish Constabulary in times past could be depended upon; we cannot depend upon them now.

"The Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Catholic associations are working hard and have with them the Sinn Feiners, the Gaelic League, and the United Irish League to thwart and cripple Irish Protestants, in trade and business. The old Fenian element is stronger than ever, and I have been assured by an ex-detective of the police that the Government are aware of this, and take no notice of reports.

LORD PEEL
the new chairman of the London County Council.

"The boycotting of Irish Protestants on the strict lines laid down by the Catholic association is now being severely felt by many Protestant business men, shopkeepers and commercial travellers.

"The Irish Volunteer movement, which was backed and helped by Maj. McBride (of Boer War fame) and Capt. White is spreading rapidly throughout the South and West of Ireland, and I have been assured by an ex-member of the constabulary that various stocks of arms and up-to-date rifles are well placed in the counties of Clare and Kerry.

"In the South and West of Ireland numbers of exiled Americans are already making arrangements to arm the Fenian element, who uphold the view that John Redmond, M.P., has betrayed the country, and that they must take the matter in hand and assert Ireland's claim to complete independence. In the city of Dublin and counties of Wexford, Waterford, Tipperary, Cork; Kerry, Limerick and Galway, three fourths of the Nationalist Roman Catholics hold to this view, and this explains the growth of the Irish volunteer movement."

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION IN REGULAR MONTHLY LAST NIGHT

$1397,05 For Extras on East and West City Schools—Can a Teacher Resign in June After Having Signed a Contract for Another Year, Commencing Sept. 1st.

The Board of Education met in regular monthly session last night, Chairman Dr. Morrison presiding. There were also present Messrs. John Crane, J. Smith, W. H. Hill, V. Eastwood, B. F. Ackerman, Thomas B. McGrath, Col. Miller and Dr. Burnham.

Miss Seymour asked to be released from her contract to teach in the Public schools another year, she having accepted another position. On motion of Mr. Hill and Mr. Crane, Miss Seymour will be notified that she will be expected to live up to her contract.

Mr. Hill took the stand that as Miss Seymour had signed a contract to resume teaching on September 1st for another year, she can be held to her contract.

WASHBURN'S SHOWS DRAWING LARGE CROWDS

The fact that a properly conducted tented amusement enterprise will draw a lot of money in Peterborough was demonstrated last night by the Washburn Shows, which opened a week's engagement at Exhibition Park Monday night. The Monday's business of the shows was comparatively light, due solely to the unfortunate reputation left behind them by other Carnivals which have visited Peterborough and which have given our citizens the impression that all tent shows are "tarred with the same brush." The Washburn Shows are not to be compared with other Carnivals which have played here on the same basis. This enterprise is not only larger, it is absolutely above reproach as regards the gentlemanly and ladylike conduct of its attaches, the absence of profanity and suggestiveness among its members. The absolute cleanliness of its shows and the general excellence of its exhibitions. A crowd which literally jammed every foot of space on the Midway Tuesday night spoke volumes for the good impression made on our citizens by the Monday performances.

Miss Elma Meier, a graceful young lady and expert aquatic artist, presented at 4 and 11 p.m. a thrilling dive from a 75 foot ladder into a tank containing less than 4 feet of water. The feature of the Washburn enterprise is the wild animal arena, wherein appear Mlle. Flora, a young and attractive "lion queen" who in a den with six big Numidian lions, presented a thrilling act which is alone worth the price of admission. Princess Pauline, with her den of leopards and jaguars; Herbertino, with his black-maned African lions and "Nero" a thoroughly intractable brute of ferocious aspect; and Capt. Vincent, with his Polar and grizzly bears. Two tiny baby lions a month old are an added attraction here.

Then comes the Motordrome, where three leather-clad and goggled daredevils dash about a perpendicular-sided cup 60 feet across, mounted on racing motorcycles; the Athletic show with John Kilouis, the Greek champion, and his troupe of masculine and feminine athletes; the Coney Island freak show, with the ossified man, living skeleton, electric lady, snake charmer, and Filipino Igorrote; the Trip to the Moon, Barrel of Fun, and several interesting riding devices.

To sum up, Mr. Washburn has the most creditable carnival ever seen in Peterborough. He has proved conclusively that success can be attained without the use of smutty or suggestive shows, roudyish men, flashy women or gambling games. The personnel of the Washburn show is such as gained the enterprise many friends in the first time they have been in this city, and business is deservedly increasing daily. Mr. Washburn will always be accorded a hearty welcome in Peterborough.

CIGARETTE PROHIBITION URGED BY JOHNSTON

Baton Rouge, La., July 8.—Representative W.J. Johnston, of Plain Dealing would absolutely prohibit the sale of cigarette papers in Louisana.

"It is the only way to prevent our boys from getting the deadly things," said Mr. Johnston in support of the bill he now proposes. "I want the Arkansas law. Stop the sale of every one. Our law preventing sale to minors is a dead letter. The men give them to the boys."

ERIE AGAIN GET TRIMMING TO THE TUNE OF 8-3 YESTERDAY

Cresswell Pitched Good Game and Was Well Supported—Fair Fans Present in Large Numbers

It was ladies' day yesterday at the Ball Park, and no mistake, the fair fans filled the big grand stand and entered into the game with all the spirit of the regular railbird. The sky was heavy with thick black clouds and rain was threatened several times but not a drop fell to mar one of the cleanest and most excellently played games of the season.

For the Petes Stan Cresswell did the twirling in good style and held the visitors down to four hits until the last innings, when Erie made three more, seven in all, against nine for the Petes.

The game was clean throughout, the only error which crept into the game was tallied against the visitors.

Kelley put up his usual excellent game and kept the boys on the jump right along; in fact every man did his best to the delight of the fans.

Dorbeck, pitching for Erie, was in trouble all through the game, and in the fifth period was trounced for five runs, again in the sixth for two more, but he pitched good ball and worked hard.

Catcher McNeil did the receiving for the visitors and did some high diving stunts much to the amusement of the fair fans in the stand.

To-day's game is called for two o'clock when another good game is expected.

The score at yesterday's game was 8—3 in favor of the Petes.

BODIES OF YOUNG WOMAN AND THREE GIRLS FOUND

Sapulpa, Okla., July 9.— Cut and bruised and bearing evidences of foul play, the bodies of Miss Reynolds, aged 18, and Gertie, Zalah and Vina Sanders, sisters, aged 9, 11 and 14 respectively, were found in Rock Creek near here.

When Henry Sanders, father of the children left home Tuesday, Miss Reynolds, employed as a housekeeper took the children for a stroll. Sanders did not return home that night.

The discovery of the body of one of the girls at a ford in the creek prompted investigation which revealed the other three floating in the water nearby. The clothes of all were on the bank.

PORCH CLIMBERS AT KINGSTON

Kingston, July 7.—Porch climbers are at work in Kingston. At three o'clock this morning a man who attempted to get into the home of Mr. John Walker on Alfred street, by climbing on the porch to get in an open window, were frustrated by the fact that two of Mr. Walker's children were sleeping out on the porch.

HON. GEORGE A. CLARE VERY ILL

Ottawa, July 7.—The condition of Hon. George A. Clare, M.P., South Waterloo, is causing anxiety. He has not been in good health for some years. Reports which reached the Government to-day were to the effect that he was to be taken to Battle Creek, Mich., at once for special treatment.

AT LAST THE CONTRACT FOR NEW UNION STATION IS LET

Official Announcement Was Made To-day by the Toronto Terminals Railway Company With Promise That Work Would Commence at Once

Toronto, July 7.—The contract for the construction of the new Toronto Union Station was awarded to-day to the P. Lyall Construction Company, of Montreal, and 201 King street west Toronto. Work is to commence immediately.

The announcement was made today by the Toronto Terminal Railway Company, the corporation which has undertaken the building of the station. The stock of the Toronto Terminals Railway Company is held by the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways. As yet the Canadian Northern has no definite interest in the station at all, but will obtain running rights into it.

THREE MILLION DOLLARS.

The amount of the contract is not made public, but from information received, it is in the neighborhood of three millions. The Lyall Company has already begun to assemble its equipment, and it will be brought to Toronto immediately.

The equipment is expected to arrive here by the first of next week and then work on clearing the site and excavation will proceed. The site of the new station extends along Front street, the whole distance from Bay to York.

It will take at least two years to complete the building according to the estimate of Architect John M. Lyle. This means that the station will not be ready for service until the latter part of 1916.

A CANADIAN CONCERN.

The P. Lyall Company, which has secured the three million contract is a purely Canadian concern, operating in Eastern Canada. The firm has erected a number of the largest commercial buildings in Montreal, and among its contracts in Toronto are the Arena building on Mutual street and the new C.P.R. freight shed on Simcoe street.

PRISON MASTERPIECES

Authors Who Produced Their Best Work in Jail

Byron's famous poem, "The Prisoner of Chillon," is supposed to be written by Bonnivard, the Genevan patriot, whilst he was incarcerated in the Château of Chillon, on the shores of the lake. But the poem was really written at lightning speed whilst Byron was imprisoned by inclement weather for a night and a day in the neighborhood.

Nevertheless, some notable literary achievements have been really written in jail, undoubtedly the most outstanding being two of the world's greatest classics, "The Adventures of Don Quixote" and "The Pilgrim's Progress." If only those two books had belonged to the literature of captivity they would have been sufficient to make that literature distinguished and immortal.

Thomas Cooper, the Chartist, whose life reads like a romance, and whose name is held in reverence by modern reformers, wrote a remarkable poem whilst he was lying in prison on account of his political agitation. This poem bears the remarkable title of "The Purgatory of Suicides," and when it was published it created a very considerable stir in the literary world, for it emanated from the brain of a man who had begun life as a cobbler and had made himself master of the Greek language and literature.

Another remarkable poem written in prison is "The Ballad of Reading Jail," by Oscar Wilde, whose remarkable and most sombre book, "De Profundis," was also written there. These two books are amongst the saddest records in the history of literature.

It ought not to be forgotten that one of the greatest letters ever written was penned in a dungeon in Rome. This is the Epistle of Saint Paul to the Colossians, a piece of literature, quite apart from its sacred character, which is very hard to beat.

IVORY IN THE ARCTIC

Mammoths' Tusks Are Valuable But Difficult to Reach

One thousand miles north of Yakutsk, the "metropolis" of Central Asiatic Siberia, on the River Lena, is the Lena delta on the Arctic shore, says the Technical World Magazine. East and west of this delta, 1,500 miles each way, and among the islands scattered hundreds of miles to the north of the delta, there lies embedded in the ice and snow, and also in the frozen sands on the shores beneath, ivory that was old ages and ages ago!

Mammoths wandered through this territory when Palestine was a jungle, long before the third great glacial period. These mammoths wore tusks from 10 to 12 feet in length, weighing from 150 to 200 pounds each, and here's the secret of an annual 1,000-mile expedition north—worth from $5 to $10 to the natives! To them $[illegible] is a wonderful sum to earn in a single year.

A native of the Yaku tribe need make no more than three successful trips to the Lena delta to acquire sufficient wealth for his needs during the remainder of his life. One trip may be made each year. Yet there are hundreds of natives who have made from ten to twenty of these trips before they reaped as much profit as would come from three successful journeys after the fossil ivory.

The reasons for this are few, but sufficient: it is the longest and most perilous freighting journey in the world! Many of the disasters that overcome Arctic explorers have to be combated; there is danger of freezing to death, of starving to death, and of perishing in great crevasses.

PERPETUATED IN STONE

Lord Mount Stephen Was Persuaded to Have Likeness Graven

Lord Mount Stephen had no desire to see his statue erected in Montreal and at first refused to give Mr. Lessore, the sculptor, sittings, saying that the monument of a great man should be the work he himself had done. His Lordship only consented when Sir Shaughnessy personally assured him that there was a general desire to thus honor him. Sir Thomas succeeded in inducing His Lordship to have the work done, and sketches and studies of Lord Mount Stephen were then made and exhibited at the Montreal Art Association Galleries.

The statue, nine feet in height, is the largest portrait of its kind, being of a living man, ever sent over to Canada from England. Lord Mount Stephen having been first president of the C.P.R., Sir Thomas desired that this statue should adorn the waiting room of the company's terminal in Montreal and it gave him no small satisfaction to have succeeded in his object.

KELLY-SPRINGFIELD TIRES

COMPARISONS

In days of old, when knights were bold,
And warriors held their sway,
They fought and bled, at least 'tis said,
In a way we don't like to-day.
But now we go without fear of foe,
Or sword or the gun's hot fire,
The auto has come to make things hum,
And so has the KELLY TIRE.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, and testimonials.

CAPE TOWN TO CAIRO

This Road When Completed Will be 7,074 Miles Long

The announcement that the Belgian Government has ceded Great Britain a strip of land in the Congo marks an important step towards the completion of the Cape-to-Cairo Railway. This strip will make it possible for the railway to traverse British territory over the whole of its length of 6,944 miles, that being the distance from Cape Town to Cairo, or 7,074 miles, if we include the journey to the sea at Alexandria. The astonishing progress which is being made with this scheme for opening up "darkest Africa" to civilization and commerce may be gauged from the fact that rails have already been laid to Bukama, right in the heart of the Congo, though at present passengers can only travel as far as Elizabethville, some 2,386 miles north of Cape Town.

USES OF ONE TREE

The most marvelous tree in the world is the Carnahuba palm, which grows in Brazil. Its roots produce the same medicinal effect as sarsaparilla. From parts of the tree wine and vinegar are made. Its fruit is used for feeding cattle. Of the straw, hats, baskets, brooms and mats are made. It is also used for thatching houses. The pulp has an agreeable taste, and the nut is sometimes used as a substitute for coffee. Its stems afford strong light fibres, and serve also for joists, rafters and other building materials. It yields a saccharine substance, as well as a starch resembling sago. Of the wood of the stem musical instruments, water tubes and pumps are made. From the stem a white liquid similar to the milk of the cocoanut may be extracted. Moreover, salt is extracted from the tree, and likewise an alkali used in the manufacture of common soap.

MINK RANCHES IN CANADA

Opportunity Also Here For the Raising of Marten

At least fifty mink ranches are in operation in Canada to-day. On these it has already been established that this highly-desirable animal can be kept in captivity and its young bred with a large degree of success. What few statements have been secured as to the sale of skins have been most satisfactory and along with these has come the somewhat surprising information that the quality of the ranch bred pelts is, as a general rule, better than those taken by trappers.

Another animal of the same family the marten, seems to promise well under similar treatment, though as yet very little experience has been had with it in Canada. With a litter of from one to five, the members of which, if all goes well, are full grown in six months and are ready to produce their kind in a year, and with a most persistent demand for these pelts there is surely another healthy-looking opportunity here.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel. Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. For particulars and details of this magnificent enterprise, address

Wireless in the Forests

At present, in order to secure adequate forest fire protection it is necessary to install lookout towers and telephone lines so that the fire-rangers may early locate forest fires and rapidly assemble a force to fight them. A professor of physics has recently stated that "there can be no reasonable doubt as to the applicability of wireless telegraphy to the forester's problem of communication." An electrical engineer in a recent book on "Telephonology" supplements this statement by predicting that "in the near future the wireless telephone will not only progress far ahead of the wireless telegraph, but take its place." When instruments are perfected suitable for forest use, existing systems of forest fire-protection will be to a large extent, revolutionized.

Derivation of "Book"

It is generally believed that we owe to the Romans the word "book," but such is not the case. We got the word from our Saxon or Danish ancestors. Long, long before this wonderful day, when bundles of ugly-looking rags are turned into beautiful white paper, our worthy ancestors wrote their accounts, calendars, and histories, on wood, bark and parchment. In the north the boc, or beech, was the tree generally employed for this purpose as it grew plentifully and had an excellent fibre. They called a bit of writing on this wood "boc," and from it came the word "book."

The Clergy and Politics

The following taken from our excellent contemporary, the Kingston Standard has been handed to us with a request that we publish it in The Times:

The newspapers of the country continue to discuss the question of the wisdom or the unwisdom of the clergy mixing in politics and turning their pulpits into political platforms. Singularly enough, while before election there was a tendency on the part of the Liberal newspapers to insist that it was a perfectly proper and permissible thing for the clergy to talk politics in their churches this view being undoubtedly held because most of the talkers were on the Liberal side a saner view is now being taken and it is more freely recognised and admitted that not only is the cause of real Christianity and of church union bound to suffer from such church campaigning but also the political cause itself, which these political pulpiteers espouse.

A reasonable view of the matter is taken by Toronto Saturday Night, which, discussing the issue in its many phases, says, among other things:

"Many able ministers honestly believed in their right to express themselves on what they believed to be a moral issue. The more narrow and fanatical among them, however, by their excesses of language, their attitude of intolerance toward all who could not see eye to eye with them, alienated thousands of voters. By impugning the Christianity of men of moderate views who held that all social reforms must be gradual, they roused the indignation of the "quiet voter," who, after all, is the most important factor in all political contests. Thus, eminent churchmen, like the Anglican Bishop of Kingston, and Rev. Dr. Gordon, the President of Queen's University, a noted Presbyterian institution, were impelled to publicly protest against the narrow and uncharitable tactics of certain clerics and fanatical laymen. That they spoke for the majority of churchgoers in this Province, irrespective of party or religious affiliations, is certain."

There is no doubt that there is a world of truth in this paragraph. The fact is that during the campaign many strong temperance people who could not see eye to eye with the Rowellites were made to feel as though they were as dirt beneath the feet of the superior people who were helping to bear Mr. Rowell's standard—were, indeed, almost read out of the category of decent people. There was no half way for anyone—no room for a moderate view. One had need to be a temperance man, pure and simple (and one could be only that, so we were gravely told by adopting the Rowell platform) or be branded as almost as bad as a drunkard. A Holier-Than-Thou Brigade marched abroad and those who were not of them were not only against temperance but were numbered among the damned. On the one side—the Rowell side—were the saints all others were sinners, and one felt almost like a felon attempting to explain his anti-Rowell position.

Under the circumstances it is not surprising that the inevitable and natural reaction set in; that decent people revolted against this arbitrary assumption to themselves by many Rowellites of all virtue, and that finally when men like Bishop Bidwell and Principal Gordon came out—not from their pulpits, but as citizen clergymen on the nomination paper of Dr. Ross, thereby exercising the powers and rights conferred upon them by the State as citizens—it is not surprising under such circumstances, that the reaction ran its full limit and that the protest against the Holier-Than-Thou took such effective form at the polls.

Our own opinion, and it is shared by many others, is that Dr. Gordon and Bishop Bidwell in their own quiet, dignified, correct way had more to do with finally determining the votes of many wavering citizens of Ontario than had all the pulpit rantings from beginning to end. And undoubtedly, it is well that this was so since it but impresses the stability and the strength of character of the people of Ontario, not easily misled by empty platitudes and colored political sermons.

Incidentally when all the storm clouds of the last election have passed and we can see things in their true light we shall realise that men of the Bidwell-Gordon type were the real friends of real temperance, and that theirs after all is much the better policy, namely, to divorce the temperance question from politics and proceed against evils of liquor along sane rational, honest lines, without regard to the effect upon any political party but considered solely from the standpoint of the interests of all the people.

Painful Swellings Reduced Muscular Strains Ended

Such Troubles Now Quickly Rubbed Away by Powerful Remedy.

If you have any muscles that are strained and weak that are frequently subject to rheumatic pains; if you have any painful swellings that refuse to go away—get busy with Nerviline. This is the very sort of trouble that Nerviline is noted for curing quickly. "I have proved Nerviline simply a wonder in reducing a hard, painful swelling. It followed an injury I received in my left leg and caused me great pain and discomfort. The muscles were strained and sore, and no other remedy gave the ease and comfort I got from rubbing on Nerviline. There is a soothing, pain-relieving power about Nerviline that touched the root of my trouble. Nerviline reduced the swelling, it destroyed the pain, it brought my limb back to perfect condition." The experience of Mr. Bowen, whose home is in Mill ...x, is not unusual. Thousands are proving every day that muscular pains of every kind, chronic rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia and sciatica will yield to Nerviline when nothing else can possibly cure. Nerviline is an old-time family pain remedy, used nearly forty years with great success. The large family size bottle costs 50c. trial size 25c., at all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

More Paving Problems

Our George street contemporary, in its issue of last night, has another apology for the paving work done here by Foley & Gleeson, who did work on the streets here that causes many a question from the ratepayers. Now in our editorial of afew days ago, we said that "31 wet spots" were counted on Hunter street between George and Aylmer streets. This, to be candid, was said in charity to the contractors for the present pavers. We counted, and this can be substantiated under oath, fifty one (51) wet spots. However, as we did not start out to make this pavement question a partisan one, but controversy was thrust on us by the Examiner. We might say that the Times has not, been paid or promised, directly or indirectly, one cent or more for its patriotic defense of our 26 mill rate payers.

Now the Examiner editor, who penned or pencilled the article in his paper last night may know the difference between a baseball bat and a Heavenly Halo, or in lucid intervals distinguish between an Examiner editorial and unpaidfor statements, still he does not attempt to reply to one of many questions we asked yesterday about the present paving system.

We will not start a discussion as to what the Examiner has not done for this city. We will simply ask "show us one brick or one ounce of mortar ever laid in this city through the Examiner's influence

This flagrant advocacy of a paving monopoly is enough to make any ratepayer of this city sick at his or her "tummy."

Here we quote a distinctly libellous statement, made in its apology for Foley & Gleeson: "During the journey to the editorial sanctum of the morning paper, however, the caption seems to have undergone a remarkable change, so that when the cost table comes out in print, it reads 'Repairs to Patch Top Surface of Trinidad Asphalt Pavement, which is the pavement already used in Peterborough, and no doubt printed 'to mislead.'"

We did not print our editorial "to mislead." Still as the Examiner seems to be "influenced" by a company that would seem to give work that can be criticized, as an exchange of journalistic courtesy, we will, perhaps, this time let the libel go.

To quote from the Examiner, "We view with horror the millions (or is it billions?) of dollars spent by the city of Buffalo on its asphalt pavements."

Here we agree with our esteemed contemporary. We, paying 26 mills on the dollar certainly "view with horror" a never ending expense for possibly defective paving for repairs.

Has the Examiner investigated our statement, which is correct, that Buffalo has spent $1,668,693 on repairs for similar pavement to that laid here, in 15 years.

The Examiner, it would seem, does a Don Quixote act, when it says that our report of the tremendous expense for repairs was taken from the annual report of the Buffalo Dept. of Public Works." Of course, our George street apologist for the present paving work has a heavy load to bear and may go a "little strong in its endeavor to bolster up a possibly poor cause.

The whole pith of this editorial is, 'Who is feeding the Examiner with a diet of hot air?"

CONCERNING WATER

Probably there is nothing under the sun which is the basis of so large a number of figures of speech as water.

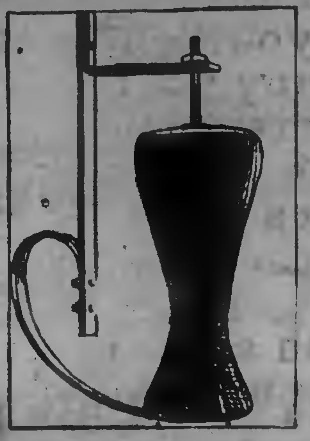
A poor argument "won't hold water"; a babbler is "a leaky vessel"; a half-drunken man is "half-seas over"; "fishing in troubled waters" is another name for getting into difficulty; "still water runs deep" is a hint that your quiet and demure person has more in him than the world supposes; if a man is in a bad predicament he is in "hot water"; disappointment is 'a wet blanket."

Of a rejected suitor it is said that "cold water is thrown on his hopes"; the hungry man's "mouth waters"; the strengthless are "weak as water"; sometimes it "rains" blessings; when an orator begins to be tedious we say he has "run dry"; news is always "afloat"; speculators are often "swamped"; many people find it impossible to "keep their heads above water"; and often we have to acknowledge that we are "all at sea."

Origin of Blankets

The cold winter of 1340 gave us the blanket. Its inventor, Thomas Blanket, was a Flemish merchant, settled in Bristol, and fallen from affluence to want. He and his wife suffering from the intense cold by reason of scanty bedding and lack of fuel, he searched for something to put on the bed to increase the warmth, and hit on a piece of rough unfinished cloth that had been thrown to waste. Its success as a warmth-giver suggested the manufacture of special bed covers of the same material, and these articles to which he gave his own name, won him wealth and immortality.—London Chronicle.

DEVICE TO PREVENT RAILROAD ACCIDENTS



A device has been patented which is intended to reduce the list of fatal railway accidents. It has been established that a majority of fatalities are the result of persons being struck and run down by cars.

This safety device consists of a revolving wooden spool, hung upon springs and attached to the corner of the trucks above the rail. The spool is concaved. Experiments show that an object which would roll under the wheels, when struck by the trucks, is thrown out of harm's way when struck by the spool.

CHARACTER IN THUMBS

The Long, Straight Thumb Says Good Mental Capacity

Just as the chin gives qualities to the face, so the thumb marks the personality of the hand, and is an unerring index to a man's nature strength or weakness of character.

The man with a long, straight thumb, square at the tip, possesses good mental capacity, and can always be relied upon to carry out steadfastly any work with which he may be entrusted. His temperament is even and judicial; he is a born governor of men, overcomes difficulties and carries himself with dignity.

If the thumbs be long, thick and heavy at the tip, with the joints prominent, a tyrannical and cruel nature is indicated, everything being viewed from an intensely selfish standpoint.

A short, straight thumb shows obstinacy and driving power. If very thick and heavy at the tip, a brutish unreasoning disposition will be noticed. A short thumb, tapering at the tip, denotes an inconstant, changeable nature, particularly in matters of the affections.

If the thumb lie close to the hand, a cautious, timid, mean nature is indicated. If the thumb curve outward at the tip, adaptability to people and circumstances is shown, accompanied by natural politeness and a tendency to make compliments. The owner is broad-minded, a good conversationalist, impulsive, generous and easy-going. If the curve be very marked and the whole thumb stands away from the hand, extravagance and want of principle in money matters will be found, accompanied by boasting, a desire to "show-off" and vain pride in any abilities or accomplishments which may be possessed.

Value of a Book

The value of any book after all, is not in the entertainment it affords for the nonce, though this is something, but in the permanent residuum left in the mind after reading. The times are too much in earnest for abandonment to simple recreation. Were this not so, the imitations of Punch, at which, would answer the same purchase as Punch itself, with which we laugh. The solid residuum we speak of depends upon the amount of thinking which the book has demanded of us. That which the old epitaph affirms of wordly goods holds true here also—what we have we have. The intellect seeks food, and would reject all the pearls in the world for a single grain of corn. Art is only conscious of nature, and nature has always her ulterior views, creating nothing but with an eye to some desired results.—James Russell Lowell.

Swimming Seems to Have no Bad Effects on its Devotees

"People who are not themselves good swimmers," says one of the leading present-day exponents of the art, "are inclined to look upon any long trip in the water as a terrible strain on the system; but swimming is no harder than walking when one has mastered a scientifically correct stroke. Take an easy, smooth trudgeon, or crawl, for instance, and one can plod along forever, resting comfortably, with practically no effort. It is only those who use faulty methods that tire.

"There are cases a-plenty on record of men who have swum continuously for 15, 20 and more hours without the least ill effect, and there is no reason for believing that a healthy youngster should be injured by a journey of a few hours, provided the temperature of the water is not too low. More than that the longevity of competitive swimmers has become proverbial. Moderation is, of course, necessary at first, until skill and stamina have been gradually developed, but after the stroke has been perfected and constant practice has been taken, an occasional long swim can do no harm. It is the submitting to hard work without preparation that leads to injury."

WILL MY TALENTS BE DISCOVERED?

"And when the words were heard which David spake, they rehearsed them before Saul; and he sent for him."—1 Sam. 17:31.

But what if no one had told the king? What if the men who heard David had neglected to go to the royal camp to say: "There is a young fellow out there who at any rate has great faith in himself; perhaps it would be worth while to send for him." And what if the king had answered, "Oh well, there are many such young dreamers!"

Would we then have had no David? Or would his merits merely have found another path to recognition? In other words, is true worth irresistible, like a river, or is it accidentally discovered like a pearl of the sea? Suppose the king of Spain had refused Columbus an audience? That seemed to be about his last chance. He had peddled his ideas about all the courts of Europe. Suppose he had been rejected in Madrid also. But you say at once: "Keep Columbus down? The thing is inconceivable. His will was indomitable. Like the ancient hero, he would have found a way or made it."

One thing is certain, we must first possess merit before it can be discovered. Otherwise our speculations regarding the question asked by the title of this sermon will be a waste of precious time. The important thing is to have some one talent worth reporting to the king. So do not be too impatient, my dear young man, to have somebody scurry off to the royal tent to recommend you. Give the writer of your testimonial something definite to say about your capabilities. In what do you excel? Ralph Waldo Emerson said: "The man who can write a better book, preach a better sermon, make a better mousetrap, though he make his dwelling in the woods, will some time have the whole world make a beaten path to his door."

Is that strictly true? There is a widespread suspicion that something will depend on how Emerson's man in the wood pushes the mousetrap into the market. Let us be frank in this matter. What part does the quality which quaint old Francis Bacon called "boldness," and which modern colloquialism calls "nerve" play in success? Some would advise to let merit absolutely take care of itself. That has been the view of the professional man. I use the past tense because in recent years the lawyer and the physician have felt the necessity of yielding something of their ethical code to the spirit of commercialism. At the other extreme are those who say that the secret of getting on in the world is entirely a modern audacity that reflects somewhat upon modesty. That is often the apologetic wail of the man who himself has failed.

Merit must be winged with self-assertion. It is self-conscious. It searches, not for position, but for opportunity. All the Davids ask for is [illegible]. But they must ask. Some- a cha times their spoken words make the request; more frequently their actions plead for them. But it is not a crime to beard the employer in his den and ask for the vacancy. The proprietor of a large jobbing house told me how he discovered his best salesman. "He was working in the stock-room for [illegible] a week. He came to my office one day and said he would like to try his hand at selling to small dealers after hours. The manager of our city trade had already declined the proposition, maintaining, quite rightly that we weren't looking for that class of orders. But the request was so unique, and the young fellow's manner so earnest, that I overruled the objection and had a line of samples and prices prepared for him. He went among the little stores of the foreign districts and of the suburbs, and came back with his hands full of orders, some of them so small that they were hardly worth the trouble of filling them. In a month his commission amounted to more than his regular wages. The next vacancy on the road was given him. Now he draws $5,000 a year and expenses."

The proprietor made one mistake in telling the story. He didn't "discover" the salesman. That man discovered himself!

But quite often, genuine worth hangs out its advertisement in an exploit that speaks louder than any verbal request for advancement. An old magazine gives a splendid instance:

John Doe was the good-enough name for a sewing-machine agent who made such a poor showing in the small town where he was located that he was ordered to close up the store and deliver all the machines at a neighboring large city. The goods were to be hauled by wagon, and, as there were two loads, John arranged for one load to be driven by his younger brother, Robert, a budding stenographer who spent his unoccupied hours about the store. They started off one morning for their all-day drive, John leading the way. As Robert trailed behind, it came to him that it was a sin to haul all those good sewing machines past so many prosperous farms where some sewing machines were doubtless needed. Choosing a moment when John was out of sight, around a turn in the road, Robert invaded a promising-looking house. He told with enthusiasm and conviction the story he had so often heard John tell in a perfunctory and futile way, and he won, leaving a sewing machine and taking away with him a contract and a first instalment on the purchase price. When, at the close of the day, John arrived at the city office he explained that Robert was on the way with the rest of the goods, and nobody was worried at the delay. But when next morning came, with no Robert and no machines, there was wonderment which changed to anxiety as the day wore on. Late in the afternoon John was standing at the door, looking down the street for his missing brother. When he saw Robert in the distance he shouted the glad news to the manager, who came forward in time to receive the loiterer. The wagon was loaded with baskets of eggs and vegetables, barrels of apples sacks of potatoes and crates of bewildered hens, while a bleating calf was towed at the end of a rope. Robert's pockets bulged with copper and silver coin, a roll of banknotes and a wad of contracts written on miscellaneous slips of paper. He had taken anything and everything he could get along the road, but brought in not a single sewing machine. There was a council of war and a reversal of orders. The two wagons went back next day loaded with sewing machines. This time Robert drove the first wagon and John trailed. The store was opened up again with John still there, as assistant to the new manager. Robert, when he told the story, was a district manager.

I think that story's chief value is in ridding our minds of the illusion that merit and "nerve" need be opposing qualities. Quite to the contrary, they are usually found to be allies.

But will all talents be discovered and fittingly rewarded on earth, according to grade? No. That, with our imperfect observations and judgments would be impossible. The principle of school-room tests, with exact percentages and consequent rankings, cannot be carried into after-life with minuteness.

We cannot hold a civil service examination to see precisely who is best fitted to be the premier of Canada. And it is not said that because a member of a cabinet is conscious of his superiority over his chief, he must perpetually sulk over the fact that he is not appreciated. Something must be conceded to the accidents of opportunity and availability.

As a general proposition, there is a perpetual process of testing, classifying and permanently grading the talents of men, but it is done in the rough, and not with mathematical accuracy. It is like grading wheat out at Fort William. The quality of the kernels as a class determine whether the ear shall be classed 1, 2 or 3. Yet every kernel of the lowest grade is not absolutely poor. Some are perfect enough to adorn a bin of No. 1 Hard. But time would not permit picking them out and giving them the highest place. Besides if that were done, the grade from which they come would not be fit to use at all. They are the saving grace of their class. They bring up the average.

Merit often misses position, but not therefore recognition. Office has elements of accident and influence; quality, of certainty and independence. While we must concede that chance plays some part in our temporary ranking, we need not seek far for examples of the complete victory of true worth even over fortuitous circumstances. True, a glance at the steps whereby a great man ascended the ladder appears to confirm the luck theory. A certain preacher, for instance, now holding the chief pulpit of his denomination, owes his present pre-eminence, it would seem, to the casual visit of a commercial traveler to the little church of which the clergyman was then pastor. Within [illegible] k a gentleman [illegible] a [illegible] another city met the traveling man to say: "We are looking for a preacher. You are on the road continually. Have you heard a good sermon lately?" Then the drummer sounded the praises of last Sunday's preacher so enthusiastically that his hearer decided to go five hundred miles with the other members of his committee, to hear that man, and they gave him a call to a church that is a sort of beacon light, attracting sermon-tasters from the four points of the compass. Within four years he received a call to his present pastorate.

Now how easy it is to say: "See there; luck brought out that man. Had the traveling man not been directed to that particular church by the hotel clerk, that ministerial pearl would still be occupying the dark unfathomed caves of obscurity." Wait a moment. The pearl must have been glowing, even in its cave, else the hotel clerk would not have given his guest the direction. It must have been bright that morning, or the stranger would not have made his report. And it must have shone with lustre once more when the committee made their dive. So it wasn't all luck after all. Besides there were other drummers and other pulpit committees in the land.

Take Robertson of Brighton as exemplifying the situation when "the pearl divers make an error in judgment. Representatives from an influential London congregation journeyed to Brighton to hear him preach. Either they had a misconception of what constituted good preaching or the preacher was not at his best, for they returned to the metropolis with an adverse report. Robertson remained in his fairly small chapel until his death. But that did not hinder his fame. If committees rejected him, publishers did not, and his printed sermons have stood the test of half a century, and have gone through as many editions as a popular novel.

Will my talent be discovered? Yes. But the chief thing is to have talent, even if it is merely to know how to whirl a sling.

FACTS ABOUT BEES

Never go More Than Two Miles From Their Hives

Bees never travel very far from their hives. The farthest they ever go is about two miles and then they never get mixed with another colony, and can always find their own way home.

The keeping of bees takes but little space. The beehive is about two feet square and enough room has to be left to allow of the owner being able to walk comfortably around it and not knock against the next hive.

Bees are hatched out from April to September. The early comers have but a short time to live. No sooner are they hatched than they begin to work, and overwork ends their life in 21 days.

As each bee dies another takes its place. The latest bees hatched out have a longer life. When it is too late to gather any more pollen to make the honey, the bees still live in their winter quarters, their food being some of the honey made by their predecessors.

They live all the winter, begin work next summer, and die after the allotted 21 days.

If only a hen would get busy as the queen bee of a colony, the price of eggs would be so cheap that you could get dozens for next to nothing.

A queen bee lays from three to five thousand eggs a day. There is but one queen bee in the hive, and she only lives a year. It depends on the working bees what the eggs that the queen lays shall produce, for according to the feeding, the new bees are drones, workers or queens. The drones don't work, but they fertilise the eggs of the queen bee, and after that, die. The worker bees also lay eggs, but only drones come from them.

Hives are very simply made. They are built of pine boards and a foundation put in the box. Then frames are put in in which the bees make the cells and form honey, and these are drawn out when full and sold as honey combs.

It is now declared to be a fallacy that when a bee stings a person and leaves its sting, the insect dies. The bee lives just as long without her sting as with it.

A HORSE'S WORK MADE WATER BOIL

Count Rumford's Experiment Helped to Disprove the Prevailing Theory of Heat

Up to about 100 years ago heat was supposed to exist in various substances in varying quantities—the expression that this or that substance "draws the heat" is still occasionally heard.

Correct knowledge of heat dates back to about 17[illegible] [illegible] Count Rumford who was [illegible] of the Royal Institution of Great Britain executed a series of experiments on the generation of heat by friction. While engaged in boring cannon in Munich, he was so forcibly struck by the large amount of heat developed in the process that he questioned the theory of heat then prevailing, and he thereupon devised a special apparatus for the examination of the generation of heat by friction. He had constructed a hollow cylinder of iron into which was fitted a solid steel plunger, which was made to press against the bottom of the cylinder with great force. A box which surrounded the cylinder contained about 20 pounds of water, in which a thermometer was placed. The original temperature of the water was 60 degrees F. The machinery was turned by power supplied by a horse, and an hour after the friction had commenced the temperature of the water was 107 degrees, having risen 47 degrees; half an hour afterward he found the temperature was 142 degrees. The action was continued, and at the end of 2 hours and 30 minutes from the commencement the water actually boiled. Rumford's description of the effect of this clever experiment on those who witnessed it is quite delightful. "It would be difficult," he said, "to describe the surprise and astonishment expressed in the countenances of the bystanders on seeing so large a quantity of water heated, and actually made to boil without any fire."

It was, of course, the work performed by the horse that created the heat by friction which caused the water to boil.

UNCOMMON TREES

For instance, in Venezuela is the cow tree, which derives its name from the fact that when the trunk is cut a stream of milk gushes out—milk of thick, creamy consistency, with a balmy fragrance. The milk flows best in the early morning and at sunset. At these times the natives come from far and near with bowls or pails to get their family supply of milk. It is of such thickness that if left to "set" it very soon becomes cheese.

Another one of nature's dairies is the butter tree. The name is also given to several tropical trees which yield certain oils that can be used for butter. The real butter tree grows in Central Africa. From the kernels of the fruit is obtained rich butter that can be preserved a year or more.

In order to make the meal complete there should be bread to go with the butter, and this is provided by the bread tree, which flourishes in the islands of the Pacific. The tree is of good size, with large lobed leaves and fruit of a roundish form, from four to seven inches in diameter. This fruit when baked resembles bread somewhat, and is eaten by the natives as such.

A boon to the weary wayfarer is the traveler's tree, found in Madagascar. It will grow in the most arid desert, and no matter how dry the weather is a quart of water always flows out when the stalk is punctured. The water is pure, clear and pleasant to the taste. The leaves of the tree are from ten to fifteen feet in length.

In order to provide light for their darkness, the natives of the South Sea islands make use of the candle tree. Its fruit is heart-shaped and the seeds when boiled make tallow that is excellent for candles. The natives remove the shells, bake and string the kernels and preserve them. Five or six of the kernels are enough to supply a good, clear light.

In Jamaica is found the so-called "life tree." If the leaves are broken from the plant they will continue to grow. Nothing but fire will destroy this tree.

PRAYERS FOR RAIN

Complete Performance of Rite Has Brought on a Flood

During long droughts prayers are offered for rain in Japanese villages; in some districts big fires are lighted on the mountains at night as an additional invocation, while the [illegible]try engage in united petition for a break in the long spell of dry wea[illegible].

In the village of Inano more strenuous methods prevail. Not far [illegible] the place is a waterfall at the head of the River Namase, a big rock of curious shape being beside the basin. The villagers proceed to the waterfall in a row, leading a horse, which animal, by the way, must be white with black spots. Reaching the basin they put the horse on the rock and [illegible] out a prayer for rain.

When the last word has been [illegible] one of the number should cut off the head of the horse with a sword, [illegible] that it falls into the basin, if the [illegible]time custom were completely [illegible]. Nowadays, however, they only [illegible] a small cut, and getting a little [illegible] from the unfortunate horse paint [illegible] rock with it. According to old villagers, a number of years ago the [illegible] was enforced in all its [illegible], a horse being killed, with the [illegible] that heavy rain set in at once, [illegible] it rained so much that there was [illegible] serious flood.

FAILURE AT FIRST; SUCCESS AT LAST

"The stone which the builders refused is become the head stone of the corner. This is the Lord's doing; it is marvellous in our eyes."—Ps. 118: 22, 23.

The world's builders are always doing that. They throw aside the very best corner-stone, and put in a negative piece of insignificance instead. But while their backs are turned, the great Master-Builder comes and puts in the stone really designed for the place, and by that time the builders' places are taken by more proficient masons; and posterity exclaims: "This is the Lord's doing; it is marvellous in our eyes."

That is the way history is written. That is why biography has such a charm. This text springs up at least four times in Scripture, and it has stared humanity in the face a thousand times since the last chapter of Revelation was written. You cannot keep it down, for it expresses a great truth of biography, a mighty fact in history and the very key-note of the gospel record. It makes the annals of the children of men read like a Cinderella fairy tale. How we love to read of King Alfred in hiding, scolded for letting cakes burn black, and coming out from his retreat to reconquer a kingdom. How thrilling to read of Romulus and Remus, cast into the Tiber, thrust upon the shore, suckled by a wolf—to build the eternal city of Rome! That woman escaping through the storm, dressed like a [illegible], leading a little boy, also in snow-white garb, is Matilda of Anjou. But the laddie, now fleeing from the kingdom with his queenly mother, will come back soon in royalty's pomp to be King Henry II. of England.

We like to read of the rejected becoming the accepted. We like to think of the young fellow in fancy waistcoat, shouted and stamped down when attempting to deliver his maiden speech in Parliament, crying out, "I'll sit down now, but the time will come when you must hear me!" That gives a piquancy to the career of the great Beaconsfield. And that is what gives the life of Christ such a charm. "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not." They didn't know that the Son of God was visiting them. But it is not long until we read: "Wherefore God also hath highly exalted Him, and given Him a name which is above every name."

This rejecting of its great the world does in various ways. Sometimes the corner-stone is simply ignored. We are apt not to recognize greatness when we meet it. It must have shoulder-straps and brass buttons. It must have the badge of office. Somebody must introduce it to us. Aesop knew the truth of this text twenty-five hundred years ago when he told of the famous clown who imitated the squealing of a little pig so successfully that his audience demanded that he produce the pig from beneath his cloak. The clown unbuttoned, showed the jacket to be empty, and received an ovation. A countryman [illegible] announced that at the next performance he would make the imitation more perfectly than the professional clown had done. The [illegible] gathered, and the popular [illegible] gave his imitation, which the [illegible] received with great acclaim. [illegible] the countryman, making as [illegible] he had a pig hidden under [illegible] (which he really had) mounted the stage. He hid his mouth with one hand, and pinched the unseen [illegible] with the other, until it gave a [illegible] squeal. The audience immediately declared the farmer greatly [illegible], ordered him off, and called [illegible] clown. The countryman [illegible] to the edge of the stage, held [illegible] little porker and showed the [illegible] their awful blunder.

[illegible] broker in Syracuse, N.Y., [illegible] of Yankee humor. He [illegible] manuscript to a New York [illegible], who promptly returned it. [illegible] a third attempt ended [illegible]. And then the broker sickened [illegible] consumption. A friend took [illegible] nine more book-houses, [illegible] desired to purchase it [illegible]. But the thirteenth [illegible] its merit, bought it and sent [illegible] to Edward Noyes Westcott's [illegible] the week after his funeral. [illegible] book, "David Harum," made [illegible] famous, even after his death [illegible] the story of the year, and [illegible] nearly a million copies! [illegible] Ambassador Andrew D. [illegible] read the story, and found out [illegible] author was, and discovered [illegible] had done business with him [illegible] almost daily, he exclaimed: "I wish I had known him; [illegible] that he was a humorist, [illegible] never supposed he was really [illegible]

[illegible] girl came to New York from [illegible] to secure a place on the [illegible] was a good girl and [illegible]. She and her mother [illegible] paid the rent two [illegible] advance with their last few [illegible] that by the time it [illegible] due, the daughter [illegible] a permanent situation. [illegible] questionable concert [illegible] were offered her. She refused these, and tried to convince [illegible] that she had dramatic [illegible]. Finally, after several had [illegible] her playing was not [illegible] wanted, she went to [illegible] Daly. That discerning [illegible] at once that she had [illegible] gave her a difficult and [illegible] and the haughty [illegible] why they were not [illegible] the place said: "How dare [illegible] Who is she, anyway?" And [illegible] rendered her part so cleverly [illegible] that the crowded [illegible] went wild and called for [illegible] applause, even [illegible] that another [illegible] star, was wanted. [illegible] had to correct the [illegible] by rising as one man, [illegible] Clara Morris! Clara [illegible]

[illegible] have been rejected by the [illegible]. I wonder how [illegible] started to invent a [illegible] a Buffalo man, worked over the problem for years, and finally contrived a plan which he had patented. He showed it to some railroad magnates, but they thought it wouldn't do at all. As a last resort, he took it to Cornelius Vanderbilt. He liked it and tried it on some cars. Then he sent for the inventor, whose name was Charlie Gould, made a proposition, took him into a company, which they called the Gould Coupler Company, and they started to make th[illegible] for the whole world.

The great man is often so unique that the med[illegible] people who do the [illegible] reject them because they are so different from the average run of mankind. That is why Joseph Parker, in his youth, was refused a license to preach by the little Wesleyan chapel in which he preached a few characteristic sermons, and that is why the good Scotch woman, who had been sitting under a pastor who talked through his nose, said when she heard Dr. Parker, "He canna' be a great preacher. He doesna' whinny at a'!"

But the corner-stone, Jesus Christ, was rejected by the world's antagonism. That which will finally be really [illegible] the [illegible] world doesn't like to have anything disturb its mechanical arrangements. Society does not like to be told to "Move forward, please," any more than do folks in a street car. Angry mobs meet reforms with clubs and stones. Fulton's steamboat and Stephenson's locomotive aroused the jeers of the world's ignorance. The very people who will be benefited by a reform are apt to join the raging mob against its promoters. Oh, foolish Northampton, to reject Jonathan Edwards! Oh, foolish Geneva, to drive out John Calvin! Oh, foolish Mecca, to refuse Mahomet! Oh, foolish Nazareth, to thrust out Jesus! Oh, foolish Jerusalem, to crucify the Lord! For He is to be the head of the corner at last! When? Soon, very soon. To-day? No. To-morrow? Yes, and a very long to-morrow, a to-morrow that will never end, for the building in which He is to be the corner-stone is the House not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

The rejected is the accepted of to-day. Right around the corner yonder, on Bond Street, is an old house with a wee monument, in the form of a block of stone, built in the brick wall. The inscription reads, "Presented to William Lyon Mackenzie by his friends." Why did they need to give him a house? Because he was poor. And why was he poor? Because he was working for you and me, and we had not yet arrived on the scene when he needed his pay. What was he working at? Making Canada worth living in!

This man stood up! He was expelled from the legislative assembly for standing up. He was re-elected by his constituents, and forty sleigh loads of them came down Yonge Street with him to see that he got his seat. Of all the processions that have moved down Toronto's chief thoroughfare, that train of sleighs was the greatest. Expelled twice, elected thrice; expelled thrice, elected four times; expelled four times, elected five times. Expelled again; elected Mayor of Toronto. That was the record of three years. Meanwhile no fiscal reports, no religious equality, no constitutional government, no attention paid to petitions. The yoke became grievous. Tyranny makes reformers. Long-continued oppression makes fanatics. Harper's Ferry was the natural [illegible] of Southern insolence! [illegible] was the normal fruitage of the Family Compact. That the Canadian rebellion in its narrower scope failed was [illegible] providential. That it succeeded in a larger sense is a matter of history. The lonely little cannon at Niagara echoed to Windsor Castle and the young Queen anxiously inquired about the welfare of her Canadian subjects. Insolent governors were recalled; their successors were given new instructions. Petitions were heeded. Constitutional government was granted. Murmurings gave way to contentment, and the doctrine of the rebels of 1837 are the doctrines of the loyalists of [illegible]. The rejected becomes the accepted.

"Ever the truth comes uppermost,
  And ever justice is done.
For humanity sweeps onward;
  Where to-day the martyr stands,
On the morrow crouches Judas,
  With the silver in his hands.

"Far in front the cross stands ready
  And the crackling fagots burn,
While the hooting mob of yesterday
  In silent awe return
To glean up the scattered ashes
  In history's golden urn."

HUMAN OPERATION PERFORMED ON CAT

Veterinary Makes Unique Experiment to Save Tail of Feline

A unique operation was performed in Toronto when the fractured bones in the tail of a cat were sewn together with silver wire and the tendons caught and rejoined with reindeer tendons. The operation was carried out in the same manner as if human bones were being treated, and the experiment is believed to be successful. The operation is the first of its kind to be made in Canada, so far as is known. The cat, known as Prince, was caught in a swinging door. The feline's tail was broken at the third joint and was set in splints. In some manner these became loosened and the setting was broken. Owing to the second accident it was almost impossible to save the tail, and it was then decided to operate upon the animal, treating the break in the same manner as human bones. Dr. Murphy placed the feline under the X-rays, and, locating the position of the break, laid bare the tail bone and drilled through the joints in two places, stitching the fracture together with silver wire. The tendons were caught and knotted with reindeer tendons and the opening restitched again. The flesh and fur were then sewn over the wound. The cat was placed under an anesthetic for the operation which lasted about an hour.

CENSUS OF EMPIRE

An Interesting Analysis as to Race and Color

The British Empire has now a population of 419,000,000, of which 57,000,000 live in the United Kingdom. Of the 362,000,000 who live outside the British Isles, the great majority is composed of the population of India. From comparative figures recently published some statistics of the population of the Empire outside the United Kingdom are here given showing the totals for race and color for the 362,000,000 people involved:

Brown	306,614,000
Black	23,810,000
Yellow	14,810,000
White	14,631,000
Malay	1,629,000
Mixed	1,018,000
Polynesian	217,300
Red	108,000
Total	362,000,000

Have the roosts in the poultry house removable and apply kerosene on the under and upper sides once a week.

To Brown Mince Pies

Before making mince pies brush over the top with water and sprinkle with caster sugar. The appearance will be much improved and they will be brown and crisp.

The average consumption of rice per head of the population in [illegible] is five bushels a year.

FAMOUS TOREADOR

Spanish Bull-fighter Bombita Had Many Narrow Escapes

Bombita, Spain's most famous bull fighter, who retired from the dangerous game at the solicitation of his bride, made his fortune, estimated at $600,000 entirely from the ring and besides gave away great sums in benevolences.

Bombita's real name is Ricardo Torres. He was a typesetter as a youth, but soon left this calling to follow his two elder brothers into the arena. Few toreadors acquired such a great reputation as Bombita. His popularity in Spain is universal. He is chiefly famous for the grace of his thrust and for the reckless courage in giving a bull a chance. He was gored thirty-eight times, always slightly, and he always saved himself by his acrobatic skill even when on the horns of the bull.

Millions in Baseball

Baseball might still be a game of corner lots and wrangles; modern organization made it into the greatest pastime in the world, and one of the greatest of to-day's industries.

To-day not less than $36,000,000 is invested in the game, at a most conservative estimate. There are over forty leagues operating under the National Agreement, in which over 7,000 players are employed. The major leagues alone pay to their players over $1,500,000 annually. Those who put money in baseball plants are assured of the stability of their investments. A greater number of college men are entering the game each year, attracted by its financial possibilities.

TRAMP STEAMERS

They Are So-called Because They Are the Wanderers of the Ocean

A "tramp" steamer is a "tramp" because she wanders the world over, carrying the most advantageous cargoes she can procure and proceeding to any port, no matter how unfamiliar and remote, to which her manifest takes her.

She is not a "tramp," explains Harper's Magazine, because she goes about in tatters and poverty. Quite the contrary is true. There are great tramp lines immensely wealthy and powerful, and the ships that fly these flags are modern in every respect, equipped with wireless, of vast tonnage, and [illegible] comfortably appointed in respect to officers' quarters. When his vessel lies in port the tramp captain appears to the envious longshore onlooker to live a life of the most agreeable sort.

As a general rule, however, the captain himself holds his occupation in no such high regard. Tramp captains may gratify their desire for romance, it is true, but only in a limited way, after all; and their prospect for material prosperity is of the smallest. The cash return is little enough; for all the responsibility assumed, the rich cargo and lives carried through months of anxious weather, of gales and fogs at sea, of lonely and monotonous wastes, the wage isn't much greater than a commonplace bookkeeper may ear[n].

The pay of a junior officer aboard a tramp steamer would outrage the feelings of an alert office boy; the pay of a first mate would shock a bank clerk. But once a first-class officer becomes a captain, his pay is practically doubled. If his owners possess no other ship than his the chance for advancement is extremely slight; but if he is in the service of one of the great freighting lines, his prospect at the best is that of the [illegible] ship at a wage of $1,500 a year. The next move in fortune of the tramp captain is to the command of a mail steamer. Having obtained his eminence in the service of one [illegible] considerable trans-Atlantic lines [illegible] than $2,000 [illegible] much as $3,000 [illegible] ultimately sought.

Nieces of Poet Laureate

There are two relatives of the poet laureate living in Canada. [illegible] the Misses Bridges, nieces of the doctor, who have a fi[ve]-acre ranch in a delightful part of British Columbia near Mission City. These two ladies came from England some years ago and bought land in British Columbia, and have led a retired life since that time, raising chickens and gardening. Naturally they are greatly pleased with the honor recently conferred upon their uncle, Dr. Robert Bridges, by Premier Asquith, in appointing him poet laureate.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

Strange Honeymoons

Surely one of the strangest honeymoons was that of an adventurous couple who set out from New York on a trip to the Bermuda Islands in a tiny "cockleshell" boat some 12 feet long by 3 broad.

No less thrilling a honeymoon experience was that of a Mr. and Mrs. Edgar, who were married in Peking in the Legation chapel, on the day preceding that on which the Boxer riots broke out, and who, perforce, had to spend the first few weeks of their married life prisoners in the invested city, witnessing many of the horrors of the rebellion, and going in daily fear of assassination.

Another couple on the Continent, immediately after the marriage knot was tied, started off by balloon for England. Leaving Paris at four o'clock in the afternoon, they managed to land safely on English soil the following morning, after a somewhat exciting time among the clouds. Then an adventurous pair of Swiss lovers, both keen mountaineers, chose the summit of Mont Blanc (which is 15,782 feet above sea level) as the place for their honeymoon, and there, amid the snowclad peaks and under Arctic-like conditions, they braved it together for over a week.

A pair in Scotland, just newly entered the bonds of matrimony, hit upon the [illegible] idea of spending their honeymoon in a furniture van which they hired and had fitted up for the purpose. In this somewhat ponderous vehicle they made their way leisurely from Glasgow to Aberdeen, a distance [illegible] miles.

How People Feel

When They Have

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual, who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4839, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

No Failure, Cure is Every Case Treated By Catarrhozone.

Catarrhozone can't fail to cure Bronchitis; its so healing, soothing and balsamic that every trace of the disease flies before it. When you inhale the pure piney vapor of Catarrhozone, you send healing medication to the spots that are diseased and sore.

Isn't it rational to apply medicine where the disease exists? Certainly! and that's why Catarrhozone is so successful; it goes where the trouble really is, gets where a spray or ointment can't penetrate. For the relief and complete cure of Bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, throat trouble, we guarantee Catarrhozone in every case. You don't take medicine—you don't take drowsy drugs—just breathe the balsamic essences of Catarrhozone; it does the rest safely and surely.

"For three years I was seriously bothered by a bronchial cough. At night I would awaken with a dry irritable feeling in my throat. I couldn't cough up anything, but very soon coughed my throat into quite an inflammed condition. Once I got Catarrhozone Inhaler I was all right. I took it to bed, and if an attack awakened me a few minutes use of the inhaler gave me relief. Catarrhozone has cured me and I strongly urge everyone with a weak throat to use it regularly.

THE MEN WE NEED

The Farmers Advocate says: "From experience we believe that it is not profitable for the man from the country to try and persuade an immigrant to whom the very mention of the country is distasteful, to go with him to the farm. Such men are usually failures as farm helpers, and after a short period of from a few days to a few weeks or months shake the country clay from off their hob-nailed boots and hurry back to city rooming houses. If the man loves the city and despises the country leave him there. But this is not the main question. Are we getting the right class of immigrants? We know that some of them are what this country most needs, but are the majority of that class? There is room and to spare in Canada, but at the present stage of her development she needs men willing and ready to get out and till her broad acres. Our great industrial enterprises have taken all the available men, and many a community has been stripped of its native born as well. Canada needs farmers and farm laborers far more than she requires city loafers."

A Word About the Eyes

If you wish for clear, bright eyes never neglect the slightest cold in them, for nothing is more detrimental to their beauty than a neglected cold, and during the spring winds those who suffer with weak eyes are much troubled with what is commonly termed "watering" eyes, but which is in reality a cold. The boric lotion should be applied, slightly warmed two or three times daily, but never just before going into the open air, and all draughts must be carefully avoided.

How Do You Laugh?

According to a French authority a woman's character may be told from her laughs. "Ha-ha-ha!" shows that you are inconsistent and cannot keep a secret; "hee-hee-hee!" is the laughter of blondes; "ho-ho-ho!" announces to all the world that you are a real good sort, generous and forgiving but "hoo-hoo-hoo!" betrays you as hypocrite and slanderer. If you laugh with a "hay-hay-hay!" you'd better consult a doctor; you're suffering from melancholia or neurasthenia.

VOL. XLI, NO. 157 THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 9, 1914 PRICE TWO CENTS

WOMEN PLACED LARGE BOMBS BESIDE THE BURNS COTTAGE

Night Watchman Made the Discovery in Time and One of the Militants Was Placed Under Arrest. But Another Made Her Escape

Glasgow, Scotland, July 8.—An attempt to destroy the cottage at Ayr, where Robert Burns, the Scottish poet, was born January 25th, 1759, was made just before daylight to-day by two women, members of the militant suffragette "arson squad."

The two women were surprised by a nightwatchman as they were in the act of placing large bombs against the doors and windows of the poet's birthplace, which is venerated as a shrine by the Scottish nation. The men captured one of the militants but the other escaped.

The women wore stockings over their shoes in order to deaden the noise and hide their footprints.

The arrested woman gave her name as Janet Arthur. She created a noisy scene when arraigned at the Police Court, fighting the warders and shouting quotations from Burns' poems. She was remanded.

MRS. PANKHURST BACK AGAIN

London, July 8.—An end was put to-day to the brief respite in the militant suffragette agitation, when Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader resumed command of the forces of the Women's Social and Political Union at their London headquarters. Mrs. Pankhurst, who re-occupied the offices at noon, was not molested by the police, although they knew of her intention and had detectives on duty in the vicinity.

VIOLENT SCENE IN COURT.

Simultaneously with the re-appearance of Mrs. Pankhurst, a violent scene was created in the Central Criminal Court, where Mrs. H. F. Alice Hall, Miss Grace Roe, Miss Julia Jamieson and Miss Allen Armes were brought up for trial for conspiracy. The charge against them was that of "conspiring with others maliciously to commit damage and injury and to spoil certain real and personal property of the liege subjects of our Lord the King."

The prisoners had been arrested during a raid on a West End flat on May 21st, and in their rooms were found a new shrapnel grenade of very ingenious manufacture, coils of fuse and plans of houses with instructions how to reach them and as to the usual movements of the police in the vicinity.

She says that the men of her country cannot resist the excitement and prospect of loot attendant upon civil war and this love of fighting as a sport means that the country is seldom tranquil. The women are the ones who know the horror of it, with plundered homes bereft of husband, son or father.

MEETING IS NOW PROPOSED TO BE HELD ON MEXICAN LAND

Huerta-Carranza Conference Now Appears to be Foregone Conclusion

Washington, July 8.—Mexican territory probably will be chosen for the scene of the proposed conference between Huerta's envoys and Constitutionalist delegates over plans for the establishment of a provisional government. Constitutionalist representatives in Washington to-day expressed preference for a neutral place in Mexico—probably along the border—for the peace parley.

With dissentions among the Constitutionalist leaders apparently nearing adjustment, members of the revolutionary junta here repeated expressions of confidence that the proposed Huerta-Carranza conference would take place.

While the Constitutionalists agents here have not determined on any particular place for the meeting, yet it is known that in discussion of the Republic's internal affairs, they desire that there shall be no appearance of foreign influence. They wish to divorce the proposed conference from any relation to the Niagara mediation proceedings, so that the Mexican people may thoroughly understand the method by which their new chief executive is agreed upon.

Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, has been considered as a most likely choice for the scene of the parley. It is opposite Laredo, Texas, where quick communication by telegraph and cable can be arranged with Mexico city for the Huerta delegates. Communication southward with Constitutionalist headquarters also would be easy.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Fine and a little cooler.

BASEBALL

The Petes went down to defeat yesterday in a fast and well played game to Erie in the last of the series with that aggregation. The game was of the air-tight variety and the winner could not be picked until the end of the ninth innings. In the 5th innings the visitors scored two runs and that ended the scoring, the game ending at that.

OIL-WELL SHOOTERS BLOWN TO PIECES

Several Hundred Quarts of Nitro-glycerine Explode in Automobile

Findlay, Ohio, July 8.— Charles Armstrong and P.B. Longabaugh oil-weel shooters, were instantly killed this morning by the explosion of several hundred quarts of nitro-glycerine which they were taking to Buckland to shoot an oil well. The men were literally blown to athoms as not a shred of flesh an inch square can be founh and of the automobile in which the explosive was being transported only a small piece of the axle is left.

Two children were knocked to the ground and severely injured; several houses nearby were wrecked and thousands of panes of glass in the vicinity were broken.

our opponents. The outstandinb fact

Sheldon, Vermont, July 8.— Ten persons were injured, one seriously, and many others were shaken up and bruised when a Central Vermont train ran into a washout near Sheldon Springs, last night. The accident happened in what is known as Chadwick Cut. The roadbed had been washed away by a teriffic rainstorm, leaving a gully twenty feet deep below the tracks. The engine passed over before the track fell in, but was derailed on the further side of the gap.

All of the injured, four trainmen and six passengers, were taken to a hospital at St. Albans today.

SCATHING LETTER ON POLITICAL COMPETITION IN WEST PETERBORO'

How a Large Vote Was Swung Backwards and Forward to Suit the Party Leaders

Editor Morning Times.

Sir. In an interview by your reporter with the candidate and others, after the recent election, Mr. Peck is reported as expressing his satisfaction at the impressive manner in which the people of the Province had endorsed the Whitney administration at the polls. He was of opinion that the turnover here was due to some misunderstanding in the Conservative party and that they should get together and find out where the misunderstanding is. Mr. Peck no doubt is sincere in making the suggestions, but it shows that he is living in a fool's paradise and knows not whereof he speaks, or of the influences that surround him. All of this is not to be wondered at when we consider that it is only in recent years that Ashburnham, where he resides, has been brought into this riding, before which he gave his attention and time to the East riding which comprised Ashburnham. The difficulty originated before he took part in politics, and at the time Mr. Stratton entered the political arena. It was in the dark days of the Liberal mis-rule, when they were busy coquetting with the temperance sentiment of the province and coercing the liquor men under the penalty of losing their licenses, that some of the so-called leaders of the Conservative party banded themselves together under the name of the 'Stratton Conservatives" presumably for corrupt purposes.

A few facts of past history will speak for themselves.

When Mr. Garvin ran against Mr. Stratton he was knifed to the tune of one thousand majority for his opponent, although the riding has a normal majority of Conservatives by the hundreds.

Later when Col. Miller ran against Mr. Stratton, he too was knifed to the tune of eleven hundred.

At the next election when Whitney was in power and Mr. Stratton was not running, then the tables were conveniently reversed and some poor Reformer was knifed to the tune of twelve hundred majority for Mr. Bradburn. All of which shows plainly that it was a majority thrown backwards and forwards like a game of shuttle-cock and battledore. We can therefore congratulate Mr. Soden and his supporters upon his strength in the recent contest as compared with the former victims.

Since then and in accordance with Mr. Peck's suggestion the executive have convened with Mr. Peck present, who signed a statement exonerating Mr. Soden and his supporters from all blame in the selection of Mr. Soden. But it is too late; the harm is done and cannot be recalled. It is like locking the stable door after the horse is stolen. Why did not Mr. Peck make his suggestion and sign that statement before the election and rally with his friends to the support of Mr. Soden who then would have been elected with the usual normal majority away up in the hundreds?

I believe in Mr. Peck's innocence, but he was misguided by certain parties behind him for their own purpose.

Yours, etc.

SMOKERS CAUSED TWO FIRES IN DAY

Cigarette and Cigar Butts Each Sarted Blaze of its Own

Toronto, July 8.—When a smoker carelessly threw a cigarette butt through a sidewalk grating in front of a picture theatre at 141 Yonge street at 9.10 last night, the accumulation of rubbish and paper below quickly caught fire and started to blaze. The flames shot up above the sidewalk, reaching out for the large paper posters which cover the front of the theatre. Quick action on the part of the doormen who snatched away the posters and brought water, saved a conflagration.

A cigar thrown out of an upper window ignited a dry window awning above the Bank of Montreal branch at the corner of Yonge and Carlton streets yesterday afternoon. The occupants of the upper rooms noticing the blaze, threw a bucketful of water over the awning, which although it quenched the flames, wet the newsboys at the corner and a crowd of people there waiting for cars.

PRISONER FAILED TO REPLY

Toronto, July 8.—Frank James who was arrested on a charge of vagrancy was found dead today in the cells, when a constable went to call him. Death is stated to have been due to Bright's disease.

James was alive last night when the jailor made his rounds.

A stroke of the pen, and his name was erased from the charge book today by Magistrate Ellis when the case was called in the Police Court.

To Overcome Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Wrinkles.

If your skin is unduly reddened, freckled or tanned, dab a liberal amount of mercolized wax on the face and allow it to remain over night. When you wash off the wax in the morning, fine flaky, almost invisible particles of cuticle come with it. Repeating this daily, the entire outer skin is absorbed, but so gradually there's not the slightest hurt or inconvenience. Even the stubbornest freckles are affected. The underlying skin which forms the new complexion is so fresh and youthful - looking, you'll marvel at the transformation. It's the only thing known to actually discard an aged, faded, muddy or blotchy complexion. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store, is sufficient in most cases.

If sun and winds make you squint and frown, you're bound to cultivate wrinkles and crow's feet. To overcome these quickly, bathe the face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel.

WRONG BREAKFAST.

Change Gave Ragged Health.

Many persons think that for strength, they must begin the day with a breakfast of meat and other heavy foods. This is a mistake as anyone can easily discover for himself.

A carpenter's experience may benefit others. He writes:

"I used to be a very heavy breakfast eater but finally indigestion caused me such distress, I became afraid to eat anything.

"My wife suggested a trial of Grape Nuts and as I had to eat something or starve, I concluded to take her advice. She fixed me up a dish and I remarked at the time that the quality was all right but the quantity was too small—I wanted a saucerful.

"But she said a small amount of Grape-Nuts went a long way and that I must eat it according to directions. So I started in with Grape-Nuts and cream, 2 soft boiled eggs and some crisp toast for breakfast.

"I cut out meats and a lot of other stuff I had been used to eating all my life and was gratified to see that I was getting better right along. I concluded I had struck the right thing and stuck to it. I had not only been eating improper food, but too much.

"I was working at the carpenter's trade at that time and thought that unless I had a hearty breakfast with plenty of meat, I would play out before dinner. But after a few days of my "new breakfast" I found I could do more work, felt better in every way, and now I am not bothered with indigestion."

ADVANCES IN A CENTURY

He had never seen an electric light or dreamed of an electric car.

He could not send a telegram.

He couldn't talk through the telephone, and he had never received a typewritten communication.

He had never heard the germ theory nor worried over bacilli or bacteria.

He never heard a phonograph talk or saw a kinetoscope turn out a prize fight.

He never saw through a Webster's unabridged dictionary with the aid of a Roentgen ray.

He had never taken a ride in an elevator.

He had never imagined such a thing as a typesetting machine, or a typewriter.

He had never used anything but a wooden plough.

He had never seen his wife using a sewing machine.

He had never struck a match on his trousers or anything else.

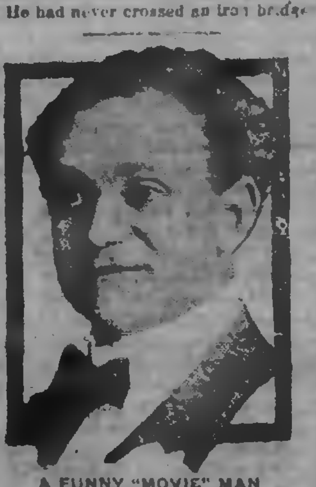
He couldn't take an anaesthetic and have his leg cut off without feeling it.

He had never purchased a ten cent magazine which would have been regarded as a miracle of art.

He could not buy a paper for a cent and learn anything that has happened the day before all over the world.

He had never seen a mechanical reaper or a self-binding harvester.

He had never crossed an iron bridge.



A FUNNY "MOVIE" MAN

Patrons of picture shows have seen this man in action perhaps hundreds of times. He is Max Asher and he turns out comedy for the film operator nearly every day in the year. His friends say he always has been a joker.

PREPARING CAVIAR

This Was a Russian Industry Many Years Ago

Preparing caviar for commercial purposes appears to have been a well-established business centuries ago, for a writer of long ago made this curious announcement: "It is made of roes of two different fishes which are caught in the River Volga, but especially near the city of Astrachan, the sturgeon and the belluga. The sturgeon is well known, but the belluga is a fish about twelve or fifteen feet long, without scales, not unlike a sturgeon but larger and incomparably more luxurious, his belly being as tender as marrow and his flesh white as the veal, whence he is called the veal fish by Europeans. This belluga lies in the bottom of the river at certain seasons and swallows many little pebbles of great weight to balance himself against the force of the stream of the Volga, augmented by the melting of the snows in the spring. When the waters are assuaged he disgorges himself. Near the Astrachan they catch sometimes such a quantity that they throw away the flesh, though the daintiest of all fish, reserving only the spawn, of which they sometimes take 150 to 200 pounds' weight out of one fish. These roes they salt and press and put into cakes if it is to be sent abroad, else they keep it impressed only a little covered with salt."

The Original and Only Genuine

Beware of Imitation

Sold on the Merits of Minard's Liniment

USES OF SAWDUST

It is an Ingredient of Dynamite, Linoleum and Xyolite

Flour for trade purposes from sawdust is now in common use. The wood flour is ground in a mill, very similar to those which grind corn and rye. Pine and spruce sawdust is used, and after being passed through the stones and the bolting chest, it is sacked or baled for shipment. It is then worth $12 to $12 a ton. The flour has a number of uses. It is the absorbent for nitroglycerine, which is the explosive ingredient. Wood-flour dynamite is inferior to that made with infusorial earth as the absorbent; but it serves many purposes and is cheaper. Linoleum makers mix it with linseed oil and give body to their floor coverings. It is not considered quite equal to ground cork for this purpose, as it is less elastic, but it is cheaper and meets requirements for medium grades. The flour fills an important place in the manufacture of xyolite, a kind of artificial flooring, resembling wood in weight, and stone in other respects. It is used for kitchen floors and in halls, corridors, cafes, restaurants and public rooms. It is impervious to water, and is practically fireproof.

CAPE BRETON'S ATTRACTIONS

What the Island Offers to the Tourist and Sportsman

The landscape of Cape Breton is varied with mountains, valleys and meadows, rivers and inlets. The mountain ranges, which are low, run chiefly through the northwestern part of the island. In the northern peninsula the scenery is rugged and grand. Here hunting and fishing are excellent and the sportsman can wander for miles through absolutely wild lands.

The feature of Cape Breton's attractiveness that is most peculiar to itself is made up of the great arms of land enclosing bays of the sea, which caused the Indians to term Cape Breton the "Island of the Sea." The French people named these waters the Bras d'Or lakes, and it is under that name that they stir the interest of travellers from any country and bear comparison to the lochs of Scotland.

These lakes comprise about one-sixth of the area of Cape Breton and are deemed invaluable both commercially and from the viewpoint of scenery lovers, pleasure seekers and tourists.

COMPARISONS

In days of old, when knights were bold,
And warriors held their sway,
They fought and bled, at least 'tis said,
In a way we don't like to-day.

The auto has come to make things hum,
And so has the KELLY TIRE.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

TREES ON THE PRAIRIE

A New Definition May Soon be Necessary For the Woods

The dictionary defines a prairie as "a level or rolling tract of treeless land covered with coarse grass." Strictly speaking, then, the prairies no longer exist in Canada except locally, for there are no longer any large areas exempt from settlement and the settlers throughout the West have already been supplied with over 24,000,000 trees, all of which have been planted and most of which are growing up in the form of woodlots and shelterbelts. So successful have been these plantations and so great has the demand for trees grown, that the Indian Head Nursery Station, which has an annual capacity of approximately three million trees, can no longer supply this demand and it has been necessary to establish a branch nursery at Saskatoon. The opinion was once wide-spread that the prairies were naturally treeless and many ingenious theories were advanced to account for the treelessness. One was that the soil was too fine; a second that the soil was all right, but that because of the thick sod the tree seeds could not reach it; another theory was that there was insufficient rainfall, and still another that the dry winter winds killed the buds and twigs. The most probable cause of the treelessness of the prairies is man, not Nature. The fact that the Indians long ago were in the habit of setting fire to the forests and grass lands in order to afford better grazing and that in the fall, when these fires were usually set, the prevailing winds were westerly, seems to prove that from the arid plains of southern Alberta and the United States, the area of treeless land was gradually extended by fire hundreds of miles easterly. But in Manitoba, since these fires have ceased, the western fringe of forest has begun to recover lost ground.

Cut some small rounds out of cheese pastry and bake. Mix a tablespoonful of cream and grated cheese, and spread rather thickly over each. Decorate with two strips of chilli cut like a match, and put a caper between each.

HANDY POTATO CUTTER

Time and Labor May be Saved and Work Better Done

Twice the amount can be cut in a given time and the sets will be more evenly divided, if an easily made potato-cutter is used instead of the old method of cutting with knife held in the hand. All that is required is to fasten a one-inch board, six inches wide, planed on the upper side, to the top of a barrel or box, holding it on tightly by two deep cleats. A long, sharp, thin tableknife is fixed through the board in a slanting position. To cut, take the potato in both hands and push it lengthwise over the knife, dropping the sets into the barrel or box. Should the sets be too large, the juice of the potato will cause the two parts to stick together and they can then be cut either lengthwise or crosswise as desired.

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel, Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. Our Point of View

The First National Bank of Aurora, Ill, advertises: "Money to loan to farmers for feeding cattle." Now we know why beef is so high in the United States.

—o—

A Toronto paper says that a well known and successful banker of that city had his finger nails manicured for the first time a few days ago. Doubtless the manicurist is rich now in real estate.

—o—

A Toronto man who snored loudly during a sermon was forcibly ejected from the church. Served him right. He had no business to keep the rest of the congregation awake.

—o—

The British suffraget who slashed the Rokeby Venus has been operated on for appendicitis. This seems to be a case of making the punishment fit the crime.

—o—

We Understand that some of the "dry" spots in Ontario have a great many blind tigers since the local option law was enacted, but it is a safe bet that all of them possess sufficient sight to note the approach of a policeman.

—o—

A Toronto newspaper published the following in its classified advertisements: "Full blooded cows for sale, giving milk, three tons of hay, a lot of chickens and several stoves." It is evident that in valuable and productive cows Toronto has the rest of the country beat to a finish.

—o—

John Redmond is reported to have stated that he is ready to head an army to wipe out the Ulster 'rebels' provided he is given a place where the bullets are thickest. From which we infer that he wants to be the driver of an ammunition wagon in the quartermaster's department.

Silencing a Roman Catholic Editor

The editor of a Roman Catholic paper has his own troubles, and he is not permitted to speak too loudly. Our esteemed contemporary The Christian Guardian, often wondered why it was that Roman Catholic editors never dared to condemn any wrong-doing in their church, no matter how flagrant, and why they seem to feel it necessary to justify the dark deeds of their past history and the dark deeds of to-day, which lie at the door of their Church. But recent events tell us the reason very plainly. If there was one editor in the United States who seemed to be immune against official action it would be Father Phelan, of the Western Watchman, the man who wrote the well known item that if a conflict were to occur between Rome and the Government of the United States he would say "to hell with the government of the United States." But the Bishop of Toledo happened to declare that while he would take his religion from Rome he would not take his politics from anyone not even from the Pope himself. This was, of course, merely for effect, but Father Phelan took it seriously and told the bishop that all this talk about Americanism was pure humbug. Of course he was right, but he had no business to say it, and in the June 11th issue of the Western Watchman there is a letter from Jno. Bonzano, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, calling poor Father Phelan to order, and telling him he must change his style of writing, and he must not criticize the bishops. It makes no difference whether what he said is truth or not, he must not tell the truth if his superiors do not wish it. So ends another chapter in the development of editorial independence amongst Roman Catholic writers. How long can Roman officialdom stifle the voice of free men in the Roman Catholic Church?

HIGH PRICES FOR FURS

Why They Are Ever so Much Higher Than Formerly

Furs of all kinds are scarcer and high-priced to-day than ever before. Several things account for this. First, perhaps, the standard luxury is raising with the increase in the number of the world's relatively-wealthy people. Fashion has done more than set a seal of approval on furs. She has dictated irrevocably that they must be largely worn, and in consequence the demand has increased enormously. The rapid destruction of the forest regions and the onward march of civilization into formerly uninhabited country, has led to the practical extinction of many species of fur-bearers where they were formerly plentiful.

For instance, the fox which ten years ago was a fairly common animal even in the older-settled farming districts is now rarely seen except in the backwoods regions. Beaver, mink and muskrats were familiarly known to most of us when we were boys in the village and on the farm. How many of the boys of to-day, your sons, would be able to identify definitely even one of these animals from personal observation? The same thing has gone on to an even greater degree in regard to the more valuable fur bearing animals.

Confronted with this condition of a seriously decreasing supply and the enormously increasing demand, the fur trade has taken steps to remedy matters in several ways. They have utilized the less expensive skins to imitate the high-priced ones. They have diverted the demand to serviceable though less costly furs, and again they have largely encouraged the use of furs of domestic animals.

BONFIRE OF STEEL

Heat From a Rubbish Blaze Ignited Steel Chips

A bonfire of steel chips, set afire from the heat of a rubbish fire near by, gave an odd trouble to a manufacturer. Three times the fire was subdued with water, but was finally put out only by raking it apart, and then it was found that a considerable proportion of the chips had burned up, so that the pile was a third less high than before the blaze. Several carloads of chips were piled up in the factory yard and all were free from oil, as they had been run through a machine that removed it. Soon after the rubbish fire had been started smoke was seen coming from the steel pile, and it was discovered that some of the steel was white hot. Water seemed to put out the blaze, but after a drenching the steel began burning again and it was two days before the fire was all out. The manufacturer's theory was that, after the steel had been started by heat from the neighboring fire, the fine chips presented so much surface to oxygen and the surface of the pile gave comparatively so little area for radiation that the steel just had to burn.

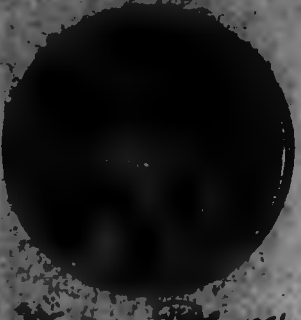
DAILY MAGAZINE PAGE FOR EVERYBODY

What Vienna Could Learn from an American Mother

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1914, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.



THEY'RE worried about the boys—over in Vienna. Terribly worried. So worried that the government is going to do something about it. I don't know what the government is going to do—but it's something very important and governmental.

And no wonder. The Viennese boys are tired of so many things. They're tired of the government. They're tired of home. They're tired of school. And they're tired of mothers and, most of all, they are absolutely determined to get rid of fathers—once and for all.

They've organized clubs all over Vienna and the clubs have grown and grown till every boy in Vienna who can read and write belongs to a Culture club. The other day the clubs applied to the government to [illegible] [illegible] to found a magazine. A copy of the proposed [illegible] [illegible] before the [illegible] Office and the Board of Education. That's when all the trouble began.

Statute No. 1 calmly provided for the abolition, the complete and total abolition of the home. Statute No. 2 declared for the abolition of the school. And Statute No. 3 enjoined the members of the club to put pressure on their parents to obtain data for themselves.

Other items on the program were: Suggestions invited for an up-to-date substitute for the home, and for school, and, most of all, for parents. And nobody in the whole kingdom of Austria even smiled. Now the government is going to take it up.

I know what I'd do if I had a boy who belonged to a club like that. Punish him? Not I. Cry over him? Never in the world. Reason with him, try to get him to see his behavior as I saw it? Not at all—and not in the least of all.

I'd be delighted at the club. I'd praise him for joining it. I'd tell him that I'd been awfully worried about him for a long time, he seemed so dependent and so helpless. But now I could see that he really was a man—already.

What One Mother Did.

I'd tell him that he wasn't [illegible] more tired of me than I was of him. And I'd just pack little brother's trunk so fast that it would make him dizzy to look at me. I'd wish him God speed and good luck and good-by—and I'd [illegible] so that he could hear me when he went down the steps.

I wonder where little brother would go—I wonder what he would do? Wouldn't it be interesting to watch him?

A woman I know did that once with a little boy I know. The little boy had been out [illegible] the ball for the big boys and he felt very masculine and very independent. He called his mother into his room for a good quiet talk.

"I'm too old, I'm too big and too smart to be ruled by a woman any more," said the little boy, standing with his feet very far apart and looking [illegible] defiant. "I'm going to be my own boss. I'm going to play with the Ragged Kids. I'm not going to wash my face unless I want to, and I shan't change my clothes just for a little teeney tear. I'm not going to school unless I feel like it, and if I want two pieces of pie at the table I'm going to have it."

"Little Boy," said the woman I know, as soon as she could manage her voice. "Little Boy, you'll have to give me time to think a minute—this is all so new to me. Come back in five minutes and I'll tell you what I'm going to do."

"All right," said the little boy in a spirit of great fair play. When the little boy came back the woman I know was waiting for him.

"I'm glad you've told me all this, Little Boy," said the woman I know. "I think it's every bit true. Of course, if you are too old, and too smart, and too big to be bossed by a woman any more, you can't think of letting a woman support you any longer. So I'll just pack your things, and give you [illegible] dollar for lunch—you have two or three dollars in your little bank, you know—and we'll part the very best of friends. Only one thing you must promise me, and you must do that because you are big and strong and brave, and I am little and weak and sometimes my heart troubles—if you are ever [illegible] you must promise to send for me."

How It Worked.

And the Little Boy promised. He got out his little trunk and he helped to pack it—[illegible] a while about a certain suit.

"I wouldn't put that in," said the woman I know, kindly. "Of course, I'm only just advising as a friend; they're your own clothes and this is your own affair—but you'll be going now, you know, and you won't need such a suit as that. I'd take thick, warm underclothes instead."

When the Little Boy packed his mother's picture, and a little card with [illegible] on it, [illegible] I know had to go out of the room a minute. But she came back again presently and was very smiling—and very helpful.

And the Little Boy locked his little trunk, and took his bank in his hand and put on his hat and started down the steps. At the foot of the steps he turned—on the very last step.

"Must I go to go?" said the little boy, and his voice shook. And in another [illegible] he was in his mother's arms—just a sorry little boy again—and the [illegible] was [illegible] the steps.

I wonder if the government of Austria wouldn't be just a little bit the [illegible] by a nice little visit with the woman I know.

I do [illegible] believe that she might be able to tell them something about the way to manage a boy. I wonder if she could.

FLIRTATION :: By Michelson

JUST a few years ago this sort of thing would have been impossible. Not because flirtation had not been invented. Oh, no! Flirtation is as old as apple trees. And not because very nice young chaps were never "up in the air." Oh, no, again!

This sort of thing didn't happen because gasoline birds hadn't been invented, and because the feminine heart had not yet learned to be extremely susceptible to a certain new kind of hero. No one has said that girls look particularly charming when you see them from the sky. But the fact that every once in so often a young man tumbles back to earth MAY be explained by the fact that he has seen from aloft something that made his head swim.

This means that the new kind of flirtation may be especially dangerous for the MAN.

Three Minute Journeys

Where Four Servants Do the Work of One

By TEMPLE MANNING

IF the housewife in lands where every modern convenience lies close at hand has difficulty in securing good servants, you can well imagine what a woman on the East African coast must endure. She has plenty of servants, but what servants they are!

It was once my good fortune to spend a delightful month with a friend who had established his home in Nairobi. He [illegible] the fear of my putting up anywhere but at his house, to which he instantly carried me off.

That night I slept soundly, so soundly that the next morning, when I was awakened by a terrible yell, I sprang out of bed, reached my revolver, and was halfway out of doors when my host stopped me. His wife had sent for a cook, and the candidates had arrived.

Later I went out on the veranda and watched my charming hostess give audience and select her "m'pesi" (cook). It was no easy task to make a selection from the host of excited, chattering negroes. [illegible] "[illegible]" had lined them up in [illegible] of their arrival, but still they were crowding through the gate. At the foot of the steps stood another of the house "boys," who handed to madam the dirty, pasted together "barua" (testimonials).

The Testimonials Were Interesting.

[illegible], these "barua" are usually worthless, because the natives buy or steal them from each other, and a useless servant may present a fine "m'pesi's" credentials. Still you have to give them some attention. In the midst of reading one of the "barua" my hostess startled me with a loud laugh. Instantly there was a commotion in the throng, and the boy who had handed in the "barua" dashed for his life away.

Still laughing, my hostess handed me the testimonial. It read: "To whom it may concern: The bearer is a thief, and the worst cook it was ever my misfortune to have. Please kick him out."

Finally, from the throng, a cook was engaged, and two others were told to return in case the first did not live up to his promise.

Theoretically, servants are supposed to pay for their own food out of their own salaries, but it never happens. Not only do they eat at your expense, but they adorn their persons with your best butter, rubbing it all over their bodies until they shine in the sun.

My host told me that his wife could never keep dish towels in the house—the servants always stole them to wear on state occasions. The red borders made them fine decorations. When she bought plain-bordered towels they still disappeared—they served for everyday wear.

The customary staff of servants for a small family in Nairobi includes a "m'pesi" (cook), a head "boy," a "[illegible]" [illegible] to assist them, and a "[illegible]" [illegible] native for odd jobs around the garden. Cook and boy each receive [illegible], and the other two half as much a month. And yet one good American servant would do the work of all four much better and with more satisfaction.

Useful Hints for the Housewife

By Ann Marie Lloyd

SALADS may be [illegible] [illegible] in the summer dietary. They contain [illegible] valuable mineral salts which are important for the [illegible] and cleansing of the blood as well as in [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible]

It is simple. Curdling is the chief thing to avoid. To [illegible], add a bit of ice [illegible] it before it can start, and beat in the stiffly beaten white of egg. Other [illegible] to prevent curdling consist in [illegible] the dish [illegible] and the [illegible], or vinegar, before the oil.

Here is a rule which seldom fails. Have your mixing bowl cold. Mix together a teaspoon of salt, the same of mustard, and one-quarter teaspoon of cayenne and paprika. [illegible] yolks of two eggs. Add [illegible] and stir and beat until it is thick. Add slowly four tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Thin with lemon juice. Then add oil and lemon juice and vinegar until a cup of oil and a tablespoonful each of the acids has been used. If desired, the white of one egg beaten to a stiff froth may be added, or half a cup of whipped cream.

There are many persons who do not like oil. For them the boiled dressing made with butter is excellent. Cream three tablespoonfuls of butter, add a teaspoon of salt, the same of mustard, a half teaspoon of paprika and a cup of hot milk. Pour this over three well beaten eggs and place them over in a double boiler till thick. Add fourth cup hot vinegar and strain.

Beat the juice of two lemons and two oranges and the yolks and [illegible] of the [illegible] with half a cup of [illegible] thoroughly mixed. Boil over hot water until perfectly clear. When nearly cool, add a cup of whipped cream.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Illness Is Shown by Your Handwriting

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins).

DR. HIRSHBERG

"THIS man has paresis," quoth I to my secretary.

"Why," she smiled, "his letter only tells of nervous troubles and headaches."

"It doesn't matter what he writes. He has paresis," was my mischievous, yet truthful rejoinder.

"How do you make that out?" she sceptically replied.

"By the handwriting."

This is correct. It is no second or third Daniel come to judgment. It is no shrewd guess at any handwriting on the wall. It is an acknowledged, scientific truth that, like the apparel, handwriting oft proclaims the man.

Just as muscular actions share your mental state, just as the impulses of your senses arrive at the central exchange, there to be relayed out again to the muscles, so any defect in the sensations, in your "common sense," quickly reflect in the contour, form and character of your handwriting.

The individuality of all handwriting needs not to be vouched for by experts such as Col. Malone and others. All who run may read the differences between their own and the handwriting of acquaintances.

Indeed, some mail order and business houses have men who do little else than sort out mail according to the handwriting recognized.

After all, letters and all hand-written epistles are actually intended to carry more between the lines than in the words that are scrawled.

Their one merit is to carry the living writer into the reader's presence, as he really is, undisguised by the words, studies and arts used.

Handwriting is really just as fleeting as in the spoken word. It should pass away like the sound of the voice. Even when the inked phrases do not fade, though they are hauled into life to plague you years afterwards, they only show you as you were when you wrote the spoken word, not as you are at another moment.

The exceptions to this are in instances of certain maladies such as general paralysis of the insane, chronic alcoholism, syringomyelia and other enduring maladies.

It is almost a simple task to recognize the weak, flabby-minded, self-enabled, proud, shallow-minded leading man in professional and community life by his handwriting.

A child, what does it know of worldly things, greenness and envious ambition? Therefore the scrawling words are large and unshapely. Once the youngster begins to build his character to integrate his habits, the writing takes on a vigor all its own.

Ex-President Taft's handwriting indicates a gentle, peaceful, pliable and malleable, where as that of the Mighty Hunter of the Congo and the Amazon has all the [illegible] marks of power, strength, integrity, ambition and originality.

President Wilson's decision, staunchness, puritanism, lack of feeling and emotion and intellectual supremacy are plainly to be seen in his inked paragraphs. Here also are to be seen his stubbornness, fixity of purpose and high resolve.

Age, like adolescence, may be diagnosed in the scalls. Loss of strength from temporary, acute illness, too, is quickly visible.

Greenness, selfishness, temperament and disposition, as well as character and pathology, are apparent in some types of penned paper.

Woman's Work?

LEONA DALRYMPLE

BREAKFAST the next morning was exceedingly trying. Mary did not speak to me. Nor was she apologetic.

Now, as a rule, when Mary is guiltily convinced that she has been in the wrong there is some suggestion of it in her manner. There was none this morning. She was slightly defiant—slightly contemptuous, as if I were becoming too cheap and sordid to be entirely trustworthy.

Again I saw my mother-in-law's influence. Once or twice I must confess I felt like patching things up with my wife. And by "patching things up" I do not mean apologizing. I mean simply ignoring the stormy atmosphere of the night before and beginning afresh. But in the end I did not relent.

Mary stood firmly upon her dignity until she wanted something, then it vanished, and she was as charming and gracious as any woman could be.

"Peter," she said, "in two months it will be Christmas."

"Humph!" said I. It was not a very pleasant thought. Christmas, always a period of added expense, would come doubly hard this year.

"I've been thinking what I want most," said Mary thoughtfully, "and I've just about decided."

"So long as it isn't a diamond lavaliere," said I, "I imagine I can stand the shock."

"No," said Mary, "this is really very sensible. Did you see those little water color cards I did for my luncheon?"

"Think I did," I ventured cautiously. I really had, but they were so bad, and Mrs. Penfield had insisted they were so good, that I felt upon delicate ground.

"Well," said Mary triumphantly, "I want you to give me for Christmas a year's instruction with Mr. Casetti, that Italian artist downtown. Everybody says I really have wonderful talent, and I ought not let it run to seed. Really, Peter, when you think of it, you haven't any moral right to waste a talent."

I smiled. Mary's argument, of course, was the usual bromide with which the mediocre artist bolsters his or her pretensions to art.

"Who said all this, Sig. Spaghetti?" I demanded.

Mary looked so utterly disgusted that I knew without further explanation I'd been hopelessly coarse again.

"I did stop in with mother," said Mary, "and showed him the sketches, and he was most enthusiastic. I really do feel that it's a wonderful thing, Peter, to have a mission in life—some work that is really creative—and——"

"Hum—er——" I stopped, for my temper was getting the better of me again. In the end it triumphed, and I wheeled and faced my wife.

"There is creative work enough in life for any woman," I flung at her fiercely, "without dabbling in fool water color sketches."

"What do you mean?" asked Mary wide-eyed.

"Children!" I flashed. My wife recoiled as if I had struck her. Her delicate prudishness can never stand a frank avowal of natural truths.

But I was voicing a great soreness in my heart. I want children. The sight of boys and girls playing on a neighbor's lawn makes me blue for hours. Why should women ever expect a marriage to stay childless. Mary does.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

Dear Annie Laurie:

I have the dearest sweetheart, but every time he calls on me he wants me to sit on his knee and kiss him all the time. After I do that for about three hours I become tired of it, and then he wants to go home when it is still real early. Do you think he really loves me, or does he stay just because I love him and make a fuss over him? He says he loves me, but he never asks me to marry him. Do you think he might ask me to marry him if I were to make more fuss over him?

IN LOVE.

WHERE'S your mother, "In Love"? Where's your father? Haven't you any brothers of your own at all? Of course he doesn't love you, poor, little, foolish girl. When will you little girls learn that [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] the same thing? [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] just find [illegible] laughing [illegible]

If the boy really loved you he'd ask you to marry him or at least he'd tell you why he wouldn't—just yet.

If you want him really to care for you don't make more fuss over him—make less. If I were you I should try never to see him again.

You're walking on the edge of a precipice, little girl—look over—don't you see the poor things down there at the bottom of the chasm? They were girls like you, not so very long ago, young and pretty and innocent. Every one of them was in love with some one who wanted to "be made a fuss over"; you see what happened to them, don't you?

Be careful. Be very careful. You are not much more sure-footed than others and you are near, very near to the edge of the cruel rocks.

I hope your mother will see your letter in the paper and open her careless eyes in time.

Annie Laurie

REES' SPECIALTY IS MENDING BONES

Famous Surgeon Who Patches Up Injured Sporting Men Began as Ironworker

They say that "Bonesetter" Rees of Youngstown, O., used to break the bones of the family cat, when he was a boy, just for the pleasure of resetting them. But Rees says it's just one of the many fables told of him and his work. At any rate his ability to set bones and replace dislocated tendons and muscles has won an international reputation.

Rees broke into the surgery game late in life. He was born in Wales, went to the United States when he was 32, heading straight for the Pittsburg steel mills. He was an ordinary workman, but had strong, deft fingers and a little practical knowledge of how the human frame is put together.

In the mills opportunities to mend broken bones and replace tendons were frequent—so frequent that before long Rees was paying more attention to his fellow workmen than to the work for which he was paid. His experience gave him the [illegible]

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, constipation of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Full information free. Armouri Opening Postponed

Lindsay Post: Mr. John Carew, M. P.P.-elect, has received a message from Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, stating that it will be impossible to open the Armoury on Saturday next, as was intended. A number of distinguished gentlemen, who the Minister expected to have present, were unable to make arrangements to be here Saturday.

Remanded For a Week.

Two men named Maxwell were yesterday charged with having broken into Mr. W. Baley's house and stealing a number of articles. Mr. Gordon when the Chief of Police asked for a week's remand said "Why is the court not ready to go on with this case?" The two men are employes of the De Laval Co. A week's remanded was granted.

Lindsay's Extensive Improvements.

Lindsay, Warder: Lindsay is at last [illegible] to have its wishes fulfilled by having a Government Park. Official word has been received by Mr. J. Carew concerning the fixing up of the property in the vicinity of the town wharf, and also the property on the opposite bank. A new wharf is to be built, as stated before, and also a cement wall and abutment on the north shore of the river.

A Lindsay "Bad Man."

Lindsay Warder: One of the Boving Co's. skilled mechanics failed to turn up to work this morning, the reason being that Chief Short was on his trail, and this being the case he took leg bail. A few nights ago the man in question, while under the influence of liquor, frightened a young domestic as she was walking along Russell-st. in the vicinity of St. Paul's church. The young girl ran across the road to where several ladies were sitting on a verandah and was given protection from her pursuer, who, however, proved boisterous and troublesome. A neighbor was aroused from his slumber and also came to the rescue of the ladies, one of whom had in the meantime fainted. The disturber of the peace was finally yanked off to his lodging house.

Campbellford Man Wins Suit.

Chief Justice Falconbridge gave judgment at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, confirming the reward of $1,200 damages given by a jury to Charles H. Cassan, of Campbellford, against Dr. Andrew Haig, of the same town, for alleged negligence in his treatment of the plaintiff. From the records it appeared that in June of last year the plaintiff consulted the defendant for eye trouble. After examining the man's optic Dr. Haig injected something, presumably cocaine, for relieving the pain, it was intensified. In fact the plaintiff alleged that he was temporarily deprived of his sight and the eye was permanently injured. The defence was that no mistake had been made, the treatment given being the usual one in such cases and that the symptoms complained of were due to the progress of the malady, which might have been remedied by further treatment.

A NATIONAL DISH

Eating Poi Is an Operation Demanding Skill

Poi is the national dish of the Hawaiians, and a poi supper is an event long to be remembered by foreigners admitted to participation therein. Poi is made from taro, a big, coarse, dark-skinned vegetable grown under water, the size and shape of a large sweet potato. The taro is pounded until it becomes a coarse moist mass, and is then left to ferment.

When poi is served each guest bathes and dries the right hand, and then proceeds to dip the index finger of that hand into the mass. There is quite a knack in the operation, and it is always necessary to instruct the novice that there is absolutely no need for one to move his arm, but simply the wrist.

One removes his finger at the same time that his neighbor does. On the finger of the skillful operator there will be a pear-shaped ball of poi, but the clumsy one's fingers will simply be thinly veneered with the substance. Then, if the stranger ask what was the matter with his movement, he will be told that he held his finger too straight. He must crook it a little, and turn his hand, not too fast, with a wrist movement only.

GENERAL CRISIS MAY BE PRECIPITATED IN ULSTER AT ANY MOMENT BY AN UNANTICIPATED COLLISION

Steady Flow of Cartridges and a trickle of rifles into the Province Which the Coast Blocade does Nothing to Prevent

London, July 9.—The growing tension in Ulster is reflected in the eager efforts being made to get in a good supply of ammunition, writes The Morning Post's Belfast correspondent. There is a steady flow of cartridges and a trickle of rifles into the province, which the coast blocade does nothing to prevent. An occasional seizure is made, as was the case at Derry today, when a furniture van lined with munitions fell into the hands of the police. An attempt was made to get together a force of volunteers to resist the seizure, and if there had been a few more minutes the available Customs police would either have had to give way or fight.

WEAKEST FORCE GIVES WAY

The correspondent further says that if at any particular moment of the contention the police are in a palpably stronger force, the volunteers give way, if the volunteers are stronger the police give way. A general crisis may be precipitated at any moment by an unanticipated collision over some minor gun-running exploit. On the other hand, there is the Liberal "Chronicle's" correspondent's declaration, after visiting Annalong, in County Down, where it was said forty machine guns for the Ulster volunteers were landed, that the whole story is a fabrication. Ulster could safely declare her independence if all her reported gun-running exploits were true. The Unionist "Telegraph's" correspondent also denies this machine gun story.

DISSENSION AMONG NATIONALISTS

In the National Volunteer's camp at Londonderry, Captain White, the officer commanding the Londonderry and Inishowen battalions, has tendered his resignation. Captain White is a son of the late Field Marshal Sir George White. He found it necessary to reduce Commander McGinchy from a battalion command. McGinchy appealed to the County board, who reinstated him, whereupon Captain White wrote out his resignation. The County Board thereupon appointed McGinchy pro tem commanding officer in White's place.

EXCLUSION OF ULSTER

"Making the gash across the face of Ireland wider and deeper," is the "Irish Independent's" opinion of the Lord's amendments. The Independent argues that these involve the absolute exclusion of Ulster which means the exclusion of thirty-six per cent. of the whole population of the country. The scheme is fantastic and preposterous, it says, and such a clean cut would be absolutely intolerable. The same paper says that the Government on the subject of Home Rule is now absolutely at variance with Nationalist sentiment, otherwise the Amending Bill would never have appeared in Parliament.

The Liberal "Daily Chronicle" gives prominence to a special article which says that the Lord's decision, which represents the Unionist policy separate the whole of Ulster from the rest of Ireland is utterly impossible.' "It is unworkable,' it says, "and the Lord knows it is characteristic of the Lords' disregard for the rights of the people that they should propose this partition of Ireland without consulting the electors, either by counties or otherwise. The Province of Ulster is a shadow which has no geographical or political significance. Three-fourth of the whole area is predominantly Nationalist. Ulster now returns a majority of Home Rulers, and has done so on former occasions. A majority of the population would vote on a ballot for Home Rule, and that majority would be overwhelming if we were to exclude the city of Belfast."

A FORECAST

"What is likely to happen is that the business men of Ulster will displace the politicians and accept Home Rule as a fact and propose some practical non-exclusion conditions which will safeguard their interests in the north. There will be plenty of time to pass this in an amending bill agreed to by the people of Ulster themselves, representing their commercial interests and their religious communities, rather than by Tory leaders in London, who use them as pawns in in the party game."

CHATEAU FRONTENAC THREATENED BY FIRE

Dufferin Terrace is Mass of Flames With High Wind Blowing

Quebec, July 10.—The Terrace fire is still raging. The ruins from the collapsed part of the promenade are smouldering yet, and they have ignited the remaining part of the walk. At 2.30 four houses facing the Terrace are on fire, but the brigade seems to be getting the upper hand.

No loss of life or serious accidents reported so far.

Quebec, July 10.—At 0.30 o'clock the progress of the fire was held up by tearing up the board walk. One third of the Terrace had been destroyed and four houses partially destroyed.

Quebec, July 10.—At 1.30 o'clock ed promenade, Dufferin Terrace, overlooking the river, and on which is built the Chateau Frontenac, the world renowned hostelry of the Canadian Pacific company, is on fire and the high wind that blows is fanning the flames so that the terrace is feared.

The entire staff of the employes of the Chateau is engaged in helping the brigade, and there is no immediate danger of the hotel being destroyed, but at one o'clock the fire had reached two large houses standing behind the terrace.

SENT MAN TO JAIL FOR THREE MONTHS HARD LOBOR

Toronto, July 9.—"It's hot," said John Madever as he took a seat on a bench yesterday beside a lady he thought he knew.

"Fifty dollars and costs, or three months' hard labor," said Magistrate Cohen today when Madever appeared in Police Court.

As the prisoner did not have the fifty dollars, he will go to jail for the above term, and all because the weather was hot enough to make him feel like resting as he passed through Dufferin Park. The charge was disorderly conduct.

Madever stated that he thought he knew the lady. He acknowledged having taken a seat beside her on a park bench and remarking on the heat. The lady apparently resented the remark and moved to another seat. Madever wandered around the park for a few minutes, and again took a seat on a bench beside the lady, but this time did not address her. He still thought he knew her.

But the lady called a constable and Madever was placed under arrest. Despite his plea to-day that he moved away as soon as he discovered that the woman was not the acquaintance he took her to be, Magistrate Cohen found him guilty, and imposed the above sentence.

A LETTER CRITICIZED

Mr. E. A. Peck, ex-M.P.P., Gives His Views on Conservative Party Here.

Yesterday Mr. E. A. Peck, ex-M. P. P., in conversation with a Times representative, gave his views on a letter headed, "Scathing Letter on Political Situation in West Peterborough" in yesterday's Morning Times. Mr. Peck states that "Voter" goes too far in stating that politics in this riding have been made a "shuttle cock." He expects that any temporary misunderstanding that may now affect the Conservative party here will soon be hedged over and that the party will rise Phoenix like above the debris of any temporary trouble. Should any differences of opinion have arisen between leaders of the party, he expects that, in the immediate future, such trouble should be wiped off the slate.

Mr. Peck says that anonymous criticism or other, through the press, unless suggesting a remedy for trouble complained of is of little or no value.

JOHN KRAFCHENKO PAYS THE PENALTY

Murderer of Bank Manager Hanged in Winnipeg Jail To.day

Winnipeg, July 9.—John Krafchenko, convicted of murder was hanged at 6.50 this morning in the Provincial jail. He died as he had lived, a man of iron nerve, and went to death unflinching.

This was no bravado, but steady courage, for John Krafchenko died penitent. In token of penitence he proved to his spiritual adviser, Rev. Bertal Heeney, during the silent watches of last night, that he had wished he could have left his cell, could have broken out as he had out of the "old kitchen" and a bent, battered old teaspoon as the simple implement he used to pick the massive lock of his cell before the eyes of the astonished clergyman.

"That was the last final proof—though I did not need it," said Mr. Heeney, "that Krafchenko died a Christian. He could have got away had he wished, but he stayed to face the end, genuinely regretting the pain he had caused others, and willing to pay the penalty."

Mr. Heeney entered Krafchenko's cell at 11 o'clock last night and throughout the night he and the prisoner prayed every hour, now Mr. Heeney, now Kraschenko, supplicating the Almighty. At four o'clock Krafchenko suddenly stood up from the bench on which they were then sitting. Holding his hands even at his shoulders he stood, every muscle tense and his face reddening with the strain .

COLLAPSED UNCONSCIOUS.

"Listen," he said, and for four full minutes he stood braced and taut. Then "Ready!" was blurted out, and Krafchenko collapsed unconscious on his prison bed. From that moment up to within ten minutes of his execution he remained unconscious.

PICK CANADA FOUR AS TROPHY WINNERS

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 9.—Today the finals for the trophy, and the semi-finals and finals for the Association will be played. Play in the Consolation may also be concluded today and the greens given over to the doubles and singles.

The Canada four skipped by Mr. Geo. Begg, are picked to win the trophy. The Hamilton rink, which will meet them, is composed of bowlers comparatively new to the game, and their success was unexpected. The Toronto rink is made up of men who have been in the game for years, all but Mr. Parker are bowlers of long standing. The skip and the third man have played on many championship rinks in the past, and can be counted on to play to form. The stress of playing for a championship will not upset them.

Play in the Association reached the semi-finals last night. In the doubles the preliminary and first round completed. Many of the crack bowlers met their Waterloo in the doubles and have nothing left but the singles between them and home sweet home.

Private Enterprise Steps in with Service for Norto Enders --Tests Completed; Orders are Made

Toronto., July 10.—"The chassis for the busses have already been purchased, the bodies for the cars are now being built, and by the first of September there will be a complete service established."

Such was the announcement today, from Robins, Limited, anent the motor bus service that the company is establishing in North Toronto.

The route of the first service the company is establishing will lie between Yonge street and North Bathurst, operating in the vicinity of Wilson avenue and as far north as Shepherd. This will give a transportation service from the termini of the existing city car lines at the city limits to the six and a half mile circle. Leaving Yonge street the busses will cut across in a northwesterly direction to Bathurst, using the new boulevards, which have been constructed recently.

When the service is instituted on the first of September, there will be five busses ready for use. These have been ordered from the Parkard Motor Car Company, the Commercial Car Company of Luton, England, and the Halley Industrial Motors, Ltd., also an English firm. All three manufacturers are well known and have an international reputation. Tests of the chassis have already been conducted at Hogshollow Hill in North Toronto and have been found to come up to the requirements. The chassis are of the three and a half ton type, driving power being furnished by sixty horse power motors.

QUEENS DID NOT WANT RESIDENCE

Declares Prof. Dupuis, in Discussing Recent Offer Made by Major Leonard

Kingston, July 9.—Prof. N.F. Dupuis, in an address before the students' gathering at Queen's Summer School, stated Queen's case in having turned down the recent offer of Major Leonard to erect a military residence for the students. The offer was not of value, he claimed. 'It was one to put up residences and to allow students accommodation in them at five dollars per week if they would submit to military drill. The students could get accommodation in private homes at a similar price, and the college did not care to have the time table of studies interfered. In short, there was nothing of value to the college, and the offer had been refused on this account."

WILL BE ERECTED.

Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia inspected the cadet camp at Barriefield and expressed himself as highly pleased with what he saw. The Minister in an interview with The News stated that the proposition of Major Leonard to erect a military residence in Kingston at a cost of $500,000, was not dead, although the Major had withdrawn his offer to erect one in connection with Queen's University, owing to disagreement over the composition of the Board of Control. He declared most emphatically that the residence would be built.

DEATH OF FORMER DOMINION GOVERNMENT RAILWAY MINISTER

Hon. H. R. Emmerson Passes Away After weeks of Illness --Was in Laurier Cabinet

Dorchester, N. B., July 9.—Hon. H. R. Emmerson, former Minister of Railways, died today after an illness of several weeks duration.

The late Hon. H. R. Emmerson was the son of a Baptist minister and was born at Maugerville, N.B., in 1853. Early in life he was thrown upon his own resources and this had probably something to do with the development of that sturdy, self-contained character which marked him in public life. He was educated at Amherst Academy, St. Joseph's College, Memramcook and at Acadia College. He subsequently attended Boston University Law School, where he was prize essayist in 1866-7, and took the degree of L.L.B. In 1877 he was admitted as an attorney and was called to the Bar the following year, later taking up practice in Dorchester, N.B. He was vice-president of the Maritime Liberal Association for several years and in 1888 he entered public life as one of the representatives of Alberta, in the Provincial Assembly. In March 1891, he was appointed to the Legislative Assembly and became a member of the Blair Administration as President of the Executive Council, later being appointed Chief Commissioner of Public Works.

BECAME PREMIER.

On the death of Mr. Mitchell, he became Premier of New Brunswick (December 1897) He was returned to the House of Commons by Westmoreland in 1900, after resigning the premiership, and was appointed Minister of Railways and Canals under the Laurier Administration in 1904.

DUKE AND DUCHESS PLACED ON NEW TWO DOLLAR BILLS

Notes of Value That Everyone will Be Glad to Possess--Excellent Likenesses in the Best Style of the Engravers

Ottawa, July 9.—A new two-dollar note is being issued by the Dominion Government. It bears the likenesses of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. In this way it is arranged that after their departure Canadians will have circulated among them most agreeable souvenirs of the Duke and Duchess.

The note is decidedly more attractive than the old brown Edward note. It is far whiter and cleaner looking olive green taking the place of brown as the prevailing tone.

On the face it carries exquisitely cut vignettes of their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. They are looking toward each other from opposite ends of the note. The Duke is in the uniform of a fieldmarshall, while the Duchess wears a coronet. A remarkable cameo effect has been achieved. The excellent likenesses are very light and are set upon a black background, which makes the face stand out as if they were embossed. The cameo effect is accentuated by an oval framing surrounding each vignette. The engraving on the note and especially the cutting of the vignettes is the finest ever done in Canada.

The back of the note has a trophies the Canadian coat of arms surrounded by the arms of each of the nine Provinces.

NOT THE ANCESTOR OF DOMESTIC FOWL

Wild Turkey in Ontario Extinct—Barnyard Fowl Came From Mexico Via England

Sixty or seventy years ago, in the Niagara Peninsula and all up along Lake Erie's shore, wild turkeys were very plentiful. What happened to them? Shot out—trapped out—decimated; taking his size and rare flavor into consideration—once the King of Canadian game birds! For those magnificent creatures were often three and a half feet long and five feet in wing spread, and weighing over twenty pounds—almost the exact counterpart in appearance of our highest valued barnyard fowls.

When the young wild turkeys were hatched, beside some close-hidden log or in the seclusion of the deepest thickets, ten—sometimes fifteen—went to the brood. The mother bird made them the objects of her most constant solicitude and care, the little ones following close as she crept stealthily about among the densest available growth, where the grasses, plants and fruits that they fed on most abounded. Seeds and buds, too they loved, and could never resist such delicacies as beetles, tadpoles, and small lizards. The only audible sign of the advance would be the mother's low, tender piping. Any danger ahead, and—at her instant change of tone—every toddler of them disappeared, only to emerge at the cautious parent's soft cluck.

They were very rarely caught sight of on the ground, but a dog could always flush them into the lower branches of the nearest trees, which was where the guns could flame their deadly work. Oftener, however, "trapping" was resorted to, for the wild turkey was swift in addition to its wariness, and like as not ended its flight in the tallest tree instead.

The early settlers of Ontario, when they emigrated, were thoroughly well acquainted with the domestic turkey, for it was introduced into England, in 1541 and popularly given its present name from the idea that sailors trading back and forth with the land of the crescent moon had brought it hence, and, when the English farmer emigrated to Canada, naturally, he brought the bird—among other handy small live stock—with him. It is easy to picture his amazement when, roaming the woods of his section, he came across wild turkeys—and the wonderment with which he realized that he had been "carrying coals to Newcastle."

But the domestic turkey of England had not come from Canada. Away back when Cortez effected the Spanish conquest of Mexico—and history records it—than the store of gold then found in possession of the highly civilized natives nothing struck the imagination of the Spaniards (more than the extensive, most complete menageries of the Mexican emperor —especial mention being made of the fact that turkeys were largely fed to the beasts of prey. The Mexicans, in fact, had domesticated the wild turkey, and habitually reared it for the table, in 1520 it had been transported in a domestic state to the West Indies and the Spanish Main, which furnishes the clue to its arrival in England fifteen years later—not from Turkey—but originally from the wild stock of Mexico.

The barnyard beauty of to-day—his [illegible] feather proves it—is the lineal descendant of the Mexican turkey, and not of its cousin, the bird that was trapped and shot to destruction in earlier Ontario days—the magnificent creature which at a pinch could fly a mile-wide river. Sometimes a well-bred specimen of the Mexican stock has been known to attain the weight of forty-five pounds.

Consumption of Meat

The per capita consumption of meat in Australia and Argentina, two heavy exporters of meat, is 250 pounds a year, while in the United States and Canada it is only about 160 pounds.

British Cash

The Southern States now owe British bondholders a total of more than $75,000,000, not including interest, on account of debts which have been in default from forty to seventy years.

DRESSING A HORSE

How to Please the Animal, Yourself and the Observer

The harness of a horse constitutes its working dress. Its working clothes need not be elaborate and showy, but they should be sensible and good, sanitary and comfortable. A good horse always looks well either with or without good harness, but a poor horse is greatly improved in appearance with a new set of good harness. Good, clean harness not only makes the horse appear better, but the horse will be more comfortable and do more work in them and do it better. The farmer who takes pride in general farm improvements should still take more pride in driving a well dressed team. Money cannot be spent for a much better purpose, and the time in keeping the harness clean and bright is time well spent.

The most important part of the horse's harness is the collar. It should fit the shoulders and neck snugly, not too tight or too loose, and be made of a firm but elastic material, so that by use it will gradually adjust itself to the parts upon which it presses. Never let the horse wear another's collar, as no two horses have exactly the same shaped shoulders and neck. If the breaking in of a new collar to a horse is like breaking in a new pair of shoes to a man, it should have human sympathy when it is given a new collar.

The bridle is perhaps the next most important part of the harness. The bit should be strong and safe, but never so large, rough or otherwise severe as to cause the horse pain or inconvenience. The smooth bit is generally the best if the horse is gentle and easy to manage. Blinds are an injury to the horse and an unnecessary part of the bridle. The bridle, as a whole should be as light and simple in construction as possible.

Balkan War Cost

Balkan war is estimated to have cost Bulgaria $540,000,000 in war expenses and territory ceded to Roumania; between 55,000 and 58,000 Bulgarians were killed.

British Merchant Ships

It is estimated that 593 war and merchant ships of 2,156,007 tons gross were launched from private yards in the United Kingdom last year. This is the highest aggregate ever known.

WHERE TASTE IS LOCATED

Very Little is Known About Organ of Taste in Lower Animals

Many experiments have been made by scientists in an attempt to discover where the organ of taste is located in the lower animals, but so far little headway has been made in this line of investigation.

Crayfish and worms, it is stated, seem to have decided preferences in the matter of food, though no special taste organ has yet been found. The crab is more dainty in its diet.

Snails and slugs show a decided preference for certain kinds of food. Peas, cabbages, dahlias and sunflowers are great favorites with them. Spiders have only a slight sense of taste; flies soaked in paraffin seem quite palatable to them; though one species, the diadema, is somewhat more particular, and refuses to touch alcohol in any form whatever.

The proboscis of the fly and the tongue of bees and ants are furnished with numerous delicate hairs set in minute pits. These are, perhaps, connected with the organ of taste; but, though the exact locality of this sense in insects is uncertain, it is known that groups of cells in the tongues of animals, called taste bulbs, form in part the ends of the organ of the higher animals. They are very close and exceedingly numerous in many, while the tongue of even the cow has some 35,000 taste bulbs.

These taste bulbs were discovered in 1867. Each one consists of two kinds of cells—one set forming an outer protective covering, through an opening in which project from five to ten of the true taste cells. Though important, they are not apparently an essential part of the organ, for birds and reptiles have none, but neither have they a keen sense of taste, except, perhaps, the parrot.

Games and Their Origin

Tennis is undoubtedly the oldest of all existing ball games. Its origin is buried in antiquity, but it was played largely in Europe during the Middle Ages in the parks and ditches of feudal castles. The French learned the game from the Italians, the British from the French.

Golf is popularly said to be a Scottish game, but there is good reason to suppose that, in the first instance, it came from Holland. Cricket, however, is essentially all British. The first mention of the game is found in a thirteenth century manuscript, and it derives its name from the Saxon word "cric," or "cryc," meaning "a staff."

Billiards is believed to have been brought from the East by the Crusaders; though some people say that the French developed it from an ancient German game. Chess, however, which is the most intellectual of all games, is also the most ancient.

The Chicken Oath

The chicken oath was administered in a Vancouver court, to Mah Quang, a Chinaman who was a witness in the case of seven men charged with rioting at Nanaimo. After the oath was administered a young white cock was procured, its head placed on a block of wood, and chopped off by the Chinaman. The ceremony was witnessed by a large crowd of persons.

A STAR OF HOPE

If you have visited New York City you may have noticed this thirty-foot pole surmounted by an electrically-lighted star in Madison Square Park, the gathering place of many wanderers. It is called the "Star of Bethlehem" and the expense of putting it there and keeping it lighted every night in the year was borne by a woman who did not permit her name to be known but her motive was that it should carry a message of hope and love to the hearts of despairing men and women.

A Sick Room Hint

If you have to keep up a fire in a invalid's room provide yourself with an old glove and a stick that can be used as a poker. With the glove on a piece of coal can be picked up and put on the fire with the minimum noise, and the wooden poker is far less noisy than any other. Little things, perhaps; but little things make an enormous difference in the comfort or otherwise of an invalid.

Soups Without Stock

The wise woman will have a store of helpful accessories in her pantry, from which she can draw to get variety of flavor in her soups. When mushrooms are to be used, she should take care to wash and thoroughly dry the stalks and skins, for she can add a pinch of these to the soup. When celery is plentiful she should dry and rub to a powder some of the leaves, which are just as full of flavor as the stalks; and this, too, will help when celery is unobtainable. Kitchen Bouquet and the various table sauces are to be used with discretion, to give added flavor. Among the more substantial of the soups made without stock may be classed those having dried vegetables as a base. One rule can be given for the making of these which, with slight variations, can be made to serve for different vegetables such as peas, beans, lima beans or lentils, which latter are not in nearly as common use as they should be when we consider their great food value and low cost. Take pea soup as an example. The ingredients necessary are one cup of dried peas, one onion, one small carrot, a sprig of thyme or marjoram, six cups of cold water, one tablespoon of dripping or butter, salt and pepper to taste, dried mint, one level tablespoon of flour or cornstarch and a ham bone or slice of bacon. Wash the peas in cold water and put them into a bowl with enough cold water to cover them thoroughly. Let them soak overnight. In the morning pour off the water which has not been absorbed and put the peas, onion, carrot, thyme or marjoram into a saucepan with the dripping and the six cups of water. Cook very gently until the vegetables are tender. Then pass all through a sieve, keeping back only the tough [illegible] [illegible] which will not pass the mesh. [illegible] to these and thicken with the [illegible] which must be flour or cornstarch moistened with a little cold water before adding to the soup. Send a plate of dried powdered mint to the table with the soup, so that those who like the flavor may add it for themselves. When a ham bone or knuckle is obtainable it is a valuable addition to a soup of this kind, and of course should be cooked with the vegetables.

MIXING OF RACES

It Adds to the Vigor of the Individual

The old idea was that a race gained in vigor by its purity of strain says Dr. Woods Hutchinson. This is a delusion, and the purer a race strain is the less vigorous the members of the race will be. There is no such thing as a pure race. Every race on the face of the earth has been mixing with others for thousands of years. The mixing of races adds to their vigor, provided, of course, the two strains have good blood. There is no such thing as an "Anglo-Saxon." We in America are as old as any people in the world, only our recent development has been under a different environment. Mixing of races is going on constantly in Europe as it is over here, but not on so large a scale. The regions where there is the most mixing of races are the regions that produced the [illegible]

There is not much difference between the various races. If you went into a gymnasium, for instance, where men from all the civilized [illegible] were dressed alike and [illegible] spoke a word, it would be hard to distinguish the men from [illegible] America from those from France, Germany or Italy. The [illegible] now to the different [illegible] is mostly in the clothes and manners and language.

CALL FOR LOFTY IDEALS

Prof. Peabody of Harvard Talks of the Value of a Man

"How much is a man better than a sheep? Is he any better? If so what is the difference?" asked Prof. F. G. Peabody of Harvard University. After referring to the similarities existing between man and bovines, such as their gregarious instincts, their proneness to panic and alarm and their contentment after satisfying inner desires, the speaker dealt with the distinctions which lift man above the brute creation. First was the distinction of one's self, character, which is the essential of life. One of the problems of the day was to lift a man from the rut into which he was so often plunged by the machinery of commerce. Then there was the distinction of others. No sheep gave its life to any other sheep; but the world was full of examples of man's sacrifice for others. And again the universal life with its perpetual summons to [illegible], the call of the ideal of reason. The sheep looked down, but the man looked up [illegible]; he saw the hills. There were three questions which every man should answer: "Am I one of the herd or I have found myself? Am I here to give or to get? Am I living among the [illegible] to which a man habitually looks up or to those to which a man habitually looks down? Do I see the mud or the sky?"

WILD HORSES OF WEST

[illegible]

Likely Lobsters

An interesting experiment with lobsters, to determine their habits as wanderers, was made at a fish hatchery at Woods Hole, Massachusetts. There were [illegible] to four hundred lobsters, which were then set free, and the [illegible] [illegible] requested to return any tagged lobsters which they caught. Of course many were not heard from again, but within fifteen days one was taken fifteen miles from Woods Hole, and many were caught [illegible] Block Island. One was sent back by a Long Island fisherman, who found it in his pot one hundred miles from where it was liberated. The longest distance attained by any of the [illegible] wanderers was that of one caught off the coast of New Jersey, about two hundred miles from the starting-point. Plainly the lobster is much livelier in its habits [illegible] than it gives the impression of being when on land.

AN IRISH ELECTOR'S CRITICISM.

(Editor Morning Times)

Dear Sir.—Who the divil wrote ye yesterday about the history of our party? Ye're wrong. Sure it was the third party he was writin' about, called the "bargain-makers," belonging to both parties. Don't I know them, Ochone! The late contest in the Tory party was between the two wings—the whiskey wing and the water wing—and when the whiskey wing stud to lose both ways, they voted to beat the Tory, so as the patronage and influence would remain in the hands of the whiskey ring if Whitney was returned, and he wor. But, begorrah, the patronage don't remain when they tho't, at all, at all. It is Mr. Suddon's, and the whiskey wing might just as well have been square as goin' on with the foolin' they did, trying to create sympathy and beat Soden, and they did. Hooray for the true stuff of both parties that stand ready to knife man or woman for their own ends. Whin ye want sympathy put up a good little man that don't care what happens as long as it don't happen to him, and everything comes his way. That's principle, and what makes people what they are.

Sciatica Vanishes Instantly If Nerviline is Used

CAN YOU BEAT THIS CASE?

No ordinary liniment will even relieve Sciatica. Nothing but the most powerful kind of a remedy can penetrate through the tissues and finally reach the Sciatica Nerve. You can always depend on the old-time "Nerviline." Nothing made today is as good for Sciatica as Nerviline was when first produced, about forty years ago. All this time the same old 'Nerviline' has been curing Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, and is considered to be without any equal in relieving pain or soreness anywhere. "Nerviline couldn't be made stronger or better," writes James E. Edwards. "The way it cures Sciatica is to me simply a miracle. For years I suffered frightfully. I ruined my stomach with internal dosing. I rubbed in gallons of oils and liniments—none were strong enough. One good rubbing with Nerviline relieved. I kept on rubbing and shortly was cured. My father cured rheumatism in his right arm and shoulder with Nerviline, and my mother cured herself of chronic lumbago with Nerviline. Our family simply swears by Nerviline and we are never without a 50c. family size bottle in our home. We find that for external pain, for coughs, colds, earache, such minor ills it is a veritable family physician.

THE MALIGNANT GERM

Animals Contracted Tuberculosis Because Consumptives Expectorated

Frank Carrel of Quebec, journalist and author, published in his paper, The Telegraph, a very interesting experience in connection with the [illegible] of animal tuberculosis. He [illegible]

"[illegible] I was at Ventnor, [illegible] and was escorted [illegible] tuberculosis hospital [illegible] in England by the [illegible] trustees of the institution [illegible] through the grounds [illegible] related a rather odd incident [illegible] one of great importance, and from which an object lesson can be taken. The institution in question had decided to have its own cows and [illegible], and to thereby provide its [illegible] with the purest of milk and [illegible] direct from its own farm. [illegible] It was not long, however [illegible] it was noticed that the [illegible] were looking very [illegible], notwithstanding the fact that they had the very best of grazing and attention. It was apparent that some malady was affecting them. Examination was made, and it was found that they were all suffering from tuberculosis, and that the only way in which they could have caught it was from the expectoration of patients, who, notwithstanding the strict rules of the institutions relative to expectoration, must have sometime or other expectorated in or around the fields where the cattle were grazing. Another strange incident in connection with this discovery was the fact that pigs were the only animals that could be kept there, and that were immune from contracting the disease. At the time I visited the institution they had quite a large number of pigs which were thriving upon the waste food of the institution."

IT PAYS TO BE KIND

So Says Railroad President In a Letter on Courtesy

To every employe of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways a message was sent out from the President's office dealing with "Efficiency and Courtesy." The message embodies the spirit of the modern railroad, an insistence on the right of the public, passengers and shippers alike, to demand the best possible service from the railway men. In his message to the passenger employes the president says:

"The railroad company desires to sell its transportation. The ticket rates are alike for all, and any person buying a ticket, no matter what the style of his clothes are, how much money he displays or what his position in society is, is entitled to proper and courteous treatment.

"The railroad man has a great opportunity for passing out kindness and good-will. He comes into contact with every kind and condition of individual; the old, the young; the rich, the poor; the illiterate, the learned; the happy the prosperous, and those in defeat, saturated with sorrow and distress; he sees them all and through intuition knows to which class they belong. A smile, a kind word, or a kindness done to any of these cannot fail to leave its impression for good and this cannot help but expand. Try it."

The president's message to the freight men said:

"The needs and wishes of shippers and consignees should be anticipated as much as possible. Do not discommode a shipper because of some omission of his own, but try to help out. Railroads are the servants of the public and it is their duty to serve well."

Get-Rich-Quicks

About the year 1720 a great many Englishmen invested millions of money in companies which were organized for such objects as: "Wrecks to be Fished for on the Irish Coast"; "For Making Oil from Sunflower Seeds"; "For Importing a Number of Large Jack Asses from Spain"; "For a Wheel of Perpetual Motion"; and, most extraordinary of all, "For an Undertaking Which Shall in Due Time be Revealed." The promoter of the last company received more than one thousand subscriptions during the morning on which the offering was made, and disappeared the same afternoon with more than two thousand guineas. The Englishmen who parted with their money for such ludicrous enterprises were not, unfortunately, the last of their kind.

Alaska Railways

It is expected that the United States government will soon call for bids for steel in construction of the Alaskan Railroad, which will require 50,000 to 60,000 tons. There are inquiries in market for about 11,000 cars, some of which will probably be filled in the near future.

ROBUST HEALTH AT 99

Fisherman of P.E.I. Has 202 Living Descendants

If race suicide applies to the more settled centres of the North American continent, its effects do not seem to have reached across the Straits of Northumberland to Prince Edward Island, where, according to a recent census, it is shown that a larger per thousand of people over 70 years of age are to be found than in any other province of Canada.

In most countries a fourth generation is rare, but Prince Edward Island can boast of a fifth in the Poirer family, of Tignish, the men of which are fishermen and of robest health. The head of the family, great great-grandfather Poirer, has 202 living descendents, and is up at daybreak at 99 years to turn his fish on the flakes to dry and to chop wood.

A "POLISHED" WOMAN

Blackleaded Her Face to Look Like a Futurist

A young woman appeared in a public park at Grosnyi, in South Russia, with half her face blackened. The color was not due to the little accidents of grate cleaning. The woman was not "the first woman chimney sweep," neither had she embarked on the arduous career of a coal heaver.

The "black"—blacking perhaps or blacklead—had been deliberately applied. Moreover, it had been polished apparently with tender care until it shone like a grate in a well regulated household or the boots of an officer in the Guards.

But the result was not "a joy for ever." The plebeians in the park were not impressed. They jeered. And before their jeers the pioneer of the new fashion in faces had to retreat. The explanation of the matter is simple. The woman, it seems, was a futurist who wished to go one better than a colored wig and violet face powder.

War's Awful Cost

Mr. Norman Angell should be interested in the calculations made by Professor Tsankoff, of the Sofia University, regarding the cost to Bulgaria of the Balkan Wars. He estimates the total expenditure, including the capitalization of the sums to be expended in pensions, at, roughly, $250,000,000, while the value of the territory ceded to Roumania is assessed at a further $200,000,000. Add to that the death of over six per cent. of the adult male population, the picked adults be it noted, and it may well be [illegible] if the game was worth the candle.

Aerial Dare-devils

Of the forty-three airmen in the world who have looped the loop, France has twenty-[illegible], England five, America one and Russia and [illegible] two each. The other airmen all belong to small states, including one each to Peru and Paraguay. Every one of the loopers performed his exploit on a French machine.

KNOCKDOWN SHIPPING BOX

Six Pieces Quickly Formed Into a Strong Close Case

An ingenious form of shipping box is shown here. It is in knockdown style and not only makes a strong case, with close-fitting joints, but can be used over and over again. There are four side pieces and two end pieces. Each side piece has grooved cleats on each end and the end pieces fit between the side cleats. Two cleats secured to each end piece have flanges that engage the grooves of the adjacent cleats on the sides. These various pieces register so neatly that merchandise of small particles can be carried in the box without filtering through. Wires hold the box shut and when it has been emptied it can be taken apart and shipped back flat if the consignor wants it.

[illegible] HEINIE

[illegible] man of the [illegible] says he cannot help being "scrappy" on the diamond. It is only his desire to win at all hazards, he says, that makes him say and do things on the spur of the moment that umpires and others misconstrue.

Despite the [illegible] third baseman's reputation as a [illegible] hitter, his peculiar crabbed disposition [illegible] his undoing when facing some pitchers.

"I would rather pitch to Zimmerman than any other man I know of," said Jeff Tesreau. "And there are many other pitchers who feel the same about him. Whether he is going to be annoying is learned when he [illegible] his first trip to the plate. If he scores, a single or an extra base hit, then he is always dangerous the remaining innings. If he does not, then he is easy.

"All I want Zimmerman to do when he comes to the plate for the first time is to hit the ball into deep left or centre field and have someone make a spectacular catch. That is enough. It makes him so peeved that he forgets how to hit, and every trip he makes to the plate afterward he tries to knock the ball out of the lot. When a man attempts to do that you have him.

"When one of the outfielders makes a sensational catch off him he immediately begins to yell about luck and what he going to do the next time. Then we all proceed to jolly him, and in that way excite him, and cause him to take his mind off his work. As a result, he goes up in the air, and is no longer dangerous."

SHREWD FINANCIER WAS THIS MANAGER

Hughie Jennings' Story of the Baseball Boomer Who Knew the Value of Publicity

In my career in minor and major leagues I have heard a million funny baseball stories, said Hughie Jennings, the famous manager of the Detroit Tigers, when asked to spin his best yarn. The funniest of all may read like fiction but is fact. The man around whom the story hangs is now a prominent semi-professional manager in a large western city, and has a bank roll that is the envy of many a major leaguer.

This man received his start as a department store clerk. While working for a small salary, he learned that the firm did not back a baseball team. It was the only large store in town that was not backing a fast amateur club as an advertising dodge. The clerk was a fan. He read everything printed about baseball, inside and outside, and believed he was just the man to manage a team backed by the store. And he helped the store manager to reach the same conclusion.

He decided he must be a first class press agent, so he never failed to tip off to the sporting editors any bit of news that came his way, especially about his club. He broke into the sport pages with the name of his firm so often that he soon received an advance in salary.

At the start he scheduled games in his home city only, but his club quickly made such a reputation that out-of-town teams were asking for dates, usually offering $25 to $50 inducements. Impressing upon his players that acceptance of this money by them meant the loss of their amateur standing, he pocketed the money himself. Before long his stipend from the games exceeded his salary, and he decided to back a club of his own, employing his brother as traveling manager.

If you wonder why this clerk succeeded as manager, let me relate two instances of his shrewdness. He wanted to get the results of out-of-town games, but hesitated about paying telegraph or telephone tolls, so he evolved a scheme to beat the companies. After each game his brother would telephone, asking for an imaginary person. Their code was simple, the initials representing the score.

If the call was for Mr. C. A. Smith the clerk-manager knew his team had won by a score of 3 to 1, for the first initial meant his team and the second the opposing team, the letters of the alphabet being numbered.

He filled his grandstand one day by advertising on the sport pages a reward of $200 for a $400 diamond ring lost in the grandstand upon the occasion of the last game. Men who never attended the games invested in grandstand seats on the hope of finding that diamond ring—which, of course, never had been lost.

"HUGHIE"

THE GRAND OLD DUTCHMAN

The Bush League stars from out the west
Show up with nerves a-quiver;
Sometimes they answer to the test,
Sometimes they make a fliver.

Hans Wagner sees them when they show;
He marks their each endeavor.
Bush leaguers come, bush leaguers go,
But Hans goes on forever.

New baseball marvels hold the stage
And get into the papers;
A year or two they're all the rage
And cut their brilliant capers.

But soon we find they're getting slow,
Their game is not so clever
And then they fade away and blow,
But Hans goes on forever.

Great pitchers try to strike him out,
But little do they profit;
He hits the ball the same old clout
And knocks the cover off it.

He likes the fast ones or the slow,
Whatever their endeavor;
So pitchers come and pitchers go,
But Hans goes on forever.

Each year some wondrous hitters rise
And make their little racket,
And when they whang the ball it flies;
My goodness, how they whack it!

But when the season's standings show
We find old Hans' endeavor
Still proves that hitters come and go
While Hans goes on forever.

The seasons make no dent in him;
His throwing arm is limber;
Somehow he's always right in trim;
He's like some sound old timber.

In fact, it surely seems as though
Old Time would get him never,
For fans and players come and go
But Hans goes on forever!

Wireless in the Forests

At present, in order to secure adequate forest fire-protection it is necessary to install lookout towers and telephone lines so that the fire-rangers may early locate forest fires and rapidly assemble a force to fight them. A professor of physics has recently stated that "there can be no reasonable doubt as to the applicability of wireless telegraphy to the forester's problem of communication." An electrical engineer in a recent book on "Telephonology" supplements this statement by predicting that "in the near future the wireless telephone will not only progress far ahead of the wireless telegraph, but take its place." When instruments are perfected suitable for forest use, existing systems of forest fire-protection will be, to a large extent, revolutionized.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

CAREFUL AUTHORS

Great Writers Who Were Very Particular About Details

It is surprising how punctilious some authors have been with respect even to the smallest detail of their manuscripts. Dickens was a perfect terror and would make enough fuss over an error of punctuation to drive a poor "comp" out of his wits.

Tennyson, too, was most particular that not a comma should be omitted or misplaced, while his revisions were never finished. Perhaps the greatest terror of the compositor was Thomas Carlyle, for he would cover every square inch of vacant space, both in the margin and between the lines with minute additions and emendations, and not once, but a dozen times.

Victor Hugo was equally difficult to please and satisfy. Of one of his famous works he made the printers supply no fewer than eleven successive revised proofs, and the last half dozen were furnished in order to make quite sure that the commas were in their right places.

But perhaps Thomas Campbell, the famous poet who wrote such stirring masterpieces as Hohenlinden, The Battle of the Baltic, and Ye Mariners of England, takes the lead in this respect. He was fastidious to a degree, which fact probably accounts for the small quantity and perfect quality of his literary output. It is said that he once walked six miles to his printers and six miles back in order to have a comma changed into a semicolon.

But an equally careful and fastidious literary workman owed a great improvement in the opening line of his most famous poem to a printer. This was Thomas Gray, whose Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard is probably the best known poem in the English language. Its first line reads: "The curfew tolls the knell of parting day," but when Gray sent it to the press the manuscript read, "The curfew tolls, the knell of parting day."

The thoughtful compositor did not understand the word "tolls" as an intransitive verb, so dropped the comma, thinking that the poet had put it in by mistake, and when Gray read the line his sensitive ear at once caught its new, sustained melody, and he adopted the compositor's correction.

ABUSE OF SOFT DRINKS

Health Departments Can Regulate Soda Fountains

Have you the habit of quenching your thirst frequently at the soda fountain?

Has your child learned the "soft drink" habit and commenced to load its stomach with the fancy concoctions of the confectioner's shop?

Thirst [illegible] you say. True, [illegible] what sort of drink you quench it. You should take steps to find out whether the soft drinks sold to you and your children are adulterated or pure. Many health departments of large cities have taken up this matter and set down rules prohibiting the use of certain adulterations, which they have proved, by test, to exist in some of the most popular soft drinks.

Your health department can do the same thing. You will be the gainer. Your child will be the gainer.

COPPER
The Red Metal
MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel. Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. In the mills opportunities to mend broken bones and replace tendons were frequent—so frequent that before long Rees was paying more attention to his fellow workmen than to the work for which he was paid. His experience gave [illegible]

IV.—Seeing the Other Fellow's Side

Frans and Gaspard were Swiss peasants living in the same Alpine Valley. One summer evening, Frans went over to his neighbor to say: "Gaspard, you know that for two generations there has been a disagreement between your family and mine concerning the ownership of the strip of woodland up the mountain side. Now that the timber has become more valuable, it is advisable to have the point settled, lest our children at length get to quarrelling over it. I have therefore assembled the judges in town to-morrow to settle the title; come with me, and we will both state our claims."

"I cannot go with you to-morrow," answered Gaspard. "You see my hay is ready to be stacked, and the weather may change." "And I cannot send away the judges, who have chosen the day themselves," replied Frans. So they debated for some time. At length Gaspard said, "Frans,

How People Feel

When They Have

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a basket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

DON'T HAWK, SPIT, SNEEZE, CURE YOURSELF! BREATHE "CATARRHOZONE"

Gives Instant Relief, Clears Out Nose, Throat and all Breathing Organs.

The natural tendency of Catarrh is to extend through the system in every direction.

Exposure to cold or dampness intensifies the trouble and nasal catarrh is the result.

Unless a complete cure is affected, inflammation passes rapidly to the throat bronchial tubes and then to the lungs.

In using Catarrhozone you don't take medicine into the stomach — you just breathe a healing piney vapor direct to the lungs and air passages.

The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are thus sent to every spot where catarrhal troubles exist, germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed, nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.

Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapor of Catarrhozone is breathed sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed.

Use Catarrhozone to prevent use it to cure your winter ills. It's pleasant safe and guaranteed in every case. Complete outfit $1.00. Smaller size 50c., at all dealers.

Said Robert, "Do you think among the 2,000,000 people of Ontario there is only one Bobby Burns?" $2 to be paid forthwith.

Exceeds All Prognostications.

A Times reporter yesterday wandered through the big department store of Turnbull's. The way ladies present were looking for and finding bargains would make one think that Celestial Halos were offered for sale. Enquiries made elicited the information that actual results in this store, since its re-opening, exceed all the most sanguine hopes of the management.

Detective Newhall remarked, "You sleep in a chair in a local hotel yard." Sweeney's children are all in a charitable institution. When asked, "How many times have you been drunk since you got out of Central Prison on June 10th?" "Only two or three times. I haven't had much time." Six months in Central Prison.

It is now up to the City Council to seriously consider the tenders for street paving. The saving of a dollar on buying an article is false economy if the article purchased does not wear.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT OF ULSTER HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Sir Edward Carson Has Left London for Belfast, and Has Asked For Special Convention of the Ulster Council

London, July 10.—Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader has left London for Belfast to be present during the celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne on July 12th.

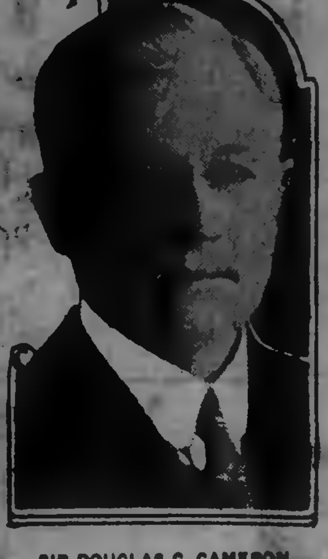
Before he left Sir Edward said he regretted that he was going back to Ulster without a token of peace and good-will from the Government. He said he had received the most alarming reports in regard to the intense desire of Ulster for immediate action. He will be able to judge for himself when he arrives at Belfast how near the breaking point affairs are at present.

At about the same time that Sir Edward Carson left London last night, Captain James Craig, his lieutenant in Ireland, stated at Belfast that there would be a "special meeting of the Ulster Provisional Government to-morrow. This is the first time that such a meeting has been called since the Provisional Government was instituted. Now it is called at the special request of Sir Edward Carson. That something serious is contemplated goes without saying. Everything is now in readiness for the final step, and possibly to-morrow's meeting has been called to determine this. I believe this is the climax."

Guard of Honor for Carson.

Sir Edward Carson will be met on his arrival at Belfast by a guard of honor of 400 men, who will carry rifles and fixed bayonets.

Captain Craig has also issued what he calls "Ulster's Resolve," which is, in brief: "Our claim is simply to hold the Province of Ulster in trust for the United Kingdom."



SIR DOUGLAS C. CAMERON
Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba.

LAST CONTRACT ON TRENT CANAL HAS NOW BEEN LET

Toronto Concern Will Build the Final Link at a Cost of $901,141--Completed Next Year

Ottawa, July 11.—The contract for the final link in the Trent Canal system was let to-day to the Randolph-Macdonald Company, of Toronto, at $901,141.

This is section three of the Severn River division, and letting of the contract means that in little more than a year the Trent Canal will be completed from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay.

The completion of the Canal was delayed by the Laurier Government for political reasons. The Trent Canal will develop a large tourist traffic, besides helping in the grain movement.

Now that the Dominion Government has, as was anticipated, kept its promises regarding this important waterway, it is interesting to our readers to remind them that the Department of Railways and Canals is pledged to deepen the Peterborough-Lake Simcoe stretch to 9 feet. This work is to be proceeded with next season, and will cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000.

EIGHT PER CENT INTEREST

Bonds That Will Pay Good Interest Secured to Investors

In this issue of the Times appears an advertisement of "Le Comptior Eight per cent interest. Mobilier Franco-Canadian" that is well worth investigating by those seeking lucrative and safe investment of funds, whether in large or small amounts. The best one can do "in this neck of the woods" on mortgages is six per cent. per annum. Here is an investment that promises to pay eight per cent. quarterly, on the bonds of this company. The bonds are guaranteed by first class real estate. Now real estate cannot "fly by the light of the moon." It is and stays there. Look into this advertisement.

How English Beauties Keep Faces Youthful.

Christian Miller, F.C.I., noted English health expert attributes the early aging of American women mainly to the "national nervousness." The women of England, she says, can teach us the inestimable lesson of repose.

Another valuable lesson to be learned from the English women is that she does not go in much for cosmetics, the continual use of which must ruin any complexion. The beauty devotees of King George's realm have the mercolized wax habit, a more wholesome method of keeping the face girlish-looking and healthy. Ordinary mercolized wax used like cold cream rejuvenates the worst complexion. Women here may easily acquire the habit, this wax being obtainable at drug stores generally in the United States and Canada. It is applied at night and washed off in the morning. One ounce is sufficient to completely renovate a bad complexion. It has a peculiar action in keeping the face free from the particles of dead and devitalized scarf skin which are constantly appearing.

HOME BANK REPORT

Shareholders Hear Good Report of the Past Year

The annual statement of the Home Bank for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1914, was issued last Tuesday, the day of the annual meeting, and appears in the public press to-day. This statement of the Home Bank concluded the annual report for the various chartered banks of Canada for the past twelve months, and the first report for next year will appear in the winter months. From the annual statement which appears on another page it will be seen that the net profits for the year amounted to $199,442.22, which is 10 per cent. on the paid-up capital; $55,000 has been written off the bank premises account and the Officers' Pension Fund has a nucleus of $10,000. The reserve has been brought up to one-third of the capital. It has been a year of normal progress for the Home Bank. The address of the President, Senator James Mason, reviews the financial situation in the same tenor that has characterized the remarks of bankers when addressing their shareholders at annual meetings during the past year.

A prominent grain grower from Winnipeg, Mr. John Kennedy, who is a Director of the Home Bank, raised an important point at the meeting when he called attention to the loss grain growers sustain in being under the necessity of shipping their grain out of the country within a few months after harvest in order to secure ready funds for their needs. This dumping of grain into the foreign markets, in such quantities, as was shipped in 1913, brought down the price of No. 1 Manitoba wheat 10 cents per bushel. Mr. Kennedy maintained that this profit went into the hands of foreign dealers, whereas it might have gone into the pockets of the grain grower if they could have held their grain and let it out gradually. He also suggested that if the banks would advance 50 per cent. of the value upon grain that farmers had securely stored, there would be a saving of many thousands of dollars a year to the Canadian grain growers both in the west and east, because the price of Manitoba wheat sets the price for all Canada.

The address of the President contained feeling references to the memory of the late Eugene O'Keefe, a lifelong associate of the Home Bank, and former President, who died in October last.

WARM LETTER FROM MR. BURNHAM

In Reply to Statement From Mr. E. A. Peck, Ex-M.P.P.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—You give such prominence to an interview from Mr. E. A. Peck concerning recent local politics that I feel called upon from a spirit of common decency and justice not known amongst us, to say that those who claim credit for having killed Mr. Soden should pay his election expenses. The Executive Committee, at a full meeting, set out a statement which completely exonerated Mr. Soden and just by so much did the reverse for those who got ugly and refused to play. But it is one thing to be just and pay for the damage done or claimed to be done, and another thing to interview the newspapers, for the purpose of letting things down easy after all. I consider that a hideous injustice was done to the Conservative party and to Mr. Soden, whom I supported loyally because he was the party's nominee. I should consider myself a "tinhorn sport" if I had done otherwise. No party can be "reconciled" to itself by glossing over these gross injustices, as suggested, but those responsible can do their best to atone for the unexpected and mistaken action of a few by putting their hands in their pockets and doing the decent thing. I do not know who "Voter" is, but I do know that his statement that politics have been a shuttle cock here, which Mr. Peck denies, is perfectly true. Mr. Peck apparently wants things to go back to where they were before we cleaned the Augean stables. I do not, nor am I to be frightened by the flapping of any party wings that ignore proper party conventions and proceed to knock holes in the party and then cry out that the party is in a bad way and should be re-organised.

Any attempt to twist matters into a tacit declaration of injustice to the party's candidate (Mr. Soden) by any further pretences is to be resented. A manly apology from the kickers is needed—an apology both to the party and to Mr. Soden, and a handsome contribution to his expenses. The baby play of the last few weeks has disgusted many, and I fervently hope that we shall have no more of it. When any sentence of departure comes from a properly-conducted convention as this one was, I will walk out without a whimper. I will not seek such a convention's suffrages and then, if disappointed, start raising Cain.

Yours, etc.,
J. H. Burnham.

STARTED FOR WILD AND WOOLLY WEST

Six-Year-Old Tots Give Parents and Police Very Anxious Time

Ottawa, July 10.—Discovered while trudging barefooted along a street in the outskirts of the city, bearing in their arms their penny banks, and headed for the far west, the six year old son of Mayor McVeity and a companion of the same tender years, last night ended a search in which the Mayor and most of the city police force took part.

Eric McVeity, son of the Mayor, and Lorne Ogilvie son of Capt. A. L. Ogilvie and Transcontinental Railway official, were the heroes of the adventure. Inspired by a desire to "go camping" somewhere within the region between Ottawa and the Rocky Mountains, they rose early yesterday morning, secured their penny banks and turned their faces towards the west.

DISCARDED SHOES.

Soon after leaving home precincts, a passer-by, had such been in the neighborhood at such an early hour, might have seen the two pioneers divesting themselves of their hated trappings of civilization, their shoes and stockings to wit. From this point however, all trace was lost of them and they were swallowed up in the city blocks.

REAL OIL PROPOSITION

In this issue of the Times appears the advertisement of what would appear to be not an "Oil Stock Proposition" but a "real oil development Company, going after things and right with some of the choicest holdings in the 'known' fields."

It would seem that after all the leases of the Bow Valley Oils, Limited, are paid for in stock, not a dollar of cash, and the Vendor's stock is NOT EVEN ISSUED by the Company until either operations of the Company bring in a paying well or the Company has in cash at least $75,000 for development purposes in its Treasury." Thus the Company's stock should EASILY be worth at least, $10 per share. There is where the buyers of this issue have the right to buy two more at $1 for every two more at $1. In this connection it might be said that the authorized capital of the Bow Valley Oils Limited, is $1,000,000, comprising 450,000 ordinary shares, par value $1 each, series "A", 550,000 ordinary shares, par value of $1 each.

The prospects of this issue are to be devoted exclusively to development of the property, "without deduction for any consideration for lease holders."

FURTHER EVIDENCE SECURED BY STATE

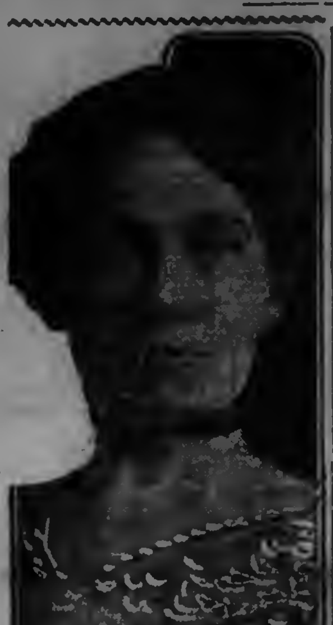
Case Against Mrs Carman is Believed to be Stronger Than on Arrest

Freeport, N.Y. July 10.—That attacks upon the testimony of witnesses at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Louise Bailey, to-day led to predictions that Coroner Norton would be forced to reverse his decision and order the release of Mrs. Florence Carman on Monday next, when she will appear before him for of having murdered Mrs. Bailey. This prediction is further bolstered up, according to Mrs. Carman's counsel, her husband and friends, by the a preliminary hearing on the charge fact that district attorney Smith yesterday practically admitted the State's case was weak when he sought to secure a postponement of the preliminary hearing until a week from Monday.

The district attorney, however, regards his case as much stronger than when the arrest was made, and it is said that the authorities have in reserve evidence which they believe will prove more damaging than that already produced.

UNIONIST LEADERS ACCORDED GREAT RECEPTION IN BELFAST

Monster Celebration for Twelth of July is Arranged as a Warning to Governmen of Ulster's Determination



MRS. T. W. CROTHERS

Belfast, Ireland, July 10.—Full military honors were accorded by the Ulster Volunteers to-day to Sir Edward Carson, the Irish Unionist leader, when he arrived accompanied by the Marquis of Londonderry, Viscount Castlereagh, Walter H. Long, and Ronald McNeill and other Unionist members of Parliament to attend the meeting of the Ulster Provisional Government.

A guard of honor composed of 400 armed volunteers and 50 armed motorcycle dispatch riders met and escorted the leaders to the residence of Captain James Craig, the military leader, where they will remain for a week.

Ulster's Determination.

The intentions of the Provisional Government have not been disclosed, but one object of the meeting is the arrangement of an impressive celebration of the Twelfth of July or "Orangemen's Day" in order to "show the Government and the people of Great Britain that nothing but the absolute exclusion of Ulster from the operations of the Irish Home Rule bill will satisfy us."

The Government is somewhat uneasy as to the outcome of the celebration.

BITHULITHIC PAVING WON DAY AT BOARD MEETING

Recommendations Made by the Times, in Citizens Interests, Carried by Board of Works

Last night the Board of Works met with Ald. Duncan in the chair. This was an important session as thousands of the ratepayers' money was involved.

Possibly the most important question brought before the meeting was that of the coming pavement extensions.

Tenders were submitted by Messrs. Foley & Gleason who did the present paving work, and whose work, we will not criticise. City Engineer Parsons recommended that another firm, in the city's interest, be given work. It was decided to give the Warren Bituminous Paving Co. all the paving business east of George street, or practically speaking, "the big end of the game."

Mr. John Fallahne, the enterprising representative of the Warren Co. has been here a guest at the Oriental Hotel for some weeks and has evidently shown the City Fathers that asphalt pavement, made with crushed stone is superior, as claimed by The Times, to that made of sand and possibly a percentage of "pure" asphalt (see an Examiner editorial).

This paving question was thrust on the Times by the Examiner. We have not been paid one cent for our defense of the peoples' rights. We came out flatfooted for the public interest and we won out.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Fine and decidedly warm.

One Can Have A Good Time
At Table
without the usual cup of tea or coffee, and feel a whole lot better between meals, too—free from that old "off color feeling"—biliousness, indigestion, nervousness and heart flutter.
The secret is
POSTUM
—instead of tea or coffee.
Try the change for a couple of weeks and observe two noticeable things:
You won't miss the old beverage, for Postum has a delicious snappy flavour.
Further, there's a brisk, alert feeling—free from the logyness of a lazy liver and disturbed digestion.
Thousands of people have made the change and know
"There's a Reason"
Postum comes in two forms:
Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.
Instant Postum—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage instantly. Add cream and sugar to taste. 30c and 50c tins.
The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.
Grocers everywhere sell POSTUM.

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer

III.—Compelled to Act Pauper

When Jesus told Simon Peter to pay the Jewish hear tax with the proceeds of his morning's catch. He taught the world a lesson in paying up! No man can really enjoy wealth which is obtained by defrauding commonwealth, corporation or individual.

I know a man who will never dare to flourish his money. He will always be compelled to turn away from the gase of bystanders when he draws out his purse. He never can boast that he is comfortably fixed. And by the way, have you ever noticed how few people, comparatively can be induced to confess that they are well off. They seem to fear that making the admission may shortly cost them something. The income tax collector, too, might hear of it. Methinks if I were rich I should like to tell about it once in a while; point to yon house and announce that I am going to have a new verandah added next spring; comment on the price of Canadian Pacific, and say that I expect to buy a little more if it goes down to two hundred.

Well, this poor fellow I was speaking of dare never indulge in that kind of pleasure, though I suspect that he could do so truthfully. The reason is that he had not paid what he owes. He has unsatisfied judgments out against him. There are those who are watching him, hoping to discover where he keeps his pile, so he keeps the location of the pile a secret. He has no employment; he must be classed as a vagrant, having no visible means of support. Yet he looks very comfortable. He wears good clothes and dines on succulent steaks. He and his wife take extravagant vacations, and go to the best shows. But for fifteen long years they have never been heard to say one word about their circumstances.

Is not that an awful life to live? And all because he holds what someone else ought to possess. He never intends to pay up. Consequently his life is dwarfed; he has no close friends; he lives alone in the world to about the same extent as if he had absconded to New Zealand. He is being automatically punished for having broken God's law.

Oh that our preachers would say more about this class of sins! We have bitter denunciation for transgressions that vividly appeal to our imagination. We can easily portray the misdemeanors of the prodigal and look with horror upon them, forgetting that they are really abnormal phases of virtues. But the meaner sins of selfish greed cast men into an earthly hell which makes the drunkard's lot look like a paradise.

For remember that God is the author of all rules of commercial morality. He framed the first statute against short weights, and wrote it upon the fleshy tables of our hearts. All who break this code lose the zest, the charm, the peace of an open life.

APRONS FOR PLAY HOURS

Made of Bright Heavy Material They Are Very Practical

Play aprons as they are termed by the children who love to wear them, are really very practical looking affairs, and an immense saving to frocks, declare mothers of large experience. If the widest kinds of linen, denim or crash are selected and the child is not more than six years old, a play apron may be cut in one piece. The top is shaped precisely like the original jumper bodice but below the waist line it widens into a full length pinafore that tapers toward the back where it fastens with a single button an inch or so below the hips. The charm of the play apron is the row of pockets crossing its front from hip to hip. They are of different sizes and hold the flat box of water color paints, the ball, the collection of marbles, the sticks of chalk and the various sorts of "junk" needed during "after school" hours.

The play apron is never made up in white. Always it is of some cheerful shade of red, blue or green bound at the edges and about the pockets with a contrasting tone or with cream-colored cotton braid. They are always gay little affairs, these pinafores, and so quickly to be cut out and machine stitch-finished that the child of even a very busy, wage-earning mother may hope to own one of them some day.

Dress Simply

If you are under 20 don't make the mistake of dressing elaborately. This frock is quite simple and yet quite stylish. It is of very dark red wool crepe with the new "repli," which means the "catching" up of the skirt so that the upper part bulges out over the lower.

The "repli" is just now being used more than the lampshade tunic and it is more graceful.

B. C. Water Power Survey

A party of engineers of the Conservation Commission examined the water power situation in the district tributary to the watersheds of the following rivers in interior British Columbia: Skeena, Kispiox, Bulkley, Morice, Telkwa, Zymoets and Kitsumgallum rivers. The season was an unusually wet one, and the country traversed very rough with consequent poor trails, that in many instances required clearing, so that progress was necessarily slow. In spite of this, twenty-six streams in all were examined and twenty-eight power sites reported upon.

HOME BANK HAD SATISFACTORY YEAR

Normal Progress Maintained During the Past Twelve Months–Tuesday's Annual Meeting–Director From West Calls Attention to Subject of National Importance

The Annual meeting of the Shareholders of the Home Bank of Canada was held at the head office, 8 King Street West, on Tuesday afternoon, June 30th. The features of the Annual Report as submitted for consideration showed net profits $192,442.72, or 10 p.c. upon the paid up capital. The Rest Account has been brought up to one-third of the Capital. $65,000 has been written off premises and a pension system established with $10,000 as a nucleus fund. Two new branches have been opened in Toronto during the year. An independent auditor was appointed for the ensuing year.

On motion the President of the Bank, Colonel, the Honorable James Mason, took the chair, and Mr. O.G. Smith, the Secretary of the Bank, acted as Secretary of the meeting. The report of the Directors was then submitted as follows:—

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS.

The Directors have much pleasure in submitting to the Shareholders the Ninth Annual Report and Balance Sheet of the Bank, together with a Statement of Profit and Loss Account, giving the result of the Bank's business for the year ended 31st May, 1914.

Quarterly Dividends have been paid and provided for at the rate of seven per cent. (7 p.c.) per annum. The $40,000 set aside from the profits of 1913 has been written off Bank Premises and Furniture Account, together with a further $25,000 appropriated from the profits of the year just closed and $10,000 has been placed to Pension Fund. The sum of $16,666.66 has been added to Rest, making that account $666,666.66, equal exactly to one third of the subscribed capital of the Bank.

Two new branches of the Bank were opened during the year, at the corner of Yonge Street and Alcorn Avenue, and at the corner of Yonge Street and Eglinton Avenue, both in the City of Toronto. The branch at Cartierville, in the Province of Quebec, was closed, the growth of that district being somewhat disappointing.

Under the Bank Act of 1913 you will, for the first time, be called upon to appoint an Auditor for the Bank and to fix his remuneration.

No new stock having been allotted during the year, the number of Shareholders remains approximately the same.

The usual examination by the Directors of the treasury and securities was made and the branches carefully inspected during the year.

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT.

The net profits for the year are $192,442.72, being about 10 p.c. on the average Paid-up Capital, which may, I consider, be deemed satisfactory, in view of the unsettled conditions which prevailed during the whole of the fiscal year. The $40,000 set aside, as intimated at the last Annual Meeting, to be written off Bank Premises and Furniture Account, has been applied, together with an additional $25,000 from this year's profits. Last year the Shareholders were good enough to vote a contribution of $10,000 as a nucleus for a Pension Fund; this has now been appropriated and the Fund inaugurated with the current year.

Before commenting on any changes in the Balance Sheet, I may say that the financial forecast made a year ago has more or less been justified. Conditions have been altered so little that one prefers not to hazard any decided opinion as to when the expected improvement may come. It must be borne in mind that the business depression is not peculiar to this country, but general. Canada depends largely upon outside capital to finance its undertakings, and consequently the late war in the Balkans, political conditions in Great Britain and the unsettled state of Mexico has had a far-reaching effect.

The work of construction in the two additional transcontinental railway lines with completion now in sight, and various other works of necessity the borrowing of large sums. Expansion in the districts of the country in which this work is being carried out, takes place we may reasonably expect any further needed assistance of British and Foreign capital, and with speculative real estate and other unsound trading discouraged, confidently look forward to a gradual return to normal conditions.

While our deposits for the past year show a reduction in actual figures and we are not alone in this I may say, that it is all accounted for by the expected withdrawal of some large temporary deposits in Current Account which were in our hands at the 31st May, 1913, the date of the last Statement presented to you. On the other hand, the number of accounts of national importance, have necessitated is looked forward to warrant the capital expenditure made. When this counts on our books has largely increased, and the amount of deposits in the Savings Bank Department show a satisfactory gain.

INCREASED SAVINGS DEPOSITS.

"In common with most of the other banks, our note circulation shows a reduction. This may be attributed to various causes, the most important of which was the early marketing of the grain crops in the Northwest. For some years past we have looked to our grain business in the West to utilize a large part of our circulation and for the first time since this connection was formed we encountered conditions that may not soon again occur.

The weather last year was particularly favorable to the harvesting and marketing of the crop so that a larger proportion was handled before the close of navigation than in any previous season of recent years. In addition, owing to the general financial conditions which prevailed during the latter part of 1913, considerable pressure was brought to bear by creditors upon farmers for the early payment of their obligations. This resulted in a larger percentage than formerly of grain going forward, with instructions to sell, as a result circulation paid to farmers, showed a decided falling off immediately after the close of navigation, and the figures for the succeeding months, December to March —record a continued redemption of Bank notes without the usual opportunity for the issue from the marketing of grain through the winter months. The reduction from the high point in November, 1913, to the figures on the 31st March, 1914, amounted to over $900,000, while in former years the average reduction for the same period was approximately $200,000. The smaller volume of business transacted in Canada also had its effect on circulation. Merchants and manufacturers did not transact as much business as during the previous year. Railway earnings from the 1st. of July 1913, to May 31st, 1914 showed a decrease of over ten million dollars. The consequent shrinkage in circulation is mainly attributed to these principal causes, but I may say that we are making arrangements which should not in future leave us dependent upon any one source to maintain our circulation at a high level.

BRANCHES IN TORONTO.

In accordance with the policy of the Bank to purchase sites for Branch Offices in Toronto, a property was purchased at the southeast corner of Yonge Street and Eglinton Avenue, and also the vacant lot on the north-west corner of Yonge Street and Woodlawn Avenue, where we propose to erect a suitable building for the business at present conducted at the corner of Yonge Street and Alcorn Avenue, known as the "Yonge Street Subway Branch." The latter site is almost the site of the Bank, and when disposed of will go far to effect a reduction in Bank Premises Account, corresponding to the increase shown this year.

A large crop is looked for in the Northwest Provinces. Owing to favorable weather last Fall much good land was prepared, perhaps better than ever before. Crop conditions existing now are particularly good in Manitoba, and, speaking generally, throughout Alberta and Saskatchewan, as in the latter Provinces, the dry weather experienced in certain sections was followed by excellent rains. Of course the crop is yet young and much may happen between now and harvest time. Estimates vary as to the amount of acreage under cultivation. I think it will be found that the wheat area is more or less unchanged, the flax planted showing a decrease, and the oats and barley an increase. A most interesting change is now taking place in Western farming conditions. Formerly districts that were practically dependent upon the wheat crop, are now developing into mixed farming, one of the results of which is that the West, which in 1912 were importers of hogs, are now exporters, but the number of hogs which are being shipped east at the present is small compared to the figures that should be reached within a reasonable time.

The general business outlook may be regarded as somewhat more cheerful. The action of the House of Parliament in passing both the Canadian Northern Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific Company Bills, guaranteeing the bonds of these roads, which should permit them to carry to completion the construction of their lines, seems to have met with general approval, and has already led, I believe, to some large orders for steel rails being given, which will be followed by various orders for equipment.

Provincial and Municipal taxation of Banks in Canada has now reached such a stage as to have a deleterious effect on the opening of new branches. In Ontario, the Province in which we have the greatest number established, taxes are almost three times as great as a year ago.

THE LATE PRESIDENT.

In addressing you a year ago today it was my duty to announce the retirement of the then President, Mr. Eugene O'Keefe, owing to ill health. Mr. O'Keefe was intimately connected with the Institution from its inception. He passed away in October last, and before moving the adoption of the Report I wish to express, on behalf of the Board of Directors, our feeling of sorrow of the loss of our late colleague, in which I am sure all the Shareholders join.

On motion the thanks of the Shareholders were extended to the President, Vice-President and Directors also to the General Manager and the other officers of the staff.

THE NEEDS OF THE WEST.

Mr. John Kennedy of Winnipeg, one of the Western Directors of the Home Bank, and also a Director of the Grain-growers' Grain Company, spoke upon the financial conditions in the West, and made a strong appeal, directed not only to the management of the Home Bank, but to Canadian banks in general, calling attention to the urgent need for establishing methods whereby farmers in the West might secure an advance of 50 per cent. on their grain, so that they would not be under the necessity of rushing it into the world's markets in vast quantities in order to secure ready funds with which to pay their debts and maintain their farms. He quoted authoritive statistics, proving that 75 per cent. of last year's grain crop in the Northwest was dumped into the market in three months, causing the price to drop 7 cents per bushel.

"When I state that last fall showed the clearest truth of this, I do not do so without having figures to prove that this was the case," said Mr. Kennedy. "You will find that number one northern wheat, about the beginning of last September, was worth about 88 cents in store in Fort William or Port Arthur, but by the middle of October, owing to the tremendous receipts, prices had fallen to about 78 cents a drop of 10 cents a bushel, while the world wheat conditions did not warrant any such decline.

ADVANCES IN GRAIN.

Mr. Kennedy proposed as a remedy for this condition that the Banks advance to farmers in the Northwest loans to the value of 50 per cent. upon the grains stored in their barns. This plan for relief would necessitate the adoption of some cheap and safe method of storage, so that the bank's security would be safe. He did not think that lending money in this way would require the issue of any additional capital, or necessitate a change in the established methods of finance, and the accommodation would save several millions of dollars a year to the country. The adoption of mixed farming he said did not consider would give immediate relief. The farmers are getting into mixed farming," Mr. Kennedy declared "just as fast as they can afford to do so, and just as fast as it is good for them to do so, therefore of necessity for years to come wheat growing will be the mainstay of the West."

In conclusion, Mr. Kennedy assured the meeting that the "Home Bank" had become a household word in thousands of western homes.

APPOINTMENT OF AUDITORS

The Chairman reported that in accordance with the provisions of Section No. 56 of the Bank Act, notice had been sent to the Shareholders that the Honourable Alexander McCall had given written notice of intention to nominate at the Annual General Meeting of the Home Bank of Canada Mr. Sydney H. Jones of Toronto as Auditor.

It was then moved by the Hon. Alex McCall, and seconded by Dr. J. A. Todd: That Mr. Sydney H. Jones be and is hereby appointed Auditor of the Bank, to hold office until the next Annual General Meeting, at a remuneration not to exceed $2,000.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS.

The scrutineers declared the following gentlemen duly elected Directors for the ensuing year:—

Messrs. Thomas A. Crerar, Thomas Flynn, E. G. Gooderham, John Kennedy, A. Claude Macdonell, K. C., M.P., Col. the Hon. James Mason, C. B. McNaught, John Persse.

At a subsequent meeting of the new Board held immediately after the adjournment of the General Meeting, Colonel the Honorable James Mason, was re-elected President, and Mr. Thos. Flynn was re-elected Vice-President of the Bank.

It is claimed for Thomas Blades of Yarwell, a Northamptonshire village, that he is the oldest Oddfellow in the world. Blades, who is within two years of being a centenarian, has completed seventy-four years' membership of the Manchester Unity. As a boy of seven he was working for 36 cents a week in minding cows and scaring birds from crops. He is hale and hearty, enjoys his pipe, and believes that the secret of keeping young is "a contented mind and something in it."

Japan and the United States

The diplomatic correspondence between the Japanese and United States Governments in connection with the Californian alien land laws has just been made public, and shows that Japan refuses to enter into any new treaty relations with the United States. It takes the ground that the Californian land law is a violation of the present treaty, and is "essentially unfair and inconsistent with the sentiment of good neighborhood and mortifying to the Government and people of Japan." Consequently Japan is "disinclined to continue the negotiations." Mr. Bryan's note to the last Japanese communication has not been made public. Apparently an impasse has been reached, and the relations between the two powers are not very satisfactory to lovers of international peace and goodwill. And yet the peculiar constitution of the United States makes California a sovereign State, and she acted quite within her rights in passing the legislation which is so objectionable to Japan, and at present there seems no shred of probability of the repeal of the statute which has caused the trouble, while the fact that it does only what Japanese law itself does, i.e., forbid aliens to hold property, will doubtless be sufficient justification for it in the eyes of many Californians. It is most desirable, however, in view of wider interests, that this matter be amicably settled shortly.

Nerviline Finds Neuralgia, Brings Relief Instantly

No Remedy Like Old "Nerviline" to Cure Pain or Soreness.

That terrible ache—how you fairly reel with it—that stabbing, burning neuralgia—what misery it causes. Never mind, you don't have to suffer—use Nerviline! it's a sure cure. Not an experiment, because nearly forty years of wonderful success has made a name for Nerviline among the people of many different nations. "There is nothing speedier to end Neuralgic headache than old-time 'Nerviline,'" writes Mr. G.C. Dalgleish, from Evanston. "It is so powerful and penetrating that it seems to eat up any pain in a minute. My family couldn't get along without Nerviline. We always keep the 50c. family size bottle handy on the shelf and use it to cure chest colds, sore throat, coughs, earache, toothache and pain in the back. My wife swears by Nerviline. For cramps its effect is astonishing and we believe it is better and speedier than any other household family remedy."

NATIONAL VIGOR AND ATHLETICS

Russian Government Establishing a Department of Sport to Develop the Young Men of the Empire.

An interesting news item is that the Russian Council of Ministers is establishing a Department of Sports, as one of the bureaus of the Government. The department is to have six sections: "First, hygiene and physical exercise; second, educational; third, sports and gymnastics; fourth, propaganda; fifth, statistical; sixth, inspection. The directors of each section will be selected among able physicists and specialists."

The reason assigned is that the Russian government has come to regard "development of athletics as one of the most important means of national progress." This move of the Russian government embodies a feeling which has found a good deal of expression in continental nations in Europe that the popularity of physical sport among English-speaking people has been a valuable national asset. Perhaps an effect is mistaken somewhat for a cause. The English-speaking races are likely prone to voluntary exercise because they are naturally active and their climate favorable, rather than because pursuit of sport has developed vigor.

But the two explanations possibly dovetail. the race was vigorous to start with, the climate of the British Isles has tended to physical activity, and in turn the practice and mastery of games and sports has promoted further racial vigor.

So, when suspicion occurs among any of us that too much attention is given to sport when numerous dubious parents entertain a doubt that their boys play too much ball—it may be some comfort to reflect that in other countries some envy exists at the tendencies which our rising generations always display.

POWER FROM THE SUN

Remarkable Efficiency in Generating Heat From Old Sol

The sun power plant, by which low-pressure steam is generated by the heat of the sun's rays, recently erected at Meadi, near Cairo, has given satisfactory results, and Lord Kitchener [illegible] have had [illegible] similar plant [illegible] the Soudan [illegible] Mr. Frank Shuman [illegible] to have shown an efficiency of [illegible] per cent, which is 14 per cent greater than that attained two years ago; this is as against an efficiency of 75 per cent. in the case of the steam boiler, and Mr. Shuman claims that the sun-heated boiler will eventually prove as efficient as, if it does not even surpass, the steam boiler. In the new plant for the Soudan the substitution of one large heat absorber for the five smaller units at present employed is being considered; these heaters at Cairo embrace an area of about 13,000 square feet, interspersed so that the total area is about one acre. The plant gives an average output of 50 brake horse-power during a ten-hour day. The new plant will exceed this in power, and as the latitude of Cairo is only 30 degrees North, the new plant, when working nearer the tropics, is expected to show a greater efficiency.

INTRODUCTION

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, was incorporated in 1913 with six pairs of foxes, at $60,000. This Campany re-capitalised in 1914, with 20 pairs of beautiful Silver Black Foxes, at $15,000 per pair, making a total capitalization of $300,000.

THE FOXES

Six pairs (one year old) proven breeders, and fourteen pairs (1914 pups), making a total of 20 pairs — all young foxes— good for at least 10 years. This Company has bought some of this year's options on foxes with a guarantee that they are pedigreed and of the highest strain and very best quality P. E. Island famous foxes.

THE RANCH

The ranch is situated on the well known Glenaladale Farm, owned by Major C. McKinnon formerly the homestead of Sir William McDonald, and is only 12 miles from Charlottetown, in a quiet locality sufficiently removed from any disturbance.

THE RANCHER

Mr. Arthur W. McKinnon, our Ranch Manager, has had much experience in breeding foxes, and has the practical knowledge necessary to efficiently manage and care for the animals.

The foxes will be ranched free of charge to the Company for the first year. This means a large saving to the shareholders, as some companies have to pay as high as 35 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes

The promoters of this Company are retaining $80,000 worth of stock for themselves. $20,000 worth has already been disposed of, leaving $200,000 to be offered to investors at $25.00 per share, with a guarantee that a dividend of 50 per cent. will be paid in cash in 1915, or whatever more it may be.

The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Limited, in 1913 guaranteed a dividend of 50 per cent. but are going to pay 50 per cent. in cash and 50 per cent., in stock in 1914. The Company is in good standing and to each and every investor the first of September, 1914, we can say:— "We have given you 50 per cent. more than we promised." And we feel sure that in 1915 all the shareholders in this re-capitalized company will be able to say they received more than they were promised.

This Company can truthfully say that they have not one cent of watered stock in the Company. Now Mr. Investor, if you were a Company and we the shareholders, we would look to you for justice to give us all that was honestly due us. We would not like for you to buy 3 pairs of foxes at $15,000 per pair ($45,000) and form a fox company and capitalize your concern at $60,000 and make us pay, as shareholders, for it. The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Company, Limited, will ask you to do nothing like that. We want to let you in on the ground floor.

NOTICE

When a fox company guarantees any specified dividend to its shareholders, and when said company is an incorporated body, you need not be afraid of any unfair play, for such a company is compelled to pay what they promise, and, besides, every interest is taken for the welfare of both the investor and the company.

The promoters of this Company are all above board and will not permit any crook to come in and do anything that is not right. Anyone holding stock in this Company who is dissatisfied can, by notifying the Secretary-Treasurer, have his or her money promptly refunded.

FORTUNES IN FOXES

There is money in fox ranching more than anything else ever known. It is good for the rich man and good for the poor man. A poor man cannot buy a pair of Silver Black Foxes but he can easily raise $25.00, $50.00 or $100.00. By investing in this Company he gets back his money in at least two years and then he will have an income for life and for his children to come—and after there will be money in fox farming. One of the reasons for this is that P. E. Island has now 95 per cent. of the world's foxes in captivity. For every one pelt that can be raised there are more than 25 wealthy people waiting for it in London, Russia, France and America.

PELT VALUES

The Fox Pelts have advanced greatly in price since 1910 and you can see for yourself what money was in them then.

Below are the particulars of sale of a consignment of Silver Fox Furs, shipped from Prince Edward Island ranches to London, England, and sold there in March, 1910:

SHARES

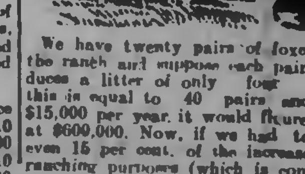
Shares are selling at $25.00 each; 25 per cent. with application and the balance on or before September 1st, 1914.

Simply fill out the application form and mail to Major C. McKinnon, Secretary-Treasurer, Glenaladale, P. E. I.

All cheques must be made payable to "The Glenaladale Silver Black Fox Co., Ltd."

A POINTER

Just to give you a little idea of what the free ranching of foxes mean to the investor, we will figure it out for you.



We have twenty pairs of foxes in the ranch and suppose each pair produces a litter of only four foxes this is equal to 40 pairs and at $15,000 per year it would figure out at $600,000. Now, if we had to pay even 15 per cent. of the increase for ranching purposes (which is considerably lower than some companies pay) it would mean that we would have to pay $90,000 for ranching expenses.

We ranch the foxes free for the first year, so that in addition to a guaranteed dividend of 50 per cent., we save you this large outlay of money. While we guarantee 50 per cent., still should each pair in our ranch produce four pups it would mean that your dividend would be about 200 per cent. instead of 50 per cent.

FINAL WORD

A great deal has been written about Ranches, Grades of Foxes, etc., but after all the one object that every investor should keep before him is the dividend he is going to get. We have tried to show you in plain English what we can do for you and now that you have our proposition, compare it with the offer made by any other company now in business— and then judge for yourself to have been paid by some of the Charlottetown daily newspapers.

Without a Coach

The agitation to eliminate the professional baseball coach during the playing of intervarsity games crops up from time to time across the line. It is the contention that the nines should play their game without the field assistance and advice of the professional coach, if it is to be a purely amateur contest. The Harvard Alumni Bulletin expressed the following editorial opinion on the subject:

"The object of these athletic teachers is to prepare the men for their final tests, just as instructors in other departments prepare the men for their final examinations. Only in athletics, however, does the teacher lend a hand in the final examination. The single sport in which he does not is rowing. Would it not be advisable to adopt in all the branches of sport some measure which would leave the men to themselves in the final test? In this way leadership for the captain and responsibility for all the players would be more fully developed. Also the results of the contests would depend more upon the intelligence of the competitors, and less upon the cleverness of the coach.

Full Verbatim Report of E.H. Cunningham Craig, Esq., B.A., F.G.S.

On the South-West Quarter of Section 18, Township 20, Rge 5.

"1. This quarter section is situated in an exceptionally favorable position for development, lying as it does between the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Bow River.

"The ground consists of two flat alluvial terraces, free from forest or bush.

"The Bow River, which crosses the North-Eastern corner of the drilling section, will afford an unfailing supply of water for drilling purposes.

"Thus so far as accessibility is concerned, the situation of the land is ideal.

"2. There is an excellent cliff section on the Northern side of the Bow River which shows the strata to great advantage, while on the Southern bank there are also numerous exposures for a considerable distance both up and down stream.

"The strata exposed are:

"1. The Bearpaw Shales.
"2. The Edmonton Series.

"The Bearpaw Shales are dark, close-grained, argillaceous rocks, easily distinguished from the sandstones and variegated beds of the Edmonton series which overlie them.

"These geological horizons are those exposed on the Turner Valley anticline, where the Dingman well is situated. That boring begins in the Bearpaw Shales.

"3. The geological structure is made very clear, owing to the excellent river sections. A sharp overturned anticline runs southwestward through the north-eastern corner of the area. The hade of the axis is rather more than 50 deg. to the southwestward at surface, but this hade will be found to decrease rapidly beneath the surface. Consequently wells must be located to the south-westward to strike crestal areas beneath the surface, the distance from the exposed crest varying according to the depth to be drilled. There is no faulting that can affect the area adversely, although minor dislocations of small throw are undoubtedly present.

"4. There are two distinct prospects of striking petroleum in this area, and possibly three.

"In the first place, wells can be located to tap the Belly River beds for any oil that may be present; it is in this formation that the Dingman well appears to have obtained its production. The Belly River beds should b met with at a depth of about 1,800 feet.

"Below this the Cardium Sandstone, a thin but possibly petroliferous band of arenaceous rocks, should be pierced at about 2,300 feet.

"Beneath this again, after passing through the Benton Shales, the Dakota formation and the Kootenie formation occurr. The depth of the latter will be in the neighbor- a depth of about 1,800 feet.

"These depths can only be given approximately, owing to latent variation in the strata, and to the difficulty of calcu,ating the dip of the strata concealed beneath the surface.

"To test the different horizons satisfactorily, different wells will have to be drilled, and it will probably be expedient to test the Belly River formation first.

"If oil can be struck at different horizons, all the north-western half of the area may be productive, in which case between 30 and 40 wells might be located on the area without putting any two within 300 feet of each other. Such a result, however, is hardly to be expected. If oil be struck, in paying quantity, at any one horizon, a series of 15 or 20 wells is all that can be expected.

"There is, of course, no certainty of striking petroleum in the area, but judging from the success of the Dingman well, it seems quite justified to test the same horizons in a different locality, where the geologica, structure is clearly defined.

"Drilling to reach deeper horizons must still be considered speculative, but there is still a probability of finding lower strata petroliferous.

"(Signed) E. H. CUNNINGHAM CRAIG."

Some Forceful Facts

Investors Take Note:

We believe in telling you plain, unvarnished facts — the truth. The UNITY COMPANY'S holdings are exceptionally well located, directly upon the Turner Valley (Dingman) anticline, with an abundant supply of water, rail and wagon roads crossing the property, E. H. Cunningham Craig, B. A., F. R. G. S., the noted geologist, has personally gone over every foot of the ground; and, furthermore, has reported favorably thereon. Funds subscribed for shares will be utilized solely for drilling and development purposes, and will be controlled by a directorate whose honor, integrity and efficiency is unquestioned. Geological indications lead the directors to the strongest belief that UNITY OILS, LIMITED, will produce oil in commercial quantities. Therefore we very frankly and truthfully say that UNITY shares may be regarded as one of the most satisfactory investments in the oil market to-day. We have no hesitation in advising investors to purchase quickly and freely. UNITY OILS, LIMITED, does not guarantee millions of barrels of oil; neither does the Company anticipate a thousand dollar return for one dollar outlay. But what we do say is: The Company's holdings are sound and A1 Mr. Cunningham Craig's favorable report certainly indicates that there is oil under UNITY holdings. We advise every investor to carefully examine Craig's report and look into our holdings. Nothing is certain under the sun. But one thing is certain, and that is, investors who purchase stock in UNITY OILS, LIMITED, are making one of the safest investments in the whole Albertan oil fields.

High Court Says Responsibility Not Entirely With Railway

"Stop, Look, Listen."—In these three words might be summarised a tip handed out to the general public by Their Lordships of the Court of Review, in disposing of a level-crossing case at Montreal. In fact, the whole judgment might be condensed into these three words for the judges confirmed the finding of the lower court and dismissed the plaintiff's action with costs.

The case arose over an accident which occurred at a Papineauville crossing when Joseph Boyer was run down and killed by the Montreal-Ottawa train. The victim was driving a team of horses and an empty rig down a steep hill leading to the tracks. There was nothing to obstruct his view, and the train was the regular express, with whose scheduled movements the victim was familiar. He did not notice the train until he was on the track and until the locomotive was only a few feet away. The inevitable happened. He was mangled. The widow sued.

Their Lordships' ruling regarding the duties incumbent upon persons making use of level crossings might be summarised as follows: A person approaching a railway crossing, knowing it to be such, must know, at the same time, that he is confronted by an ever present possibility of a train passing; he must furthermore know that such train has a right to pass such crossing possibly as good or even a better right than he has to cross; he must know that the crossing of the train may be fraught with danger to himself; in the presence of this possible danger, common prudence, not to say common sense, render it incumbent upon that person to take every precaution; if he fail to do this and if he run into the train—instead of having the train run into him—well, then, so much the worse for the person; he alone is responsible for what occurs.

American and Canadian sawmills have discovered that the sawdust which they have been perplexed how to rid themselves of as worthless encumbrance is worth at least $40 a ton, says The New York Press. In Baltimore a chemist has perfected a process of extracting gas from sawdust, adequate enough to supply a city like Ottawa with light and heat at sixty-five cents per thousand feet. This is thought to portend that around the great [illegible] which have been River, a variety of new industries subsisting on it are likely to grow up.

Suicide's Strange Will

A French landowner who committed suicide left a curious letter, in which he expressed the wish that there will be no "blackbeetles" (French slang for mourners) at his funeral. He left to the "Progress Club" 300 pints of wine that his comrades might drink his health.

COPPER
The Red Metal
MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel, Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. For particulars and details of this magnificent enterprise, address

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, and testimonials.

The Whirligig of Time

In place of the hitching post and the carriage stepping stone has come the gasoline filling station. In place of the livery stable has come the modern garage, and the old-fashioned roadside smithy has been turned into a modern automobile repair shop.

The motor car has brought many changes, but with the changes has come prosperity. The foundry that once turned out ornamental hitching posts with a horse's head, or a little iron negro jockey patiently waiting to hold old Dobbin's reins, is manufacturing automobile parts.

The gasoline motor has played its part in making the automobile the of transportation, but without the pneumatic tire the motor car would be limited to improved city streets and boulevards.

Many Centenarians

According to official statistics compiled in Germany, the number of centenarians in Europe is far greater than is generally imagined. Spain possesses 410; France, 13; Italy, 197; Great Britain, 92; Russia, 89; Germany, 76; Norway, 23; Sweden, 10; Belgium, 5 and Denmark 2. Switzerland has none. The Balkan States hold the record. In Bulgaria alone there are no fewer than 3,883 centenarians, and there are another 1,074 in Roumania and 573 in Servia.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

USES OF SAWDUST

It is an Ingredient of Dynamite, Linoleum and Xyolite

Flour for trade purposes from sawdust is now in common use. The wood flour is ground in a mill, very similar to those which grind corn and rye. Pine and spruce sawdust is used, and after being passed through the stones and the bolting chest, it is sacked or baled for shipment. It is then worth $12 to $18 a ton. The flour has a number of uses. It is the absorbent for nitroglycerine, which is the explosive ingredient. Wood-flour dynamite is inferior to that made with infusorial earth as the absorbent; but it serves many purposes and is cheaper. Linoleum makers mix it with linseed oil and give body to their floor coverings. It is not considered quite equal to ground cork for this purpose, as it is less elastic, but it is cheaper and meets requirements for medium grades. The flour fills an important place in the manufacture of xyolite, a kind of artificial flooring, resembling wood in weight, and stone in other respects. It is used for kitchen floors and in halls, corridors, cafes, restaurants and public rooms. It is impervious to water, and is practically fireproof.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from [illegible] of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale [illegible], or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

Handsome Bloodhounds.

Mr. Frank Montgomery yesterday received the handsomest pair of red bloodhound puppies that were ever raised in Virginia. An ancestor of these puppies is the original bloodhound described by Mrs. Beecher-Stowe, that chased Eliza in Uncle Tom's cabin.

Preferred to Be a Tramp.

Yesterday in the noon-day heat, a well known local citizen walked home carrying his coat over one arm. His wife greeted him with "Why don't you wear your coat? You look like a tramp." Hubby replied, "In this heat I would sooner live like a tramp than die as a gentleman wearing a coat."

At yesterday's police court Inspector Jack McCann asked "Have not the street cars got right of way?" The Magistrate replied, "Has a big man got any more rights on the streets than I have!"

It is absolutely untrue that some of the pockets in our local street pavements are to be used as duck ponds. At least not at present. The city has no appropriation to buy ducks.

A somewhat funny stunt was run off here in connection with the burglaries of Thursday night. A well known local contractor, living on Rubidge street, on Thursday night owing to the extreme heat, went to bed without putting on his long tailed "nightie." In the wee sma' hours his wife heard a burglar and awakened the contractor. The burglar was seen to leave per a kitchen window. The contractor, owing possibly to the prevailing darkness, followed that burglar clad in a bob-tailed undershirt and his personal uprightness. Well, to get down to the serious end of this story a number of burglaries, reported in last night's papers have been perpetrated here.

CUT THIS OUT

Famous Specialist's Recipe for Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or catarrhal deafness cut out this formula and hand to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferers perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that catarrhal deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause of constitutional diseases, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the complaint, and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure.

This being so, much time and money has been spent of late by a noted specialist in perfecting a pure, gentle yet effective tonic that would quickly dispel all traces of the catarrhal poison from the system. The effective prescription which was eventually formulated and which has aroused the belief that deafness will soon be extinct, is given below in understandable form, so that anyone can treat themselves in their own home at little expense.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz Parmint (Double Strength) about 75c. worth. Take this home, and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of moist or granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose promptly ends the most distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc, while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are quickly overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly Nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are directly caused by catarrh, therefore there are but few people whose hearing cannot be restored by this simple home treatment. Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness or catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

Important.—In ordering Parmint always specify that you want Double Strength. Your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c. to the International Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine St., Montreal, P.Q. who make a specialty of it.

CARSON CALLS ON HIS ARMY TO BE PREPARED FOR WAR

Makes the Gravest Statement of the Campaign---Hints That the Government is Ready to Use the Warships

Belfast, Ireland, July 12.—Sir Edward Carson is now the autocrat of Unionist Ulster. He reviewed three thousand men of the Central Antrim Regiment to-day at Larne. The ceremony took place in Dowager Lady Smyley's demesne, where on the night of the famous gun-running four hundred motors assembled before taking the cargo from the Mountjoy.

Carson made a reference which struck the gravest note ever heard from the Ulster leader. He warned his soldiers—they are now directly under his command—to "be prepared." He hinted at sudden and startling developments within a week, and the men, after cheering him, shouted almost as with one voice, "We are ready."

Out on the Lough rode six of Britain's fastest and finest destroyers, black and ugly, and with a dramatic gesture Carson waved his hand towards them as if to suggest that force was soon to be used against the Covenanters.

But, if civil war comes next week it will splutter into being through incipient clashes along the border lines of the Ulster Unionists.

ROBLIN HAS A MAJORITY OF THREE

Liberal Leader Declines to Make Statement Until Further Developments—Ste. Rose Goes Conservative

Winnipeg, July 12.—Ste. Rose was taken out of the doubtful column to-day and is lined up behind Premier Roblin with a majority of 72 for Joseph Hamelin, Conservative, over Campbell, Liberal.

This makes the standing of the parties: 24 Conservatives and 21 Liberals, with St. George still uncertain and three deferred elections. Prospects of several recounts still complicate the possible outcome.

The complete vote gives Hon. Dr. Montague, Conservative, a majority of three over George W. Prout, his opponent in Kildonan and St. Andrew's. Montague polled 1086 and Prout 1083.

Nine polls give Ross, Liberal in St. Clement's a majority of 219.

T. C. Norris, the Liberal leader, who is still at Brandon, where he received the returns last night, declines to make any statement. "I will say nothing until further developments," he said this morning. With one poll to hear from Norris' majority in Lansdowne is 472.

J. B. Baird, Liberal candidate in Mountain, polled one of the biggest majorities of the day, having 666 over J. Dale, his Conservative opponent, and 361 in excess of the joint votes of Dale and Craig, an independent candidate.

Carillon, which was to a certain extent doubtful, reports a majority for Molloy, Liberal.

Hon. Mr. Howden was elected in Beautiful Plains by 27 majority with all polls heard from. Hon. Mr. Coldwell's majority in Brandon City is officially placed at 163, Coldwell having polled 1897 votes to 1734 for Clement, Liberal.

REAL OIL PROPOSITION

In this issue of the Times appears the advertisement of what would appear to be not an "Oil Stock Proposition" but a "real oil development Company, going after things and right with some of the choicest holdings in the 'known' fields."

It would seem that after all the leases of the Bow Valley Oils, Limited, are paid for in stock, not a dollar of cash, and the Vender's stock is NOT EVEN ISSUED by the Company until either operations of the Company bring in a paying well or the Company has in cash at least $75,000 for development purposes in its Treasury." Thus the Company's stock should EASILY be worth at least, $10 per share. There in where the buyers of this issue have the right to buy two more at $1 for every two more at $1. In this connection it might be said that the authorized capital of the Bow Valley Oils Limited, is $1,000,000, comprising 450,000 ordinary shares, par value $1 each, series "A". 550,000 ordinary shares, par value of $1 each.

The prospects of this issue are to be devoted exclusively to development of the property, "without deduction for any consideration for lease holders."

Home Recipe For Wrinkled, Saggy Skin.

The famous saxolite lotion recommended by beauty specialists for removing wrinkles and for reducing distended pores, can be made at home. Ask your druggist for saxolite in powdered form, 1 oz., and ½ pint witch hazel. Dissolve the powder in the witch hazel and bathe the face, neck and hands in the solution. Results are remarkable and instantaneous. The skin tightens, and this naturally reduces the wrinkles, as well as creases or folds about the neck cheeks or hands. The tissue beneath the skin also becomes firmer and more solid.

You feel much refreshed and exhilarated after using this truly wonderful and harmless wash lotion. Its continued use once a day for only a short time makes the average person look ten or fifteen years younger.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT AT FRANKFORD

Conspicious Heroism of Mr. George N. Rogers, of This City

Frankford, Ont., July 12th.—A sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, when Mr. Everet Ketcheson, only son of Mr. Thos. Ketcheson, lost his life. It appears that the deceased and a companion named Harrison, both on the Trent Valley Canal staff at this place. The river at this point is shallow in some places and quite deep in others. The deceased walked off into one of the latter places and sunk out of sight. His companion, who was some distance away, immediately hurried to his assistance and swam out to the drowning man, who siezed him and both went to the bottom together. Mr. Harrison, who was exhausted by his hurried swim, had all he could do to extricate himself from the grasp of the drowning man. On coming to the surface, he was helped ashore and immediately became unconscious. A general alarm was given and soon many were attempting to save the drowning man who was at the bottom of the river in about 15 feet of water.

Mr. Geo. N. Rogers, one of the Canal staff, seeing the commotion, hurried to the spot, when he arrived he at once threw off some of his clothing and made two unsuccessful attempts at rescue, but owing to his exhausted condition from his long run he was unable to stay long below the surface. It was on his third attempt that he succeeded. He traversed the bottom of the river for a distance of about thirty feet and heroically brought Ketcheson to the surface. Being so long under water, those present feared he had also succumbed.

The body had not been in the water over ten minutes, but two doctors and their assistants utterly failed after over an hour's work, to accomplish resuscitation. It is subsequently learned that Mr. Ketcheson had an affection of the heart, which no doubt caused his death. There was no water in his lungs which would indicate that death was due to failure of the heart.

The deceased was an athlete and only twenty-three years of age, and was immensely popular.

Mr. Geo. N. Rogers, who heroically endeavored to rescue the deceased was a son of R. B. Rogers of this city, being one of the firm of Denon & Rogers, contractors for the Frankford section of the Canal.

PETES 6 RUNS TORONTOS 0

A good attendance was present at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, when the Petes defeated Toronto with a score of 6—0. The game would have been a fair exhibition of "ball" had the first innings been eliminated; in this innings the locals retired the visitors in quick order, while Peterborough captured four runs with marvellous ease. Graham pitched for Toronto and Belting for the Petes. Belting pitched a good game and stopped a couple of real hot liners from the bat. The home team's fielding was excellent, and a couple of very pretty double plays were made. The visitors were credited with a double. Graham was evidently off color, and pitched but indifferently. Toronto's fielding was ragged and errors were the order of the day for the visitors.

THE SCORE;

Toronto	000000000—0

The Petes won the first game at Hull yesterday with Ottawa, by the score of 5—4. Tracey and Kelley did the work.

TITANIC CLAIMS IN ENGLISH COURTS

New York, July 11.—In the federal court Judge Hand announced a ruling which permits claimants to withdraw claims growing out of the loss of the steamship Titanic from admiralty courts and prosecute suits in English courts. Under the English law, known as Lord Campbell's Liability Act, claimants may recover $3,800,000 for the account of salvage freight and passage money, while the American statute limits recovery to $97,000. Action was brought on claims aggregating $18,000,000. Justice Hand's order permits the claimants to proceed in English courts without prejudice to their rights of further action in this country.

MAKES DRIVER WHO HIT HIM BUY SUIT

Guelph Farmer Run Down by Taxi and Forces Chauffeur to Replace Torn and Mud-Besplatered Suit

Toronto, July 11.—Ever get run down by an auto?

Make the driver buy a new suit?

At least, that's what Herbert Spencer, 62 years old, of Guelph, did on Saturday afternoon when he was knocked down and mussed up by a taxi at Adelaide and Victoria streets. Edward Brindle of 130 Dunn avenue, who drove the machine, was somewhat loath to accede to the demand. At the sight of a considerable crowd, however, he told Spencer to get in and drove off in the direction of a clothing store.

Spencer, who is a farmer, came to Toronto on Saturday to see the parade. At 3.15 p.m. he was crossing Victoria streets at Adelaide. When about the middle of the street he was run down by Brindle's car. Although he sustained only slight bruises, the man's clothes were torn and bespattered with mud in several places.

"What's your name?" he demanded of Brindle, as he picked himself up and attempted to brush his mud-covered garments.

"I haven't got a card," replied the chauffeur, making a motion as if to drive on.

"No, you don't," intercepted Spencer, who became thoroughly angry when he observed what Brindle intended to do.

"What do you want me to do?" queried Brindle.

"I want you to leave me the way you found me," said the farmer.

Appeal in Port Hope Liquor Case.

Port Hope Guide: The proprietor of the Queen's Hotel appeared in police court this morning on a charge of selling liquor on Monday, June 29th, election day, said day coming under the head of prohibitive hours. Constable McAvoy was making his rounds on Monday evening. He went into the back yard of the Queen's hotel and in the stable found the bartender, the hostler and another man. The hostler was just in the act of handing the bartender a parcel containing six bottles of beer. The beer was wrapped up and none of it had been consumed. Mr. Bennet, the proprietor, stated he had no knowledge of the beer being in the stable. He had not sold any. The Magistrate changed the information from a third offence to a first and imposed a fine of $100 and costs. The case will be appealed.

New York, July 11.—The New York World has the following cable from London to-day:

The London Unionist papers promised a war in Ulster to-day, but so far there has only been a resolution. This resolution reaffirms the Orange determination to reject home rule and hold Ulster in trust for the King and constitution, but reveals no plan of warlike operations. This has been a great disappointment to the Daily Mail which has "keyed up" the expectations of its million readers to look this morning for the most dramatic event, and in proof of its faith had mobilized its entire force of war correspondents and photographers, together with cohorts of reporters, which it studded all over the Orange section of Ulster.

To-morrow is the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, when Orange Ulster want to explode in demonstrations. It will be a remarkable thing if, after all the incitements and bloodthirsty threats of the past three years and the expenditure of nearly $2,000,000 in organizing quasi-military forces, there are no serious disorders before next week is over. Unionist leaders here desire some judicious manifestations of Orange revolt. It would be a necessary complement to the action of the house of lords in destroying the government's amendment of the home rule bill and replacing it with the Orange demand for total exclusion of Ulster without a time limit.

Cleavage of Unionists.

There is understood to be a distinct cleavage of opinion between Unionist leaders and Carson in the question whether there should be immediate disorder or not. Carson shrinks from the responsibility of setting the ball rolling, but the Unionist bodies here, whose object is to bring about dissolution at any cost, think if there is some good Orange rioting and the army declines to act the ministers must appeal to the country.

It is conceded that the ministers may win again, but the Unionists regard that with comparative indifference because they would have gained another three years' respite before the parliamentary act comes into operation and anything may happen in three years.

"MUGGSY" McGRAW

John J. admits that he has thought of the day when he will no longer be useful as a baseball manager. "When I feel myself slipping I'll step out, but this doesn't mean I'll quit baseball. I will always have something to sell over the baseball counter.

"I can't imagine a man tiring of the game as long as he is successful. But the game can get away from even a baseball man. The game is getting faster every day and you cannot make a prediction with safety in baseball. I was ambitious as a player and I think my desire to make good has been my most desirable asset as a manager."

McGraw teaches his players that there is no such thing as luck and he seeks to eradicate the superstitions that usually attach to a club. He believes figures tell the truth and that nine times out of ten the man with the best record is the best man. McGraw does not seek to restrict his player's conduct. He tells them at the start they are to live as they see fit and that unless they appreciate their responsibility and take care of themselves they will be the means of their own undoing.

"What I try to do is to get men big enough to realize that self-indulgence means failure sooner or later. When they realize that their life in fast company depends upon keeping in condition the men big enough for my team conduct themselves accordingly."

BRAVE LITTLE BOY SAVED MANY LIVES

Peter Czehar, the eight-year-old son of a railroad watchman in Hungary saved a whole trainload of passengers during floods. The water washed out a long bridge over which little Peter knew that the trains must travel. On that particular day of which we speak Peter's father was sick and could not get about very fast, although he went down to the railroad crossing. Just before a heavy loaded train was due the watchman got word about the bridge. Just as fast as his short legs could carry him Peter ran along the track. He ran across the footbridge that the farmers used and got around the bend in time. The engineer saw the signal, knew it meant danger and stopped the train!

MYSTERIES OF SHIPS

Theory to Account For Disappearance of Vessels at Sea

To account for some of the mysterious losses of ships at sea the theory has been advanced that some subterranean electrical or magnetic disturbance is responsible. This merely gives a new name to the mystery, but does not solve it, and the only evidence that its adherents have to go upon is the fact that at the time of the loss of the Norwegian steamer Tabor some strange seismic disturbances were registered. The Tabor was a steel vessel, loaded with steel rails, a cargo not likely to shift. She was spoken in fair weather in mid-Atlantic, and was never heard of again. Not so much as a spar ever drifted ashore, and what became of her is one of the mysteries of the sea.

The vague electrical or magnetic phenomenon belongs to a long line of theories advanced to explain the fate of a great number of missing vessels. It may be that some of the ships have gone down on the shifting shoal off Sable Island. Here the cold waters of the Arctic mingle with the warm Gulf Stream, and fog is produced, in itself a grave menace. When combined with the shoal it constitutes one of the most terrible perils known to Atlantic mariners. When disaster overwhelms the vessel what wreckage sinks is engulfed by the shoals and what floats is probably battered into kindling wood before it reaches any beach where it is likely to be noticed. Probably some of the missing vessels have perished when near the end of their journey or almost at the beginning of it on the other side of the Atlantic. It is quite conceivable that a vessel in thick weather might enter the English Channel without being noted, and might strike the Goodwin Sands, where a similar fate awaited her to that which lurks off Sable Island.

That others have struck icebergs and sunk, leaving no trace behind, is also more than probable. The sudden shifting of cargo at sea, the foundering of vessels in storm, and fire aboard are other probable causes of disasters that remain mysteries. On several occasions master mariners have reported sighting a rock in mid-Atlantic. This rock has been called Turtle Rock on account of its shape

HATS AND HATS

In Russia the maiden who is fancy free may dress her locks as she wishes. But not so the wife—she must hide her hair. So, as a recompense for this sacrifice, she dons a hat which may well be called weird. In shape it is not unlike a bishop's mitre, and it is adorned as the fancy or the purse of the wearer dictates. Gold, silver, and even precious stones have been used in decorating this kokoschnik, as it is called.

In certain parts of Spain a hat similar to the Russian style is worn. Particularly is this popular with the dancers among the Toledo peasantry, although it must be very hot and uncomfortable for this purpose.

The Dutch maiden of Amsterdam pins her faith—and her head—to a hat which resembles in shape an inverted flower-pot. It may not be the style most suited to her round, placid face, but she would not change it for the latest "thing" in millinery.

On the island of Marken, in the Zuyder Zee, the fashionable hat is again of the mitre shape, but with the addition of wide, flapping wings. Farther north, in Norway, a maiden on her bridal day dons a traditional erection which can best be likened to an eccentric castle or a gigantic chessboard.

In the province of Alsace-Lorraine the women wear a huge, winged headdress. The wonderful thing about the [illegible]

Our Point of View

Mr. John Clarke, a resident of Ashburnham, has invented a metallic shingle. This will be bad news for the unruly small boy.

—o—

Eugene Zimmerman, father of the Duchess of Manchester, has been sued by Miss Icy Warham for $100,000 damages for breach of promise. It seems that Miss Icy is qualified by her name to hand out a rather cold deal.

—o—

From Mexico comes the news that there is a new party there but it is not yet actively in the field. This means, of course, that the party is still in jail.

—o—

The Toronto World wants to know why a red cow who eats green grass gives white milk that yields yellow butter. This great family journal would say it is probably for the same reason that black raspberries are red when they are green.

—o—

Foreigners who have visited this country say that we Canadians are a nervous and hurried nation. From which we infer that the foreigners watched us while we were operating at a quick lunch counter.

—o—

The report from London that a distressing affection of the throat has doomed the Hon Ted Roosevelt to silence during the campaign next fall should not be taken too seriously. He will have something to say even if he has to talk with his fingers like a deaf mute.

Religion in the Public Schools

New Zealand has barred the teaching of religion from her public schools, and the New Zealand Methodist Times wants to know just why certain things are so. In accord with the requirement that teaching shall be "purely secular," the School Journal for May 1914, Part 1, for classes one and two, contains the story of the Japanese god Jizo, for the instruction of the children. This Jizo, according to Japanese believe, is the god who loves and protects little children, and to him old and young love to pray. When little children die they go to the spirit land, and Jizo becomes their playfellow and friend. The journal gives also a hymn to Jizo. Now The Times wants to know how it is, in a community like New Zealand, that it is considered allowable to tell the story of Jizo, the Japanese god, and wholly impermissable to make any mention of Jesus Christ, the friend of children. The editor says: "No one asks for the exclusion of the story of Jizo from the School Journal, provided that fair play is given to the story of Jesus. But it is this studied discrimination against the story that lies at the root of all that is most precious in the faith and hope of the Christian people of this country, that creates a situation that is becoming beyond measure intolerable. Here are tens of thousands of our children passing through our public schools with no other impression left upon their minds than that the story of Jesus is not worth considering. Of Mahomet and Confucius, of Jizo, they are told the story but of Jesus in the way of information and commendation, not a word." The case does seem strange, and suggests that some readjustment is surely desirable.

Rheumatism Goes Quickly Its Virus Forever Destroyed

—o—

EVERY CASE IS CURABLE.

Good-bye to Rheumatism!

Your aching joints, your stiff, sore muscles, those sleepless nights and suffering days— good-bye forever — your day is gone.

"A man met me a month ago, and said, 'don't stay crippled, quit complaining, limber up.' My answer was 'I'm rheumatic, I can't do it.' He looked me over in a pitying sort of way and told me to go to the nearest drug store for Nerviline and Ferrozone. The combination had cured him. I was convinced of his sincerity and followed his instructions. I rubbed on Nerviline three times every day—rubbed it right into my aching joints. The pain quickly lessened, and I became more limber and active. To draw the virus of the disease from my blood I took two Ferrozone Tablets with every meal. I am well today, not an ache, not a pain and no sign of stiffness at all."

What Nerviline can do in a case like this it can do for you too. For nearly forty years Nerviline has been recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica and Lame Back, It is the only remedy that never disappoints.

A Kingston burglar yesterday entered the home of a man on Russell Street there and eat half a loaf of bread, one dozen eggs and other edibles. Some little burglar that!

Full Verbation Report of E.H. Cunningham Craig, Esq., B.A., FG S.

On the South-West Quarter of Section 18, Township 26, Rge 5.

"1. This quarter section is situated in an exceptionally "favorable position for development, lying as it does between "the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Bow "River.

"The ground consists of two flat alluvial terraces, free "from forest or bush.

"The Bow River, which crosses the North-Eastern corner "of the drilling section, will afford an unfailing supply of "water for drilling purposes.

"Thus so far as accessibility is concerned, the situation of "the land is ideal.

"2. There is an excellent cliff section on the Northern "side of the Bow River which shows the strata to great advantage, while on the Southern bank there are also numerous exposures for a considerable distance both up and "down stream.

"The strata exposed are:

"1. The Bearpaw Shales.

"2. The Edmonton Series.

"The Bearpaw Shales are dark, close-grained, argillaceous "rocks, easily distinguished from the sandstones and variegated beds of the Edmonton series which overlie them.

"These geological horizons are those exposed on the Turner Valley anticline, where the Dingman well is situated. "That boring begins in the Bearpaw Shales.

"3. The geological structure is made very clear, owing to "the excellent river sections. A sharp overturned anticline "runs southwestward through the north-eastern corner of "the area. The hade of the axis is rather more than 50 deg. "to the southwestward at surface, but this hade will be "found to decrease rapidly beneath the surface. Consequently "wells must be located to the south-westward to strike "crestal areas beneath the surface, the distance from the exposed crest varying according to the dephth to be drilled. "There is no faulting that can affect the area adversely, although minor dislocations of small throw are undoubtedly "present.

"4. There are two distinct prospects of striking petroleum in this area, and possibly three.

"In the first place, wells can be located to tap the Belly "River beds for any oil that may be present; it is in this "formation that the Dingman well appears to have obtained "its production. The Belly River beds should b met with at "a dephth of about 1,800 feet.

"Below this the Cardium Sanbstone, a thin but possibly "betrolliferous band of arenaceous rocks, should be pierced at "about 2,500 feet.

"Beneath this again, after passing through the Benton "Shales, the Dakota formation and the Kootenie formation "occurr. The dephth of the latter will be in the neighbor- "a depth of about 1,800 feet.

"These dephths can only be given approximately, owing "to latent variation in the strata, and to the difficulty of "calcu,ating the dip of the strata concealed beneath the "surface.

"To test the different horizons satisfactorily, different "wells will have to be drilled, and it will probably be expedient to test the Belly River formation first.

"If oil can be struck at different horizons, all the northwestern half of the area may be productive, in which case "between 30 and 40 wells might be located on the area without putting any two within 300 feet of each other. Such a "result, however, is hardly to be expected. If oil be struck, "in paying quantity, at any one horizon, a series of 15 or 20 "wells is all that can be expected.

"There is, of course, no certainty of striking petroleum "in the area, but judging from the success of the Dingman "well, it seems quite justified to test the same horizons in a "different locality, where the geologica, structure is clearly "defined.

"Drilling to reach deeper horizons must still be considered speculative, but there is still a probability of finding "lower strata petroliferous.

"(Signed) E. H. CUNNINGHAM CRAIG."

Some Forceful Facts

Investors Take Note:

We believe in telling you plain, unvarnished facts — the truth. The UNITY COMPANY'S holdings are exceptionally well located, directly upon the Turner Valley (Dingman) anticline, with an abundant supply of water, rail and wagon roads crossing the property, E. H. Cunningham Craig, B. A., F. R. G. S., the noted geologist, has personally gone over every foot of the ground; and, furthermore, has reported favorably thereon. Funds subscribed for shares will be utilized solely for drilling and development purposes, and will be controlled by a directorate whose honor, integrity and efficiency is unquestioned. Geological indications lead the directors to the strongest belief that UNITY OILS, LIMITED, will produce oil in commercial quantities. Therefore we very frankly and truthfully say that UNITY shares may be regarded as one of the most satisfactory investments in the oil market to-day. We have no hesitation in advising investors to purchase quickly and freely. UNITY OILS, LIMITED, does not guarantee millions of barrels of oil; neither does the Company anticipate a thousand dollar return for one dollar outlay. But what we do say is: The Company's holdings are sound and A1 Mr. Cunningham Craig's favorable report certainly indicates that there is oil under UNITY holdings. We advise every investor to carefully examine Craig's report and look into our holdings. Nothing is certain under the sun. But one thing is certain, and that is, investors who purchase stock in UNITY OILS, LIMITED, are making one of the safest investments in the whole Albertan oil fields.

VARIOUS METHODS OF TELLING TIME

Water Clocks of China Are Said to be Three Thousand Years Old

It's a simple proposition finding out what time it is nowadays, compared with what is was when the world was younger. Primitive men used to set up a stick and mark its shadows. When a man's shadow shortened until it seemed to be fixed it was then known that it was noon; when it began to lengthen it was just past noon.

The sun dial was far ahead of the man's shadow method, but sun dials were only available during the hours of the day when the sun was shining. In ancient times sun dials were largely in use. The circular rows of stones used by the Druids, it is thought, were used to mark the sun's path. The Greeks were perfectly acquainted with the method of making sun dials with inclined "styles," or "gnomons," and obelisks are supposed to have been used to cast sun shadows.

The desire to mark the hours of night, as well as those of day, led to the invention of the water clock, or "clepsydra," which measures time by the amount of water which escaped from a small hole in a level of water.

Such clocks are said to have been in use in China 11 B.C. Two kinds of water clocks have been in use. In one kind the water was allowed to escape from one vessel into another. In the other the water was allowed to run at a uniform rate, in this form into a receptacle on which was marked a scale of hours. Both forms were widely used in the old days.

In Canton, China, is to be seen today what is known by the natives as "the clock of the street arch." It consists of four copper jars built in masonry and forming a stair-like structure. Water commences at the top jar and drops down until it reaches the lowest jar, which has a solid bottom. In the lowest jar is placed a bamboo stick, which indicates the height of the water and thus the time of day. It takes 12 hours for the water in the top jar to drip into the bottom jar, and the clock is set again by merely emptying the contents of the bottom jar into the top jar. The clock is said to be over 3,000 years old.

Sand glasses for measuring time were made as soon as the art of blowing glass had been perfected by the people of [illegible]. An hour glass is made of glass and consists of two bulbs united by a narrow neck. One of the bulbs is nearly filled with sand, fine enough to run through the orifice in the neck, and the quantity of sand is just as much as can run through the orifice in an hour, if the instrument is to be an hour glass, in a minute, if a minute glass. [illegible] fects are possible with this system because of the effects of heat and cold in contracting or expanding the orifice, and because of the variation in the dryness of the sand. [illegible] still use the hour glass in fixing the time for the proper boiling of eggs.

The next step was the construction of a time indicator whose hands were moved by the action of falling weights, instead of that of falling water. When this step was taken as the first true clock constructed is uncertain.

The De Vick clock, made about 1364 was a good piece of work. In fact since the year 1700 no important invention has been added to clocks and watches. This means a good deal when it is realized that the last 20 years have given us more invention than all previously known history.

COPPER

The Red Metal

MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel, Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, and testimonials.

Confronted with this condition of a seriously decreasing supply and the enormously increasing demand, the fur trade has taken steps to remedy matters in several ways. They have utilised the less expensive skins to imitate the high-priced ones. They have diverted the demand to serviceable though less costly furs, and again they have largely encouraged the use of furs of domestic animals.

ADVERTISING A NATION

How Canada is Made Known Across the Waters

In the course of a lecture made by J. Obed Smith, immigration commissioner of Canada he said: "Because there is very little red tape in this department a great deal of responsibility rests upon the officials. While Ottawa controls the policy, the details including expenditures, are worked out in London. Outside the British Isles we have agencies at work in Paris Belgium and in the Scandinavian countries. There is a good deal of work required in advising and planning discipline for 4,000 booking agents who can be made into good advertising agents for Canada.

"In advertising Canada, the department of the Interior offers no apology, particularly in the old land, where there are fewer opportunities for farm laborers

"Correspondence also plays a big part in the propaganda, for while it indicates publicity work, it is becoming most productive. So much information has been diffused about Canada that those writing are not content with one or two questions, but set out voluminous inquiries. This indicates that the enquirers have been reached by advertising, and they in their turn have led others to also seek information. Our department, while primarily concerned with advertising Canada alone, is also obliged to set out the advantages of each province. The policy of the department is set along such lines as to make advertising pay a government as well as a business firm.

"Our work is largely carried on by bringing before the public the advantage of farming in Canada. Our agents attend every show or fair, and distribute literature and also give advice to those requiring it. These results are most satisfactory, but perhaps our most effective work consists of carrying information to every town and village by means of motor and horse wagons. These are in charge of experienced Canadian officials, who stop outside schools, and having obtained permission from the teachers, address the children on Canada, although nothing is said about immigration. Later on we get good results from this campaign.

"Another important phase in advertising is that of giving illustrated lectures. Hundreds are given each season, principally in the winter, and afford us the means of getting into closer touch with the intending emigrant. The most valuable adjunct is the after meeting, when the people gather round and ask questions. We also endeavor to supply news items to the reading public.

"There are good and bad advertisements. The latter consist of derogatory letters and complaints from those who have not succeeded. However, Canada does not want the immigrant to fail, but on the other hand likes to point to the successful settler as illustration of what can be done out here."

Ultra-Violet Rays Cause Colors to Fade

Scarcely a day passes without some new marvel accomplished by ultra-violet rays—invisible light. If a room were flooded with ultra-violet rays taken from sunlight, and all the other rays of the sun were shut out, that room would to our eyes appear to be in darkness. Yet most of the blame for fading colors and similar sunlight effects is now pared on the invisible light and the article which filled that room would be just as likely to fade as if it were left out in the sun day after day.

A glass is now being perfected that will shut out ultra-violet rays without excluding the other elements of sunlight, with the idea of using the glass on museum cases so as to prevent the fading of exhibits.

A thrilling escape from drowning in Rainy River, near Fort Frances, Ontario, by catching hold of the antlers of a big bull moose, which was swimming across the river, was the experience of Clyde Buell, of Minneapolis. Buell was working at Fort Frances for a lumber company. He was out on a raft of logs. After striking a jam, the raft loosened, and Buell, clinging to a single piece of timber was carried down the river towards the rapids. He had given up hope when he saw the moose with its head and antlers above water swimming safely from the rapids. Buell let loose from his log and grabbed one horn of the antlers and shifted himself to the back of the animal and rode it to shallow water. The moose fought hard, but would sink beneath the water and soon gave up and swam ashore.

How People Feel
When They Have
Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always affects a cure. Further information free. Send stamped envelope, telephone Parkdale 4830, or call at 167 Dundas street, Toronto. Open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

MARVELOUS BALSAMIC ESSENCES CURE CATARRH NO DRUGS TO TAKE--A DIRECT BREATHING CURE

STATISTICS PROVE NINETY-SEVEN PER CENT OF CANADA'S POPULATION IS INFESTED WITH THE GERMS OF CATARRH

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence catarrhal disease has become a national curse. Science is advancing every day and fortunately a remedy has been discovered that not only cures but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhozone" has sufficient power to kill the germs of Bronchitis, Catarrh and Asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of the nose, throat and lungs, carrying health-giving medication to every spot that is tainted or weak. You don't take Catarrhozone like cough mixture— you inhale its healing vapor at the mouth and it spreads all through the breathing organs, soothing and curing wherever Catarrh exists. This is Nature's way of supplying the richest balsams the purest antiseptics known to science.

...A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes. A harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system.

For Asthma and Bronchial irritation nothing can equal Catarrhozone —every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment if suffering with an winter ill. The complete outfit, costs $1.00, medium size 50c. at all dealers.

Belmont, Ont., July 10.—Cecil Bateman, a farm hand in the employ of Wm. Legg, near here, is in a critical condition as the result of being attacked by a ferocious bull. A Trent Canal Sturgeon.

The work of draining the river at Fort Severn for the construction of locks in connection with the Trent Valley Canal, has revealed many strange things. Some weeks ago a coffer dam was built across the mouth of the river to hold back the water of the bay, and up the river about a mile a similar structure was placed to throw the water into another channel. Upon completion of this work the water in that section of the river between the two dams was pumped out and the bed of the river left dry, thus exposing the fish that were entrapped. Among the many fish the workmen found in one of the pools was a sturgeon, weighing upwards of two hundred pounds.

NATIONALISTS ORGANIZE FOR DEFENCE ON HEARING CANNONS

Reports, However, Were Harmless Explosions, and Celebration Passed Off Without Clash of Opposing Factions

Londonderry, Ireland, July 13.—The Orangemen here began the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne with a cannonade during which they projected their explosives so that they burst over the residences in the Catholic section of the city. The Nationalists believing the cannonade to be the prelude to aggressive action on the part of the Orangemen organized for defence, but up till noon no collision between the two parties had taken place.

While the Orangemen were attending church on Sunday and the police were busy guarding their processions the Nationalist Volunteers succeeded in bringing into the city two auto loads of rifles.

Procession in Belfast.

Belfast, Ireland, July 13.—The insistent demand of the Protestant portion of the Province of Ulster for exclusion from the operaions of the Irish Home Rule Bill, but added interest to to-day's celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne which was carried out here with the greatest enthusiasm.

Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, rode at the head of some 5000 Orangemen accompanied by the usual fife and drum bands and including a sprinkling of brethren from British colonies as they marched through the city of Belfact to Drumbeg where a great open-air meeting was addressed by Sir Edward Carson and other leaders.

The Nationalist quarter of Belfast was carefully avoided by the demonstrators and on no occasion during the procession did the rival factions come into contact.

ALBANIAN REBELS AGAIN WIN VICTORY

Durazzo, July 13.—The important town of Berat, thirty miles northeast of the port of Avlona, was captured to-day by the Albanian Mussulman insurgents who recently took Koritza.

MANY LOCAL ORANGEMEN AT GLORIOUS 12TH AT LINDSAY

Hundreds of local Orangemen visited Lindsay yesterday. Although some 12,000 visitors were in that town, good arrangements had been made for feeding the crowd. The Ladies' Auxiliary Board of the Ross Memorial Hospital supplied meals in the Council Chamber. Other charities had special arrangements and meals were served at the Queen St. Methodist church, and the Salvation Army barracks. Extra stable accommodation had been made so the crowds could leave their horses in places of safety. Lodges from Haliburton, Durham, Northumberland, Hastings, Peterborough, Ontario, Simcoe and York Counties and also two from lodges from the City of Toronto

The parade left the armouries, Central Park, at two o'clock and proceeded along Kent street west to Adelaide street; north on Adelaide to Bond; east on Bond to William, south on William to Wellington, east on Wellington over the bridge to Kent street, then West on Kent street to Victoria Park.

LOCAL ORANGEMEN GET A THIEF IN LINDSAY

Last night as some of the Peterborough visitors were waiting at the Lindsay train to return to this city they saw a pickpocket put his hand into an old man's pocket, and $40 was stolen. The Peterborough crowd chased the pickpocket over a long string of freight cars, when they eventually captured the thief. A carriage was sent for and the thief was taken to the Lindsay lockup.

CAPTAIN WILL NOT GO TO SEA AGAIN

Commander of the Empress to be Given Position in Canadian Pacific Offices

Montreal, July 13.—Captain Kendall, who commanded the sunken Empress of Ireland, is not likely to go to sea again, though he was exonerated by the Dominion Wreck Commission in its finding on the disaster last Saturday. It is understood here that the C.P.R. authorities have given him several months leave of absence and that at the conclusion of it he will accept a shore position either in Canada or England in the service of the company.

IF NOT "PEACE WITH HONOR" IT MUST BE "WAR WITH HONOR"

Sir Edward Carson Makes Impassioned Speech to Ulstermen at Presentation of Colors to Ulster Volunteer Regiment

London, July 13.—Although yesterday passed off quietly in Ulster, the tenseness of the situation was very apparent, and while the authorities on both sides are striving to their utmost to prevent trouble arising it will not surprise anybody if a riot occurs at any moment.

During the afternoon there was an outward display of the depth of feeling at Larne when Sir Edward Carson attended the presentation of the colors to Central Antrim regiment volunteer force, numbering about two thousand. Many of them were carrying rifles with fixed bayonets. In presenting the colors Sir Edward Carson said:

"You will value them and take care they shall never go sullied with dishonor. And I pity the men or the body of men who ever try to haul them down so long as they are in your hands.

"I think I would be a false leader if I were to cry 'Peace! Peace!' when I see no evidence of peace. Heaven knows I pray night and day it may be peace. The only peace that you and I know is peace with honor. All I can say for my part is if it is not peace with honor, well, then, it must be war with honor, because there is no alternative."

Defence, Not Aggressive.

Sir Edward declared that the Ulsterites were not aggressive, but they had told the Government that they would never submit to be turned out of the Imperial Parliament, and by that decision they would stand. They would win or go down together, but there would be no drawing back.

BE SHOT TO DEATH; DRINK SLOW POISON

Horrible Alternative Given to Woman by Jealous Lover—Both Die

Pittsburg, July 13.—Charles Wagner, who last Monday gave Mrs. Susan Thornton the alternative of drinking slow poison with him or being shot to death, died to-day in a south side hospital. Mrs. Thornton with whom Wagner was infatuated, but could not marry, chose the poison, believing her chances were better than if she were killed at once. She died yesterday in the same hospital.

SORRY THE BEASTLY THING DIDN'T GO OFF

Militant Expresses Regret That She Couldn't Wreck St. John's Church

London, July 13.—Annie Bell, the militant suffragette, who yesterday tried to destroy Archdeacon Wilberforce's famous old Church of St. John the Evangelist, Westminster, was arraigned at the police court to-day, and on hearing the charge said: "The only thing I regret is that the beastly thing didn't go off."

The prisoner expressed intense pride in her act. She congratulated the woman worshipper who had detected her setting fire to the fuse attached to the can of gunpowder, and said her smartness was worthy of a better cause. She advised her to become a militant suffragette.

Miss Bell then again lamented the fact that she was disturbed, and said: "I meant the bomb to go off and blow up the church right enough."

The prisoner then stretched herself at full length on the seat in the prisoner's enclosure and asked the woman warder to give her a pillow and wake her when the case had concluded.

"Good-bye, you paid bully!" was Miss Bell's farewell to the Magistrate when he remanded her.

ROBLIN WILL HAVE MAJORITY OF SEVEN

According to Winnipeg Telegram—Free Press, However Allows Only Two—Hon. Hugh Armstrong to Run in Le Pas

Winnipeg, July 13.—The Telegram this morning declares that the Roblin Government is secure, and will have a majority of at least seven. It gives the standing of the parties as: Conservatives 25, Liberals 19, Independent 1, with one in doubt.

The Independent is Mr. F. J. Dixon, who was Johnson's running mate in Centre Winnipeg and practically a Liberal. The Conservatives claim St. George, which the Liberals hold as doubtful, and say St. Clements is doubtful with the Liberals leading. The Liberals claim St. Clements as certain. The Telegram declares that "Of course the Government will carry the three deferred elections. The fight in these, however, will be hot."

Editorially, the Telegram says this morning that "The Editor of the Orange Sentinel is entitled to credit for reducing the Government's majority. "It was"" says the Telegram, the "distrust which the Orange Sentinel engendered, together with literature freely circulated among Manitoba Orangemen, which caused the thousands of Conservative members of the Order to vote against the Government which they have consistently supported for fourteen years."

STARVING FOREIGNERS ARE UNABLE TO SECURE WORK

Many Who Expected Employment on Welland Canal Have Nothing to Do

Stamford, Ont., July 13.—Many foreigners are coming to this vicinity expecting to find work on the new Welland Canal, and unable to secure employment are up against it. The death of one of these men is now being investigated. The dead man is Foster Toder, aged 42. He was living with a number of other foreigners, all of whom are penniless, in a bush near Thorold. Their house consists of a shelter contrived out of pieces of corrugated iron siding and under this they had piles of hay for beds. Toder was found dead on one of these rude beds.

Toder arrived in Thorold in April and had been able to get only three days' work since his arrival. He had nothing to eat for weeks, except what he could beg. He leaves a widow and children in the old country

STORY OF CREATION TOLD IN FREE BIBLE MOVING PICTURES

Philanthropic Effort of the International Bible Association to Create More Interest in Bible Reading

An exhibition comprising twelve reels of motion pictures and about 500 stereopticon slides is being shown at the Academy of Music by the International Bible Students' Association, which tells the story of human development as it is recorded in the Bible. The exhibition will continue for two weeks with two programs daily at 3 and 8 p.m. There is no charge for admission and no solicitation of funds made.

The object of the projectors of this new method of teaching the Good Book is to show the complete harmony of the Bible, science and history. This it is claimed to fully accomplish. The exhibition is styled, "The Photo-Drama of Creation," as is being presented in the principal cities throughout this country and the United States. Press reports indicate that it is being accorded an enthusiastic reception in many places.

The drama of creation, which is one of the longest and most elaborate spectacles with music accompaniment more than eight hours to be shown and lectures, ever arranged, requires It is therefore divided into four sections. These will be presented in order the program changing twice each week during the present engagement at the Academy.

Part One of the photo-drama graphically portrays the creation of earth and its preparation for human habitation from its original gaseous condition. The creation of vegetable and animal kingdoms is shown and finally the climax of creation is reached in the placing of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden.

Following the work of creation the section traces the history of the race during the first two thousand years of Bible history The events leading up to the deluge are described in pictures, and the building of the Ark, the scoffing of the people, the loading of the animals into the big boat and the coming of the great flood are realistically portrayed in the films. Part One also includes films which show the life and experiences of the patriarch Abraham.

Wanderings of Israelites Shown.

The second great division of the film story has to do with the experiences of the children of Israel when they toiled under the scourges of the Pharaohs and the final deliverance and subsequent wanderings in the wilderness.

The story of the tenth plague, or the slaying of the first born, is graphically told in pictures. After Pharaoh refuses the demands of the Israelites, his son, a beautiful boy, is seen amid the luxury of his home surrounded by servants, living a life of affluence and ease. In a moment he is stricken and falls over dead. In contrast is shown a miller and his wife, grinding corn by pushing the handle of a huge millstone. Their son is seated beside them, playing. As they work the avenging angel appears and the youth sickens and dies before his helpless and griefstricken parents.

The pictures have been constructed on so large a scale that one of the great battles of Joshua, the warrior leader of the Israelite is shown. One of the most beautiful features of the photo-drama occurs in the second section, in the raising of the Shunammite woman's son.

Israel's history is presented according to the Bible account, and then opens up the story which leads up the world's history to the crucifixion through the most wonderful period of and resurrection of Christ.

Stereopticon views of delicate color and realistic in the description of people, costumes and modes of living introduce the beginning of a new era.

One of the impressive moments of the production comes when the Star of the East rises before the shepherds, watching over their sleeping flocks. The heavenly choir of angels appears and the shepherds fall upon their knees and give thanks. Then they rise and follow the star to the manger, where the Christ-child sleeps. The three wise men and the shepherds are seen following the star across the desert.

Boyhood of Christ

Jesus' boyhood at 9 and 14 and his manhood of thirty, when according to the law, he might enter upon his work is traced. His laying aside of the carpenter's tools and going to join John at the Jordan and the preaching of John the Baptist, are pictured and explained. The baptism of Jesus is illustrated, the descent upon him of the Holy Spirit in the beginning of his ministry, the selection of his disciples and the performance of the miracles are all shown in the third section of this great picture story. This section closes with the pictures showing the final scenes in the life of the Master, his betrayal the trial before Pilate, and finally the crucifixion, and following this the resurrection.

Church History Portrayed.

The final section of the drama of creation traces the history of the Christian Church from this point on to the present day and the prophecies of the future.

One of the most impressive and tragic portions of the drama is that which describes in pictures the persecutions of the Christians under Nero. The Roman arena is shown with its terrifying spectacle of crosses upon which early Christians were put to death, human torches and blood-thirsty animals which the followers of the lowly Nazarine were compelled to meet unarmed in the arena.

In this connection the moving pictures bring out a feature of human interest in the story of Marcellus and the lion.

Marcellus was an early Christian who had succeeded in taming a great lion during his wanderings through a forest near Rome. He fed the lion daily with bowls of milk and [illegible] Later Marcellus and his wife were captured by the Romans with other Christians and sentenced to die in the arena. The decision of Nero was that the strongest Christian was to do battle with the greatest lion in the dens.

Marcellus is selected and appears before the spectators stripped for the fray. He falls on his knees and prays. In a moment the keepers armed with whips and bludgeons force a huge growling lion into the ring. The animal approaches Marcellus, who crouched in the middle of the ring, shows its teeth and shakes its great mane.

But Marcellus arises from his crouching position and speaks to the brute. The animal walks toward him, sniffs at his knees, rubs its tawny mane against his body and licks his hand. Marcellus puts out his arms and clasps the lion about the neck. Thus he leads the great beast up before Nero's throne. The audience cries "A miracle! A miracle!" and demands mercy by lifting up thumbs that the Emperor may see. Three times is Marcellus forced to lead his tame lion to the throne before he gains the leniency of the monarch. The lion he faced proved to be the one he tamed in the forest.

The exhibition closes with pictures which show the peoples, customs and mode of living in India, Japan and China, in contrast with the people of the civilized countries.

The photo-drama of Creation is said to comprise the largest and most complete aggregation of films and stereopticon pictures relating to Biblical, Scientific and Historical subjects ever brought together in one program.

A most remarkable phonograph lecture is given with the exhibition which explains the pictures as they are shown. So powerful is the [illegible] and so clear the inflection that the lectures can be heard distinctly in all portions of the auditorium.

Part one of the Creation is now showing at the Academy and will be succeeded to-morrow afternoon by the second section. The beautiful and instructive picture story of the Bible has been accorded a hearty welcome by Peterborough citizens.

COMPULSORY SPORT

Beginning of What May be a Revolution in College Athletics

There is a ribald saying to the effect that if pleasure interferes with your business, you should give up your business. Wesleyan University of Middletown, Conn., has decided that if studies interfere with the students' proficiency at sport they shall give up their studies, or at least pursue them in some other seat of learning. In most American universities there is an unwritten law to the effect that students who wish to take an active part in athletics must maintain a certain standing of scholarship, and there have been hundreds of cases in which they have been obliged to give up their baseball, football, or other games in order to keep up with their classes. Wesleyan University has made sport one of the compulsory studies. It will no longer be left to the taste of the student to play ball or tennis or not to play. He will have to play something, and cannot escape by playing a flute. Wesleyan will have no mollycoddles. One of the remarkable things about this new regulation is the fact that it should have been necessary, that the average college student should not want to play games for their own sake. However, this can be easily explained by the high proficiency of the picked athletes in most American colleges. They become specialists in one game or another, and this is the reason that in the Olympic games American college men have been so remarkably successful. The American college athlete is like the beautiful rose which has attained its great size because some score of other buds were pinched off in order that the one chosen bloom might be nourished by all the sap in the bush. The development of a crack baseball or football team has the effect of making too many of the students mere onlookers and rooters, and it is these non-combatants who are aimed at by the Wesleyan decree. If it has the effect of reducing the crowds of spectators and increasing the number of players, it may be the beginning of a revolution in college athletics.—Mail and Empire.

HIGH PRICES FOR FURS

Why They Are Ever so Much Higher Than Formerly

Furs of all kinds are scarcer and high-priced to-day than ever before. Several things account for this. First, perhaps, the standard luxury is raising with the increase in the number of the world's relatively-wealthy people. Fashion has done more than set a seal of approval on furs. She has dictated irrevocably that they must be largely worn, and in consequence the demand has increased enormously. The rapid destruction of the forest regions and the onward march of civilization into formerly uninhabited country, has led to the practical extinction of many species of fur-bear[illegible] formerly ple[illegible]

For insta[illegible] which ten years ago was a fairly common animal even in the older-settled farming districts is now rarely seen except in the backwoods regions. Beaver, mink and muskrats were familiarly known to most of us when we were boys in the village and on the farm. How many of the boys of to-day, you ask, would be able to identify definitely even one of these animals from personal observation? The same thing has gone on to an even greater degree in regard to the more valuable fur bearing animals.

Effective Tool for Trimming Turf Along Paths, etc.

To give a lawn that neatly kept appearance that is admirable, the edges of the turf along walks and flower beds must be trimmed closely. For this purpose a new edging tool has been patented. On the end of a long handle is a single sheet of metal with a straight, flat section adapted to lie on top of the grass, and a V-shaped cutting section bent down from it, with sharp edges on both ends. By pressing this tool along the edge of the turf the overhanging grass is trimmed neatly and a smooth little trench is cut between the grass and the edge of the walk, or whatever the border is. This is a great improvement over the usual clumsy [illegible] that mar the appearance of otherwise attractive suburban places.

"Had I continued to work steadily at the Bible I should have completed it in three and a half years, but as a matter of fact I did not finish it until ten years after I had started. One of the most difficult points to do was the names and genealogies, as so many had to be spelt out letter by letter. There were thirty-nine books altogether, and they averaged between sixty and seventy plates apiece. I calculate that I had to strike a total of twenty million blows on the punch."

Mr. Ford has also produced works in Arabic, Hebrew, German, French, and Hindustani, and he added, "I want to go on producing books for the entertainment and education of my blind brethren. Up to the present I must have superintended the making of some thousands of volumes."

"PLOUGHING BY WIFE"

A Farmer Whose Second Wife Was His Waterloo

Lafe Choate, a Missouri farmer, who a couple of years ago became famous or infamous when it was disclosed in the Divorce Court that he hitched his wife with a pair of mules and made her help to plough, has married again and according to the newspapers at Liberty, Missouri, [illegible] found a Tartar, or at least a wife who is not to be imposed upon. The second Mrs. Choate was not familiar with the "ploughing by wife" incident but she was soon informed of it by her neighbors, and promptly put her foot down. Being a woman of 170 pounds, it did not take her long to persuade Lafe that she was of different calibre from his first wife, and was not to be driven or whipped like a horse. She intimated that if he did not behave he would himself be harnessed up with the mules and made to plough. According to the newspapers, which joyously record these and other interesting particulars "Lafe got good instanter," and is now a very ordinary henpecked husband

THE THOROUGHBRED

Race Horse in Peace the Best Trooper's Horse in War

An old-time trainer of race horses is Bernard Riley, who is comfortably quartered as one of the regular guests of a hotel at West Farms, near New York city.

His long service as a Confederate trooper rendered him especially qualified to judge of the value of the thoroughbred for military purposes, and he unhesitatingly declares that it was largely due to the excellence of its cavalry horses, which were for the most part either thoroughbreds or halfbreds, that the Confederacy was able to astonish the civilized world by holding out against overwhelming odds as long as it did.

"We put up a great fight against tremendous odds in men and resources," he said, "and it was mainly due to the fact that we had race horses and well-bred saddle horses under troopers who were accustomed to riding that we were able to do so.

"At the time the war broke out racing was the great amusement throughout the South, and a great proportion of our cavalrymen were mounted on thoroughbreds of the old sort—horses which for many generations had been bred and trained to run three and four mile heats, when riding was the most popular means of recreation among the Southerners. Federal officers who had been accustomed to green troopers, mounted on clumsy, heavy-footed farm horses, totally unfit for saddle, or even light harness, purposes, could not believe possible the night journeys which our raiders would make and even when they were keeping the closest watch upon the movements of our cavalry troopers it was easy for us to surprise their wagon trains and secure supplies which were invaluable to us while the loss of them was crippling our enemies

"That was, in my opinion, the real reason why our armies in the field were able to hold out so long against overpowering odds as far as men and money were concerned.

"This was undoubtedly the great lesson taught to the civilized world by that terrible war; and yet, strangely enough, our own country, which, as the greatest sufferer, should have been first to profit by it, is still about the only great power to ignore it. It is a crime to mount a good soldier on a bad horse, and yet it is what is being done in this country to-day. England, Germany, France, Russia, and indeed all the great powers have recognized the inestimable value of cavalry, especially for scouting, raiding and foraging, and they are making the most strenuous efforts to systematically produce the highest types of cavalry and artillery horses by breeding animals having a strong infusion of the warm blood of the race horse."

Our Point of View

The Colorado miners and others think that Rockefeller is well- named because he is such a hard old citizen.

—o—

As we see it the South American mediators at Niagara Falls have not settled anything except their hotel bill.

—o—

Our old friend Huerta says he is ready to shake hands, but we advise Uncle Sam before doing it to first look and see if Vic has his fingers around the hilt of a knife.

—o—

As this is the beginning of the second half of the year, we find ourselves wondering what has become of all the good resolutions that were made at the beginning of the first half.

—o—

A colored preacher in Chatham Ont., says 200,000 negroes are ready to enlist for the Mexican war. If Uncle Sam should send that many down there it would be necessary to restock Mexico with chickens after the war was over.

—o—

A New York man who has made it a business to furnish his blood for transfusion purposes at $30 a quart earned $120 in the last four months. But it seems rather funny that a man should have more money after being bled than he had before.

—o—

A Chicago newspaper invited answers to the question, "Would you marry your mate again?" and the New York Evening Telegram remarks that the shower of negative replies indicates an epidemic of brutal frankness.

—o—

It is said that there are nearly 300 automobiles in Peterborough, and there are times when the editor of this g.f.i. is trying to get across the street that it seems as if all of them were heading for him.

—o—

A Montreal policeman had to take a drunken man, a crutch and a wooden leg which were widely scattered, in order to get the arrest on the blotter, but he accomplished the task successfully. The prisoner [illegible] in peace and also in pieces.

—o—

The society reporter of the Irregon (Ore.) Irrigator, has a frank and snappy way of writing up the social news of the town. He says: "One of the Round girls—the bow-legged one—gave Major Fairplay the mitten the other night. She says he booses too much."

—o—

A news item in the Mail and Empire says that three indictments were issued at the request of the District Attorney of New York against Joseph Reichmann, formerly president of the Carnegie Trust Company, who was charged with having stolen $140,000 when the institution failed. Another news item published the same day says Frank Williams, of Mobile, was released from prison on parole after having served for twenty-three years for the theft of a 50-cent coat. Justice may be even-handed but she has a poor way of showing it.

Lame Back Strengthen Stiffness Taken Right Out

Was Relieved in An Hour, and Cured in a Night

A lame back? Quite unnecessary. All you have to do is to rub on Nerviline. It's simply a wonder for backache—relieves after one rubbing. "Nothing possibly could cure an aching back faster than Nerviline," writes Mrs. Arthur Kobar, of Lower Chelsea, N.S. "I caught cold and was so prostrated with pain I could not bend over. We Always have Nerviline at home and I had the painful region rubbed thoroughly with this grand liniment. At once the pain departed. The lameness was rapidly reduced and in an hour I was able to be about my housework. I was rubbed again just before retiring, and awoke as usual in the morning without a sign of my back trouble."

There is no sort of muscular pain that Nerviline won't cure quickly. Thousands swear by it for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago. It sinks to the core of the pain—right through muscle, tissue and nerve—it penetrates where no oily, greasy liniment can go and invariably cures quickly. If you have an ache or a pain anywhere—use Nerviline—it will cure you. Family size bottle, very large 50c.; trial size 25c. at all dealers.

Ridding a Street of Trolley Poles

Springfield, Mass., is not content to rid its principal street of telegraph and electric light poles. The people, in adopting the slogan "The poles must go," made it plain that the trolley company's poles were included with the others. To get rid of these looked like a difficult problem, but a solution was found. It is unique, but it appears feasible—that is, if the property-owners will consent to it. The plan is to attach the span wires to the fronts of buildings. Experts, building and electrical, declare there is nothing impracticable in the idea, all that is needed being the consent of property-owners, which it is believed there will be little difficulty in securing.

The cost will not be great, but the trolley company objects to paying it all because it was granted the right to erect poles in the street, and it is generally understood that if the plan should be carried out the city will pay part of the expense. As to the advantages, the company will profit by saving the cost of the upkeep of poles in future years; the city will profit by the better appearance of the street and the building owners will profit by the clearing of the sidewalk in front of his property.

Of course if the project is feasible in Springfield it is elsewhere. If that city carries it out successfully other cities will be likely to follow her example—Unless Edison hurries with a demonstration of the success of his storage battery for street cars.

Persons Have Been Found Eager to Take Blame For Crimes

Can you imagine what possible motive, what queer impulse you could ever have for confessing yourself guilty of a murder of which you were really innocent? Yet such has been the frequency of such occurrences, so many have strangely played at this gruesome game, that the law a long way back found it necessary to take measures to defend itself against making the terrible mistake of executing the wrong persons on the confession of the would-be victims of the law.

In fact, it was centuries ago when the law found itself facing the problem. In those olden times it was sufficient for a person to avow guilt of a murder to be promptly led away to the gallows or the block, on his own statement alone. But, when it was found out again and again that the executed persons had lied, the law wrought a change, so that now in all civilized countries the mere unsupported confession of a person to the capital crime of murder may not be taken as conclusive. The confession must be fully investigated and corroborative evidence offered. The self-accused man is not allowed to make a plea of guilty. He must stand trial at which his confession, of course, is admitted into evidence, but other evidence must be forthcoming to corroborate his statement of his whereabouts and actions before a verdict of guilty may be rendered and a sentence of death imposed upon him.

In most cases these false confessions of a terrible crime arise where the crimes have attracted intense public interest, and weak, morbid-minded men and women have brooded so constantly and hysterically on the case that the delusion has developed in their brains that they were the actual assassins.

It is estimated that there are 2,000,000 golf players in the United States and that they spend $300,000,000 a year directly or indirectly upon the game.

COLONY OF OUTCASTS IN FIELD OF REFUSE

Remarkable But Filthy Condition of A Slum District in City of St. Petersburg

Ten years or so ago, St. Petersburg's slum, now known as the Hot field which is to be abolished, was a compact region of tenement houses, called the Viazemskaya Lavra, and owned by the good Princess Viazemsky. In this slum dwelt 10,000 people, a city to themselves. Many of them lived twenty in a room. Those that were not beggars were criminals or conspirators. For years the community furnished an average of two murders a month and as much disease, probably, as was to be found in all the rest of St. Petersburg. The district was notorious, but was tolerated. One day, however, there happened three murders, and the Princess decided that she must do something. She went to England and sought the advice of W. T. Stead. He told her to tear down the old buildings and erect model workingmen's cottages. She took his advice and the cottages were soon occupied.

They were not occupied, however, by the worst of the former tenants. These men and women, for the most part people of education or former distinction, who had fallen through crime or drink to be the lowest of the low, laughed at the efforts to reform their lot. They did not want model dwellings. They wanted filth, but filth plus freedom. So the very offscourings of the former tenement picked up their few belongings, stowed them in their pockets and made their way to the Hot field. There they proceeded to provide themselves with homes by the simple expedient of tunneling into the loose refuse and earth. They have lived there ever since, paying no rent, and troubled by the police only when on the lookout for some escaped criminal. Some of them live in the little pits they first scooped out of the offal years ago. Others have tunneled into the earth, and have propped the roofs of their shelters with lumber. Stovepipes may be seen sticking out of the ground in many places, and each one denotes a rather sumptuous underground home. The ventilation of the average lair, however, is procured by poking a hole in the roof.

These "things that once were men" are not the active menace to the city that one might suppose. They have all the incentives to commit crime, and lack only the energy. Some of them have reverted to the habits of the lower animals. They hibernate in the winter. They will drink themselves to sleep, and for several days will remain dormant upon their rubbish beds. They venture forth only when starving and try to rob some child or woman of enough money to buy some more vodka. Their relations with each other are governed by their own laws. Each is supposed to respect the title of another man to the woman who is sharing his fortune. They do not steal each other's crusts or vodka. When a comrade offends he is dealt with by a sort of court. Not long ago a member of the community was murdered and his body thrown out on the rubbish heap. The police did not trouble themselves about it. Although the medical authorities have condemned the place frequently, the police have objected to it being closed, for they find it easy to lay their hands on escaped prisoners among the Golden Cadets. Mayor Tolstoi, however, has determined that the outcasts' home shall be abolished.

DEER FOR LABRADOR

Dr. Grenfell Would Provide Reindeer Meat For the People

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell has declared his intention of campaigning for assistance to have Labrador stocked with reindeer for meat purposes. Dr. Grenfell's humanitarian work among the fishermen of the Labrador coast has given him an enthusiasm for the idea of propagating reindeer that is rather lacking now in Alaska and among Department of the Interior officers in northern parts of Canada. The practical failure of the attempt of the United States Government to import reindeer from Siberia, for the establishing of large permanent herds in Alaska, has put a damper on such schemes. It is true that the circumstances surrounding the attempt, as related by the originator of the proposal, do not negative the feasibility of building up large reindeer herds in far northern areas. Several years ago the Dominion Government established a small herd in the Mackenzie River district, for experimental purposes, but most of the reindeer escaped, and at the last report had not been recovered. If the Eskimos in Labrador are sufficiently steady to herd reindeer permanently, importations from Siberia might possibly be arranged. But the Labrador Eskimo would have to be of different stamp from the Eskimo of the northwestern sections. An authority on the question has said that the ideal herdsman is the French-Canadian habitant, or woodsman. It would be a pleasant and profitable way of utilizing the northern areas for the benefit of the people of older Canada, to propagate reindeer, and transport the frozen meat to the south, or export some of it to Europe.

[illegible] Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. THE GREAT LAKES

We all know in a general way that Lake Superior is the largest and Lake Ontario the smallest of the Great Lakes, but the relative facts are scarcely known to the average person. While Lake Michigan ranks second in size, being forty-five miles shorter than Lake Superior, it is twice as deep as its greatest depth, the figures being 900 feet for Lake Superior and 1,800 feet for Lake Michigan, so that in cubical contents the latter far outranks Superior. Lake Huron's greatest depth also is a hundred feet more than that of Lake Superior, so that the greatest is not superior to everything after all.

Lake Erie and Lake Ontario are comparatively shallow, with maximum depth of 204 feet and 412 feet, and yet we should not like to fall overboard in either of them. In width—maximum figures—Lake Superior comes first with 160 miles, Huron second with 105, Michigan third with 84, Erie fourth with 60, and Ontario last with only 53 miles of greatest breadth.

In comparison with its area, Ontario leads with a drainage of 29,760 square miles for its area of 6,700, the others being Erie, drainage, 30,000, area 10,000 square miles; Michigan, drainage, 70,000, area, 22,400 square miles; and Superior, drainage, 85,000, area, 31,800 square miles. [illegible] the elevation is very gradual, Lake Superior being 600 feet above sea-level, Michigan 578 feet, Huron 574 feet, Erie 564 feet, and then comes a big drop to 234 feet for Lake Ontario.

Thunderstorm Dangers

When clouds are driven past one another by wind currents, electricity of a frictional kind is produced. Lightning is caused by the passing of the electricity between the two clouds, or from a cloud to the earth. As it travels it expands and drives the air in front of it. When the lightning has passed the air that was driven away returns with a rush, and it is this rush which causes the noise of thunder.

It is not safe to stand under a tree during a thunderstorm, for the lightning usually strikes the highest object underneath it, so that the electric current may travel down the tree and strike the person who is taking shelter. The chief danger is standing under an isolated tree; to stand under one of a thick group in a wood is not so dangerous. It would be more dangerous indeed to stand alone in the middle of a field with no tree near or in any isolated spot where we happen to be the highest thing amongst our surroundings.

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel, Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. For particulars and details of this magnificent enterprise, address

CURIOUS FISH FACTS

A fisherman claimed that a goldfish in his possession came to the surface of the aquarium every morning to have its back scratched, and after the comforting caress the little creature would sink to the bottom with a contented smile. Unfortunately the owner of this wonderful goldfish was called away from home for a couple of weeks. During his absence, it languished for its daily scratch, grew morose, refused all nourishment, and died. Of course, people to whom he told the story made some subtle remarks about a relative of Ananias, but the sorrowing owner of the pet goldfish, it is related, promptly produced the dead fish and showed the marks left by the scratching. There may be those who doubt the truth of this story, but they would have hard work to convince the worthy people of a little village in Worcestershire that fish have no intelligence for they still talk of a wonderful trout which was so tame that it would eat out of people's hands. Indeed, there was a stone set up, which may still be in existence, setting forth the wonderful qualities of this tame trout.

According to the experts who have studied the manners of the finny tribe, fish have many of the emotions of the human race. Among their means of expression, it is pointed out, is the habit they have of erecting their spines or fins under the influence of anger or of terror, much in the same way that feathers and hairs are erected in birds and mammals.

OLD GOV'T HOUSE PAID ENTIRE COST

Handsome Building to House Ontario's Governor Places no Burden on Taxpayers

In securing for Ontario a new Government House the Whitney Government has used only the money derived from the sale of the old Government House. This money could, under the law as it existed, be used only for Government House purposes. Originally the property belonged to the Dominion of Canada, but was transferred to the province on the undertaking that the property, or the proceeds of any sale of it, would be utilized for a Government House.

Too Good For Ontario?

Accordingly, a new site was obtained and a building erected which will in every way be a credit to the province. The chief objection the Opposition has to it is that it is too good for Ontario, but the better the building is the better is the bargain Ontario has secured. So far the province has spent $600,000 on the site, laying out the grounds and erecting the building, which is nearly completed. There remains on hand a balance of about $300,000 to pay for the completion of the undertaking, so that the land given to the province for Government House purposes and sold so advantageously by the Whitney Government will about provide a new and modern Government House for the province.

You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig into the corners and drive out the decayed food particles.

Gold Dust is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. Gold Dust sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, Gold Dust will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN IT THUNDERS

Simple Explanation of Cannonading in the Sky—Little Electric Particles Make Lightning

What is thunder?

Blow air into a perfectly tight paper bag until it is full. Hold the bag so that none of the air can escape and strike it sharply and suddenly. There will be an explosion like the crack of a pistol. That is what thunder is!

The scientific explanation for it is the expansion, compression and sudden escape of air. It is the same thing that happens in a cartridge shell when you press the trigger of a gun or pistol. In fact that is really a better explanation of thunder than the paper bag experiment because it has all the elements that cause thunder. The spark caused by the fire causes the ignition of the powder, forming a gas which pushes the bullet out of the barrel of the gun and when the gas comes in contact with the air, it makes a roaring, crackling sound trying to get through, because the pressure of the gas is greater than the air. The thunder therefore, is the result of the lightning.

Now, what is lightning?

We don't know. We know that it is electricity—which is another way of saying we don't know because we don't know what electricity is. But we do have a general idea of what lightning does to make the thunder. There is electricity in the air all the time. Sometimes we feel it more than we do at others—or at least we are more conscious of it being there at one time than at another. This is due to the condition of the atmosphere. If a good breeze is blowing and the mixture of water and gas and dust that we call air is kept stirring we don't feel the electricity much.

But if there is not much of a breeze the air feels heavy and oppressive and seems to be filled with moisture. It is filled with tiny particles of water we call droplets which, when in large groups are rain clouds and when these clouds run into a cool strata of air they condense and form rain drops.

These droplets are curious things—curious because they are so small. It takes 800 trillion of them to make one drop of rain. And it is in the making of the drops of rain that the lightning comes. The surface of every droplet is covered with electricity. This brings out another curious fact. When you take two balls of the same size and make one ball of them you find that the surface of the one big ball is much smaller than the sum of the surfaces of the two original balls. So that when the 800 trillion droplets form the single drop of rain there is an enormous amount of electricity left over after the surface of the rain drop is covered as full as it will hold.

This great excess has got to go somewhere else. Whenever there seems to be a good place for it to go—to another rain cloud or to the earth a lot of these electrical particles get together and make a sudden break for it, making a lightning flash. They go through the air so fast they heat it considerably.

The heat causes the air to expand, to become greater in volume than it was originally and this volume of air—just like the gas in the gun barrel or the air in the bag when you hit it—has got to distribute itself over the atmosphere and it starts doing so with a roar and a bang just as there is a roar and a bang when the gas is shot out of the gun barrel and when the compressed air is released from the paper bag.

If John Keble had had his way it is possible that his famous "Christian Year" might never have been published. He was extremely averse to it, and only yielded to the importunities of his friends and the pleadings of his father. Even so, he refused to have his name on the title page. In forty-five years it went through 158 editions and since it went out of copyright they have ceased to be counted.

It is customary with Connie Mack to give all ambitious young players a chance. Shibe Park is a Mecca for them any morning during the summer when the Athletics are at home. Mack is generally on hand looking over the material that is working out. If a youngster looks good to him he usually places him with some minor league if he cares to play professionally, but always keeps a string on him. Once a baseball enthusiast in a Pennsylvania town wrote him about a third baseman who could hit them further than Baker. He was requested to send the phenom on for a trial, which he did. It so happened that on the day the new player reported Baker was taking a little morning batting practice. Getting a couple to his liking he drove them over the right field wall. The youngster observing the two swats asked one of the other rookies the name of the mighty slugger.

"Why, that fellow is Frank Baker the third baseman of the Athletics. He hits one over that way just about any time he wants to." The down country recruit was given a severe setback when he learned the name of the mighty swatter was Frank Baker.

"So that fellow is Baker, Mr. Mack don't need any third baseman, but needs pitchers if the other teams can hit the ball like you fellows. I'm going back home and send our pitcher on for a trial, he would have a much better chance to make good than me."

That evening the youngster departed without a word. He has not been heard from since, nor has the pitcher he spoke about. Here was a player who never waited for his debut, but was scared out before the curtain went up.

A good many of the recruit catchers, infielders and outfielders who come up to the majors for a trial can field up to the standard but are shy on hitting strength. They soon discover that one of the big differences between the majors and the minors is in the pitching department. This being so, it is very natural that on this feature of the game the average recruit lacks confidence. Starting a youngster in a game with men like Johnson, Bender, Mathewson and other stars doing the pitching simply makes the going all the rougher for the recruit. That the recruit is conscious of the greatness of some of the big league stars is a certainty.

How People Feel

When They Have

Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a star shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a basket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and severe cases [illegible] how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress. Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Inspector Stewart swore Haley was on the blacklist. He served Haley personally with the blacklist papers on August 26th last, when Haley was the worse of liquor. Haley said he did not asked for a drink as he had joined a temperance society. Chief Thompson, producing three flasks of whiskey found in his possession, remarked "This look rlike a temperance society." When asked "Where did you get your whiskey?" replied, "I found it in a manger." Haley was given a week's memory cure at Castle Nesbitt.

B. C. Water Power Survey

A party of engineers of the Conservation Commission examined the water power situation in the district tributary to the watersheds of the following rivers in interior British Columbia: Skeena, Kispiox, Bulkley, Morice, Telkwa, Zymoetz and Kitsumgallum rivers. The season was a unusually wet one, and the country traversed very rough with consequent poor trails, that in many instances required clearing, so that progress was necessarily slow. In spite of this, twenty-six streams in all were examined and twenty-eight power sites reported upon.

"MUST LEAVE ULSTER ALONE OR PUT HER DOWN BY FORCE

Unionists Have Taken Their Final Decision, and Sir Edward Carson Says They Will Act With Grim Determination

New York, July 14.—A London cable to the New York Times says: "Ulster has taken her final decision," says the Daily Mail. "It was announced by Sir Edward Carson at Drumbeg yesterday in a speech of exceptional gravity. He said he had authority to act, and, if necessary, "will do so with the most determination."

"With him rests the power to choose the moment for setting up the Provisional Government. He warned the British Cabinet that they must either leave Ulster alone or put her down by force. His watchword was 'No Surrender.'

"His speech was delivered to a vast impressive demonstration of loyalists, held to commemorate the Battle of the Boyne. A hundred thousand men marched in procession before him while drums boomed and cheers filled the air.

"Throughout the Province yesterday there were similar demonstrations on a smaller scale, marked by the same resolute attitude. While Ulster has made up her mind, the British Cabinet muddles and drifts."

WHAT ARMY WILL DO.

The Daily News says: "The great Orange demonstration near Belfast in celebration of the Battle of the Boyne and the minor parades elsewhere in Ulster passed off yesterday without trouble or unpleasantness. All was quiet elsewhere. Much of this happy result was due to the wonderful restraint exhibited by the Nationalists. They bore insults in silence, not responding to provocation.

"Sir Edward Carson in a characteristic speech, made bitter references to the Government. There was also a reference to the men in the army who had refused to obey the Government, and a declaration that the same thing would happen again if any attempt were made to employ the forces of the Crown."

J. H. BURNHAM, M.P. GIVES A PATRIOTIC SPEECH AT LINDSAY

Mr. Burnham, M.P., who was sent for to Peterborough, when it was found that Col. Hughes could not remain for the speech-making, said that the recent action of the Minister of Militia in requiring that the militia orders should be strictly carried out, and that the militia as such should not appear as representing the Government or the civil power in religious processions, had done the most remarkable thing, perhaps, in the history of Canada. It was the first time that this had been done since the conquest of Canada by the British.

Col. Hughes was entitled to every credit for refusing to allow the civil power to play a subordinate part to anything else. Mr. Burnham then remarked that Roman Catholics were a living lesson to Protestants. The former prized their church above every thing and united on all occasions to a man to uphold it as supreme. Protestants often were so ignorant, lazy or weakkneed that they did not know the history of the civil and religious liberty which they enjoyed and cared less. Such people were a danger to the State. The present Pope demanded the immediate return of the days when the whole people obeyed the priesthood and trembled at the Church's order. It was this fact that was producing the excitement of conflict the world over at the present time.

THE AMENDING BILL IS NOW SENT TO COMMONS

London, July 14.—The House of Lords to-day passed the third reading of the bill and sent it across to the House of Commons for consideration.

In its closing stage in the Upper House, the Marquis of Crewe, the Liberal leader, took part in the debate on the bill and indirectly promised that the attainment of an agreement in regard to the elimination of the time limit by which the counties of Ulster were allowed to vote on the question of their exclusion for a period of six years from the operation of the Home Rule bill, would not prove a difficult. He said, however, that the area of the portion of Ireland to be excluded had been so that it would be a vexed and critical question. The Unionists, he argued greatly enlarged by the Unionists had failed to explain how they proposed to meet the inevitable objections to exclusion of the Roman Catholic counties of Ulster and their friends elsewhere in Ireland.

BLAMES GOVERNMENT.

The Marquis of Crewe concluded by asking for the exercise of patience and forbearance and firmly hoping for a successful solution.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, reiterated that nothing short of the Unionist amendments could avert the imminent peril that was threatening. He said this was his explanation of his demand for the total exclusion of the Province of Ulster and he complained that the Government had given the Unionists no assistance whatever in the task of averting civil war.

At the suggestion of the Marquis of Crewe, the bill was read a third time without a vote being taken.

GIRL CLERK SLAIN

Oxford, La., Thomas J. Steele, a merchant, today shot and killed Miss Mattie Boylston, a clerk in his store, after which he committed suicide. Steele leaves a wife and six children.

Causes leading to the act are not known. The principals in the tragedy were well known, and the unexpected double tragedy created a great sensation in this section of De Soto parish.

The coroner has been notified and will hold an inquest.

The girl lived with her widowed mother, Mrs. H. E. Boylston. She moved to Oxford from Natchitoches parish several months ago. A cousin of the girl is employed in the Standard Oil Co. offices in Shreveport.

The relative could not give any motive, however, and friends, the girl's mother and the suicide's wife cannot explain the affair.

The mother and the wife are both bordering on collapse. No notes or letters were found on the bodies to indicate a motive, while not the slightest bit of suspicion of a love affair had been directed against either the girl or Steele, ie is presumed by many that he was infatuated with her and was repulsed.

Jealous and angered, it is believed Steele then decided to kill the girl and himself.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON IS NOW FREE FROM BLAME IN SCANDALS

No Evidence That He Was Responsible for Army Canteen Scandals--Meeting of the Shareholders

London, July 14.—The Attorney-General declared to-day there was no evidence before him to justify the criminal prosecution of Sir Thomas Lipton in connection with the recent army canteen scandals, for which several army officers and employes of Liptons Limited, were convicted on charges of accepting or giving bribes to influence contracts.

Replying to a question by Sir Arthur Markham in the House of Commons, the Attorney-General said proceedings had already been taken in regard to those against whom evidence existed. No such evidence, however exitted against Sin Thomas Lipton.

WEDS GIRL HE MET WHILE LOST IN A LONDON FOG

Boston, July 14.—Last summer Emmanuel Raymond of Lynn made a business trip to London. He is a travelling salesman for a counter firm of that city.

Raymond did not know much about London at the time, although when a boy it was his home city. So when he became lost in one of those dense fogs which had a habit of visiting the English metroplois almost every day he did considerable worrying.

It was at night, and like the man told of by Katherine Cecil Thurston, Raymood wandered through the silent streets without meeting a person. Without warning he turned a corner and collided with a beautiful girl, also a la short story.

Apologies and introductions followed and then came a call at the home of the girl, who introduced herself as Miss Julia Goldstein. Raymond found that the girl who had been brought to him through the medium of an ugly London mist was none other than the little girl with whom he walked to school when he was a boy and lived in the outskirts of the great city.

Raymond returned to Lynn, but always when he was out on the road selling his firm's wares he carried a picture of his London sweetheart in his vest pocket. Six months ago Miss Goldstein came to Lynn, and last night Raymond and his "fog girl" were married at the home of the bride's uncle, 802 Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond left today on a short wedding trip to New York and upon their return to this city will live at 4 Lowell street.

Four hundred hogs have been killed in Oxford to prevent the spread of hog cholera.

Toronto, July 14.—Noon saw a cessation of all business at the Salvation Army headquarters, for all mundane affairs were laid aside in order that his fellow soldiers who revered and loved him might prepare to pay their last sad tribute to the memory of their late leader, Commissioner David Rees, whose mortal remains would soon be laid by them to rest in peace beside the body o the life partner who had met her death with his husband amidst the horrors of that black night upon the Gulf.

One o'clock had not long struck when from all parts of the city little groups of men and women, most of them garbed in the familiar uniform of the Army might been seen wending their way towards the Temple in Albert street, where in the black casket, draped with the "Blood and Fire' flags of the Army he had led, lay the body of the late Commissioner.

EARNEST IMPRESSIVENESS

Soon the Temple was filled by the mourners; the massed bands had taken up their position behind the group of officers upon the platform and were softly playing selections from the hymns beloved of the Army while the simple decorations of palm fronds that enshrouded the platform quivered lightly to the strains. Here was no pomp, no panopy, but quite earnest impressiveness which struck at once a note of mourning and of hope. The red and yellow of the flags and banners, the purple and white of the draperies, spoke not of death but of a glorious resurrection.

The service opened with the hymn, "My Jesus I Love Thee," sung by Colonel Chandler, followed by a short service of prayer conducted by Mrs. Adjutant Haddinott and Brigadier Hargrave. After this came scripture readings appropriate to the occasion and religious solos rendered by Brigadier Adby and Staff-Captain Arnold.

SPLENDID CHANCE IN OIL STOCK

Purity Oils Ltd., of Calgary Alta Offers What Would Seem a Lucrative Investment

In this issue appears an advertisement of the "Purity Oil Co," that implies no personal liability to Shareholders.

The holdings of this company are 3520 acres. Only a limited number of shares in the company are offered for sale at $1 each, at par, any time after the company strikes oil.

Mr. Joseph H. Sinclair, A.B., M. Sc. says in his report, as follows:

"One of the favorable points in connection with the holding of your company is the fact that these leases have been selected so that three lines of attack are open on the problem of securing oil. First-in Township 25, Range 5, West of the fifth, the company's holdings consist of 960 acres located on an anticline which crosses Jumping Pound Creek about the middle of Section 31, Township 24, Range 4, West of the fifth, and whose axis trends magnetic north 52 degrees west, almost directly through and dividing in two this block of leases. Second Another line of attack is through two leases at least located in Township 30, Range 5, West of the fifth, the N.W. ¼ of Section 14, and in Township 20, Range 4, West of the fifth, the N.W. ¼ of Section 14, and leases are located upon the Southern extension of the anticline upon which the Monarch Oil Company's well is situated. The axis of the anticline trends about magnetic north 66 degrees West and there are excellent drilling possibilities at this point.

In the third place your company has a group of leases located upon the southern extension of a low and broad anticline; uplift whose axis trends also north 66 degrees west and the structure of which is most clearly exposed on the North Saskatchewan River, in the vicinity of Mile Post 136 of the Brazeau Branch of the Canadian Northern Railway.

The lease vendors' stock is in escrow in the Union Bank until development work is actually done.

ANIMALS HAVE SOME VERY HUMAN TRAITS

Men Share Many Characteristics and Instincts With the Brute Creation

One of the most noticeable things in studying animal life is the large portion of nature akin to human with which the brutes are endowed.

The instinctive and emotional natures of men and animals are identical in many respects. Sensation, perception, the power of association, curiosity, jealousy, joy, anger, love, the home instinct, fear, chivalry—all these are present in the animal nature. Many of these traits, especially the homing instinct, are much keener than in man, and many of the senses, sight and smell particularly, are much more developed than in the human animal.

One of the strongest of the animal instincts is that of blind anger, the venting of spite on inanimate things. For example, animals caught in traps will punish the sticks and stones that lie conveniently near. It is the same impulse that causes the child to smite the stool it has fallen over or that causes the grown person to kick the door against which he has rammed his head. But there are many instances where we can learn lessons of patience and forbearance from the animal world. The wind may blow away a robin's carefully constructed nest time after time, yet the bird apparently never loses its temper, but patiently builds another home.

Conceit is a human trait very common to animals. Trained animals are noticeably affected by the attitude of the audience before which they are performing. They will give a much better exhibition before one that applauds heartily than before one which is cold and unresponsive. Bears seem especially afflicted with this conceit and pride; and their attempts to "show off before company" are often very ridiculous.

The social instinct among animals is strong; the instinct to stand together, the ideas of the clan or the union and of fellowship are universal. An animal is lonesome away from its friends; hermits are very rare in the animal world.

There is a powerful instinct on the part of all animals to protect the young when in trouble. Hogs and cattle are among the most dangerous of domestic animals when aroused, the surest way to arouse them is to injure their young. Let a bird utter a call for help, and instantly the air around will be filled with feathered champions of the victim. The maternal instinct is so intense that animals will oftentimes mother the young of their enemies or their prey. Cases have been recorded where squirrels, chickens and even mice have been adopted and tenderly cared for by cats.

Fear in human beings is distinctly of animal origin. The fear in beasts is almost identical with that in the small child, and sometimes the man. The effect is also the same—the trembling of the limbs, rapid beating of the heart, weakness and flight.

The mob element is present among animals. Any danger, real or fancied, will cause an instant stampede away from the disturbances. Emotion in one animal of a crowd will beget it in another.

The dog exhibits more human characteristics than any other animal, presumably due to his close association with man. He shares many of the emotions of man. In fact, it seems sometimes as if dogs were shrewder than their masters. It seems as if dogs can even show contempt, especially in their treatment of smaller dogs. The lordly dignity with which the large canine stalks through a crowd of yapping, jumping puppies, and his superior indifference to their frisking and frolicking, certainly shows a feeling pretty close to contempt.

Co-operation is almost universal in the animal world. Wolves often hunt in relays or in couples. When attacked cattle and horses form a circle. Beavers always work in companies when building their dams.

INFINITELY SMALL

Billions of Billions of Atoms Make Make up a Pinch of Salt

We know that the big telescopes, aided by the photographic plate, reveal stars to the number of at least one hundred millions lying utterly beyond the confines of unaided vision, wrote Dr. Henry Smith Williams. Now it appears that a pinch of salt which one could hold on the point of a penknife, is made up of atoms numbering not hundreds of millions merely, but billions of billions.

The population of atoms in the smallest particle of matter visible under the microscope is greater by far than the total human population of the globe since the race developed. And a little instrument composed of two fragments of gold-leaf makes it possible to perform the miracle of counting these denizens of the realm of infinite littleness.

Within the smallest atom there is a something almost two thousand times smaller than the atom itself—a something that is detachable from the atom, and susceptible of being measured as to its mass, and tested as to its electric charge with the aid of apparatus actually in use in the laboratory. This ultimate particle of matter is called the electric corpuscle of electron. It is the smallest thing in the world, and it is probably the basal substance out of which all matter of whatever character is built.

As regards bulk, the electron is, according to the French physicist, Jean Becquerel, billions of billions of times smaller than the atom. To make the comparison vivid, Becquerel likened the electron in an atom to a swarm of gnats gravitating about in the dome of a cathedral.

BIG DERBY BETS

Fortunes That Have Been Won on a Single Race

"Bookies are afraid to lay good odds nowadays," an old racegoer remarked at Newmarket. "Bets are mere trifles compared with those of the old days. And certainly we do not hear of "plunges" such as those, for instance which characterised the transactions of Mr. Davies, the first bookmaker to be called a "leviathan," who betted in tens of thousands.

In the year 1850 he laid Mr. Clarke £100,000 to £1,000 against each of the three horses the latter had in the Derby of that year, Mr. Clarke having to pay, while, if Barbarian had won the Derby of 1853 instead of Daniel O'Rouke, the "leviathan" would have netted something like £100,000.

One of Davies' first big wagers was to lay Lord Strafford £12,000 to £1,000 against The Cur for the Cesarewitch. Davies started life as a carpenter, and began betting in a small street off Gray's Inn Road by taking half-crowns. But by great shrewdness and insight he soon gained the confidence of the public, and the amounts he paid away daily to ready-money clients were enormous. He is said never to have quibbled or suggested mistakes, and such was his honesty that on one occasion, when he found that a successful client had died since making the bet, he paid the winnings over to the widow.

Another famous bookmaker who made big bets, and in whom the racing fraternity had the same high confidence born of actual experience, was the late Mr. Fry. In the course of his long and highly successful career he paid out as much as £20,000 on a single wager, and in more than one instance a sum of £10,000. And while he lost upward of £100,000 through defaulters, nobody ever lost a penny owing to his failure to pay up.

It has been suggested that there have never been such big betting transactions during the last twenty years. In 1902, however, when Ard Patrick won the Derby, the Grately stable had a tremendous gamble on Pekin, and would have taken more than £100,000 out of the ring if he had won. Only a few Epsoms ago an amateur speculator had £12,000 on one of his horses in a selling plate, and lost the money, while more recently still £20,000 to £2,000 was laid to the stable against the horse that won the Cesarewitch.

Quite naturally, it is in backing a favorite that the largest bets are made. The odds are, of course, small, and it takes money to make money. It may be accepted as an axiom that in a first class race half the betting is upon the favorite. Thus, when the favorite fails to win the public are badly hit, and the bookmakers net thousands and thousands of pounds. Probably never did backers suffer more severely than when Sir Hugo won the Derby in the 1892 race, at odds of 40 to 1. There was probably only one man who backed that horse to the extent of £750, and he received £30,000 for his bold venture. But on La Fleche, the favorite at very small odds, gold was poured in a ceaseless stream—in fact, until the bookmakers refused to take a sovereign more.—London Tit-Bits.

PRUDENT TOMMY BURNS

He Ran no Chances of Being Short-Changed in England

When Tommy Burns made his first appearance in England, and fought against Gunner Moir at the National Sporting Club, he insisted upon the "purse" being deposited with the referee before he entered the ring, says Mr. Bob Watson, who for forty years has been a leading fight referee in England, in his published reminiscences. That was because he was "a stranger in a strange land," did not fairly appreciate the National Sporting Club, and wanted to make sure of his money. "Tommy" has since learned to understand sporting in England better than when he arrived to fight his first match.

Bearing upon this point is another anecdote of Tommy Burns. When he fought Jack Palmer at Wonderland, in the East End of London, I acted as referee. Burns had intimated that he would not accept a cheque, and, as it was not considered safe to carry $3,000 in gold to the ringside, my chief decided to hand me the money in notes directly I entered the ring. This was done, and I delivered the money to Burns—along with my decision—when the fight came to an end. The same practice was adopted when I refereed the fight between Burns and Jem Roche, in Dublin, for $12,500 and the world's championship!

BASEBALL HISTORY

Famous Old Time Shortstop Now Has a Saloon in Cleveland

From 1892 to 1897 the team that always gave Baltimore and Boston a regular battle, was that fighting aggregation, the Cleveland Spiders. And one of the strongest spokes in the Cleveland wheel was the hard-hitting shortstop, Edward J. McKean. On the Cleveland team were "Pat" Tebeau, "Cupid" Childs, Jim McGarr, Jim McAleer, "Crab" Burkett, Blake, "Cy" Young, "Nig" Cuppy, Jack O'Connor, "Chief" Zimmer and McKean.

McKean at short and Childs at second rivaled the Long-Lowe combination. Childs was short and stocky, McKean was a big, thick-set fellow, and their work around the keystone, handling balls and blocking base runners, was a revelation.

If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

MILLIONS SPENT ON AMERICA'S CUP

Each Attempt to Lift Trophy Brought Greatly Increased Expense—Purely Millionaire's Sport

About $500 was paid for the America's cup originally. About $5,000,000 has been spent in defending it and attempting to lift it since then. In the past twenty years most of the America cup racers were built for the specific purpose of defending or capturing the cup, and after the race were worth only what they would fetch as junk.

It was a Canadian boat that first drew attention to the question of cost. This was in 1881, when the sloop Atlanta was built especially for the purpose of winning the cup. The attempt was unsuccessful, but the Atlanta had been built with the sole object of racing for the cup, and the New York Yacht Club had built a boat expressly to defend the trophy. She was superseded by another defender after some trial races, and was useless for ordinary cruising purposes. The defending club, or rather a few members, found that they had been set back about $20,000 and had nothing to show for it. The result was an alteration in the racing rules designed to kill off challenges from small boats, especially from those built on this side of the Great Lakes. In 1876 Canada had challenged on behalf of the Countess of Dufferin, a boat that was built expressly for the race, but since the defenders were not specially constructed not so much attention was paid to the rapidly mounting expenses of the enterprise.

Expenses Mount Rapidly

Since 1881 the cost of racing for the cup has increased with every contest. In 1885, when the Puritan was built, she cost about $35,000, and her unsuccessful rival cost about the same figure, raising the direct expenses of defending the cup to $70,000, not including the incidental expenses. The next year came the Mayflower, and her cost was $43,000. The boat that she defeated as defender cost about as much more, and the New York Yacht Club was out about $3,000 for the ordinary expenses of the races. The business and sport had leaped from $30,000 to nearly $100,000 in ten years. In 1887 the Thistle challenged. She cost $50,000, and the Volunteer, which defended the cup, cost a similar amount. The yacht club's expenses were $3,000. On this occasion there were prophecies that the limit had been reached, for in those days it was felt that to spend $100,000 for a single race was a wicked waste of money.

The really heavy expenses did not begin until 1893, when Lord Dunraven took up the white man's burden. His first boat, the Valkyrie, was not built especially for the race, and therefore her cost cannot be charged against it. However, the danger that the cup might be lost so impressed American yachtsmen that four defenders were built. Vigilant, the boat that survived the preliminary tests, is said to have cost $150,000. As she was sold after the race to George and Howard Gould for a percentage of her cost it would be fair to charge the expense at about $100,000. The other three defenders, the Colonia, Jubilee and Pilgrim, cost about $250,000. So if the total expenses due to the existence of this battered old cup for the year 1893 are set down at $400,000 we shall be well within the mark.

A Million For a Race

In 1895, another jump was made for the Defender cost to build and operate through the season about $300,000. However, since she was the only defender, the total expense declined. The Valkyrie II., unlike her predecessor, was built for the express purpose of lifting the cup, but she was not entirely unsuited for cruising, and this can be said of practically all the challengers up to the present time, and of most of the defenders except the Defender. The expenses of Sir Thomas Lipton the year he sent out his first Shamrock were estimated at $900,000, but of this $400,000 was the cost of a magnificent steam yacht, the Erin, which he has used ever since. Shamrock herself cost about $400,000, including operating expenses. The Columbia, built to repell the Shamrock, cost $300,000, and another $60,000 was spent in refitting and overhauling the old Defender to serve as a trial boat. Incidentally the expenses of the New York Yacht Club amounted to $15,000. The second Shamrock is said to have cost $450,000, and the Constitution cost about $300,000. In 1903 the third Shamrock and incidental expenses brought the sporting baronet's expenses for his year's yachting up to $600,000. The defence of the cup cost something in the neighborhood of $400,000. And the end is not yet.

I—Laying Out To-morrow's Work

It was six o'clock and the factory workers were trooping past the time register, each employe punching a button recording to the minute his hours of work that day. This mechanical exactness, this convict-like numbering of men, this lock-step march past the clock, was just beginning to arouse whatever socialistic tendencies were within me, when my friend the foreman, after waiting till the last man was beyond hearing, remarked: "I expect a strike to-morrow for shorter hours." I felt like telling him that I sympathized with the men, that I wouldn't work where I had to push a button, and that I hoped they would strike and win. But instead, I listened to his reasons why he thought the hours were short enough and the wages high enough. When we reached the corner where our paths homeward separated, I was still a silent listener, but a sceptic as well.

"Will you be at the church concert to-night?" I asked in parting.

"No, I shall not be able to come," answered the foreman quietly; "I must go back to the factory after supper and lay out to-morrow's work."

The last five words are not used to indicate any particular emphasis of the speaker, but to give you some faint idea of the force with which the announcement collided with my [illegible] line of thought. I suddenly lost my horror for the time-[illegible]. Even the numbering system didn't appear quite so bad. This man, who, I had noticed, did not need to push a button on leaving, had to go back to work while his men could spend their evenings with their families. The executive duties could not be measured by the clock. On the foreman's sacrifice of pleasure that night depended the work of a hundred men next day.

I am making no comparisons, I am not speaking for the employer against the employee, I am not making a point against labor's demands. I merely hold before your view that foreman going back to lay out to-morrow's work. The clock did not record that extra time; very likely the men never gave it a thought.

Indeed, the world over we are too apt to forget the man who is laying out to-morrow's work. He may be a foreman, he may be a promoter, he may be a farmer, he may be a captain of industry. Perhaps it is next year's work he is laying out. In cutting out a garment, in writing a book, in designing a building, in planning a railroad line, in organizing a business, in creating a new commodity, in inventing a device, these foremen are laying out the work of the future for thousands who could not do it for themselves. The many are well equipped to follow; the few are qualified to lead. We will always need the architect, whether he plans buildings, campaigns, books or industries.

So while we sympathize with all who toil with their hands, while we want to secure for them all they earn and all the leisure hours they should have, let us not forget that, under any social system the Utopian dreamers may devise, the world will always need the foreman who lays out to-morrow's work.

II—Firewood for the Next Man

There is no other way of serving God than by serving men—no other way, I say with emphasis. And the best service to humanity is leaving something good behind us. A woodsman gave me that lesson on a fishing trip. We had spent our fortnight in camp, and were about to embark for our ten-mile canoe voyage down to the portage, where the wagon would be in waiting. Sailor bags, grips, and bundles were stowed away in the birchbarks, and we were waiting impatiently for old man Crumpy to take the ladies ahead in his new boat. At length we heard him in the woods behind the cabin, chopping wood. How annoying it was! And what was he doing it for?

"I'll go and give the old guide a piece of my mind"—and I ran up the hill, through the underbrush, around the shack and back—there was Crumpy carrying a great armful of pine sticks, which he deposited on the porch, carefully covering it with bark.

"What are you doing, Crumpy?" I shouted. "You're delaying the start, and you yourself said that we must hurry to get across the lake before the wind rises."

Even the calm, quiet tone of the old man's answer was a rebuke to my scolding note.

"Comin' right off," was his tranquil reply. "Ye see, I've just chopped a bit of firewood for whosomdever may hap'n along next. It's a sort of way we have, ye see, of doin' each

Our Point of View

Paris has applauded an opera without words probably because it has had so much opera without music that it enjoyed the change.

—o—

Mother is never quite so busy in the kitchen as when there is a family reunion. There would be very few reunions if mother was not there to do the cooking.

—o—

The testimony in the Becker case establishes the fact that while dead men tell no tales, their widows sometimes do.

—o—

The Globe says: "The testimony which Mr. Mellen, farmer president of the New Haven Railroad, is giving before the interstate Commerce Commission is furnishing some New York financiers and politicians with much food for thought." It's Mellen's food, so to speak.

—o—

The Ashtabula Beacon says: "The literary society was entertained Thursday evening at the home of Clara Miller. A good program was rendered including a debate; Resolved, That the dirty loving wife is more desirable than the clean scolding wife. It was proven that the clean scolding wife was most desired." Thus was a great problem solved and more proof furnished that there is no accounting for tastes.

The Mail and Empire says: "Among members of the Government it is difficult to find more than one or two who ever actively and successfully engaged in business." That may be true, but the greatest statesmen this country ever had produced know nothing about business for the very good reason that statesmanship and business do not go together. For instance Ex-Finance Minister Fielding and the Farmers' Bank and Sir Wilfred Laurier and the Transcontinental Railway.

Salvation Army Congress

London was impressed as never before by the recent international congress of the Salvation Army. It offered the most vivid illustration that could possibly be imagined of the universality of its appeal and of the living influence of its founder. The four thousand delegates who filled the temporary iron building erected in the Strand were drawn from thirty-five countries, and the testimonies were rendered in twenty-three differant languages. Even more striking was the memorial service held in the Albert Hall for the Army victims of the Empress of Ireland catastrophe. What deeply impressed even the unregenerate spectator was the "extraordinary happiness" that distinguished these variously dressed, variously complexioned Salvationists, and the great fact that it sprang from the denial of self and devotion to a life of service. Tributes to the splendid work of the Army were given by the King and Queen, the prime minister, the highest dignitaries of the church, and many men of foremost place in the United Kingdom.

Every Stiff Joint Limbered Rheumatism Cured

CURES NEURALGIA, BACKACHE, AND LUMBAGO

Rheumatism to-day is unnecessary. It is so well understood and so readily curable that every day we have reports of old chronics being freed of their tormenter.

"I can speak confidently of the Nerviline treatment, for the simple reason that it cured me," writes Albert B. Cornelius, from Kingston. "You can't imagine how stiff and lame and sore I was. I followed the Nerviline directions carefully—had it rubbed into the sore regions four or five times every day. Every rubbing helped to reduce the pain. The swelling went down. I got a fair measure of relief in a week. I also took two Ferrozone Tablets with my meals. They increased my appetite and spirits, purified my blood and toned up my system generally.

"I am as well to-day as a man could be— in perfect good health. ...I give Nerviline all the credit."

A large family size bottle of Nerviline costs only 50c. or the trial size 25c., and is useful in a hundred ills in the family. Whether it's toothache, earache, backache, neuralgia, lame back or a cold, Nerviline will cure just as readily as it will cure rheumatism. For family use nothing equals Nerviline.

The Slaughter of Calves

The shortage of beef and the consequently high price of this basic food product are world wide in their incidence. The population of most countries grows more rapidly than the world's cattle herds. In fact the herds are decreasing actually as well as relatively. The fencing off for farming purposes of extensive ranches and grass ranges is one cause for the shrinkage in beeves. But a still more fundamental reason is probably to be found in the slaughter of calves, says the News. In almost whatever countries one travels in the spring season he encounters train loads of live veal he encounters car loads of live veal on their way to market.

Could not this waste be stopped by international agreement? Could not all the great nations agree to enact and enforce laws prohibiting the slaughter of immature beeves? Could not the Canadian Minister of Agriculture make a beginning by circulizing foreign Governments in this connection? The conservation of the world's food supply is of vital importance to every man, woman and child, and especially to moderate or slender needs.

CRIME IN ENGLAND

What Statistics Show on the Matter of Hanging

If the death penalty is a deterrent of crime, murders would be anachronisms in England. For 600 years she meted out the death penalty for almost any crime. Men and women have been hanged for cutting down a tree, for draining a fishpond, for killing a bird. For burning coal in the limits of the City of London one man was hanged under Edward I. In Elizabeth's reign thirteen were hanged after one assize for consorting with gypsies. Fewer than one hundred years years ago there were 222 capital crimes in England. Not until the horrible execution of Mary Jones in 1868 for shoplifting was the public conscience awakened to the terrible cruelty of the law, and the death penalty was abolished for this offence. In 1830 there was but one capital crime in England, murder; but three more were added when the present code was adopted in 1861.

One result of the savage code that existed in 1820 was that juries refused to convict. At one time it was a hanging matter to steal linen, but the Irish linen manufacturers besought Parliament to abolish the penalty because it was impossible to secure convictions against the thieves. The same reluctance to convict in capital cases remains now. For instance, in 1891 England secured convictions in 76 per cent. of its noncapital cases and in only 33 per cent. of capital cases. In the last ten years Holland, with no capital punishment, secured convictions in 28 out of 35 homicide cases; and Belgium had 101 convictions in 132 cases. In 1911 London convicted only six in 22 murder cases, and in the same year New York convicted only 13 out of 148.

JOHNSON'S OLD SYSTEM

Great Pitcher Says New Curves and Mystery Balls are all Nonsense

"The stories you hear about new curves and mystery balls are nonsense," says Walter Johnson, the king of pitchers. "The spitball is a novelty, I'll admit, but it ruins a pitcher's arm in time. If Ed Walsh, for instance, had never used the spitball he would have had no trouble with his wing. The same applies to Russell Ford. Bender and Plank depend almost entirely upon speed and curves. Bush has a jump ball which is nothing more than the time-honored inshoot delivered so that it would pass close to the upper part of the body. Mathson's fadeaway, so-called, is a drop ball with an outcurve delivered so that it would shoot down past the waist.

"I have never tried to monkey with a new-fangled delivery. I use speed on a straight ball, also on an inshoot under the chin. I can use a curve on the outside corner with plenty of speed or I can sail one up with little or no speed. I find that the best results can be obtained by using change of pace—delivering slow and fast balls with the same amount of action in the box—the same wind up and the same body motion. You can puzzle the best batsmen by sending up a different kind of ball each time. Then he doesn't know what to expect and cannot set himself for a healthy swing. In the long run, however, speed counts when you put the ball over the plate without delay and get the batsmen in the hole as quickly as possible."

FISHWORMS IN WEST

Not Known For Years But Not Now a Rarity

An old-timer passing along a Regina street noticed an earthworm on the pavement. Proceeding a short distance, it all suddenly dawned on him that it was something out of the ordinary and seized with the happy thought that it might be one of a few of the only survivors of the species in the West he returned and transferred it to a nearby lawn. Passing up the street a little further, however he noticed several earthworms, and their presence in the district struck him as a very remarkable thing.

This gentleman had been a resident of Saskatchewan for fifteen years or more. During a large part of the time he had been engaged in agricultural pursuits, and in all that time he did not remember having seen such a worm in any part of the Province.

Several other residents reported having seen a few fishworms lately something which they never saw before.

Earthworms inhabit nearly all parts of the earth except the frozen regions of high latitudes and altitudes, dry sandy soils, and portions of the North American prairies. It is recognized by old-timers that up to the present they have been a scarcity in Saskatchewan and why they should be getting common is not known. One reason given is that the climate is becoming milder.

The electric cooking block is a substitute for the stove is that it performs a great many of the offices of the stove in a very satisfactory manner, but from the standpoint of the electrical manager it has the additional advantage that it does not make its demand for current during the hours of the greatest load. On the contrary the general adoption of the block would make a constant call for current which is what the electrical companies are desirous of cultivating.

ELECTRICAL COOKING BLOCK WHICH STORES UP HEAT

The stove consists of a block of iron imbedded in heat insulating material. Within this block is an electrical heating unit. The surface of the iron block forms a smooth plate on which a cooking utensil may be placed. But normally, when the stove is not in use it is covered by a lid also filled with heat insulating material. As there is practically no outlet for the heat generated by the heating unit, the iron block is steadily heated and rises in temperature until the cover is removed for a cooking utensil to be substituted. After one dish has been cooked the cover is applied to the stove again and it is permitted to store heat until the next dish is to be cooked. As compared with the ordinary disk stove the heat storage stove uses very little current.

This Was a Russian Industry Years Ago

Preparing caviar for commercial purposes appears to have been a well established business centuries ago, for a writer of long ago made this curious announcement: "It is made of roes of two different fishes which are caught in the River Volga, but especially near the city of Astrachan, the sturgeon and the belluga. The sturgeon is well known, but the belluga is a large fish about twelve or fifteen feet long, without scales, not unlike a sturgeon, but larger and incomparably more luxurious, his belly being as tender as marrow and his flesh whiter than veal, whence he is called the white fish by Europeans. This belluga lies in the bottom of the river at certain seasons and swallows many large pebbles of great weight to ballast himself against the force of the stream of the Volga, augmented by the melting of the snows in the spring. When the waters are assuaged he disgorges himself. Near the Astrachan they catch sometimes such a quantity that they throw away the flesh, though the daintiest of all fish, reserving only the spawn, of which they sometimes take 150 to 200 pounds' weight out of one fish. These roes they salt and press and put into cakes if it is to be sent abroad, else they keep it impressed, only a little covered with salt."

CAPE BRETON'S ATTRACTIONS

What the Island Offers to the Tourist and Sportsman

The landscape of Cape Breton is varied with mountains, valleys and meadows, rivers and inlets. The mountain ranges, which are low, run chiefly through the northwestern part of the island. In the northern peninsula the scenery is rugged and grand. Here hunting and fishing are excellent and the sportsman can wander for miles through absolutely wild lands.

The feature of Cape Breton's attractiveness that is most peculiar to itself is made up of the great arms of land enclosing bays of the sea, which caused the Indians to term Cape Breton the "Island of the Sea." The French people named these waters the Bras d'Or lakes, and it is under that name that they stir the interest of travellers from any country and bear comparison to the locks of Scotland.

These lakes comprise about one-sixth of the area of Cape Breton and are deemed invaluable both commercially and from the viewpoint of scenery lovers, pleasure seekers and tourists.

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer

VI.—The Best Religion in the World

Concern for others is the best religion in the world. The Master presents this simple quality to our gaze in the parable of the Good Samaritan. The heterodox outsider ministered to the unfortunate man whom the church leaders had passed by. They were too busy with ecclesiastical matters to serve God; he, unencumbered with the program of the day's temple services, had time to love his neighbor. Loving our neighbor, by the way, is the only way we have of showing our love to God.

Concern for others is the one quality in the Man of Galilee which has prompted the world to take Him as its model forever. It is the stuff that saints are made of. Concern for lepers is the one thing about Father Damien entitling him to a place among the world's heroes. Concern for wounded soldiers is what prompted Florence Nightingale and Clara Barton to deeds which men will always call Christlike. Concern for the deep-sea fishermen of Labrador is making Dr. Grenfell one of the apostles of the twentieth century. And concern for others is the connecting link whereby we in our smaller spheres may become members of the fraternity of earth's real saviours. The humblest, the most imperfect of us may acquire and develop an unselfish interest in our neighbor, which balanced with a legitimate self preservation will give our lives a correct poise.

Interest in the moral and mental welfare of other people, especially of the young will supply us with a sufficient code of ethics. We will shape our conduct by the question: What will harm my fellow man? Harming myself will eventually do him harm. So whatever hurts me or him is wrong. Can you have a better regulator for your conscience than this?

Concern for others makes us forget our own troubles. A nurse in a hospital gave a splendid illustration of this mighty doctrine in a device she employed to quiet a little five-year-old sufferer who just had her limb amputated. For hours the young woman with a white coronet struggled with her charge in a vain attempt to get her to sleep. But the little girl's pleas for her mamma were alternated with a cry, "It surts! It surts!" The nurse kept humming away with her cheek down close to the little face, and her hand patting the curly head. Angels never saw a sight more holy. But the patient couldn't be lulled to sleep. A series of sobs, punctuated by short quavering sighs, were followed by a scream, "It surts; it surts."

Suddenly a clever idea reinforced that nurse's resources. She got a big doll and held it towards the little girl saying, "Dolly's hurt; put her to sleep. Dolly's foot hurts too; put Dolly to sleep." The child reached for the doll. Nurse started a lullaby: "Go to sleep, my dolly dear." The little girl became interested in the effort, and joined in singing, "Go to sleep, my dolly dear." Then there were some broken-off sighs and some long, long breaths, and nurse's voice, now singing a solo, became lower and lower until she came softly away, for deary was asleep beside her dolly.

Oh that nurse was a brick! She represented the most Christlike spirit of this age and she unconsciously illustrated the great fact that in soothing others we ourselves sink into peace.

SERMONS OUT OF CHURCH

By the Rev. Byron H. Stauffer

VII.—Too Much Baggage to Win

The most unique race I ever saw was between two passenger trains. The race-track lay between Niagara Falls and Tonawanda, N. Y. One train was on the Lehigh tracks; the other on the New York Central. Both trains were belated, so schedules were ignored, and throttles were opened wide.

They had a fair start, and for a mile or two the two great steeds ran neck-and-neck. The firemen threw on more coal and the engineers leaned forward on their seats as riders in the saddle.

The passengers enjoyed the sensation; it seemed as if we had left the earth, so smoothly did we fly. Then to look across and see that the people in the New York Central train were becoming excited as folks get over a baseball game made us all rank Lehigh partisans at once. Handkerchiefs were waved and fists were shaken.

But by and by I noticed that the Central train was gaining ever so slightly upon us. I needed to hold my head in a certain position and use the side of the window as a gauge in order to notice it at all. Just then the conductor said, "They'll win, I'm afraid, for they have a lighter load."

"How so?" I asked, for I had noticed that each train carried five cars. "Well, one of our cars is chock full of Canadian trunks and satchels," he replied, "and that fact will beat us in the next two miles."

So it did. With the same locomotive power exactly, our rivals drew away from us. Very tenaciously did we hold on, and if the shouting of the men and the screaming of the women could have accomplished it, we should have won. But though we kept within sight of their last car, they swept the Tonawanda yards, trium

Too much baggage lost us the race! If the Canadians had only left their luggage behind!

Too much luggage often loses more important races. President Schurman's announcement that the college-fraternity student lags behind his unaffiliated rival by ten per cent. means that the former carries too much of the baggage of pastimes. He does not travel light enough, and therefore is handicapped in the final dash for the goal.

Very likely, too, the young fellow with surplus cash enough to join a high-class college club was weighted down even before he left home by too much of the baggage of luxuries. Too much rich food, too many auto rides, too many holidays, too little discipline, gave the poorest lad in the form an advantage in the race.

Any man aiming for great success in some one field must beware of being encumbered with much baggage. No side issues must prevent his progress. Signal triumphs in professional or business life are quite often merely the result of average ability well focussed. He who would win must learn to refuse, and to concentrate.

At a flag station on the verge of the Canadian wilds, my guide waited to take me for a month's fishing among remote lakes. When he saw my enormous pile of utensils, provisions and clothes, the agile young woodsmen made speedy protest. "We could never make the long portages with this weight,' ' he exclaimed; "This would kill us both." The bundle we expressed back to the city contained half my stock of plates, shoes, clothing, bedding and table goodies. It was well we did so, for, as it was, after the guide harnessed himself with the bigger parcels and hoisted the canoe over his head, I had all I could do to trudge along after him with the odds and ends.

Don't carry too much baggage.

VIII.—Somebody's Sister

In our old school reader was a poem entitled "Somebody's Mother." It told of an old woman helped across the busy, slippery street by a bright laddie who returned to the merry group of his fellows to say:

GREAT PEAK DISAPPEARED

Oregon Once Had an Extremely High Mountain

The highest mountain in Oregon is Mount Hood, 11,225 feet above sea level. Compared with Mount Whitney, to the south in California, and Mount Rainier, to the north in Washington, each rising well above 14,000 feet, Mount Hood does not appear as a skyscraper. However, according to the geologists of the United States geological survey and other authorities, Oregon had at one time, probably before the dawn of life upon the earth a great volcano which towered as far above Mount Hood as does Mount Rainier, possibly even several thousand feet higher.

This was the great Mount Mamma. But thousands of years ago this mountain disappeared into the bowels of the earth and all that is left to-day is the huge rim around Crater Lake. Crater Lake is the caldera of this extinct and collapsed volcano and is nearly six miles in diameter. The inside walls of the rim of the ancient mountain are in places nearly 4,000 feet high and almost perpendicular. The lake itself is in places 2,000 feet deep, and parts of the wall rise above its waters another 2,000 feet.

A restoration of the mountain in fancy, using as a basis the angles of the lower slopes, which still remain, shows that the apex could not have been far from 15,000 feet in height, so that Mount Mamma was one of the most lofty and majestic peaks in the United States.

RISKS HIS LIFE FOR GAME

Chicago has the oddest baseball fan in existence. He is strictly a White Sox fan, has missed few games in the last ten years, yet has never seen an entire game. He remains in his seat, studying the game intently until the situation becomes tense. Then he walks down under the stands where he cannot see the players. After a time he goes back to his seat, only to return under the stands again at the next crisis. A reporter grew so curious that he spoke to the man about his strange actions.

"I have heart trouble," he explained. "I don't dare get excited. So I either have to go home or come under the stands."

Yet he is there day after day, and takes the chance of sudden death just to watch the game he loves.

ENERGY IN COAL

Work Done by Men or Horses is Little in Comparison

Does any one realise the power of coal as a worker? A man was set to work to pump as hard as he could all day, and at the end of 10 hours it was found that he had done just as much work as a little less than two ounces of coal could do.

Taking all the energy put forth by a hard-working man during one whole year, the same amount of force would be furnished by 36 pounds of good coal, or say 40 pounds of average coal.

Of course, even in our best engines the greater part of the working energy of coal is wasted. But even if only one-tenth is turned to account, one and a half hundredweight of coal is equal to a man working for 300 days of the year.

A horse can do as much work as 10 men, but one and a quarter pounds of coal has as much force as a horse expends in one day. So that a ton of coal, if we could use all its force, would do as much work as six horses working for a whole year.

Austria Had First Postcard

The honor of having been the first country to use the postcard belongs to Austria, where it was introduced in 1869 as the result of the suggestions of Dr. Hermann. Its price was rather less than a cent, and at first its users were allowed to write only 20 words upon it. The card appeared in England exactly one year later to the very day. The first picture post card was apparently one sent from the model of the Eddystone Lighthouse at the Royal Naval Exhibition in 1891.

FLAVOR OF MEAT RETAINED

Many People Ruin Meat When Boiling It For Dinner

Thousands of pounds of good rich beef are ruined every day simply because those who prepare it for food do not understand the proper method of boiling it. Much of the sweetness of beef and other meats is lost, and it is no trouble at all to retain it, and the task of cooking is made easier.

Any meat is more tender and much sweeter if the water is hot when the meat is put on to cook. It begins to cook quickly, and the heat keeps the sweetness in the meat instead of allowing it to be drawn out by the gradual heating of the water.

When meat is placed in cold water and it is heated gradually, it has to be skimmed. Most of the skimming is the very best part of the meat's flavor. Some look upon the accumulation as foreign matter, but such is a wrong idea.

Meat placed in hot water at the beginning will not send anything to the surface. The flavor is retained and the meat not only cooks quicker, but is much finer in every way than meat put on to cook in cold water.

One absolute proof of this is found in steamed meats. All are found to be more tender and delicious than when boiled or roasted.

BETTER THAN BRIDGE

Mr. Selfridge Speaks on Business as a Game

"To me business is one of the most attractive possible games in the world," said Mr. Gordon Selfridge in the course of a lecture at the Jewish Institute, London. "I urge as much as I can," he continued, "that the work of the day shall be made a game rather than a drudgery. It is a jolly, good, lively game. It beats bridge and golf and polo."

After a two years' retirement from business in America he found that he was the most unhappy man in the world, Mr. Selfridge declared. So he came to London in order to play the game again. That was his excuse for coming so far away from the place where he was born. The charm of business was the competition; competition, in fact, was really the "spice" of the thing.

In order to make a reasonable success in commerce certain things were absolutely necessary. The foundation of a successful business, no matter what the business was, was integrity. Dishonesty did not pay in the long run. A man with determination and strength of purpose could go a long way towards success. If a man was not lazy—and laziness was a frightful failing—and played the game of business for the love of it, and had nerve, courage and imagination, he was certain to forge ahead.

Mr. Selfridge concluded by recommending South America to young men who felt that they could not get to the top in London. "South America," he said, "is going to be a great factor in the commercial world later on."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

GREATEST TEACHER OF VOCAL MUSIC

A Glance at the Life and Success of Mme. Marchesi Who Died at the Age of [illegible]

At the age of [illegible] the Marquise Cavaliere de Castrone della Rajata died in London. Under this name she was known to a few people only, but as Marchesi she was world-famous, and was recognized as the greatest teacher of singing since the time of Garcia, who was, by the way, her own teacher. More famous singers have passed through Mme. Marchesi's hands in forty or fifty years than through the hands of any other three teachers. From all parts of the world singers flocked to Vienna, to Paris or to London, where at one time or another she taught. In her advanced years Mme. Marchesi somewhat relaxed her efforts, but it remains true that as an old woman she continued to teach, although she used sometimes to complain of the grind. Why she did not retire before, since she found the work very exacting, is not easily understood. She commanded what fees she chose to ask from her pupils, and while as a rule she did not have more than fifty at a time, she might have had a thousand had she been willing to receive them.

A Fine Voice

When she was quite a young girl business reverses made it necessary for the family to become self-supporting, and one of Mathilde's sisters became a governess. Mathilde was thought to have a fine voice, but it was uncultivated. However, it was felt that her voice was her chief asset, and the governess saved up enough money to have it trained. Her first teacher was Nikolai, and later on she went to Garcia. She studied under him in Paris for four years, paying her tuition fees by teaching less advanced pupils. Before this time she had appeared in concerts several times, and always with success. She had promised her parents that she would not sing in grand opera, and so this great field in which she would have shone brilliantly was barred to her.

Some Early Pupils

Marchesi's chief success was made in London, still the home of the vocal concert, and here she met her future husband the Marquis, an Italian refugee, who was passing under the name of Marchesi, and who was also a professional singer. After their marriage they continued to sing together. They were in Vienna in 1854, and so impressed were the critics with Mme. Marchesi's methods that she was offered a position as instructor of singing in the conservatory. So Mme. Marchesi retired from the stage and settled down as a teacher.

Melba Her Favorite

The fame of her pupils, the favorite being Melba, brought fame to Mme Marchesi, and soon she decided to move to Paris. She limited herself to fifty pupils, and always taught them in classes, a practice which she continued as long as she taught, for she insisted that the only proper way to teach a girl to sing was in class. Her pupils were divided into little groups, being graded according to the quality of their voices and the length of their previous training, for practically all Mme. Marchesi's pupils were professionals when they went to her. Until the last couple of years of her life Mme. Marchesi rose every morning at 7.30, and at 8.30 received her first class. She gave lessons until noon, after which there was a recess until 1.30. Then until 5.30 she would teach. She was very fond of dining out, or of attending theatres and concerts, and how for fifty years she could work so hard in the daytime and enjoy herself so thoroughly in the evenings was one of the minor mysteries of Paris.

ROTATION OF CROPS

One Year's Growth Should Offset Disadvantages of Previous One

At the basis of all genuine rotations lies the fact that plants differ from one another; they differ from one another in their demands upon the soil, both chemical and physical; they differ with regard to their root system, depth of feeding, their moisture requirements, their time of feeding, their dates in reaching maturity, etc

Many plants impoverish the soil; a few enrich it; some spoil its physical conditions, while others improve it in that regard. Many crops favor the growth of weeds, while others either are able to hold the weeds in check or require such cultivation and treatment as will prevent their growth.

All these differences fit plants for different places in rotation, and a well-arranged rotation is one in which the strong points of one crop follow so as to fit into the weak points of another, or vice versa, and in this way reduce deficiencies to a minimum. A crop that requires a large amount of one element should be followed by one that requires less of that element and probably more of another. A shallow-rooted crop should be followed by one that is deeper rooted, so that plant food which may have escaped the shallower roots may be caught by the deeper feeder, and that the nutriment in the soil may be used to a greater depth. Crops that are exhaustive to the soil should be followed by a so-called soil restorer. And crops that are conducive to the growth of weeds should be followed by a weed-destroying crop.

COPPER
The Red Metal
MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel, Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. Dairy cows in milk require salt daily to do their best work. A lump of rock salt thrown somewhere in the yard may do for the young stock, but cows need a greater quantity than they can get by occasionally licking rock salt. Cows will take a tablespoonful of salt every day, and when they get this quantity they will drink more regularly and give more milk.

Salt is required in the system and animals that are deprived of salt entirely lose their vitality. In "Henry Feeds and Feeding," an experiment on the use of salt for dairy cows is described, and the following facts are cited: "In every case the cows exhibited an abnormal appetite for salt after having been deprived of it for two or three weeks, but in no case did the health of the animal, as shown by the general appearance, the live weight, or the yield of milk, appear to be affected till a much longer time had elapsed. There was finally reached a condition of low vitality in which a sudden, complete breakdown occurred. This stage was marked by a loss of appetite, a general haggard appearance, lustreless eyes, a rough coat and a very rapid decline in both live weight and milk. If salt was supplied at this period recovery was rapid." The time from which the salt was withheld until bad results showed varied with different animals, from a month to a year.

CHIEF BUSINESS OF THE CHILDREN

"Growing" is Their Daily Occupation —Big Problems For the Parents

The special business of a child is to grow!

Its daily occupation includes eating, sleeping, playing, crying and learning!

Its kind of growth depends very largely on the way in which these occupations are exercised.

What does it eat? When does it eat? How often does it eat? With what regularity does it eat?

Exactly the same questions apply to its sleeping.

So it appears that the special business of a child is the special business of its mother. She is the manager and director of this business, as it were. There are a few wholesome, albeit very simple, rules which are safe to follow in this biggest job of woman. They have been said hundreds of times before. They must be said hundreds of times more.

Do not overfeed a growing child.

Let the food be plain, well cooked and wholesome.

Give it at regular hours and often enough so that "piecing" is unnecessary.

Train the child to healthy habits of sleeping in fresh air. No child should have less than nine hours' sleep, and if it is under 12 it should have more.

Very early in its young life give your child the opportunity to have a variety of interests.

Do not let it forget that the all-play-and-no-work doctrine is equally as bad as the "all work and no play" notion.

Begin early to instill the principle of "don't worry." The best teaching in this case will be example.

Train your child to strict obedience in important matters and forget to "nag" him about small matters.

Protect the child from shocks. Don't frighten him or let others frighten him.

Teach your child that cleanliness of mind is as essential to healthful growth as cleanliness of body. Bad companions are as harmful as the common drinking cup, the roller towel and the disease-germ carrier.

There are no off-hours in the business of a child. And the price of success is the eternal vigilance of the mother.

Bishop of Edmonton Makes Appeal to Canadian Manhood

The Bishop of Edmonton in the course of an address said everyone should be optimistic, as there was no need of pessimism in this world. In Western Canada men were needed, real men from the top to the toe, who had common sense, who were not afraid of work, and who would not mind whether they had to sleep on the bare ground or on a fence rail. The Church needed such men to work in the West among men. The young men of Canada were neglecting the Church, though the fault was not entirely their own. The real reason for the neglect lay in the home. Parents did not give that religious instruction to the children that they ought, consequently the sons and daughters had no inclination for religious work. Dr. Gray described the work of the Church in the West, its growth and development since 1875. In that year one solitary clergyman, Canon Newton, had to look after the spiritual needs of the people in that vast territory; now there were two dioceses and numerous churches. In Edmonton Diocese they had 33 churches and missions, but there were only three native-born clergymen in charge; the other 30 came from the Motherland. He made an earnest exhortation to the people of the East to send their sons and daughters out West to take part in the work of the Church.

Clean pots and pans with GOLD DUST

Germs of decay accumulate on oft-used pots and pans, and ordinary soap and water only clean off the surface.

Gold Dust does the work—and does it right. It digs deep after germs, cleans like a new whistle and leaves your pots and pans as new, as bright as the day they were new—and sanitarily safe.

Gold Dust does this work in just half the time required by soap or any other cleanser. Does it better, too.

Gold Dust cleans everything like magic.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a basket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy. Some bottles containing colonies of worms and [illegible] cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution have very little distress.

Prof. Mulvaney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, [illegible] disagreeable to take. One dose usually always effects a cure. DEATH PENALTY

Not a Deterrent of Crime, According to Statistics

In the United States, despite the number of murderers who escape their punishment because of their wealth or political influence, more men are put to death every year than in all the rest of the civilized world together. For ten months in 1912 there were 128 executions. In England for the same period there were only 37. In the United States men may be put to death for eleven crimes:—

Robbery (two states).
Burglary (four states).
Arson (nine states).
Second degree murder (three states).
Rape (fifteen states).
First degree murder (United States and 46 states).
Treason (United States).
Piracy (United States).
Rescue of a convict going to execution (United States).
Burning a vessel of war (United States).
Corruptly destroying a private vessel (United States).

In England there are only four crimes punishable by hanging. France and Austria, with five each, are the only countries, excepting the United States, that are more severe than England in this respect.

In the following countries and states the death penalty has been abolished: Italy, Portugal, Switzerland (15 of 22 cantons), Holland, Tuscany, San Marino, Roumania, Belgium, Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Costa Rica, Germany (Prussia, Saxony, Oldenburg, Weimar, Baden, Anhalt, Brunswick, Hessen, Wurtemburg, and Bremen), Michigan, Maine, Rhode Island, Kansas and Wisconsin. In the twenty years which preceded the abolishing of the death penalty in Maine that state had 253 murders. In the twenty years following she had only 162 murders. Rhode Island has seven murders, as compared with the 26 murders of Connecticut which were expiate on the gallows. From 1853 to 1863 Belgium had 921 murders. In the following ten years, when there was no capital punishment there were only 706 murders. The decade before Italy's abolition of the death penalty saw 16.7 murders to 100,000 of population. The next decade saw this reduced to 11.22 per 100,000. Tuscany, with no capital punishment, has a yearly average of 5.18 murders per 100,000 population. In the United States the rate is 12 per 100,000.

HEALTHOGRAMS

Pneumonia begins rather suddenly, often with a severe chill, headache and general pains like grippe. In a few hours cough begins, short and dry, with violent stabbing pain in one side of the chest. Breathing is rapid, with expanding nostrils. The face is anxious and often flushed. The temperature is high.

Mild sore throat is commonly the beginning of an ordinary cold. However, it may be the warning sign of a disordered stomach. Simple treatment which is usually effective includes a good gargle and a purge.

Arteric sclerosis (hardening of arteries) is caused by wear and tear. As the proper stuctures wear away, a fibrous tissue takes their place. When there is an excess of this tissue present in the walls of the vessels it is called arterio sclerosis. The remedy is the simple life.

It is safe to lift the quarantine in scarlet fever cases when the throat is well, and the secretions from the throat and nose (and ears, when there has been any) are normal.

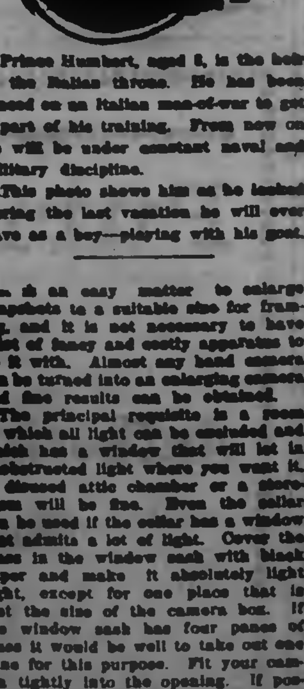
Dirty milkmen, flies, doctors who do not report contagious disease, and manufacturers of adulterated foods, are all enemies of man. A city should be rid of them just as it should be rid of bad drains or "hold-up" men.

Light is life. Light is health. Light is a physician; light is a beautifier. There is no vitality or healthful structure without light. If you're going to move soon, get a light house.

Persons addicted to the excessive use of tea, coffee, alcohol and tobacco are often subject to headache from poisoning of the system by these substances. Tea, coffee and tobacco poisoning often cause palpitation of the heart also. Be moderate.

Don't "nag" your nerves. The man or woman who wears shoes too tight for the feet "nags" the foot nerves. Tight clothing of all sorts has the same tendency to "nag" the nerves. A "nagged" nerve soon tells its own story.

Little Prince Has Last "Boy" Vacation



Prince Humbert, aged 8, is the heir to the Italian throne. He has been placed on an Italian man-of-war to get a part of his training. From now on he will be under constant naval and military discipline.

It is an easy matter to enlarge snapshots to a suitable size for framing, and it is not necessary to have a lot of fancy and costly apparatus to do it with. Almost any hand camera can be turned into an enlarging camera and fine results can be obtained.

The principal requisite is a room in which all light can be excluded and which has a window that will let in unobstructed light where you want it. A disused attic chamber or a storeroom will be fine. Even the cellar can be used if the cellar has a window that admits a lot of light. Cover the glass in the window sash with black paper and make it absolutely light tight, except for one place that is just the size of the camera box. If the window sash has four panes of glass it would be well to take out one pane for this purpose. Fit your camera tightly into the opening. If possible let this really be a hole in the window. You can then add to the light by equipping your camera back with are reflecting mirror.

Fit the back of your camera to the opening in the window and see that there are no leaks of light around it. The entire amount of light let into the room should come directly through the camera. Put the plate or film which you are to print in a plate holder or printing frame and attach it to the back of the camera so that the light will come through it and pass into the camera. Fix your plate or film with the image upside down.

Then place a table near to the window and put an easel or drawing board upon it so that the beam of light passing through the camera will fall on the board. Close the shutter of the camera. Fix a piece of bromide paper to the drawing board while the light is excluded from the room, and when all is fixed open the camera. The light passing through the plate and then the lens will print the image accurately on the bromide paper. The size of the enlargement depends on the distance the drawing board is from the lens. When you have your picture printed as you desire fix it in the way prescribed for bromide papers and your enlargement is finished.

Simple, isn't it? And yet it gives the finest sort of results.

LOBSTERS IN NOVA SCOTIA

Coves at Canso Yield This Delicacy Even to Amateur Fishermen

It is estimated that the annual catch of lobsters in the world is 125,000,000, and of this Nova Scotia supplies 40,000,000, valued at $2,000,000. The lobster pack that comes from anywhere else than this part of Canada is almost negligible. The lobster fishing has been well maintained of late, thanks to the help of the lobster hatcheries, which are placing in the sea millions of small lobsters yearly. It is still possible at Canso, Nova Scotia, as it is at but few places in the world, for an amateur to watch the lobsters crawling on bottoms of sheltered coves, and fishing them up carry them home for supper, confident that they will have fresh boiled lobsters. Nova Scotia has a genuine monopoly of the English trade in the supplying of canned lobsters.

CHANGES IN AMENDING BILL VIRTUALLY MAKE NEW MEASURE

Everyone Breathing More Freely To-day and Hope Rises—Sir Edward Carson Refuses Interview

London, July 15.—The amending bill has now passed all its stages in the House of Lords. If it be compared with the bill as originally presented by Lord Crewe, it contains twelve clauses against the original aims and with drastically altered provisions regarding the time limit, the area of exclusion, the administration of such areas, the position of the judiciary, the reserve forces, the constabulary and several other matters. If the two bills were placedin parallel columns it would be found that the Amending Bill is virtually a new bill.

The general story from Westminster to-day is that the politicians are more feeling optimistic, but it is difficult to perceive in what material respect the position has changed overnight. The complete absence of hostile acts in connection with the celebration of the Twelfth in Ulster doubtless affords politicians some ground for breathing more freely.

The Daily Mailwhich has been accused of deliberately fomenting a scare over Ulster, dismisses the situation in that Province to-day in a paragraph summarizing the position. "There is no excitement in Belfast because Belfast has ceased to be excited," which may or may not convey a world of real meaning.

PLACE ON IMPERIAL DEFENCE COMMITTEE

Hon. Mr. Perley Carrying Out the Proposal of Premier Borden

Ottawa, July 15.—The cable despatch from England, to-day that Hon. George H. Perley yesterday took his position at the Imperial Defence Committee, was read with a great deal of interest in Ottawa political circles. Mr. Perley in taking his place in the committee, is carrying out the proposal of Premier Borden at the time the Naval Bill was brought down, that a member of the Cabinet should be stationed in London and represent the Canadian Government on the Imperial Defence Committee. It is believed that the next High Commissioner, whether it be Mr. Perley or some one else, will be a member of the Dominion Cabinet. The action of Mr. Perley will undoubtedly serve as a precedent for the future and the Canadian High Commissioner will occupy a greater and more influential position in the councils of the Empire.

SPECIAL TRAINS LEAVE MEXICO CITY WITH HUERTA'S FAMILIES

Belief Entertained that Fugitives Will Board Dutch Cruiser for Safety

Vera Cruz, July 15.—Two special trains conveying the families of General Huerta and General Blanquet and others from Mexico City to the coast, are reported to have arrived at Arizaba at nine o'clock this morning. From that point it is believed they may proceed to Puerto Mexico, where they should arrive to-morrow morning.

The Dutch cruiser Kortenaer which had for several days been in dock here, left at ten this morning. Her destination was said to be Puerto Mexico. The belief that General Huerta and his friends intend to board the Dutch warship was strengthened by the fact that her captain went to the capital soon after his arrival and that the cruiser sailed without him.

DIES FROM BULLETS FIRED BY THE MAYOR

Butte, Mont., July 15.—Erick Lantala, the Finnish miner who stabbed Mayor Louis J. Duncan three times Friday night, died at a hospital to-day from the wounds in the abdomen which he received when the mayor shot him.

The attack took place in the mayor's office when the executive refused to deport Frank Altonen, the correspondent of a Hancock, Mich., Finnish newspaper upholding the policies of the Eastern Federation of Miners, from which the Finnish miners have seceded.

Lantala refused to make any statement to the county attorneys, although to the others he asserted that the mayor shot him before he stabbed the mayor.

BIG FAMILIES BARRED

Berlin, July 15.—While the Reichstag and the Prussian Diet debate measures to combat the decline of the birth rate, reports continue to appear which show one of the reasons why the two child system is making such headway in Germany.

Several weeks ago it was reported from a south German city that families with a large number of children were unable to find homes, and the city was compelled hastily to equip a municipal building to shelter them. Now comes a similar report from the city of Ohligs, in Rhenish Prussia, where the landlords' unwillingness to lease to large families has made it impossible for many to find quarters. As a result the City Council has decided to expend $25,000 in the erection of workmen's houses.

A unique case is reported from the city of Hemelingen. There the father of seven children, unable to find a house, was eventually taken into the municipal almshouse. Thereupon a complaint was brought against him of having neglected to use his full energies to find a dwelling, and as a consequence he had caused expense to the city. The court convicted him and sentenced him to three weeks' imprisonment. The provincial court, upon an appeal, acquitted the unfortunate paterfamilias.

COURT INSTEAD OF SWORD

Paris, July 15.—Waldermar Georges, Le Journal's art critic, who thirsted for the blood of Edgar MacAdams, an American sculptor, tells a correspondent that after further consideration with his second he has decided to appeal to the courts instead of settling the quarrel on the duelling grounds.
plained Georges, who is a Pole, 'mas-
"The Polish code of honor," ex-es a fine distinction in its duelling etiquette. If MacAdams had struck me in the face with his gloves or had thrown wine in my eyes or had slapped me or had used other means of provocation recognized by duellists, I should issue a challenge. But a sudden blow got by violence deserves only the police court. I shall prosecute immediately."

Mr. MacAdams was awaiting official notice of his opponent's decision when the correspondent informed him what Georges had determined to do.

"If he decides upon the police court" Mr. MacAdams remarked, "I shall at least escape with both ears. Being the wrong party, Georges would have the choice of weapons and I'm not wise to Polish sabre work."

A special cable dispatch related how Sculptor MacAdams took offence at Critic George's "Don Juan airs" at a soiree, sought a quarrel by bumping into him and that falling, struck him a fist blow which laid George's unconscious for some minutes.

While Georges was being helped out of the room he tried to hand his card to MacAdams, but was prevented by friends. Next day he asked the giver of the soiree for the name and address of the man who struck him in order that he might send seconds to arrange a duel.

COLONEL GEO. DENISON TOLD TO GET OUT

Toronto's Police Magistrate Receives Rude Shock in Montreal

Montreal, July 15.—Colonel Denison Police Magistrate of Toronto, was ordered out of the police court here to-day. The Colonel, who is visiting Montreal, thought he would like to see how justice was administered by the police court judges here. He entered the court and was then accosted by one of the orderlies, who asked him:

"Are you a witness?"

The Colonel said he was not.

"Are you a detective, plaintiff or defendant?"

Colonel Denison again answered in the negative and was then told to "get out."

The Colonel asked if that was not a public court and being told it was walked right in and looked around, much to the astonishment of the orderly.

Peterson and Lage did the work for the Senators, but received very poor support.

The score—9—1 for Petes.

SOLD BOOK UNDER FALSE PRETENCE

Woman Claimed Health Department Ordered Women to Buy it

Toronto, July 15.—The police are searching for a woman who they believe has been defrauding Toronto housewives. Her method of getting money is an ingenious one. She goes up to a house and asks for the mistress. When the latter appears she is asked whether she received a letter from the Medical Health officer, telling her to buy a book entitled the "Household Physician."

The woman of the house naturally replies that she has not, whereupon her visitor tells her that, she will receive one in the course of a few days; also that it would be far better, if, she would buy the book now than wait until she has received a letter from the Health Department.

With these words she takes out a book on the cover of which is conspicuously printed the "Household Physician," and tells the housewife that she can have the book by paying two dollars for it.

It is not known how many women have been swindled in this manner, but the police have received a complaint from Mrs. Isbister, 65 McFarland avenue, who was victimized by the woman.

SHOT FROM STREET

New Orleans, July 15.— Charles P. Kerner, Gretna saloon proprietor, was perhaps, mortally wounded Sunday morning by a bullet fired through the window of his saloon.

Four Gretna police, with whom Kerner had an argument early in the night about the conduct of his place, were on the street outside when the shot was fired, it is alleged.

Kerner was at the bar with his brother Henry when the bullet struck him in the neck.

At the sound of the shot negroes rushed outside and joined the crowd that had collected.

According to the witnesses, Policeman August Bouchon went to the saloon at 10 o'clock and told Kerner he would have to put an end to the "rough-house." Later he was joined by Gretna Police Chief Peter Leson and Policemen Will Spies and George R. Pebeck. They told Kerner they were going to arrest him, but Kerner refused to leave without a warrant.

All the officers left, but returned shortly after midnight. It was then that the shot was fired. Kerner was rushed to Charity Hospital.

DOCTOR PERFORMS MARVEL OF SURGERY

Takes Girl's Heart From Her Breast and Massages it With His Hands

Montreal, July 15.—A London cable to The Gazette says a despatch from Pistoria, Italy, to The Daily Mail declares that Dr. Vannucci, chief surgeon of the hospital there, has accomplished a marvel in surgery. He operated on a girl named Maria Tondia to remove a needle accidentally run into her body to the heart, which in its actiopcame its action came in contact with the point of the needle. The surgeon holding the girl's heart in his hand, found that the pulsations, violent at first, gradually ceased. "It is all over," he exclaimed, but as a last hope he started massaging the heart. Little by little its activity was stimulated and the operation was successfully finished.

Drank Carbolic Acid and Was Found Dying by His Wife

Toronto, July 15.—Inability to secure employment caused Irwin Bedser a young married man to commit suicide last night at his rooms at 69 Terauley street, by drinking carbolic acid.

He was found unconscious by his wife who had him hurriedly removed to the General Hospital where he expired a few minutes after admittance. The body was removed to the Morgue but an inquest is unlikely.

The unfortunate man was a mechanic, but had been out of work for some time. He had been married only about a year.

TAMWORTH GIRL MISSING FOR WEEK; DETECTIVES BAFFLED

Absolutely No Trace of Miss Blanche Yorke Since Last Wednesday--Doctor's Home Was Searched for Clue

Tamworth, Ont., July 15.—Since Wednesday evening last, Miss Blanche Yorke, daughter of Mr. Charlie Yorke, a farmer residing near here has been missing. A week-long search has failed to give the slightest clue to her whereabouts. There is nothing even to suggest whether she is alive or dead.

Miss Yorke is a dressmaker and for a few days previous to her disappearance, had been doing some work for Mrs. Welch, who lives in the centre of Tamworth. On Wednesday evening last on leaving work, she departed apparently with the intention of spending the night at her home which is a mile and a half outside the town.

In company with Miss Agnes Welch she left the Welch home at about 8 o'clock in the evening. She did not however, set out directly for her home, having an appointment with Dr. Robinson, whose office is just around the corner from the Welch home. Dr. Robinson had been treating Miss Welch for some time for throat trouble from which she had been suffering.

Miss Welch accompanied Miss Yorke to the doctor's gate, where the two parted. After treatment by the doctor, Miss Yorke is supposed to have left on her way home, but has not since been seen by any one in the town, and her whereabouts is a mystery.

NOT MISSED FOR DAYS.

Mr. Yorke and his family were not much excited over the failure of the daughter to return home Wednesday night, as they concluded that she had stayed for the night with Miss Welch or with other friends in town.

KIDNAPING CHARGE MADE AGAINST TEN

New York, July 15.—Nine men and a woman, all foreigners, were held to-day under bail totalling $133,000 as alleged kidnappers of eight year old Frank Longo, son of a prosperous baker, who was stolen from his home last spring, held prisoner for weeks and released after an unsuccessful effort by his captors to obtain $700 ransom.

The prisoners were arrested recently upon directions given the police by the boy, who guided them to a house which he said had been his jail.

Nicola Ratola, one of the nine men, was held in $10,000 additional bail on the charge of kidnapping another boy of six.

VERY DISCOURAGING FACTS FOR GIRLS TO TAKE NURSING

Some Startling Statements Made by Miss Margaret Ard MacKenzie--- Criticism of Training

Halifax, July 15.—"Dozens of bright, promising women filled with the missionary spirit, eager to do something to help some one to be better, happier and healthier, who have entered on a training in the various so-called schools, issue forth from these institutions, warped, narrow, mercenary and blase—all their ideals gone, and, in almost every case, gone beyond recall. To be very conservative, nine-tenths of the students who enter our nurse-training schools, come out after three years, changed for the worse."

Such was the statement made by Miss Margaret Ard MacKenzie, chief superintendent of the Victorian nurses of Canada, Ottawa, in the course of a paper on the subject "Areour nurse training schools educative?" read at the closing session of the Canadian Society of Superintendents of Training Schools for Nurses' Convention.

AUDIENCE ASTONISHED.

Continuing her denunciation which created feeling of astonishment among the audience, Miss MacKenzie said: "Glance at the hours, glance at the drudgery, glance at the impossibility of keeping up with the ordinary means of culture, church, theatre, lectures, music, art, mingling with different kinds of people and exchanging ideas on literature, art or science. How many nurses keep up their church life, keep up with any studies, keep informed as to current events, how many keep up their correspondence with the old and valued friends even? Very few, indeed. So on the most important side—the development of character—our nurse training schools are a woeful failure."

of former tea and coffee drinkers can tell of freedom from that kind of trouble since the change to Postum—

"There's a Reason"

The drug, caffeine, in both tea and coffee, is a common but often unsuspected cause of headache, nervousness, heart flutter, indigestion, and various other ills.

Postum is the easy, pleasant way back to comfort. It is free from caffeine or any other drug—has fine color—a delightful, snappy taste, and is within reach of all.

Regular Postum—must be boiled—15c and 25c pkgs.
Instant Postum—a soluble powder—made in the cup with hot water instantly—30c and 50c tins.

Grocers sell both kinds, and the cost per cup is about the same.

"A COLT WANTED"

Text: "And as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt? And they said, The Lord hath need of him."—Luke 19;33,34.

Even this seemed fitting—this going into a yard and untieing a colt, and the owners rushing up excitedly and challenging the intruders with, "Why loose ye the colt?" and the calm answer, "The Lord hath need of him," and the willing yielding tersely expressed by the Gospel writer's words, "And they let him go."

Christ, King of Glory must ride into His capital city of Jerusalem and He needs a steed. He has walked long enough. He must ride to-day. Is He so tired? No, not so tired, but He is King to-day. For three years He has been Jesus the servant. He is Christ the King to-day. He has been a great walker. His feet have carried Him on long errands of love. As the Son of Man, he walked; as the Great Sacrifice, He was led; as the Son of David, He rode into Jerusalem; as the Prince of Heaven He rode to Glory, with a cloud for His chariot.

His steed was the foal of an ass, the emblem of peaceful authority. The ass was the steed of Solomon in ancient Israel, and of Louis XIV. in modern France. The colt was yonder, awaiting His bidding. All that was necessary to do was to send over the messengers to bring him, then to mount him and to ride into Jerusalem in triumph.

The incident yields itself to our present purpose to speak of the needs of our Lord, of his regal appropriation of material things, and of the willing surrender of the steed by its owners.

REVEREND BYRON H. STAUFFER

Our Saviour had needs; not the personal requirements of food and clothing, but the needs of a king. Has a king needs? Yes, a king needs men, materials, money, ships, territory. On earth our King had needs regal needs. He needed bread wherewith to feed the host. He needed homes in which to teach, money to use as object lessons, ships from which to still waves, boats from which to preach sermons. Aye, He needed a stable in which to be born, an upper room in which to break bread; a garden in which to weep; a cross on which to die; a tomb from which to rise; a cloud on which to ride!

Our Saviour has needs. To-day, yesterday, every day from Pentecost to now He has had needs. Witnesses He has always required. Kings and beggars, preachers and soldiers, judges and legislators, armies and navies, printing shops and railways, telegraphs and telephones—all these he has used as steeds on which to ride into cities, across continents, over seas, into minds and hearts.

He rides upon the modest talents of men. This poor little colt might have been used for baser purposes—carrying oppressing publicans or snivelling pharisees. But it was loaned to the Lord! How small a gift He can use! The little qualification which we are apt to overlook, He can employ for great and lasting good.

Take that talent of singing, for instance. It can be made a commercial commodity, so many songs for so much money. Or it can be made an evangel. Walk down any Toronto street on a Sunday afternoon and hear the folks in parlors sing the popular gospel hymns, and you will know that there is an abundance of talent outside of choir and soloist circles. Christ needs these voices to sing in hospitals and prisons and sick-rooms. According to the word of an undertaker, the comfort of Christian song is badly needed at funerals in the homes of the poor. The Lord hath need of voices. They are steeds upon which He can ride into hearts. A vocal teacher of some fame had me sit in an adjoining room while a star pupil sang a selection. Even to my untrained ear, that baritone gave evidence of a marvelous quality of voice. When we were alone the teacher said: "I have given that man all I can ever give him. The rest must come from his soul and not from his vocal organs." That statement disturbed me. I have thought much upon it. It was the truth. His voice was a perfect steed; all it needed now was a Divine rider. P. T. Barnum said that the most wonderful singing he had ever heard was when Jenny Lind sang "Come, Ye Disconsolate" for the patients in a New Orleans hospital.

How an Apple Barrel Began a Romantic Story

When William Brooks, an English man, and the owner of a large orchard in British Columbia, came to Canada he secured a position packing apples. Into one of the apple barrels he put a letter which secured him a charming wife.

Miss Gretchen Van Durfer, a pretty flaxen-haired Dutch girl, the daughter of a rich fruit merchant in Rotterdam was standing near a barrel of apples, when it was being opened by one of her father's workmen to get one of the apples out to show to a prospective customer. A letter fell to the ground from the blade of the axe. The man is opening the barrel had pierced the letter.

Miss Van Durfer picked it up and found it was from far-off Canada asking whoever opened the letter to answer it for the writer, who was William Brooks, was lonesome. Miss Van Durfer could write very little English but she managed to put a letter together and send it to Mr. Brooks. In return he sent her his photograph.

"It was another case of "love at first sight." After that they corresponded until Miss Van Durfer left her home for Canada to become Mrs. William Brooks.

NEW NERVES FOR OLD

Modern Surgery Has Made a Success of Nerve Grafting

The latest achievement of surgery is the restoration of paralyzed muscles by repair and replacement of injured nerves. When a nerve is severed or severely injured, the muscles supplied by it are cut off from communication with the brain, the source of vital energy, and become useless. Both muscles and that portion of the severed nerve connected to them begin to waste and degenerate. Until within recent years it was supposed that this muscle and nerve wasting was incurable, and the unfortunate victims remained without hope of alleviation. Modern surgery, better equipped for the task, essayed the problem and demonstrated that if a cut nerve was immediately reunited loss of function did not take place. This initial success led to consideration of the question whether it might not be possible to effect a reunion after a lapse of time and even after muscles and nerves had begun to degenerate. Experiments on animals were conducted on a large scale and as the result of these it was shown that if the degenerated ends of the severed nerve was joined to the end connected with the brain, the wasted muscles supplied by the nerve graft regained their powers. This operation was later attempted on human sufferers with excellent results. Some wonderful results were obtained in cases of facial and infantile paralysis. The work has now been demonstrated that where, for any reason, union of the divided nerve is impossible, a junction can be effected between its degenerated portion and any other convenient nerve. This "nerve grafting" has been found to give ultimately results almost as good as those obtained by the older method of nerve union. The possible applications of this discovery are very wide and will bring relief to many sufferers. In this war with disease the victories are greater far and more enduring than those found on the battlefield.

TORONTO'S SITE ONCE UNDER WATER

This Was Eight Thousand Years Ago —Winters Growing Colder and Summers Warmer

The greater part of what is now the city of Toronto was once covered with water, if we may believe the statement of an eminent scientist, Dr. A. P. Coleman who deals with the subject in a volume issued by the Canadian Institute. The high ground in the northern part of the city formed the shore of the old glacial Lake Iroquois, which is known only by name, having been taken off the map some eight thousand years ago. In Rosedale, now a district of aristocratic homes, mammoth and caribou once wandered, and at a more distant period fresh water molluscs abounded in the water that spread over even this area, now several hundred feet above the level of Lake Ontario.

With the gradual wearing away of the vast forests, says the chapter containing Mr. R. F. Stupart's report of the weather of the Toronto district, climatic conditions have slightly changed, winters being colder than in the early days of settlement, autumns and summers warmer, but with the springs practically the same. Spring now lasts from March 10 to May 20; summer from May 21 to September 10; autumn from September 11 to November 25; and winter from November 26 to March 9.

During the 73 years of observations taken at the Meteorological Institute there, the mean annual temperature has been found to be 44.4 degrees, being, according to the seasons 23.4 in winter, 41 in spring, 65.8 in summer, and 47.5 in autumn. The heat record was broken in July, 1911, with a temperature on six consecutive days of 95, 101, 103, 97, 95 and 93. February, 1875, was the coldest month on record, with an absolute minimum of 16 degrees below zero. The downward curve of the temperature curve is stated to be gradual during the autumn, not reaching 50 degrees until October 7, and dropping to the freezing point on or about November 26. The coldest part of winter centres about February 4, but from this approximate date the curve ascends first slowly and then more rapidly, crossing the freezing point in the direction of warmth on March 26.

STAGE STRUCK IN FIRST GAME

Even the Great Muggey Knows What Nerves Mean to a Young Player

Muggsy McGraw made his initial appearance in professional baseball under conditions that were far from encouraging. He was given the first tryout by the Olean club of the old New York state league, and was assigned to the third bag. McGraw was then a youngster in his teens. He made his debut April 1, 1890, an ominous date for John, as on that auspicious occasion he proved to be the biggest kind of an April fool package.

McGraw was so small it was impossible to find a suit to come anywhere near his measure. It seemed to McGraw, as he has told it, as if all the world was in attendance on the day he appeared at Olean. To his eyes it seemed as if he had never before seen so many people. This, of course, was due to the fact that the little third baseman was nervous and that his mind multiplied the actual number of spectators. The noises made by the crowd also worried him. It sounded like the prolonged roaring of a mighty sea.

When the first ball was knocked down to him he says the noise of the crowd ceased as if by magic, and the ball, which happened to be a slow grounder, appeared to McGraw as if it would never reach him. Finally, after what seemed to be an age, he found himself with the ball in his grasp, and he turned to throw it over to first base, where there was a player who was the tallest in the league.

The distance to first now appeared to McGraw to be fully a mile away, and his heart sank within him as he suddenly thought to himself that he could never throw the ball that far. Yet he nerved himself, and not only did he get the ball over, but he put it several feet over the first baseman's head. Every succeeding time the ball was knocked down to McGraw during the rest of the game he managed to throw higher and higher over the head of the man on first.

After the game the manager came up to McGraw and patting him on the head, told him that he was a nice boy, and so on, but as a ball player he was a joke. McGraw left Olean that night and went over to Wellsville, where he finished the season. He did so well that at the end of that year he was the recipient of eighteen different offers from managers who were willing to pay well for his services.

CREDIT FOR FARMERS

What a Western Man Learned by Trip to Europe

The Canadian farmer suffers the greatest handicap in the world in the matter of facilities for borrowing money, said Mr. J. H. Haslam, of Regina, Sask., who went to Europe as chairman of a commission to investigate agricultural credits. While the Canadian farmer (presumably, the Western farmer) pays anywhere from eight per cent. up to 60 per cent. for advances, the European farmer with less land and a smaller investment can secure "almost any amount he may ask for" at from two to six per cent.

In France money is at the ready disposal of the farmer at a rate of interest ranging from two and a half to three per cent. In Germany he pays from three and a half to five per cent., in Italy from four to six per cent., in Belgium and Holland from three to four per cent., in Austria-Hungary four and a half per cent., and in Russia from four and a half to six per cent. In nearly every country the farmer obtains money as cheaply as or more cheaply than the banks.

RETURN TO SIMPLICITY

Old Fashioned Kitchen With Garden in Rear Sorely Missed

Says a writer upon the real art of domestic enjoyment, "Home lies mostly in the kitchen and the back yard." And one knows immediately the sort of hominess, the type of home, which the author has in mind. And there is something refreshing just in the thought of it. A place where the primary interests of life are not too deeply obscured by the things which we have put about them—a house where one sees glimpses of the culinary processes, where one knows by actual eye-witness what is going to be had for dinner. It was this style of home which lay at the bottom of our fundamental strength. It was the pioneer habit of associating with rude actualities which bred a wholesome sturdiness and simplicity we can ill afford to lose. Something of the charm of an old fashioned kitchen with warmth and sunshine and open windows, something of the democracy of an intimate touch with production and consumption, something of the homely life that radiates genuine comfort, is needed in our present somewhat jumbled scheme of things. Not that we are without kitchens and backyards and even vegetable gardens. But we are inclined overmuch in the direction of cramped or even elegant apartments of complicated households just a shade beyond our grasp, of extravagant tastes which are out of accord with our economic power of production. We need to return to spirit and in truth to some of the vanishing simplicity of the old fashioned kitchen and the neighborly intimate currantbush type of sunshiny backyard.—Haverhill Gazette.

Our Point of View

A news item says a Brooklyn man "faced eight wives in court" We are willing to bet that he would not have faced them at home. That would require real bravery.

A Toronto contemporary says it admires a man who when he wants to talk, hires a hall. Well, so does every body else, because then he keeps his voice off the street and you don't have to hear him unless you want to.

Flight Across the Atlantic

The attempt to fly across the Atlantic in a hydroplane looks foolhardy, but the opinion is gaining ground that it will before long be an accomplished fact. Flight over the earth's surface has been sustained long enough to show that making the first leg of the trip across the ocean —from New Foundland to the Azores—is possible. The result of the trial flights of the "America" at Hammondsport, N. Y., have been very encouraging. It is in a class by itself and experts who have watched its performances are of the opinion that it can reasonably be depended upon to accomplish the great feat. The men who are to make the attempt have demonstrated their skill, and their courage is not doubted. They know the speed the machine is capable of and the amount of fuel that must be carried. Looking at it from mathematical and mechanical viewpoints success seems assured. Of course accidents which cannot be foreseen or guarded against, may occur, but the same risks exist, though in lesser degree, with any other means of transportation.

Such a long flight will be a great test of human endurance, but the men who will make the attempt are equal to it. That an airy journey across the ocean barrier that separates the new world from the old would ultimately be made has not been doubted for some time. There is reason to believe that the time for it is near at hand and that America will win the honor of being the first to accomplish this great undertaking.

TIPS TO HOUSEWIVES

Try lemon and salt for ink stains on the fingers.

If corns are rubbed daily with toilet pumice, they will disappear.

If plants are washed in soapsuds, they will not have insects on them.

Sifted wood ashes put on a damp cloth will remove stains from tinware, agate or crockery.

To give plaster casts an alabaster effect, dip them into a strong solution of alum water.

Two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar to one white of egg will make excellent meringues.

Use warm water to sprinkle starched clothes, and the effect will be twice as satisfactory.

An apron made with a bib of table oilcloth is a great saver to wear when washing dishes.

If grease is well rubbed on the stove before polishing the polish will not burn off so quickly.

To make marmalade look clear without skimming it, add a piece of butter the size of an egg before removing the fruit from the fire.

If a rag curls, moisten it and wrap it around a broomstick, in the opposite way from its desires, then tie and let it dry.

Tarnished silver can be brightened if placed for a short time in boiling water in which a fair-sized lump of washing soda has been dissolved.

After cleaning brass or copper with salt and vinegar, rub with olive oil and the metal will not tarnish for a long time.

To keep the table salt dry and soft, dry it, then crush it under a rolling pin till perfectly free from lumps and sift into it a tablespoonful of corn starch.

It is a convenience to make vegetable bags of cheesecloth, into which you put celery, tomatoes, lettuce and other fresh vegetables before placing in the refrigerator.

A good play dress for a child can be made from a man's worn shirt. Cut it Dorothy style, and the work is very little, not to mention the saving in the youngster's clothes.

A recipe for axle grease is a pound of tallow, half a pound of castor oil, quarter of a pound of black lead. Melt the tallow and rub the whole well together.

If mirrors are very dull and speckled the following method is excellent: Take a small portion of whitening and add sufficient cold tea to it to make a paste; rub the glass with warm tea, dry with a soft cloth, then rub a little of the paste well on the mirror and polish dry with tissue paper.

For a disinfectant for a sink, pour down a gallon of boiling water mixed with two tablespoonfuls of soda and a teaspoonful of ammonia. This will dissolve all greasy matter in both sink and pipe.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Mattie: I cannot praise any one kind of soap; there are many good ones.

Adele: You are quite right in being "finicky" about your hair; it is for just such particular people as you that I always recommend canthrox. Its use will cure dandruff and make your "straight" oily" locks full of vitality and fluffiness — much more attractive than artificial curling. Make this shampoo at home by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. It is the most pleasing and effective shampoo I have ever tried.

Cinderella: This is the best neck bleach I know of: Dissolve 4 ounces of spurmax in half a pint of hot water, add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, let stand until cold, then cork tightly. Then apply to the neck, face hands and arms, rubbing lightly until dry. You will find a great change in the length of time this preparation stays on and it seems a part of the skin. It is a splendid liquid powder, easily prepared at home. This will not only give you a firm, healthy skin, but it is extremely beautifying and entirely harmless.

Anne M: Your rebellion against the "fat-and-forty" idea meets with my approval. I have often advised against the carelessness which allows so many women to lose the figure while yet young and it is so unnecessary. Just get 4 ounces of parnotis dissolve it in 1½ pints of hot water, strain it, and take a tablespoonful three times daily. It reduces weight slowly enough to permit a gradual tightening of the skin so there is no danger of sagging muscles and loose tissues. Exercise mildly and bathe often, but the treatment requires no strenuous diet.

Alice M.: The eye-trouble you describe like most eye troubles, is caused by neglect. Get an ounce of crystos at any drugstore and dissolve it in a pint of water. Put two or three drops daily in each eye. You will be amazed to note how the tonic will brighten and beautify your eyes and add youthful clearness. It will not smart, or burn, and will doubtless save you all further weakness.

Hattie L.: You are rather young to worry about loosing your good looks, but you are wise, however, in taking every precaution against the loss of your complexion and the coming of premature wrinkles. Keep the skin firm and the complexion clear with nightly application, using this simple, inexpensive preparation. Mix together an ounce of almozoin, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and ½ pint cold water. Stir and let stand for a few hours. This will give a healthy resistance to oily conditions of skin. Try this faithfully for awhile, and note how it encourages the natural contour without undue flesh. Many have found in it a return to skin-health.

T.Y.L.: Indeed, dandruff is an unsightly thing, besides preventing the growth and beauty of the hair. Most of the "dope" on the market is, as you say, helpless to cure the trouble. I am certain you can do wonders to this tonic which you, yourself, can prepare. In ½ pint alcohol dissolve one ounce quinzoin. Add ½ pint water and rub well into the scalp. While at the drug store for quinzoin also get some canthrox for shampooing.

Mrs. McD.: Your fagged out" feeling is probably only due to lack of strength and all you need is a good tonic to brace you up. Here is an old fashioned remedy which will not only make you feel better but make you look better. Dissolve half a cup of sugar and one ounce of kardene in half a pint of alcohol, adding sufficient pure water to make a full quart of the mixture. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. This will ensure proper digestion an active liver, free elimination and by cleaning out the blood will clear your skin and brighten your eyes.

OUR LOCAL MARKET

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—As a subscriber to your paper allow me to say a word or two about the recent law compelling those selling goods on the market to have their names on their baskets of fowl, butter, eggs, etc. I can assure you that as long as the filthy conditions at the Peterborough market hall are continued, I won't never put my name on a basket. In my dairy and house in Otonabee, no one can find a speck of dirt. In a big city like Peterborough, why don't the council have a cleaning of the market building?

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, and testimonials.

USE CARE WITH EGGS TO GET TOP PRICE

Give the Customer Benefit of the Doubt First Principle of Good Marketing

In marketing eggs the highest prices can be obtained in supplying a retail trade. This is also one of the most satisfactory trades to cater to and is easy to get. There are hundreds of families in every large town or city that are looking for the person who will furnish eggs regularly each week the year around at several cents above the retail store prices.

The largest profits must come from superior marketing, and from special market advantages in selling eggs and stock. A difference of only a few cents a dozen makes a large increase in the income when several hundred hens are kept.

A neat package is a very good investment. An attractive shipping crate has much to do with fixing the product. The person who will take the trouble to prepare a neat package may be depended upon to be equally careful and painstaking about the quality of the goods which he puts into it.

The first principle of good marketing is to have good quality to sell. Quality sells itself. A fancy egg should be new-laid; that is, not more than one week old when it is delivered to the customer. It should be free from any foreign flavor due to improper feeding or to the absorption of objectionable odors.

To produce eggs of the highest quality requires skill and care. First one must keep pure-bred fowls in order to get uniformity in color shape and size of egg. Second, eggs must be selected for hatching that fulfill all the market requirements for strictly fancy eggs.

Eggs for a first class trade must be gathered regularly each day from nests that are especially fitted. If there is any doubt about the freshness of eggs, give the customer, not the eggs, the benefit of the doubt. Do not take any chance. One bad egg will ruin the reputation gained by selling a thousand good ones. As soon as the eggs are gathered they should be carried to a cool place and covered with a clean cloth so that dust cannot settle on them.

A damp cloth is required to rub off any slight discoloration. If it is necessary to wet the eggs, they should be wiped dry before being placed in the crate. They should not be washed unless absolutely necessary, because washing destroys the natural appearance of the shell.

HEROES OF SHAFT AT NIAGARA PLANT

Remarkable Feat of Four Men Who Stopped Flood in Tunnel

Three electrical workers went in a punt down through a raging torrent that choked a power company's tunnel along the mighty cliff that holds up the weight of Niagara Falls. Three men with three boxes of dynamite groped their way in pitch blackness through a circular chamber swirling with water in order to blast out ten tons of rock lodged unexpectedly in the tunnel's "spout." They failed. And then what? A few days later they did what mortal men have done neither before nor since; they climbed up the face of Niagara Falls from the outside, crawled under the curtain of water that leaps out from the giant cliffs and placed a charge of dynamite in the mouth of the tunnel. That time [illegible] [illegible] ...ul. The channel was cleared without the loss of a life. Here is the second trip as told by one of the men:

"Although we were dressed in oilskins, oil hats and rubber boots, we were quickly drenched to the bones by gusts of spray that tumbled on our heads and backs like pails of buckshot. So great became the force of these gusts that we could stand upright no longer and crawled from bowlder to bowlder on our hands and knees. All this time we were advancing literally under Niagara Falls, for the cataract was falling over and slightly beyond us, now and then giving us an extra heavy swish of water as the winds in the gorge blew direct against the face of the fall.

"We were walking about a hundred feet up from the pool, bracing ourselves against the pile of rocks. It was, at first, an almost impossible task to make steady progress. So we kept some distance apart for safety's sake in the event of one having a tumble, and by taking our medicine patiently at every downpour sent our way, we finally reached the ledge directly under the tunnel's mouth. It was a matter of a few minutes to place the dynamite and wires where they would hit the blockade to best advantage.

"We rested a few minutes and commenced the return journey. Bad as the approach had been, the going back was infinitely worse. The adverse winds had practically isolated us by walls of water and indeed at one time the prospect was good for a twenty-four-hour stay on the edge of an ugly cavern.

"During a lull we were enabled to make another start. Having to drag the pair of copper wires with us made the trip much more difficult, but we held on and gained foot after foot, sometimes slipping, often bringing blood, until the sight of the Cave of the Winds peeped through the abnormal mists. Exhaustion was slowing down our steps, and a fearful hunger increased the discomfort, for the adventure had taken the best part of a day. I remember some one throwing us a rope and we snatched at it with a sudden return of energy.

"Lifted safely into the cave, the superintendent touched the copper wires. A far-off roar, that sounded even above the boom of the falls—and we turned to face a messenger who had been waiting at the telephone for instant news of the water level in the tunnel. 'It is rapidly lowering,' said he, and all of us knew that the blockade had been broken by the blast."

COPPER
The Red Metal
MILLIONS OF TONS OF PAY ORE

We have coal, fluxes and copper ores in unlimited quantities—

We have an estate of about 11,500 acres—

We have water, timber, and as fine a climate as there is in the world, which admits of working throughout the entire year—

We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in getting this project into shape where we can consistently offer you a share in it—where your investment will be safe—where your interests will be safeguarded and your profits much greater than they are in the average manufacturing or commercial undertaking.

By cutting through the formation with streams, ages old, Nature has done much to demonstrate the existence of these great ore bodies and this, supplemented by the openings made by man, has proven that within this area there are at least five veins more than three miles long, and having an average width of fourteen feet, with an average content of 2.51 per cent. of copper metal.

Coal for fuel, Lime and Iron for fluxes, are abundant, easily mined and all within the boundaries of this estate. They can be cheaply obtained and economically transported to the site where it is proposed to build a smelter for reducing to matte or bullion this unlimited supply of copper ore.

Costs of every needed thing will be minimized to a degree impossible under less favorable conditions, and profits proportionately increased. Labor is cheap, and much of the food supply required is raised on the estate.

The ore supply is practically inexhaustible; engineers and geologists have estimated the depth of these enormous veins to be at least 3,000 feet.

At this time the enterprise is just getting under way and those who take advantage of the opportunity to secure a share in it now will, so far as finite judgment can reach, reap rewards far beyond the proportions of any investment at present made. CURE AT HOLYWELL

Blindness Cured After Nineteen Years in the Dark

A remarkable case of faith-healing attracted the attention of medical men in Burnley, Lancashire. A young Roman Catholic named Thomas Haney after being almost totally blind for 19 years—the blindness following an attack of measles when he was in infancy—had the sight of his eyes restored after bathing in the famous St Winefrede Well at Holywell, Flintshire.

Before his visit to Holywell, where the waters are supposed to have miraculous properties, Haney could only discern a faint glimmer of light. Now he can see people across the street, read small print, and make out the time on a clock face from a moderate distance.

He states that shortly after commencing to bathe in the well he felt the sight of his right eye returning. Gradually the sight gained in strength, and before he left Holywell he was able to play a game of billiards on a full-sized table.

According to legend St. Winefrede was beheaded because she refused to wed one of the petty tyrants of her time, and where her head fell there sprang forth a great flow of water possessing miraculous properties. A shrine was in after years established at the well.

Passing of the Top Hat

The medical papers of Great Britain join in the chorus of condemnation of the silk hat. The "Medical Press" says:—"The vogue of the stove-pipe is passing; laden with unhonored years, it is sinking steadily into oblivion. Safe motley shapelessness cover the massive crania of our most eminent surgeons, and their dreamy hues of brown and green make our hat-racks quite attractive. The fashion is to be unconventional without reaching the bounds of the 'too utterly utter.' Each of us takes an interest in his brim and moulds his formless headgear with creative dints. We are passing fast away from the tyranny of the hard hat."

An ingenious case for dress goods and other fabric samples has been designed. It rolls up closely and makes a compact bundle, yet the samples are not wrinkled or mussed in the process. A long piece of flexible material has a series of narrow straps removably attached at intervals along its inner surface. A number of clips form sample attaching elements, and these are removably fastened to the straps. The clips, for example, are run through a bunch of fabrics and hooked onto the straps. The bunches are mounted in the case in transverse rows, with room enough between them to permit of the free and smooth rolling of the strip without wrinkling or creasing the goods. If the salesman desires to remove any particular bunch of samples for closer inspection he can do it and replace it—instantly.

SAMPLES EASILY REMOVED.

THE ICEBERG DANGER

New Devices for Warning Ship of Approaching Danger

Since the terrible Titanic disaster, scientists and engineers have devoted much time and attention to devising means by which ships may detect the vicinity of icebergs. The old method consisted of lowering a thermometer into the water when the iceberg zone was being approached, the distance of the icebergs being judged according to the temperature of the water in the vicinity.

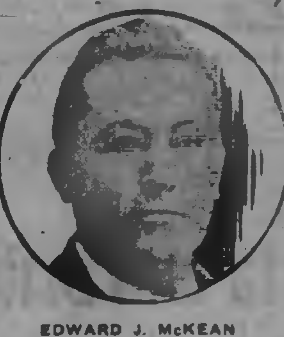
Since the increase in the speed of big liners, however, this method has been found to be quite inadequate, being neither safe, quick, nor accurate. One of the most reliable inventions for detecting icebergs at sea seems to be that of Dr. Coplans, of the University of Leeds, who invented an apparatus which detects the presence of icebergs by giving readings of the saline contents of the water. The nearer an iceberg is to the ship the less is the amount of salt held in solution in the water. The Canadian Government assisted Dr. Coplans in his investigations.

Another invention of which high hopes are entertained is what is known as the microthermometer, an instrument enabling very much closer readings of the temperature of the water to be obtained than is possible with an ordinary thermometer. It is also self-recording.

Submarine signalling, too, for the prevention of disasters in foggy weather, is also being closely studied by experts, for it is recognized that there is much room for improvement in the signalling apparatus used at the present time on board ship.

The modern system of submarine signalling consisted of bells sunk in at least 20 feet of water, operated by electricity or pneumatic or hydraulic pressure. It is said that a submarine bell can be heard at a greater distance than any fog-horn, siren, or any other generally used air signal or device, and it is recorded that one of these bells was heard at a distance of from ten to fifteen miles.

The receiving apparatus is very simple, consisting of two cast-iron tanks, which are placed below the water-line on either side of the ship's bows and in contact with the shell of the ship. In each tank is the microphone, which is connected by an electric telephone system with the bridge. There the navigating officer has suitable receivers and switches which enable him to listen on either side of the ship. If he alters the course of the ship on hearing the bell so that the intensity of the sound, is equal on both sides of the ship then the bell lies straight in front, and according to the intensity of the various sounds he is able to avoid danger.



EDWARD J. McKEAN

McKean is in the liquor business in Cleveland to-day. From the time he left the big league in 1900, until 1909, he managed minor league teams. His playing career was practically confined to Cleveland, where he played for 13 consecutive years.

The greatest ball player that ever lived, from McKean's viewpoint, was Buck Ewing, the wonderful backstop batter and strategist. And it is to Amos Rusie that McKean bows as the greatest of pitchers. Fame may be fitting, but Rusie seems to hold on without trouble.

Locomotives For Denmark

Great efforts are being made in Denmark to render the country independent of foreign locomotive builders, and in connection with this it is announced that the Danish State railway authorities have just placed a contract with the Frich Aktieselskab of Aarhus, for the supply of several engines. The Danish demand is, however relatively so small, says Scientific American, that any home concern is likely to experience much

How People Feel When They Have Tape Worm

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victims to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels consumption of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulvaney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince one of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from ½ of an inch to 1 inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take long to enumerate. Strange to say, some people of strong constitution, have very little distress.

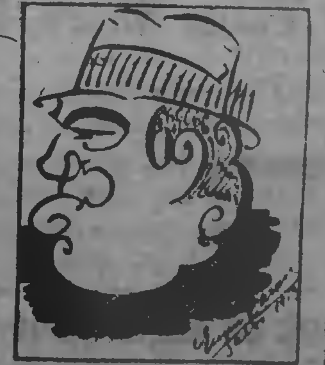
Savage Battle Fought on Railway Tracks While Train Waited

The passengers on a train near Cobalt saw a sight that few human beings have ever witnessed, and that was a battle between two buck deer and a moose. The engineer, turning a curve in a forest, saw the animals on the track ahead. He whistled several times and slowed down, coming to a stop within forty yards of the strugglers but they took no notice so bent were they on tearing each other to pieces.

Many of the passengers alighted and ran to the front of the engine; some threw stones but still no heed was given and for about five minutes the watchers witnessed a magnificent struggle.

The antlers of the two bucks had become entangled but it could not be seen whether the horns of the moose were caught or not as he kept his head down and fought with his feet, snorting angrily. The two weaker animals were exhausted and seemed to be staving off defeat as long as possible. The sides of all were rent with wounds and blood streamed on the tracks. Finally the moose drew back about five yards and with a plunge bowled both of his opponents into a ditch beside the track. Then, for the first time, he seemed to notice the human beings, and bounded off into the woods.

The passengers and trainmen climbed on board and the train started leaving the two beaten animals lying weak and exhausted beside the track with their horns still locked.



A caricature of Caruso, the famous singer, drawn by himself, only numerical figures entering into the composition. Caruso is quite clever as a black and white artist, and has frequently stated that he would rather be a cartoonist than an opera singer. At the latter calling, however, he earns about $200,000 a year.

EUGENICS DEFINED

Sir Francis Galton's definition of eugenics is "the study of agencies under social control, that may improve or impair the racial qualities of future generations, either physically or mentally." He has also defined eugenics as "the science which deals with all influences that improve and develop the inborn qualities of a race." He appears, however, to have referred more particularly to hereditary influences, for in this connection he adds: "The aim of eugenics is to represent each class or sect by its best specimens, causing them to contribute more than their proportion to their next generation; that done, to leave them to work out their common civilisation in their own way." Another high authority has drawn a clear distinction between "race improvement through heredity" eugenics—and "race" improvement through environment" for which a new term "euthenics" has been coined.

In this stricter definition "eugenics" is concerned specially with the improvement of the human race through marriage and parenthood associated, as these are, with the problems of heredity, race culture and race development.

Peculiar Way to Cool Water

In central Nicaragua the native women cool water in one of the most peculiar ways imaginable. They take an earthen jar, fill it perhaps three-quarters full of water and when anybody wishes a cool drink they grasp the jar by two leather handles and swing it through the air as if it were an enormous dumb-bell. Then centrifugal force of action prevents the water from flying out and yet it is all the time moving rapidly within the jar. In a few moments the water is comparatively cool and is relished by the thirsty passerby.

No fowl is safe that eats with hogs. No one can tell what moment a hog may decide to have chicken for a relish. The more choice the fowl the greater the risk.

WORKMEN AWAIT COMPENSATION ACT

Great Measure Introduced by Whitney Government Comes Into Effect on Return to Power

On May 1st, 1914, there was placed on the Statute Books of Ontario the Workmen's Compensation Act. It is admitted on all hands that the Act is the most advanced piece of legislation that has yet been enacted in any province of the Dominion, or in any State of the Union, or any of the countries of the Old World.

Some of the salient features of the Act are as follows:—

(1). If a workman is injured he is entitled in every case to compensation unless the injury was caused solely by his serious and wilful misconduct, and even where the injury was caused solely by his serious and wilful misconduct, compensation must still be paid if the injury results in death or serious disablement.

(2). There is no waiting period during which no compensation is payable. It is true that the injury must last more than seven days, but if it does the compensation dates back to the date of the injury.

In most states and countries a definite period, generally of at least two weeks, is fixed during which no compensation is payable.

(3). All law suits are done away with. The workman simply sends his claim to the Board. The Board receives a report from its local official and awards the compensation without ever seeing the workman or his employer. Nothing is deducted from the compensation to pay costs.

(4). The compensation cannot be garnisheed or attached by a creditor.

(5). The scale of compensation is generous—

1. Where the injury results in death:
   - $75 for burial expenses.
   - $20 monthly to widow and $5 monthly for each child under 16.
   - $10 monthly to each child where there is no widow.
   - If the widow marries again she gets a lump sum equal to the total of the weekly payments for two years.
2. Where a workman is permanently disabled he receives a weekly payment during his lifetime equal to 55 per cent. of his weekly earnings.

Under most laws there is a limit to the total amount which a workman may receive, but under the Ontario Act there is no limit fixed, because he receives 55 per cent. of his wages as long as he lives. If his wages run as high as $2,000, and he lives forty years after his injury he will have received a total of $44,000.

(6). Payment of compensation out of the Accident Fund is practically guaranteed to the workman by the province, provision being made for payment out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Ontario whenever the Accident Fund runs short, and the Board is also required to raise, by assessments on the employers, reserve funds sufficient to meet all future payments for compensation. The province contributes annually $100,000 towards the cost of administering the Act, and a further $25,000 to pay the salaries of the members of the Board.

The City Council should see that the "Is that you Daddy"? pictures showing a man, as he would, under Rowell administration, returning from his club, at 3.30 a.m., be covered up. Do the mothers of small boys enjoy contemplating such "hot air" political "dope"?

When asked about the pair of pants, he claimed had been stolen and made narrower in the waist. "Are you a thin man," witness replied "You go to blazes, its none of your business how thin I am."

VOL. XLI., No. 164. FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1914. PRICE TWO CENTS

HOPE FADING OF SETTLEMENT BY CONSENT OF HOME RULE

Commons May Materially Change Amending Bill of House of Lords

London, July 16.—A Glasgow message to-day says word has been received from headquarters in London, for the Ulster Volunteers in that city to hold themselves in readiness to proceed to Ulster tomorrow.

Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons to-day that he would take the second reading of the Home Rule Amending Bill on Monday or Tuesday of next week.

New York, July 16.—A cable from London to the Tribune says: The policy of the Government with regard to the Home Rule Amending Bill, will be settled at an important meeting of the Cabinet which has been convened for the morning. Yesterday in answer to a question put by Mr. Bonar Law, Premier Asquith announced his intention of placing the bill down for discussion on Monday provisionally, but the second reading is not likely to be taken on that date.

From the Parliamentary point of view, it is important that the Finance Bill should be carried without further delay, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will probably be utilized for that purpose. In that event the second reading of the Amending Bill will be moved on Thursday of next week.

BILL MAY BE KILLED.

What the fate of the bill will be no one can predict, the circumstances being so abnormal. It may not survive its passage through the Commons, but if it should happen to do so, the bill transformed by the Lords will be returned to the Upper House in a very changed condition. Hopes of a settlement by consent are fading.

TOWN IS WIPED OUT BY FLAMES

Hearst on National Transcontinental Destroyed by Bush Fires

Cobalt, Ont., July 16.—The town of Hearst on the National Transcontinental Railway, 134 miles west of Cochrane, was completely wiped out by fire. Only the station and round house are left standing to show where lately stood a flourishing border settlement.

The population of the town at present is about fifteen hundred being residents, while about a thousand others were employed in railway construction by Messrs. O'Brien, McDougall and O'Gorman, contractors.

It is only about a month since a good portion of the town was destroyed by fire.

A special train with medical assistance, supplies and tents has left Cochrane to bring back refugees and give aid to those in need. Many of the residents are entirely without funds, and all are homeless, without food, and lacking protection of any kind.

For days and even weeks, bush fires have been threatening the town. Efforts were made to fight them back, but they gradually gained on the settlers, until yesterday afternoon, the outskirts of the town were attacked. A fairly strong wind fanned the flames over the whole settlement, and in a comparatively short time every building was ablaze.

SPLENDID WORK BEING DONE AT JACKSON'S PARK

One of the grandest and most successful philanthropic efforts ever carried to actual realization in this city is the work being carried on at Jackson Park. The women who are back of the local Health Association are to be congratulated on the intelligently conceptd and admirable work they are doing.

Yesterday a Times reporter had the privilege of an interview with Miss Dixon, the nurse in charge of the children at the Park. Here he saw some 19 or 20 children playing under the pine trees, as the Western breeze soughed through the ponds bringing health and encouragement to the little ones, our reporter realized that possible unfortunate conditions that would handicap the life history of these children are being stamped under the foot of modern and sane conditions.

The kids at Jackson park are free as the wind blowing health to them with one exception. The children, who are given three meals a day at the Park, are compelled, for physical and possibly psychological reasons, to take an hour's rest after the mid-day meal.

It is to be distinctly understood that none of the children present has got to that stage of disease where sputum might affect any visitor to the Park.

SHOOTS FRIEND KILLS HIMSELF

Methuen Man Apparently Had No Reason for Act, But Had Been Thought Queer

Lawrence, July 16.—Adolph Obst of Methuen yesterday fired a load of buckshot into the back of a friend from a window in his home at 27 Milk street, and then killed himself by discharging his reloaded weapon into his own abdomen with his foot.

The victim, who is at the Lawrence General Hospital, with a chance to live, is Otto Mueller, whose home is at 33 Milk street, Methuen, and whose family for some months has been very friendly with the Obsts. There has never been a quarrel between the two men, and the authorities who investigated the matter can ascribe no motive for the attempted killing.

Mueller, a middle aged man, of 52 was returning from work shortly after noon and was turning in at his gate when the almost simultaneous shots of two barrels of the shotgun sounded. He fell in a heap and his brother Alfred, after a vain look to see who had fired the shot, picked up his unconscious body and carried it into the house.

Alfred was about to leave the building in search of a physician and to notify the authorities, when a third shot rang out. This was heard also by Obst's father, approaching his home. From a distance he had seen his son suddenly leave the window he was leaning out of and heard the report.

He hurried upstairs, and found his son, partly undressed, lying on the floor. Beside Obst lay the shot gun, with his toe still curled about the trigger to indicate the manner in which he had exploded it and killed himself.

Mueller was rushed to the hospital, where over 100 shots were extracted from the flesh parts of his back. Obst for some time has been regarded as "queer." He has been out of work and has seemed despondent and melancholy.

Mueller made Obst's acquaintance recently, and since then the two had been together frequently. The shot fired at Mueller was from the second story of the Obst home.

THREAT MADE TO BOYCOTT ULSTER

Nationalist Merchants Combine to Help Fight For Home Rule

London, July 16.—A manifesto, signed by the principal traders of Carrick-on-Shannon, has been issued, in which it is stated that the merchants of this important town have decided to sever all connection with Belfast merchants if Ulster persists in her opposition to Home Rule. The decision has caused much discussion among trade circles in the west as a big trade is transacted in Belfast. This ultimatum to Ulster is being taken up in nearly every town in Leitrim and commercial travellers from the north are already finding it difficult to secure orders.

DENOUNCED HUSBAND AS MURDERER, FLEES HOME

Boston, July 16.—Fearing revenge for her information to the police of the murder of Gaetano Barlato of Beverly, Mrs. Gaetano Di Viao, who charges her husband and Barlato's wife with the killing, refused to stay in her home at 2 Cabot street last night. She declares Di Viao is connected with black-hand organizations and that some of his associates may seek to harm her.

The state police have sent descriptions of Di Viao and Mrs. Barlato to all the Italian colonies in Massachusetts and New York and are keeping a watch for the pair in Boston. The autopsy on Barlato's body yesterday showed three stab wounds in the back near the heart, any one of which would have been fatal.

Di Viao's daughter, Rose, aged 8, was taken to a hospital ill yesterday and another daughter is reported to be sick.

STRANGE AUTO IS SUSPECTED

Big Car Seen in Tamworth the Night Miss Yorke Disappeared

Tamworth, Ont., July 16.—Residents of Tamworth and vicinity are beginning to wonder if the presence of a mysterious touring car, seen in this vicinity last Wednesday night, might not have had something to do with the strange disappearance of Miss Blanche Yorke, who, since that evening has not been seen.

The car was a strange one to those who saw it, and there seems to be no clue to its identity or that of the owner. The presence of a strange car in the vicinity is, in itself, enough to attract notice, and coupled with the disappearance of a well-known and popular young lady, has assumed an even more momentous aspect.

MAY BE IN HOSPITAL.

Another rumor in town to-day, which is more or less startling, is that Miss Yorke is in a hospital in Kingston, though no one can suggest the nature of the illness, unless it were the throat trouble from which Miss Yorke was known to have been suffering.

A search of the town to-day failed to reveal the whereabouts of Dr. Robinson who seems to have disappeared just as mysteriously as his erstwhile patient. No one is able to tell whither he has gone, or, if able no one will tell.

The search still continues for the missing girl, but still the case seems absolutely baffling.

BRANTFORD 2 PETERBORO 1

Petes Lose First Game After a Hard-Fought Battle

Notwithstanding the Merchants' picnic, when thousands went down the river, quite a large number of fans were present at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon and those who preferred the ball game got their moneys worth as an excellent brand of ball was played.

The game opened with Belting on the mound, while Kelley caught, and in the first period the visitors scored two runs, the Petes geting one and then the gates closed. The balance of the game was a pitchers' battle. Chase pitching for the visitors put up a good game and was well supported. The Petes were in good form and played excellent ball, but just could not get a man over the plate.

The score was 2—1 for Brantford.

The game to-day promises to be another good contest.

Yesterday one of the saddest fatalities that has occurred here in years was in evidence a few yards north of T.A.S. Park. As the people of this city were enjoying their outing at this popular resort, three young men named, respectively O'Toole, Burgoyne and Fowler were out in a boat. They rocked the frail vessel which upset. Fowler was rescued but the other young men were drowned. The bodies of the two drowned boys were brought to Comstock's undertaking establishment. It was said that owing to the absence of the coroner that some delay was caused.

THE CHINOOK OIL COMPANY A WINNER

The following article was taken from the Calgary Herald, of June 25th, will be of interest to investors and intending investors in this district:

Among the many companies being floated in the oil district of Alberta, none have attracted more attention than the Chinook Oil Company, Limited, the premier issue of which is now on the market and open for subscription through the fiscal agents, Cameron & Anderson, Limited, in the New Herald Building.

The board of directors, who have assumed charge of the development work of this company, is composed of men whose names carry with them the assurance to the investing public that absolute fair dealing and business methods will prevail.

The prospectus sets forth in specific terms just what this company proposes to do in the matter of developing their very valuable oil land holdings, which, by the way, are located in extremely favorable places. If close proximity to wells in proven districts is any criterion, this company should bring in flowing wells at an early date. It is the intention of the board of directors to close a contract for drilling their first well in the northwest quarter of section 32, township 22, range 4, west of the fifth meridian, which practically adjoins the site of the Mowbray-Berkeley well, located by E. H. Cunningham Craig, the noted geologist and oil expert.

The president of the company is H. C. McMullen, a man of 40 years' experience in the western country, a part of which time was spent in the oil fields of Texas and California and whose long connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway as an official in charge of his department on western lines, has given him a place unique among western men, and has secured for him the confidence and respect of those who know him best.

The other directors are A. M. Grace, Frank M. Harvey and J. J. Cameron.

One of these eggs has been placed in an incubator by George Sturgis and curiosity is expressed as to what kind of chicken if any will be produced.

"GOD BLESS YOU AND ME," WAS GENERAL HUERTA'S FAREWELL

Americans Heavily Scored by Ex-President in His Resignation--Gave Benediction; Emptied Treasury

MR. GIOVANNI DANOVARO
Italian-Canadian journalist who was appointed Royal Consular agent of Italy at Welland, Ontario.

Mexico City, July 16.—General Huerta, in resigning the Presidency, Puerto, Mexico, is understood to have carried off some $6,000,000 from the public treasury, completely depleting it. A special train was in waiting yesterday, and leaving hastily for at the station at Guadaloupe, guarded by the 29th Regiment, which has always been loyal to the Dictator. It is said that he has already purchased a beautiful home at No. 8 Avenue Hoche, Paris, and has completed arrangements for his transportation on board an English warship. The text of the resignation follows.

THE RESIGNATION.

"Deputies and Senators:—Public necessity, admitted by the Chamber of Deputies, by the Senate and the Supreme Court, called me to the Supreme Magistracy of the Republic. Later, when in the same hall, I had the honor of addressing you in compliance with the constitutional precept, I promised at all costs to bring about peace.

SCARCITY OF FUNDS.

"Seventeen months have passed, and in that brief period of time I have formed an army with which to carry out that solemn promise. You all know the immense difficulties which my Government has encountered owing to a scarcity of funds, as well as to the manifest and decided protection which a great power of this continent has afforded to the rebels—so much so that when the revolution had been broken up, seeing that its chief leaders were and continue to be divided, the power in question sought a pretext to intervene directly in the conflict, and the result of this was the outrage committed at Vera Cruz by the American fleet.

Had Rather Good Excuse For Disposing of His Newspapers

Montreal, July 16.—A London cable to The Daily Mail says Waldorf Astor is out of town, but his secretary when informed of the story that he had sold his newspaper and would retire from public life on account of a quarrel with his son, laughed heartily and said: "It's the first time I have heard of any quarrel between Mr. Astor and his father."

Mr. Astor has been making a steady loss of approximately $100,000 a year on his papers, and no surprise was expressed when it became known that a Manchester syndicate was negotiating for their purchase.

TAKING IN THE NEW DISTRICTS MEANS HEAVY EXPENDITURES

Conditions Imposed by the Board of Control Do Not Protect the General Ratepayer From a Large Financial Outlay Say Heads of Departments, Who Know

Toronto, July 16.—"Notwithstanding the suggested stipulations of annexation reported to your Board, there will still be a very large financial outlay to be made by the city at large, to cover all the needs of these new districts, and this without adequate returns to the city as a whole."

Such is the statement made by the heads of departments at the City Hall, in their report to the Board of Control upon the proposed annexation of the Upper Canada College, Russell Hill and Todmorden districts. The report means that the conditions imposed by the Board of Control will not protect the general ratepayer from "a very large financial outlay to be made by the city at large" in the event of annexing the three districts. Opposition to taking in the two smaller districts, which, together, only comprise 263 acres, has been unavailing, but must the city also be committed to the annexation Todmorden district, excluding the of the 2,000 acres covered by the brickyard flats?

It is the small ratepayer who is feeling the effects of the financial expansion. He is compelled now to meet a tax rate of 19½ mills on the dollar, a rate which, in view of the increase in assessments, is no lower than the 19½ mill rate of last year. He is paying for the annexation of East, West and North Toronto, and must pay heavily before the last district has received all its promised improvements.

Doctor's Boyish Face
Reveals Skin Renewer.

I heard the other day the story of the physician with so admirable a skin that all his women patients asked his secret. He told one, who generously told others that, knowing the remarkable absorbent property of ordinary mercolized wax, he concluded this substance would make an excellent complexion renewer and preserver. Knowing the wax could do no injury, he began using it after shaving. He soon observed that the old withered, colorless cuticle was being gradually absorbed and replaced by younger, healthier skin. This was the simple secret of the silver-haired doctor, with the boyish face. The secret became public property. Now women everywhere use mercolized wax, applying it nights like cold cream, washing it off mornings—continuing until the complexion is entirely renovated. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any druggist's will banish the worst complexion.

Another valuable rejuvenator used by this doctor was a wrinkle-remover and preventive in the form of a face bath, made by dissolving an ounce of saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This also has become famous.—Fashion Review.

SAILED FOR CANADA NINETY YEARS AGO

Remarkable Old Sea-dog Recalls Days of Savage Punishment in British Navy

Wyebridge, in Surrey is very proud of John Durrant who went to sea ninety years ago and is still alive and well at the age of 104. When fourteen years old he joined the Campden, a merchant vessel. The destination of the Campden was Quebec, and that city has probably never been in a more pitiable condition than when the English vessel arrived.

"We had a good view of Champlain street, which runs near the docks," said Mr. Durrant, "and we were alarmed to discover that the city was in the grip of yellow fever, or something equally as devastating. Nine out of every ten houses that we could see had nobody living in them, and the doors were painted with a red cross to indicate that they had been visited by the fever."

Three years later Durrant joined Sir John Franklin's expedition which was then preparing to go to the Arctic—the ill-fated party not one of whose members ever returned from the frozen North. At the last moment however, Durrant was drafted into the Navy, joining H.M.S. Winchester.

The captain of the Winchester was a Captain P——, of whom old John entertains anything but pleasant recollections. He was of the old school of naval commanders, who prescribed flogging for the most trifling offences.

Saw Terrible Floggings

"The Winchester was the flagship of Admiral Harvey, whose son was on board as flag-lieutenant," said Mr. Durrant, "and we were to pick up the Admiral at Halifax and then proceed to Barbadoes. We were a little over a month in making Nova Scotia, and in that time things became so bad—half the crew almost suffering from the 'claws of the cat'—that it was a miracle to me that no mutiny occurred.

"It came near to that one morning, I recollect, when a poor fellow was receiving three dozen lashes at the hands of the bo'sun and his two assistants. While the bo'sun was laying on the first dozen the poor chap screamed out in agony, 'Oh, mates, will you stand by and see this dreadful punishment?'

"There was a dead silence, and the man moaned, 'Oh, comrades, comrades, cowards you are to let it go on.' The marines were on deck armed, and Captain P——, who was watching the scene, shouted out to the bo'sun, 'Mr. G——, you aren't half doing your duty, sir!'

"Very quietly, upon that, the bo'sun laid down the 'cat,' and, looking at the captain, he said, clearly, 'I've done with it. I'll punish no more men while I belong to this ship. I know I'm in your hands, sir; you can do what you like with me!'

Dared the Captain

"As I have said, we had aboard as flag-lieutenant Admiral Harvey's son, and when we reached Halifax and the Admiral came aboard, his son showed him a log of the punishments which he had kept. Admiral Harvey examined the crew thoroughly, and then he gave the order for as many of us as could get there to go aft. Then he produced this log, and turning to Captain P—— he said: 'Now, sir, I have a very good mind to send you back home to England. You are not fit to be in charge of this ship. Look here,' he says, shaking the log, 'there has been too much punishment aboard. Two days after you left Plymouth you punished two marines, and every day since there has been punishment inflicted. Go to your cabin, sir,' he concluded, and calling up the master-at-arms and the ship's corporal he confined Captain P—— to his cabin and kept him there for a fortnight under sentry—a prisoner in his own ship."

Not Long in Navy

Durrant left the Navy an invalid after a few years and returned to the merchant service. Again he came to Canada and started to work as a pilot on the St. Lawrence. A year later he left Canada in a new vessel of 1,300 tons, built at Prince Edward Island. He was second mate.

"We ran into bad conditions," he recalled, "and lost our masts. We were at the mercy of the sea, with big waves breaking on the deck. There had been thirty-one on the ship altogether, but when the dawn broke there was only the captain, a man named George Jury, and myself, who had climbed for the maintop directly we realized the plight of the ship.

"For thirteen days we drifted about, existing upon ice and frozen snow, and when the pangs of hunger were very terrible, I chewed a piece of lead.

OUR BODIES AND HEAT

We Drink Liquid That Would Scald Our Hands

The human body can stand far greater heat if it be dry than if it be wet, and, strangely enough, it can stand far hotter liquids inside than out. For example, the average tea-drinker sips tea at a temperature of about 140 degrees—sometimes as high as 145 degrees. But he cannot bear his hand in water at 130 degrees, or his foot in water higher than 113 degrees. Few people can stand a bath in water at 105 degrees.

In parts of Central Australia men live in an average temperature of 116 degrees in the shade and 160 degrees in the sun, while 151 degrees has been registered. In the Persian Gulf the thermometers on ships vary between 128 degrees and 140. An explorer in the Himalayas reports that he found in December, and at more than 14,000 feet altitude, a temperature of 131 degrees.

Drs. Bleyden and Chantrey, two English scientists, desiring to ascertain how high a temperature the human body could stand, shut themselves in an oven, of which the heat was gradually raised, and they were able to bear it until the thermometer registered 212 degrees, the boiling point of water.
